WARREN DENIES VICE IS BAD AS REPORTED BY REFORM LEADERS

'It's Not So,' Says Police Head as He Reads Survey Findings on Resorts Here.

NO REPORT SENT TO HIM

One Club Hostess Challenges Committee to a Debate—Investigator Stands Fast.

BLAMES DRY LAW FAILURE

Brewers Aided Clean-Up in Last Days of Saloon, He Recalls—Speak-Easy Evils Unchecked.

Police Commissioner Warren read the report of the Committee of Fourteen on vice conditions in this city, as published yesterday, and denied that iniquity was as widespread as pictured.

The Commissioner told the reporters, who ringed his desk at headquarters, that no one had forwarded to him a copy of the report and hence he would confine himself to the briefest comment. He was questioned specifically on the report's contention that night clubs and speak-easies had revived conditions current when Raines Law hotels flourished.

"It is not so," he declared, crisply.

The official police view was echoed by Miss Texas Guinan, as she sipped black coffee in her Greenwich Village apartment, threatening between swallows to launch a libel action. Miss Guinan said she did not know a thing about speak-easies or dance studios or halls or the lower strata of night clubs, but nothing rough or tough was ever permitted at a club where she presided.

"No, sir," snapped Miss Guinan after she had hurried in from a beach to meet newspapermen in her apartment.

"Come up to the club tonight," she said, "and meet the mothers of the kids in my place. They call for them every night. I won't stand for any freshness in my place. I've put out some of the best people in New York just because they forgot themselves. I stop the music and out they go. I'll give $100,000 to anybody who can prove that I was ever associated with anything off color in my life.

Challenges Committee to Debate.

"This report calls hostesses prostitutes. That is a plain outrage and in the country where I came from they have to eat words like that. I challenge the authors of that report to a debate, and I'll pay them plenty for their time."

George E. Worthington, General Secretary and counsel to the committee, failed to retreat. He declared that conditions were just as set forth in the report, adding that commercialized vice was on the gain. He attributed it to the fact that speak-easies, facing the rapid multiplication of such places, had been forced by the competition to add girls to the drinks.

"Touts on the sidewalks," he said, "no longer buttonhole you with an account of the fine drinks obtainable in their speak-easies. They now tell of the attractive girls that frequent the place. I have been so solicited and there is one place that maintains runners in the north part of Times Square to advertise it to men on the sidewalks.

Finds Enforcement Impossible.

"Conditions are worse than they were immediately before prohibition. I do not say that prohibition is at fault. I say that the condition arises from the non-enforcement of prohibition, and it appears to be practically impossible to enforce it. Just before prohibition went into effect there was a triple agency to correct the evils of the saloon. We did what we could and then the Brewers' Board of Trade cooperated with us to clear out the backrooms. Then the War Department's Committee on Training Camps did wonderful work in cleaning things up.

"I don't think that there is nearly as much prostitution in New York now as there was fifteen or twenty-five years ago, because very little was then done to curb it. But there has been a marked increase since the Fall of 1927, owing to the rapid increase in the number of speak-easies."

He said that he was not opposed to public dance halls, which filled a recreational need, but that he condemned the practice of girls being compelled, in order to earn a small fee, to dance with whomever offered. The signpost to the primrose path, as Mr. Worthington saw it, was right there.

Six Clubs Get Clean Bill.

Some of the night clubs were "respectable," he added, refusing to name the six which had been given a clean bill of health in the committee report.

"The increase in vice has grown up with a more or less organized system of violating the Volstead act," he said. "Several years ago there was very little evidence of vice in the speak-easies—they were too busy eluding the revenue agents—but with the growth of such places and the competition a great many now employ hostesses to stimulate the sale of drinks. The police cannot exer-

Fries Egg on Jersey Paving To Prove Day Is That Hot

It was hot enough to fry an egg on the pavement in Paterson, N. J., yesterday. It took Harold Graham, a salesman for the produce house of M. Auzenblick & Brothers, just four minutes to demonstrate the fact to a group of skeptics on the pavement in front of the produce company's store at 3 Bank Street.

Graham made use of the familiar expression in commenting on the weather to a customer. When some one challenged the accuracy of his statement the salesman took an egg from a near-by case and marched out to the sidewalk, followed by the doubters. He broke the egg over the concrete pavement and four minutes later handed it to one of the skeptics who pronounced it a perfect fried egg. The egg had been fried hard on both sides.

PARACHUTE LINKED WITH LOEWENSTEIN

French Fisherman Said to Have Seen One Drop Near Boat in Channel.

INQUIRY HELD IN BRUSSELS

Judge Leans to Accident Theory —Banker's Brother-in-Law Will Administer Estate.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 9.—Interest in the mysterious circumstances surrounding the case of Captain Alfred Loewenstein, internationally known Belgian financier, was revived today with publication of an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Dunkirk saying that a fisherman on the French coast saw a parachute fall from the skies about the time the Loewenstein plane was crossing the English Channel. This dispatch was without confirmation.

The fisherman was quoted as saying that he did not bother about the incident, as he saw a boat near the place where the parachute came down.

In aviation circles, where the report was discussed, it was said it would have been quite possible for Captain Loewenstein to leave the plane without being detected by members of the crew, provided the door of the plane was open.

Meanwhile in Brussels a court of inquiry was held at which members of the crew gave in detail the events surrounding the Captain's disappearance. At Mrs. Loewenstein's request the Court appointed Captain Loewenstein's brother-in-law and associate, Count Roger van der Straten, administrator of Loewenstein's estate.

The question of a legal pronouncement of death was postponed pending official investigation in France and England, and it is believed that before any decision is reached technical experiments will be made with the Loewenstein plane regarding the possibility of accidentally falling from it.

Cannot Grant Death Certificate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, July 9.—After questioning for three hours the pilot, mechanician and other members of the party who were with Captain Loewenstein aboard his airplane before his disappearance, Judge de la Ruwière declared that an accident seemed the most probable explanation of the mystery.

On the other hand, the framing of a death certificate, he said, presented one of the most difficult problems in international law he had ever encountered.

"I learned little new from questioning the stenographers," he said, "but the pilot and mechanician informed me that they conducted an experiment with the airplane door when they were returning from Croyden and that both of them were able to open the door while the plane was in full flight. I consider that Captain Loewenstein entered the plane at Croyden and that he was not landed at any other point. Therefore, he must have fallen from the plane. The accident version seems to me the most probable.

"I do not think, however, that a death certificate can be drawn up in Belgium. Captain Loewenstein fell from a British plane in either French, British or international waters. If the airplane pilot had the Mercury at 97 in Jamestown, N. Y., Causes a Suicide—Marathon Dancers Forced to Stop.

The hottest day of the year in New York City caused six deaths and twenty-five prostrations yesterday. At noon the thermometer stood at 92—one degre higher than the highest mark on Sunday—slumped one degree an hour later and again touched 92 at 2 and 3 o'clock. Cooler weather was forecast for today, but any relief here and elsewhere is expected to be local. The heat wave will continue, according to the general forecast from Washington.

The heat broke all records, caused one suicide and stopped a marathon dance in Jamestown, N. Y., according to The Associated Press, which reported that the temperature was 97 there; 92 at Olean, where a boy was drowned; 92 in Philadelphia, where one death and several heat prostrations were reported, and 90 at Saranac Lake, with several heat prostrations along the lakes and streams of the Adirondacks.

Tens of thousands sought relief at the beaches and slept on the lawns throughout the metropolitan district. In the tenement districts, tenants vacated their homes for the cooler stoops and streets in the evening.

The following hourly temperatures from midnight and humidity from 8 A. M. were recorded yesterday at the local weather bureau:

	Temp.	H'd'y		Temp.	H'd'y

The following is a list of deaths and prostrations from the heat reported in New York City:

DEAD.

BEARONOWF, CHARLES, 55, of 491 East 174th Street, the Bronx; overcome on the tenth floor of 145 West Thirtieth Street; pronounced dead by Dr. Manuel of New York Hospital.

GROSSMAN, LOUIS, 38, address not known; found in the schoolyard of P. S. 63, at 121 East Third Street; removed to Bellevue Hospital, where he died.

KIRSHON, LOUIS, 57, of 809 Elton Avenue, the Bronx; succumbed to a heart attack brought on by the heat, while sitting in his home at about 7 o'clock last night, according to Dr. Benson of Lincoln Hospital.

LYNCH, MAY, 36, of 237 East Thirty-eighth Street; overcome on the sidewalk in front of her home shortly before 6 P. M.; she was attended by Dr. Gruell and taken to Bellevue Hospital, where she died.

PRIAX, ROBERT, 52, of 73-10 164th Street, Flushing, dropped dead at 6 P. M., while passing 142 Elm Street, on his way home.

VENTRI, JOHN, 71, of 2,451 Hughes Avenue, the Bronx; was found dead yesterday afternoon at 2,393 Arthur Avenue; Dr. Smith of Fordham Hospital said he had died as a result of the heat.

PROSTRATIONS.

CANTGCH, VIOLET, 14, of 2 East 105th Street, en route to the Bedford Reformatory, overcome at the 125th Street station of the New York Central Railroad; removed to Harlem Hospital.

CAPUTO, Mrs. CAROLINE, 38, of 331 Union Street, Brooklyn, overcome in a restaurant, 2,987 West Fifth Street, Coney Island; treated by an ambulance surgeon and went home.

DENEFORD, ANTONIO, 26, of 54 West 115th Street, collapsed in the Grand Central Station at 1:30 P. M.; taken to Bellevue Hospital by Dr. Sullivan.

ESHRIAN, ROSE, 20, of 610 West 140th Street, overcome at 250th Street and Broadway; removed to Jewish Memorial Hospital.

FINALLE, MARY, 16, of 320 East Houston Street, overcome at place of employment, 976 Broadway, attended and remained at work.

Aurora Cuts Winnipeg Off From the World; Torrential Rains Block Canadian Railways

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 9.—Electric storms, torrential rain and the aurora borealis have combined to disrupt normal life in the central areas of Canada during the last twenty-four hours.

For the greater part of the forenoon Winnipeg had only partial telegraphic communication with the outside world, while both railway and highway travel was hard hit by a rain of cloudburst proportions.

Telegraphic services were affected by the violent play of the mysterious northern lights across the entire continent. Advices received here were that the interruption was one of the most widespread in years. Commercial and private wires, however, were not so hard hit as press lines.

Railway schedules were delayed on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway as the result of a cloudburst near Ingolf, Ontario, which washed out much trackage and derailed a freight train of twenty-two cars. Another freight train derailment at Biscotasing, Ontario, east of Chapleau, brought down many telegraph poles and disrupted communication east and west.

According to an official statement issued by the Canadian Pacific officials, all trains over the main line will be re-routed over Canadian National routes. It is expected that about twenty-six hours will be required to repair the damage to the tracks in the cloudburst zone.

Rainfall ranging from more than 1 to 3.28 inches was reported in points on the prairies.

Yacht Rofa Is Lost at Sea in Race to Spain; Crew of Six, Including Woman, Saved by Ship

The schooner Rofa, smallest of the four yachts that started on June 30 on the yacht race to Spain for the Queen of Spain's cup, has been lost at sea. Her crew of six, including Mrs. William Roos of Pelham Manor, wife of the owner and captain, are safe on board the Anglo-American Oil Company's steamer Tuscarora, due in port today.

A wireless message to THE NEW YORK TIMES from the captain of the Tuscarora, received at 9:10 P. M. yesterday, was:

Rofa crew all safe and well.

A later message to THE TIMES from Mr. Roos and Captain Hart of the Tuscarora said:

10:15 A. M., July 6, 300 miles east of New York, both masts carried away. At 8 P. M. sighted Tuscarora with intention of being towed into port. Captain of Tuscarora strongly urged, owing to storm warnings, that it was imprudent to stay on yacht and prevailed on us to come on board and have Rofa towed. Towed Rofa until 2:30 A. M., when she broke adrift and was lost.

Other wireless messages were received yesterday by relatives of the Rofa's crew. Mrs. Wendell Tabor of Ipswich, Mass., sister of Charles Townsend, one of the Harvard men on board, received a message saying:

On Tuscarora; arriving New York.

Herman R. Schoeler, of the bond house of Kelly & Converse, received a message yesterday morning from his brother, Walter Hugo Schoeler, which read:

Rofa sank; arriving Tuscarora Tuesday.

The crew of the Rofa when she crossed the starting line off the Ambrose Light vessel on the afternoon of June 30 consisted of William Roos, owner and master; Mrs. Roos, Townsend, Edwin R. Hotchkiss of Houghton, Mich.; Schoeler, who lives at 227 East 124th Street, and the cook, a paid hand whose name was not given out.

The Rofa was the last of the four boats to get away in the race, the Pinta, Nina and Mohawk all crossing the line ahead of her. When the signal was made for the Rofa's start, Mrs. Roos was at the wheel of the little craft.

Yachting men here are at a loss even to surmise what happened to the Rofa. There have been no reports of bad weather during the week and captains of incoming liners whose path crossed that of the racing yachts have all reported fair weather with comparatively light winds.

The Rofa was one of the smallest yachts that had ever entered a transatlantic race and was the only one to carry a woman in a contest of this kind. Her dimensions were: Length over all, 50.01 feet; sail area, [illegible]0.7; beam, 13.67; depth, 7.55.

AMERICAN DIVORCES DISRUPT PARIS COURT

One Presiding Judge, Seven Attorneys and Some Minor Officials Are Indicted.

MINISTRY OF JUSTICE ACTS

One Tribunal, Investigated, Granted 147 of 167 Decrees in 1927—Criminal Prosecution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—Disclosures that suggest grave abuses and irregular methods in French courts dealing with divorce cases brought by American couples are contained in an order of the Ministry of Justice tonight for disciplinary indictments against one presiding Judge, seven French attorneys, one bailiff and two clerks of the court.

These officials, charged with negligence or malfeasance in the discharge of their duties, will be heard before a professional tribunal on July 21 and 23, and will be liable to various punishments, ranging from official reprimand to disbarment or explusion from office. They are indicted for criminal prosecution.

In itself the affair would be of slight importance judicially were it not for the fact that it reveals before the French public the abuse of their courts by foreign visitors and comes to climax years of determined efforts on the part of the French Minist of Justice to put an end to abuses through which wealthy Americans have been exploiting the French courts as a quick and easy means of evading inconveniences and delays of divorce laws in their own country.

No Direct Evidence of Bribery.

In the report which has been made to the Ministry there is no direct evidence of bribery, and all those indicted disclaim having received other than "legitimate" compensation for their good offices in committing small irregularities in order to conceal facts from the Court or to speed the handing down of a decree. But enough can be read between the lines to show that wealthy Americans, anxious for a quick divorce, have not been in the habit of sparing expense in their eagerness to obtain freedom from marital bonds.

The Minister's statement briefly sums up the history of the affair thus:

"On Feb. 28, 1928, the Minister of Justice asked the heads of the Paris Appellate Court to open an inquiry regarding irregularities in procedure which have been noticed in divorce cases of foreigners. This inquiry revealed in reality a certain number of abuses which may merit disciplinary measures, and after having studied the report M. Louis Barthou has ordered the competent authorities to take the proper actions."

It is learned authoritatively that no cases other than those involving persons of American nationality are included in the investigation.

In accordance with French laws foreigners seeking divorce in France must show that the grounds they invoke are cause for divorce in their native State, and must produce satisfactory evidence of actual residence in France. Originally a concierge's certificate was regarded as sufficient to prove residence, but about a year ago instructions were issued for severe control of this, and Presiding Judge Blumbert required the plaintiffs to furnish rent receipts, French identity cards and birth certificates.

One Court Gave Most Decrees.

However, it was noticed that the number of Americans applying for divorce in the French courts was not diminished, and the number of decrees reached 167 in 1927. Of these one tribunal, upon which the inquiry centred, granted 147.

This investigation, it is asserted, showed that M. Chipot, one of the court clerks, was in the habit of "arranging" documents in each case, removing certain documents which

LUNDBORG TELLS HOW HE RESCUED NOBILE

Swedish Flier Describes Also His Own 13 Days of Misery, Despair and Toil on Ice Floe.

VIOLENT CLASHES IN CAMP

Despite High Fever, Radio Man Crawled From Tent Daily to Send Out Appeals.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD THE STEAMER QUEST, Headquarters of the Swedish relief expedition, Murcheson Bay, July 9.—Lieutnant Einar-Paal Lundborg, looking tired but well when interviewed today aboard the Quest told how he rescued General Umberto Nobile from the ice floe and how he himself was marooned on it for thirteen days because he damaged his plane on a second trip to the ice to take off another member of the crew of the wrecked dirigible Italia. Lieutenant Lundborg, who was taken off on Friday by Lieutenant Schyberg, another Swedish aviator, said:

"Landed at 11 o'clock at night on the ice floe, which was 250 meters long by 150 meters wide. The landing space available made the descent difficult, and I flew to and from several times before I ventured to alight. My arrival, of course, caused a very great stir. Lieutenant Viglieri and the wireless operator, Biagi, were the first to come to meet me, and then the difficult walk to the Nobile camp began.

Kissed and Embraced.

"Here I was kissed and embraced. I shall never forget that reception. Nobile greeted me with tears in his eyes. He had a long beard and his his tent was in an indescribable condition. Lieutenant Schyberg and I carried the General to the Fokker and flew with him to the Quest, where he had whisky and roast beef.

"After a short rest I started out again, escorted by another machine. I had reached the edge of the ice floe when the skis on the machine cut into the melting snow. The airplane somersaulted, and there I was! I walked gloomily to the tent, where I lay down to sleep, in despair.

"Badly wounded, Cecioni had been carried to the spot where I had landed, but he was very heavy and the task had overtaxed the strength of those who carried him. Therefore he was left comfortably on the wings of the Fokker, but the first thing next morning we moved the tent to the Fokker and Cecioni.

Violent Arguments in Camp.

"Lieutenant Viglieri took formal command, but he worked on the best terms with me as an aviation expert. Very hard days followed in dirt and misery. Our hopes were continually dashed. Sunshine in the morning would be followed by terrible fog, which reduced us to a state of great depression, and the promised aid from the Russian icebreaker Krassin was not forthcoming.

"My stay among the Italians lasted for thirteen days. Lieutenant Viglieri looked after the kitchen, and every day we had half rations, with the calories measured out on a scientific basis. But our only luxury was my small flask of brandy and some cigarettes which a Swedish machine had dropped to us.

"Our life together as prisoners was not always on the best of terms. Violent discussions took place frequently during the evenings. We had the news of the day from Rome, and it was our greatest pleasure to obtain contact with our comrades in other spots through the radio.

"The wireless operator, Biagi, was suffering from a high maver, but he heroically crawled out of the tent twice a day to keep up communication between us and the outer world.

Broke Down When Rescued.

"For five or six days a cyclone raged and we were compelled to warn the Finnish Torko airplane against making any attempt to land near us. For two days and one night we worked on the preparation of a landing ground. It was a hard job, and we were glad that among

HOOVER SETS AUG. 11 AS NOTIFICATION DAY; GOES WEST SATURDAY

Decisions Are Taken to Indicate Satisfactory Settlement of Campaign Plans.

MOSES AS A 'CONTACT MAN'

So Says Work, Who Receives Senator's Denial of Calling Himself Eastern Manager.

NOMINEE TO SEE COOLIDGE

Will Visit Brule Monday on His Way to Home State Ceremonies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Herbert Hoover will be notified of his nomination as Republican candidate for the Presidency the afternoon of Saturday, Aug. 11, on the campus of Leland Stanford Junior University, near Palo Alto, Cal.

Mr. Hoover will leave for the Pacific Coast Saturday and, with the exception of a day and night spent at the Summer White House at Brule, Wis., as the guest of President Coolidge, will go direct to San Francisco, where, on Friday of next week, he will receive the official welcome of his home State.

A few days after the ceremony for Mr. Hoover, Senator Curtis, the Vice Presidential nominee, will be notified at Topeka, Kan., although the date has not been fixed.

The fact that Mr. Hoover has definitely set a date for leaving Washington was interpreted by his friends as meaning that the campaign organization, the setting up of which has proceeded with such slowness and at times apparent disagreement between Chairman Work and some prominent figures in the Hoover movement, has at last been settled to the satisfaction of the candidate.

Moses's Status Still Debated.

There is still some mystery, however, surrounding the part to be played by Senator Moses, to whom the Eastern managership was offered two weeks ago, and who was ready to accept when something happened to disrupt the plan.

In New York yesterday Senator Moses was quoted as authority for the statement that he was the Eastern manager. This morning Chairman Work indicated that Mr. Moses was nothing of the kind. Instead, according to the Chairman, his status is that of a "contact" man between the national organization and the State organizations in the East and New England.

Chairman Work also again made it plain that there is no intention at present of opening regional headquarters in New York City, which was another contradiction of statements credited to Senator Moses. These emphatic utterances by Dr. Work came immediately after the publication of the statements Senator Moses was said to have made to newspapermen in New York yesterday. All Washington was on tip-toe waiting for the answer from the New Hampshire Senator. It came in due time, but it was not the kind of a reply that many in Washington expected.

Instead, it was a repudiation of what the Senator was quoted as having said yesterday.

Senator Moses's Telegram.

Senator Moses sent to Chairman Work a telegram which read as follows:

New York, July 9, 1928.

Hon. Hubert Work, Chairman, Republican National Committee:

The statements published this morning to the effect that I had arrived in New York to open headquarters of the Republican National Committee and take over control of the campaign in the Eastern States are incorrect.

The statement issued by Chairman Work at the close of the conference of Eastern leaders on Saturday evening, in which conference I participated, correctly outlined the plans agreed upon and doubtless will be followed.

GEORGE H. MOSES.

When Dr. Work received the Washington correspondents this morning he informed them that from today there will be no regular conferences between himself and the newspapermen. When he was named Chairman

State Acts to Seize Phillips's $3,000,000 Believed Cached in Vault in Montreal

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, July 9.—Action will be entered in the Superior Court tomorrow on behalf of the Attorney General of the State of New York to seize money believed to total $3,000,000, which it is alleged was deposited in a local safety deposit box and is part of the $16,000,000 figuring in the sewer scandal in the Borough of Queens, New York City.

It is asserted that John M. Phillips, sewer pipe contractor, now deceased, made a hurried trip to Montreal when the scandal was unearthed and deposited the $3,000,000 here. Mention was made at the time that the money went into the vaults of the Montreal Safe Deposit Company, in Notre Dame Street West.

Soon after the sewer investigation in Queens was launched it was reported that John M. Phillips, alleged head of the Queens sewer ring, who died a week ago in Atlantic City, had cached in Montreal millions of dollars which he had made in the sewer business in Queens, Atlantic City and other places. Accounts were reported to have been opened under assumed names for his son, Francis Phillips, and others.

Search for Phillips's will, if he left one, was continued yesterday by his immediate relatives, with the assistance of friends. It was reported that his widow might undertake to conduct his lock-joint sewer-pipe business.

Rivera's Rejected Fiancee Enters a Spanish Convent

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—Senorita Mercedes Castellanos has dispelled the rumors of her reconciliation with the Spanish dictator, General Primo de Rivera, by entering the convent of Miracris, in San Sebastian, according to a dispatch from Hendaye.

She was officially betrothed to the General, but in a note published in the press he broke off the engagement on the ground that Senorita Castellanos speculated on the Bourse.

The report adds that the Senorita is returning the engagement presents.

HOOVER DRIVE BEGUN TO HOLD ILLINOIS

Deneen Tells State Chiefs Democrats 'Poison' Minds of Some Industrial Leaders.

MINOR PARTIES ASSEMBLING

Prohibition Party and Lincoln-Jefferson Leaguers at Chicago Oppose Smith.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Republicans started in dead earnest here today a campaign to make certain that Illinois is not debatable ground in the campaign to "elect Hoover and Emerson." "Beat Smith," meanwhile, was the rallying cry of two other national groups, the Prohibition Party and the Lincoln-Jefferson League, which are assembling for their conventions.

A fourth gathering, members of the Farmer-Labor Party, which convenes tomorrow, were neutral on the subject of Smith and Hoover. Farm relief, development of public resources, and injunctions in labor disputes interested them more than personalities, though they are prepared to nominate candidates for President and Vice President.

The Republican gathering was ostensibly a meeting of the State Central Committee. James W. Good, Western manager of the Hoover campaign, was present, as were Senator Deneen, Otis F. Glenn, Republican Senatorial nominee, National Committeeman Roy O. West, Mrs. Bertha Baur, National Committeewoman; Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, nominee for Congress; all the State candidates, and the following Representatives: Elliott W. Sproul, Homer W. Hall, W. E. Hull, T. S. Williams and Frank R. Reid.

Two Representatives Dubious.

Only two of the speakers asserted there was any doubt of Illinois returning "a good old-fashioned Republican majority." They were Representatives Hull and Reid. They said hard work, however, would soon remove the doubt. Senator Deneen was optimistic. He recommended a Summer devoted to organization and planning, so that when the speaking campaign starts "all the work will have been done."

"The Democrats are poisoning the minds of some of the leaders of various industries against us," Senator Deneen said, "and we should spend the Summer talking out all differences with all groups so as to prevent any mass or race movement against us. I find some of the farmers preferred other candidates, but there is no disposition on their part to go over to the other party.

Representative Hull told of Hoover's great interest in waterway development, which, he said, is one of the greatest booms to the Middle West, particularly the farmers, in the reduction of freight rates and accessibility to coast shipping.

Representative Williams contrasted the twenty-four bills in the interest of agriculture passed by Congress and signed by the Republican President in the last seven years, with the vote of the "twenty-five Tammany members of Congress who are controlled by Governor Smith," only

Governor Welcomes His Running Mate With 'Hello, Joe!'

PARLEY HELD AT ALBANY

Arkansan Pays Brief Call on Way to Democratic Conclave Here.

AGRARIAN AID PLEDGED

Smith Says, If Elected, He Will Call Farm Meeting Before His Inauguration.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 9.—The Democratic candidates for President and Vice President met today for the first time since they were nominated and Albany people cheered themselves hoarse. Governor Smith greeted Senator Robinson as the Arkansan alighted from a private car in the railroad yards just outside the Union Station here while a perspiring band blared the notes of "East Side, West Side" and "How Dry I Am."

"Hello, Joe, how are you?" said the Governor. He shook hands, then mopped his brow and neck with a handkerchief. The two picked their way over the ties toward the platform where a shouting crowd strained against lines of State troopers. Placing a hand on Governor Smith's arm, Senator Robinson leaned over to remark, "It may not be as dry here as in Arkansas, but it sure is just as hot."

The hottest sun this year beamed down on thousands in linen suits, some in shirt-sleeves. They applauded the Governor and the Senator, who led a little parade with Mayor Thacher of Albany. Behind came Jesse H. Jones of Houston, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Democratic Party, who arrived with Senator Robinson; Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, Norman E. Mack of Buffalo and Scott Ferris, Oklahoma, all National Committeemen and all interested in the farm-relief problem, which the Governor believes will transcend prohibition as an issue in many of the most important States.

Cheering Crowd Lines Street.

Deafening roars rang through the station as the party made its way to the street. The business section of the city was congested for half an hour, with traffic nearly at a halt because of the thousands who jammed the street outside the station and lined the sidewalks.

Political issues and campaign strategy, in which the Governor and those close to him have been increasingly engrossed as the meeting of the subcommittee of the National Committee on Wednesday draws nearer, were forgotten momentarily in the cordial meeting of the two standard-bearers.

Governor Smith came out today with his first official communication on a political issue since the Houston convention adjourned. In a telegram answering a request from W. H. Settle, President of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, for "your personal position on the agricultural plank in the Houston platform and the procedure you will follow if you are elected President," to be presented at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the bureau in Indianapolis tomorrow, the Governor made it clear that he intends to stick to the farm plank as laid down by the Democratic Convention.

Text of Governor's Telegram.

The text of Governor Smith's message to Mr. Settle follows:

July 9, 1928.

Mr. W. H. Settle,
President Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, Indianapolis, Ind.:

As to agriculture, I stand squarely on the pledges given by the Democrat Party at Houston. I understand and sympathize with the objects which organized agriculture is struggling to attain and which our party has promised to help them secure.

If the election returns disclose that I have been chosen President, I will not wait until I am inaugurated before acting on this problem. I will immediately after the election call a conference of leaders to work with me during the Winter to develop a concrete plan embodying the principle of the Houston platform, so that I may transmit to Congress at its opening session a definite program accompanied by suggestions for the necessary legislation to make it effective.

ALFRED E. SMITH.

The wording of the message, it was held by members of the Smith camp, is calculated to win strong support among the farm element.

His message, however, has served to strengthen a conviction held here for some time that the Democratic nominee, while ready to go a long way in his pledges of farm aid, would never promise his support of an economic policy such as was embodied in the McNary-Haugen bill.

Opposing Elements Among Voters.

While Governor Smith is known to place great faith in the efficacy of the prohibition issue in the East in offsetting opposition that may be aroused there on agrarian issues, he is said by his friends to see a sharp division between the business vote of the East and the East's industrial vote.

The latter, it is pointed out, can be classed as a labor vote which will not be influenced, or even interested, in farm issues. The former, however, comprising owners of small and large business interests and holders of securities, would see prosperity menaced by so-called radical farm legislation and would vote accordingly.

That the Governor, however, has not fully made up his mind on the problems of farm relief, beyond that there would be danger in unequivocal support of the so-called equalization fee, is generally inferred from the character of conferences in the Executive Mansion during the last few days.

Nearly all those present at the gathering today were from the agricultural sections, and while they declined to divulge the subject of conversation during the hour and a half before Senator Robinson, Mr. Jones and Mr. Mack, who joined them, went on to New York, it is believed that the important issue of farm relief was not ignored.

Robinson Issues Statement.

Senator Robinson declined to elaborate on the following statement he issued:

"The significance of my visit to Albany is that I might greet and personally congratulate Governor Smith, whose notable services and great ability have placed him at the head of the National Democratic ticket.

"While I have no advice to volunteer, it is my desire to be helpful touching the many questions relating to organization and campaign policies expected to arise.

"It seems prudent to defer public discussion of the political issues and, pursuant to custom, I shall refrain from expression of my views further than to assure my hearty accord with the platform until the formal notification ceremonies.

"I would like to add that my meeting with Governor Smith today has been to me a happy incident and our conversation promises complete cooperation in the campaign."

Mr. Jones asserted that there was no doubt whatever in his mind that Texas would vote for Governor Smith and that the "solid South" would remain solid with Mr. Smith as a candidate, despite dry sentiment.

"I assured the Governor of my desire to do everything in my power to help in his election," he said. "I am very happy that Senator Robinson, a Southerner, and he are running on the same ticket. I do not believe that a stronger ticket could have been named. The only man I know who will oppose him in Texas is Thomas Love, who is running for Governor as a dry."

Denies Clash With Gerard.

Mr. Jones denied that an editorial last week in his paper, The Houston Chronicle, had attacked Governor Smith. He declined to discuss the rumored dissension between himself as Finance Chairman and James W. Gerard as Treasurer of the party over convention bills.

Mr. Gerard has demanded an accounting so that he can make the regular party treasury report. Mr. Jones indicated he intended to report to the National Committee himself on expenditure of funds. He asserted that there was no deficit and that the campaign would open "with a balance."

Another Southwestern State that Governor Smith was told today he would carry is Oklahoma. Mr. Ferris declared that while sentiment there was dry chiefly because of troubles in the past with the State's Indian population of 100,000 over the "fire water regulations," this sentiment was not strong enough to override its Democratic predilections.

Mr. Mack said of his home district, Buffalo, where he is a newspaper publisher, that he had "never seen anything like the present enthusiasm for Smith." He voiced a belief that if Governor Smith could carry New York State he would carry the nation, and that there was "no doubt" of his carrying New York upon the wet issue alone.

Foreign Relations Discussed.

While farm relief was discussed by all the visitors, it was said in the Smith camp that some attention had been given to foreign relations. Senators Pittman and Robinson are both members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Mr. Pittman drafted the plank in the Democratic platform calling the Republican Party to task for scrapping battleships as a result of the Washington naval conference in 1922, "while other nations scrapped plans" and criticizing the failure of last year's conference at Geneva. Foreign relations, however, are still felt to be a minor issue when placed beside prohibition, farm relief and unemployment.

Despite the number of visitors in the last day or two, the Governor still finds time for relaxation and shows no evidence of strain. When reporters called to see him in his office in the Capitol today he was sitting at his desk in shirt sleeves.

Among the interviewers was a young woman. Addressing George Graves, his secretary, the Governor said: "Why didn't you tell me there was a lady reporter here so I could put my coat on and look nice?"

Asked what he had been doing today, he replied "trying to keep cool."

He spent much of the time during the visit of Senator Robinson and Mr. Jones this afternoon showing his guests around the menagerie back of the Executive Mansion. He showed them Miss Houston, the baby donkey William F. Kenny brought from Texas.

Will Visit Scouts Today.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock Governor Smith plans to leave by motor car for Bear Mountain, where, as Chief Good Scout, he will inspect the Boy Scout encampment there in company with Barron Collier and a party that will come up the river to meet the Governor in Mr. Collier's yacht, the Florida.

From Bear Mountain the Governor will cross the river to Camp Smith, the New York State National Guard encampment. After a review he will proceed to the Biltmore in New York, where tomorrow night he expects to meet Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

Wednesday noon the Governor will attend the opening session of the subcommittee of the Democratic National Committee at which a National Chairman is to be named and campaign policies outlined. The Governor declined today to comment on reports that Senator Gerry of Rhode Island is slated for the post.

Governor Smith will attend a luncheon of the committee at the National Democratic Club. After the committee meetings he may return to Albany, but it is more likely he will accept an invitation of William Todd, the shipbuilder, to enjoy what the Governor referred to today as "the terrible breezes Bill tells me they have on the Sound," aboard Mr. Todd's yacht.

Seventh Visit to Boy Scouts.

Governor Smith will pay his seventh annual visit to the Boy Scout camp at Bear Mountain today when he accompanies Barron Collier and a party of sixty on a tour of inspection. Mr. Collier, who is Vice Chairman of the Boy Scout Foundation of Greater New York, as host to those in the party will take them up the Hudson on his yacht, Florida.

The Governor will not board the yacht at the Columbia Yacht Club, Eighty-sixth Street and the North River, from which it is to start, but will motor down from Albany and join the party at some point along the Hudson River.

The exact nature of the ceremonies which will take place today is not known, as it is the custom of the campers to have a surprise for their "Chief Good Scout" as Governor Smith is officially called, but it is certain that some sort of "stunt" will be given for his benefit by the Scouts of the Manhattan Council, of which he is a member. Last year he received an elk, which is now part of the Governor's menagerie in Albany.

Other members of the party will include Ruscom C. Slemp, Commander Richard E. Byrd, James E. West, Charles Sabin, Major Gen. Hanson Ely, August Heckscher, Edwin Gould, George Le Boutillier, Senator Copeland, Senator Wagner, Acting Mayor McKee, William H. Todd, General Robert Lee Bullard, Major General William N. Haskell, Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer and Grover A. Whalen.

PLATFORM URGES FARM BOARD

Equalization Fee in Principle is Endorsed by Democrats.

The agricultural plank in the Democratic national platform pledges the party to the creation of a Federal Farm Board to "assist the farmer and stock raiser in the marketing of their products."

It pledges loans to cooperative marketing organizations on "at least as favorable a basis as the Government aid to the merchant marine."

Other pledges are:

Reduction "through proper Government agencies" of the spread between what the farmer and stock raiser get and the ultimate consumer pays, with consequent benefits to both.

Consideration of agrarian conditions in the formulation of Government financial and tax measures.

Fostering and developing of cooperative marketing associations through appropriate Government aid.

Endorsement of the equalization fee in principle is embodied in the following subsequent clause in the agricultural plank:

"We recognize that experience has demonstrated that members of such cooperative associations alone cannot assume the full responsibility for a program that benefits all producers alike. We pledge the party to an earnest endeavor to solve this problem of the distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance. The solution of this problem would avoid Government subsidy to which the Democratic Party has always been opposed. The solution of the problem will be a prime and immediate concern of a Democratic Administration."

Persons identified with the management of Governor Smith's campaign declined yesterday to speculate or make any comment on the effect of Governor Smith's message in the East, where the action of President Coolidge in vetoing the McNary-Haugen bill and his denunciation of the equalization fee as futile and destructive won pretty general approval in business and financial circles.

ROBINSON GREETED HERE.

Vice Presidential Nominee Praises Smith's Farm Statement.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Governor Smith's running mate, who arrived in this city last night fresh from a conference with the Governor at Albany, after reading a copy of the telegram to Mr. Settle on farm relief, expressed satisfaction with the tenor of it. It is expected in Democratic circles that Senator Robinson will be quite a factor in the Democratic drive to capture the disgruntled farmer vote.

"It is highly satisfactory to me," he said at the Mayfair House, Sixty-fifth Street and Park Avenue, where he will stay while in this city, "to know that Governor Smith is in such wholehearted sympathy with the farm producers as his expressions clearly indicate. My own view and purposes are in accord with his announcement.

"At this time I shall refrain from any further discussion of political questions. It is expected that the formal notification ceremonies will take place within a few weeks, and following this my intention is to devote all the time intervening until the election to a study and presentation of the questions and issues to be decided in the election."

The first visit of the Democratic nominee for Vice President—the first Democrat from below the Mason and Dixon line, since reconstruction days at least, to receive such an honor from a Democratic National Convention—was unostentatious. He made the journey from Hot Springs, Ark., in the private car Alamo, which is the property of Jesse H. Jones, the Texas financier who was instrumental in getting the Democratic National Convention for Houston and was Senator Robinson's host and traveling companion on the trip to New York.

The train on which they arrived was more than an hour late at the Grand Central, which may have been responsible for the absence of any crowd at the station to welcome him.

George R. Van Namee, who was in charge of Governor Smith's pre-convention campaign, however, was at the station to meet him, together with some newspapermen and photographers, for whom the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee posed for several pictures before being driven to the Mayfair House. Three friends from Arkansas also came to the station. They were Charles Samson of Little Rock, Vincent M. Miles, Democratic National Committeeman, and William H. Martin of Hot Springs, a former United States Attorney.

The Vice Presidential nominee was attired in a white linen suit and appeared to be in the best of health. He said he expected to remain in this city for a couple of days. This will include the period of the meeting and luncheon of the Democratic National Committee's subcommittee which is to confer with Governor Smith tomorrow in connection with the selection of a Chairman for the National Committee and other matters pertaining to the campaign.

Senator Robinson declined to answer a question regarding the effect of Governor Smith's farm relief message in the Eastern States.

"I think I had better not say any more than I have said on that subject," he said. He said he had been most cordially received at Albany by Governor Smith, whom he will have an opportunity to see again tomorrow. The Governor is due in this city late this evening.

"Our discussion of plans for organization and the conduct of the campaign was of a general character but in sufficient detail for me to give the Governor assurance of complete cooperation," Senator Robinson said in commenting on his talk with the Governor at Albany.

ASKS SMITH TO DENY RACE EQUALITY VIEW

'Woman Voter' Editor, Raising Color Issue, Says She Opposes Governor as Tammany Man.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 9.—Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, President of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, today sent a letter to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt replying to criticism of articles published in The Woman Voter, of which which Mrs. Nicholson is editor. She wrote, in part:

"In your letter you express amazement at a number of articles in the June issue of The Woman Voter.

"I note that you confess the truth of the statement therein, but you inferentially deny the suggest on that 'Governor Smith believes in equality among the blacks and whites.' We do not feel quite willing to accept your denial on a point which is important to Southern women and their children.

"Will you be good enough to ask Governor Smith to deny that he believes in equality among the blacks and whites. We understand his friends are counting on the negro support because he does believe in equality among the blacks and whites.

"We are opposed to Governor Smith because he represents Tammany and a corrupt system of Government based on special favors and privileges. Tammany has been an opponent of every Democratic candidate for the Presidency since Samuel J. Tilden.

"We believe he would, if elected, use his power as President of the United States and head of the Democratic Party to repeal or amend the Eighteenth Amendment.

"We resent his bolting the Democratic national platform the moment he was nominated and entrusted with the party power. He has no right to substitute his private views for the party platform and the party policy. When he bolts the platform, th Democrats have a political right to denounce his conduct as party betrayal and to make effective their protest by defeating him, which we propose to do.

"It seems to be the unanimous opinion of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, whose organization is nation-wide, that the Democratic women of America should teach the politicians to respect their wishes on this great moral issue."

FARMERS STILL AWAIT REPLY FROM HOOVER

Settle Gets Smith Answers on Relief — Demands Views of Republican Nominee.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9 (AP).—Replying late today to a telegram from Governor Smith, which said that the Governor, if elected President in November, would call a conference of farm leaders immediately, William H. Settle, President of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, said that Smith's "encouraging message will be placed before the directors tomorrow."

Telegrams were sent to both Governor Smith and Secretary Hoover, Republican Presidential nominee, asking for their personal stand on the question of farm relief, in order that the Farm Bureau, which meets here tomorrow, could consider the positions of the two candidates. No reply had been received from Mr. Hoover tonight.

The text of the message sent to Mr. Hoover, signed by Mr. Settle, follows:

"The Executive Committee of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, of which I am President, will meet in Indianapolis next Tuesday (tomorrow). As you are aware, the agricultural plank of the Republican platform is very unsatisfactory to the farmers. Will you please submit, for our consideration, your position in regard to the platform and outline your solution of the agricultural problem if you are elected President?

"The farmers are looking for assurance of relief from the economic servitude in which they have been held for the last seven years."

HOOVER SETS AUG. 11 AS NOTIFICATION DAY

he announced that his policy would be that of "the open door," and he would always be accessible.

In the future, Dr. Work will do his talking through a spokesman, in this instance Harry Brown, Washington correspondent of The Salt Lake City Tribune. The attention of Dr. Work at this final conference was called to the interview Senator Moses was reported to have given in New York in which he announced there would be a New York headquarters, and that he, Senator Moses, would be in charge.

The answer was that no such headquarters were contemplated; that the plan announced Saturday night to entrust the Eastern battle to an advisory board acting under direction of the Washington headquarters would be followed.

The State committees, it was explained, would have a very important part in running the Eastern campaign, and it will be Senator Moses's task to maintain "contact" between the State organizations and the headquarters in Washington. If he wants to, Senator Moses may rent an office in New York, it was stated, but it will not be Eastern headquarters. It will be simply his office.

Hoover Sees Work and Curtis.

The announcement of the Hoover notification date followed a conference which Mr. Hoover had with Chairman Work and Senator Curtis.

It is understood that Mr. Hoover has the rough draft of his acceptance speech almost completed, and when he visits Brule on Monday he may discuss certain features of it with President Coolidge.

Nothing has been disclosed as to the stand the nominee will take on such issues as farm relief and prohibition. About all that is considered certain is that it will be an out-and-out endorsement of President Coolidge's policies.

After his conference with Chairman Work and Senator Curtis this morning, Mr. Hoover talked for some time with Lewis T. Taber, President of the National Grange. The farm problem is understood to have been the main topic.

This afternoon Mr. Hoover attended a meeting of the Government Foreign Building Commission, which is charged with the purchase of land and the erection of embassies and legation buildings. All members were present except Senator Borah, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. In addition to Mr. Hoover, they were Secretary Mellon, Secretary Kellogg, Senator Swanson, of Virginia, and Representative Porter, the Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

The Hoover special train will leave Washington Saturday night at about 10 o'clock, and will proceed direct to Brule via Chicago. It will arrive at Superior early the following Monday morning. Mr. Hoover will leave for San Francisco on Tuesday. The train is due to arrive at Oakland at noon of the following Friday.

MORRIS TO LAUNCH FIGHT.

Returns, Ready to Assume Direction of Aggressive Campaign.

George K. Morris, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, returned yesterday from Washington, where he had conferred over the week-end with Dr. Hubert Work, National Chairman. He came prepared to launch an aggressive campaign for Herbert Hoover in this State, viewed as the most important battleground.

While Senator Moses of New Hampshire, who has accepted the post as Hoover campaign manager in the East, was here yesterday conferring with Republican leaders, including Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman from New York, Mr. Morris made it clear that he had left Washington under a distinct impression that he was to assume the direction of and also full responsibility for the conduct of the Hoover campaign in this State.

Mr. Morris confirmed reports from Washington, and so did Senator Moses, that contrary to custom in other Presidential years, no branch headquarters would be established in this city, at least not for the present. The question was raised at the Washington conferences attended by Republican National Committeemen from the Northeastern States, and a great deal of sentiment in favor of a New York City headquarters was voiced by spokesmen for the New England States. However, following representations from the State organizations in this State, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the proposal was overruled by Secretary Hoover himself. The State organization here and in the other two States insisted that they be left without outside interference in the conduct of their campaigns.

It was learned yesterday, however, that if conditions should arise in the early part of the campaign to render such action advisable, a National Committee fighting base may be established in this city. There is no likelihood, however, that anything will be done earlier than September. By that time Chairman Morris in this State and the State organizations in Pennsylvania and New Jersey are apt to have their hands full with the election of their State tickets.

While the presence of Senator Moses, who said he expected to remain here for a few days to confer with Eastern leaders, left the impression in some quarters that a conflict had arisen over the management of Hoover's campaign in the home State of his Democratic opponent, nothing was said either by Senator Moses or Mr. Morris to encourage the belief.

Mr. Moses said that when any question arose relating to the campaign here he would consult Mr. Hilles, who is a member of the Northeastern Advisory Board of which Senator Moses is the head. Mr. Morris when asked what would be Senator Moses's status in the State campaign, said that he did not know what Senator Moses was doing here. He said he was prepared to work in complete harmony with Mr. Hilles.

"All talk about the relations between Mr. Hilles and myself not being as harmonious as they might be is rot," Mr. Morris said. "I have an engagement to meet and confer with Mr. Hilles this very evening."

Hilles and Hoover in Talk.

Mr. Hilles, it was pointed out, while in Washington on Saturday, had a talk over breakfast with Secretary Hoover. It was indicated that despite the opposition of Mr. Hilles to having the New York delegation instructed for Mr. Hoover, he would occupy a conspicuous place in the Hoover campaign organization.

Mr. Morris said that he had added Thomas C. Desmond, head of the New York Young Republican Club, to the membership of the Hoover Campaign Committee, appointed by him several days ago. He said members from the counties of Albany, Erie, Monroe and Onondaga would be added to the committee also.

The New York State Committee headquarters at 9 East Forty-first Street will be enlarged to meet the new demands upon it. The third floor and one-half of the fourth in the same building it was said, would be taken over. The committee now occupies the entire seventh floor. The office space in the Salmon Tower Building on West Forty-second Street used by the Hoover committee during the pre-convention campaign will be given up.

Mills Calls on Morris.

Republican State headquarters is getting to be a busy place. Mr. Morris had as many callers yesterday as though a campaign had been in full swing. The number included Under-Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, President Samuel S. Koenig of the Republican County Committee, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, Representative Hamilton Fish, President pro. tem. of the State Senate John Knight and Kingsland Macy, a prominent Suffolk County Republican leader.

Senator Moses said that he had no intention of opening an Eastern headquarters of the Republican National Committee in this city now. He said his suite at the Waldorf would be his workshop and headquarters where his conferences with Republican leaders would be held.

"The statement published this morning to the effect that I had arrived in New York to open headquarters for the Republican National Committee and take over control of the campaign in Eastern States is incorrect," Senator Moses said. "I have telegraphed a denial of that story to Washington. The statement issued by Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee at the close of the conference with Eastern leaders Saturday evening, in which I participated, correctly outlined the plans of the campaign and undoubtedly they will be carried out."

Advisory Board to Meet Here.

In this statement it was said that the Washington headquarters of the National Committee was close enough to the Eastern States to render unnecessary the opening of supplementary headquarters in this city. Senator Moses as Eastern manager, it was stated, would have his base at Washington, but spend considerable time in New England and this city. The campaign in the East, it was stated, would be under the supervision of a Northeastern Advisory Board of which Senator Moses would be Chairman and which would be composed of the Republican National Committeemen from all the States included in that territory. The next meeting of the Advisory Board has been called by Chairman Work to meet in this city on Monday of next week.

Mr. Moses said that even though the Republican National Committee would not for the present at least open headquarters in this city, this did not mean that there would be no Hoover headquarters here.

"There are apt to be several," he said.

"In it not a new idea with a Presidential campaign under way, not to have a headquarters of the Republican National Committee in this city?" Senator Moses was asked.

"Yes," he said, "a very new idea."

SUPERIOR PREPARES TO WELCOME HOOVER

Duluth Also Wants a Visit—Word on St. Lawrence Waterway and Farm Aid Hoped For.

COOLIDGE GOES FISHING

Overcoats Are Worn at Summer White House—John Plays Golf in Duluth.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 9.—When Secretary Hoover comes here Monday, to confer with President Coolidge on the campaign, he will receive a hearty welcome from the people of this city, and also from the citizens of Duluth, if he can be persuaded to visit that city, just a few miles away.

Superior is already planning a parade, besides escorting the nominee to Cedar Island Lodge, and is ardently hoping for at least a short speech. Not to be outdone, Duluth is enlisting the services of one of her most distinguished citizens, Julius Barnes, a friend of Mr. Hoover, who was head of the United States Grain Corporation, to prevail upon the Secretary to cross over into Minnesota. They want the candidate to appear at a short and informal reception at the Hotel Duluth.

Farm Declaration Urged.

Hoover stock is high here at the head of the lakes, but his backers insist that the nominee should lose no opportunity to consolidate his strength, not only through public appearances in Wisconsin and Minnesota, en route to California, but by references to public policies bearing on this section. It is urged that Mr. Hoover say a word about the St. Lawrence waterway while in this region, and also that he should not let a long time elapse before promising some form of aid to the farmer.

Indicating this attitude, The Duluth News-Tribune, a supporter, declared this afternoon that the Secretary, as "a straightforward man," would certainly not allow the issue of the farmers "to remain obscure, or permit the great agricultural interests of the Middle West to feel that they have nothing upon which to base their confidence and their support but vague promises."

During his visit to Cedar Island Lodge to discuss with President Coolidge his resignation from the Cabinet it is believed here that the candidate will talk over the main issues of the campaign.

Coolidge Fishes Successfully.

The President remained at the lodge today, partly because the roads from that place to Brule had been thrown into bad condition by a heavy rain yesterday, and partly because he likes it so well there that he has small inclination to leave. Despite the still threatening weather, Mr. Coolidge went out on the Brule twice with John Laroque, his Indian guide, and had success in fishing.

John Coolidge braved the bad roads and motored to Duluth, where he played golf again at the Northland Country Club, overlooking Lake Superior. Harry Zinmaster, Fred Wolvin and Russell Wood of the secret service were the others of a foursome which took luncheon at the club before John went back to the Cedar Island Lodge this afternoon.

Wear Overcoats at Brule.

The terrific heat wave which has hit the Middle West, resulting in thirty deaths, has not annoyed the Coolidge family, who wore overcoats and sat before roaring fires yesterday, at the very time the mercury went to 92 in Milwaukee. Soldiers of the Third Infantry spent a chilly night in tents at the camp, whereas at their home post, Fort Snelling, at Minneapolis, the day was hot and sultry.

The bad weather over the week-end resulted in accidents to three Presidential mail planes, it was reported at the executive offices today. Lieutenant Lee Duncan was forced down near Solon Springs, Wis. Neither he nor his mechanic, J. M. Hennigs, were injured.

Wilbur E. Erickson of Fort Riley, Kan., suffered a broken nose when his plane struck an obstruction in taking off from Ashland, Wis., where he was forced down Saturday. Erickson was taken to an Ashland hospital.

Lieutenant A. A. Atkinson was forced down at Barrington, Ill., when a piston rod broke. The pilot was not injured and the plane escaped damage.

MELLON SAYS BUSINESS WILL SUPPORT HOOVER

Sees Outlook for Election as Promising as It Can Be at This Time.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Secretary Mellon predicted today that business would support Herbert Hoover as much as it has President Coolidge.

In forecasting the election of Hoover, the Secretary of the Treasury said:

"The outlook for his election is as promising as it can be at this time."

Mr. Mellon sails Wednesday on the Majestic for Cherbourg, France, where he plans to spend about two weeks at Dinard. He explained that his trip was "purely recreational" and that he did not expect to confer with any Government officials and would visit neither Paris nor London. He will meet his son in France.

Glass Workers for Dry Law Change

Special to the New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 9.—The Flint Glass Workers' Union, in annual session here today, adopted a resolution offered by President Clarke, calling upon Congress to amend the Volstead act "to the extent that wholesome beer and light wines may be made and sold under Government control. The resolution was adopted by a 98 2-10 per cent. standing vote, 18-10 per cent. being registered against it.

Dry Party Outlines Attack.

That the National Prohibition Party will centre its campaign attack on Governor Smith was indicated during the preliminaries to the opening of the party's national convention here tomorrow.

So powerful do leaders in the party consider Governor Smith that they contemplate a line of action different from any they have ever taken in their conventions. Heretofore they have been out to build up a political organization in Presidential years. This year, according to D. Leigh Colvin of New York, Chairman of the National Committee, the Prohibition Party's one great task is to beat the wet nominee of the Democrats.

To fight Governor Smith one of three things can be done, Mr. Colvin said. The party can nominate its own candidates for President and Vice President; it can nominate dry Democrats, preferably Southern men, in the hope that they will win a few States of the South from Smith; or it can abstain from nominating, and thus give silent support to Hoover and Curtis.

In Mr. Colvin's opinion, one of the two latter courses probably will be followed.

"Do you think Smith a very formidable candidate?" he was asked.

"He's a great vote-getter," Mr. Colvin replied, shaking his head slowly. "It will take a fight to beat him. Prohibition undoubtedly is the great issue now. Al Smith has made it so.

"Our stand is exactly opposite to his. We want to use the powers of Government to strengthen prohibition, put more teeth in it."

"Just what do you think of Hoover as a candidate?" he was asked.

"We are not satisfied with Hoover. We regard him merely as a moderate dry. His stand is not sufficiently aggressive."

U. S. STEEL SEEKS $111,000,000 REFUND

Sues Government to Recover for Alleged Overcharge in Taxes in 1917.

AMOUNT INCLUDES INTEREST

Errors Are Imputed to Internal Revenue Commissioner in Making Assessments.

REDUCTIONS WERE REFUSED

Federal Contention That Statute of Limitation Applies to Part of Corporation's Claim.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—A suit to recover $101,583,180, representing allegedly overpaid income and profits taxes for 1917, plus $9,359,862 interest on that amount, has been filed in the United States Court of Claims by the United States Steel Corporation and ninety-two of its subsidiaries.

The claim for refund of this nearly $111,000,000 is based upon errors imputed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in making assessments and his refusal to allow deductions in accordance with representations made either in behalf of the Steel Corporation or one or the other of the subsidiaries involved.

The amount paid by the corporation and affiliated concerns in income and profits taxes for 1917 was $216,849,230. Deductions brought the total due to $188,532,238, and credits were allowed the plaintiffs for the difference between the two sums, amounting to more than $28,000,000.

Original Assessment Increased.

The original assessment against the corporation and its subsidiaries was in excess of $199,850,000 and this was later increased to the maximum of $216,849,230. The increase, it was explained, was ordered by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue as a result of court decisions.

In enumerating assessment errors alleged to have been committed by the Commissioner, special mention was made of an item having to do with "consolidated invested capital" of the Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries.

The Commissioner fixed this item at $1,071,655,008.05, according to the Steel Corporation's brief. Counsel for the corporation said that the consolidated invested capital, taking into consideration all elements, should have been figured at $1,885,499,562.54.

Deductions that should have been allowed on this account, as well as others, would have materially reduced the tax assessments against the corporation and its subsidiaries, the brief represented.

Alleged Errors Cited.

Among errors cited was the alleged failure of the taxing authority to allow deductions in making returns for sums expended by the corporation for stock purchased for employes, representing the value of the shares at the time of their purchase and the time they were turned over to employes.

Complaint also was made against the refusal of the Commissioner to allow deductions for amounts set aside as bonus payments for officers and employes of the Steel Corporation.

Exceptions also were taken to the refusal of the Commissioner to allow deductions for expenditures made for church purposes by Steel Corporation subsidiaries.

The refunds sought by the Steel Corporation for itself and its subsidiaries are pending before the Board of Tax Appeals as well as the Court of Claims. It is understood that it is the Government's contention that the statute of limitations applies to a part of the corporation's claim. It was said that the suit was filed to protect the corporation's claim in full in the event that the case pending before the Tax Board is decided against the plaintiff in whole or in part.

The proceeding will not have consideration in the Court of Claims before Fall, as the court is now in recess. Several months may be consumed in collection of evidence before the court takes the case under advisement.

President Farrell's Explanation.

The United States Steel Corporation and affiliated companies paid $468,000,000 in Federal income and profit taxes for 1917 and 1918, or about 8.8 per cent. of the total of such taxes paid by corporations to the United States Government in those two years, President James A. Farrell said yesterday in discussing the suits filed in the United States Court of Claims.

"The time limit within which the United States Steel Corporation and affiliated corporations could file suits for refunds of over-payments of Federal income and profit taxes paid for the year 1917 expired on July 8," Mr. Farrell said.

"The claims of the corporation and affiliated corporations for refunds of such taxes have been pending for some time and have been under consideration by the department, but, due to the magnitude of the task of auditing the returns, sufficient time to conclude the same has not been available before the expiration of the statute of limitations. Hence, in order fully to protect their rights, the corporation and its affiliated corporations filed suits in the United States Court of Claims for the refunds they deem lawfully due."

This statement was interpreted to mean that a further effort will be made to adjust the claims after the auditing work has been completed. Although Mr. Farrell did not say so, the suits were looked upon here as merely a friendly action which it may never be necessary to bring to trial. There was no intimation as to whether an offer of a settlement had been made.

Reports reached Wall Street about 11 o'clock in the morning that the Steel Corporation had won a $35,000,000 claim against the Government. It was learned later that no such claim had been sustained and it was assumed that the erroneous reports were based upon the filing of the Steel Corporation's suits. So far as could be learned, no settlement of any kind has been reached in a tax claim of the corporation.

Earnings of the Steel Corporation in 1917 and 1918 were the largest in the corporation's history. The 1917 net amounted to $295,292,180. That was the year in which the war business reached its greatest volume. In 1918 the company earned $199,350,680.

GEORGIA REPUBLICANS ADMIT DEMOCRATIC AID

Treasurer and Davis Tell Senate Investigators of Payments by Postal Workers.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 9 (AP).—Records which show that many Democratic postal employes have paid regular monthly sums into the treasury of the Georgia Republican Central Committee and testimony by two officials denying that the money had been levied or assessed were presented today before the Senate sub-committee investigating Republican patronage in the State.

A card index, offered by John W. Martin, Treasurer of the Central Committee, showed that postal employes, among others, have paid sums varying from $8.50 to $12.50 monthly. Martin declared that in so far as he knew, all the payments were made voluntarily. He said he had solicited none and knew of no others who collected the funds.

Ben J. Davis, negro and former National Committeeman, preceded Martin on the stand and asserted that he also knew nothing of alleged levying on postal employes. Davis admitted, however, that he had heard complaints that funds had been collected. He declared that the only money he had received was that donated by regular party members at the time of the State convention.

Martin said all contributions received by him were disbursed to meet expenses of the committee and on orders of the committee. He estimated that monthly expenses of the organization, including salaries and office rent, averaged about $1,200.

Senator Cyrus Locher, Democrat, of Ohio, a member of the sub-committee, and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, who is assisting the inquiry, assailed the record of payments shown on the card index presented by Martin.

"Do you mean to tell this committee that all this money is voluntary? It just all comes in?" inquired Senator Locher.

"Yes, as far as I know," Martin answered.

"Don't you know that these payments are not voluntary and that most of the postmasters who contributed to the Republican Party are themselves Democrats?" Senator George asked.

"I presume that most of them are Democrats," replied Martin, insisting that he himself had not solicited any funds.

REPUBLICAN DRIVE URGED.

Philadelphia Committee Warned of Losses Faced in East.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Meeting this afternoon to indorse the Hoover-Curtis ticket, the Republican City Committee was warned that Pennsylvania "must bring in a few of the votes that will be lost in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Connecticut."

Thomas M. Armstrong, President of the Manufacturers' Club, in voicing this warning, declared that Governor Smith would get "some votes from rock-ribbed Republicans in this State who want to make a protest."

Governor Smith was hailed by Colonel Louis J. Golb, a director of the Union League, as "the strongest candidate in a generation," and the coming campaign was characterized as "the most difficult ever before us."

Several leaders declared that the tariff would be the outstanding issue.

"The Republican Party, with its high protective policy, is the party of prosperity," said Senator-elect Vare, head of the Philadelphia organization. "The history of the country shows that when the Republican Party is in power prosperity is widespread, there is plenty of employment and the people are happy and contented. The reverse has always been true under Democratic rule."

MELLON TO VISIT FRANCE.

He Plans to Spend Short Vacation With Son in Brittany.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Secretary Mellon said today that his vacation, which he will begin on July 12 by sailing from New York, will take up a little more than four weeks. In Europe he expects to spend nearly all of his time at Dinard, Brittany. He will be met at Cherbourg by his son, Paul. They will proceed to Brittany, where they will remain until Mr. Mellon is ready to return.

Mr. Mellon reiterated today that he had made no plans to visit Paris or London, and had no thought, at the moment, of seeing any French officials.

METHODISTS ASSAIL CHOICE OR SMITH

Temperance Board Says the Nomination "Heads Straight Back to the Saloon."

RECORD HERE IS REVIEWED

Dry Democrats Are Urged to Register "Effective Protest" at Ballot Box.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Accompanying a compilation of the record of Governor Smith on prohibition, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, in the current issue of its "Clip-Sheet," today charged that his nomination as Democratic Presidential candidate "heads straight back to the saloon."

Governor Smith's record on liquor legislation, as set forth by the board, was compiled by Orville S. Poland, of the New York Anti-Saloon League, it was announced.

Among the statements made by the board, most of the conclusions having been drawn from Mr. Poland's report, are the following:

"The New York wet organization twice prevented the nomination by the Democratic Party of a logical dry candidate for the Presidency and preferred certain defeat to lack of absolute control. Then that organization knifed the Democratic ticket in return for State political advantages.

"At the Democratic Convention in New York in 1924, Mr. McAdoo was the leading candidate, quite obviously having the support of a majority of Democrats and of many more than the number of Democrats desiring the nomination of Governor Smith in 1928. The New York wet organization prevented his nomination solely because he was dry," injecting the false issue of religion as a last desperate means.

Says McAdoo Was Unselfish.

"When it became apparent that a continuation of the contest between Mr. McAdoo and Governor Smith would rend the Democratic Party, Mr. McAdoo showed his unselfishness by withdrawing his name from further consideration. The friends of Governor Smith seized upon the resulting situation to press the name of their factional candidate.

"The method of 'building up' Governor Smith's candidacy has been without parallel in United States political history. Republican papers have printed leaded, large-type editorials insisting upon his nomination.

"The whole matter is covered deep with suspicion. It is perfectly apparent that no other candidate, no other man, in America has been able to command, such an extent powerful, unseen influences.

"The nomination of Governor Smith by the Democratic convention at Houston demands of the South and West a violation of conscience, a disregard of principle and honor and a public, recorded humiliation. That this nomination heads straight back to the saloon is perfectly apparent. Platforms and professions mean nothing in the face of acts, utterances and records made before the days of campaign expediency.

Urges Democrats to Protest.

"If a Democrat is elected President, it will immediately be claimed that the nation by popular vote has disavowed the prohibition law and a massed assault all along the line will immediately be ordered for the purpose of restoring a $5,000,000,000 trade in intoxicating liquors.

"Beyond doubt, many men at Houston voted for the nomination of Governor Smith in the hope, perhaps a forlorn hope, that the party might be delivered from the body of this death. If this is to be done, the nation must speak with utter finality.

"The best service that a Democrat can render the Democratic party in the present situation is to register an effective protest at the ballot box. Governor Smith has been for various fake referenda and straw votes which have masqueraded under the name of referenda, but on real referenda questions he has been consistently opposed to the referendum principle. His record as a legislator speaks for itself."

CYCLONIC GALE PLAYS HAVOC IN RICHVILLE

Storm Damages Nearly Every House in Up-State Hamlet, Hurling a Tree Through One Home.

GOUVERNEUR, N. Y., July 9 (AP).—Struck tonight by a terrific wind storm accompanied by lightning, nearly every house in the hamlet of Richville, ten miles from here, was damaged, seventy-five trees were uprooted and telephone and electric wires leveled.

The wind, which was cyclonic in nature, came from the west. No one was injured.

The wind was accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. Lightning, which played about the sky in spectacular fashion during the storm, cut a wide lane through a maple grove bordering on the village.

All lights and telephones were put out of order by the gale. One large tree was hurled, javelin fashion, through a house. Roofs were taken off other buildings and barns were wrecked. Richville is a settlement of about twenty houses.

3 WET LEADERS FOR HOOVER

Atterbury, Church and Goodyear Among Anti-Dry Against Smith.

Special to the New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 9.—The fact that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is in existence for the sole purpose of effecting a change of policy on the part of the Government regarding prohibition does not mean that all the directors of that organization are going to vote for Governor Smith. One is W. W. Atterbury, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who recently was chosen Republican National Committeeman for Pennsylvania.

The Baltimore Sun sent inquiries to various members of the board to ascertain whether, in view of Governor Smith's declaration for a change in the dry law, they would vote for him.

Mr. Atterbury replied that he would support Herbert Hoover, as did Samuel Harden Church, President of Carnegie Institute, and A. C. Goodyear of Buffalo, N. Y.

GIVES CHAMBERLIN CREDIT.

Berlin Newspaper Says He Made Record of Risticz Possible.

BERLIN, July 9 (AP).—If it had not been for Clarence Chamberlin's transatlantic flight to Germany, the German fliers, Ristics and Zimmerman, would not now hold the world endurance flight record of 65 hours 26 minutes, says the Lokal-Anzeiger today.

"Chamberlin with his Bellanca monoplane proved that what theoreticians held to be impossible was possible. This encouraged the Junkers people to risk taking greater quantities of gasoline and oil than previously had been believed possible."

When the record plane took off it weighed 4,000 kilograms (8,800 pounds). Of this 2,385 was benzol, 75 oil, 150 in the pilot's weight, 15 food and equipment, 13 instruments and 1,362 for the empty plane.

GROUP FAVORS ADEL FOR QUEENS PRESIDENT

Allied Tammany Club Committee Will Report on Its Decision Tonight.

Following an executive session of a special committee appointed by the Allied Tammany Club of Queens to recommend a candidate for the Queens Borough Presidency in opposition to Borough President Patten at the Fall election, it was reported last night that the committee had decided on County Judge Frank F. Adel.

Although no statement was forthcoming after the conference, which was held in the Queensboro Elks Club, Elmhurst, Judge Adel, who was present, said that "if the nomination comes to me in a manner that meets my best judgment I will accept."

The committee will make known its decision at a meeting of the Allied Tammany Club tonight.

In making his statement after the conference Judge Adel said:

"Several months ago, when Bernard M. Patten was elected Borough President, I said he would not be criticized until he had had an opportunity to show what he could do. Up to the present time he has given no indication that the Borough of Queens is under a new regime."

The committee was appointed by the Allied Tammany Club last Friday at a meeting presided over by Transit Commissioner F. X. Sullivan.

Forty-two members of the Regular Democratic Citizens' Committee of Queens for Clean Government met as a sub-committee last night in the Woodside Building, Woodside, Queens, and approved William J. Morris, Queens lawyer and former Assistant District Attorney for that Borough, as a candidate for the Borough Presidency. Their selection is subject to the approval of the larger group which they represent and which embraces about 125 business men of Queens. The report will be submitted to these on Friday evening.

BOYS HONOR OCEAN FLIERS

Launch Tiny Plane to the Lost Off Belle Isle.

MONTREAL, July 9.—Four boys and an officer gathered early this morning on the flying-bridge of the liner Montcalm to pay tribute to the Canadian, United States, British and French airmen and air women whose lives have been lost in the attempt to cross the Atlantic.

As the vessel emerged from the Strait of Belle Isle, Captain Landy pointed out the probable scene of last year's tragedies.

Then, darting out to pay its tribute from the boys of Canada and the United States, a model airplane soared from the hand of Ford Grant, champion model builder of Michigan.

The boys who took part in the ceremony, Jack Loughner, Aram Abgarian, Thomas Hill and Ford Grant, were starting the trip to Europe which they had won with their model airplanes in competition with Canadian and American boyhood.

Plane to Try 'Bombing' Speedboat.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., July 9.—The new European sport of an airplane attempting to "bomb" a high speed motor boat will be introduced to this country for the first time as one of the features of the first annual seaplane and motor boat races to be held under the auspices of the Westchester County Park Commission in Long Island Sound, off Playland, the new county park here, on July 11 and 12. The motor boat races will be conducted by the Colonial Yacht Club of New York. The seaplane races are sanctioned by the National Aeronautical Association.

WILL, Mrs. MARGARET, 83, of 405 East Fifth Street, overcome in her home late yesterday afternoon; taken to Bellevue Hospital in a critical condition by Dr. Gruell.

AN UNIDENTIFIED man, about 50 years old, overcome on the sidewalk in front of 182 Park Row, was removed to Bellevue Hospital.

The heat, increasing distress among the poor, was relieved in a striking manner by the large number of appeals to charity organizations for ice and milk. The torrid weather caused Judges to doff their robes and to suggest to defendants and witnesses that they shuck their coats if they wished.

Magistrate Andrew Macrery in Part 1, Traffic Court, was one of the first to informally rule against robes and coats. His heart was touched by the suffering of 200 defendants charged with traffic violations. They were trying to crowd themselves into 120 seats. The Court invited standees to go into the cooler corridors.

Magistrates Joseph E. Corrigan and August Dreyer in other parts of the Traffic Court also made rulings favoring the propriety of shirt sleeves. In General and Special Sessions and the Tombs Courts the presiding Judges permitted those in the court room to remove their coats. In only a few cases did dignity triumph over comfort.

County Judges Franklin Taylor and Algeron L. Nova in Brooklyn permitted all the men in their court rooms to remove their coats. Judge Nova also provided a palmleaf fan for each juror in the jury box.

While the city's millions wilted under the white hot sun the gorgeous array of flowers in the Botanical Gardens and in private gardens began to perk up.

"The roses and other showy displays of bloom are flourishing and there are no signs of burning," said Kenneth R. Boynton, head gardener. "The heat, following the rains, has merely made things grow."

Harris Gives Heat Rules.

Health Commissioner Harris issued the following rules to be followed for protection against the heat:

"So far as it is practically possible keep out of the direct rays of the sun.

"Clothe yourselves and your children as lightly as possible. This is particularly important for the aged and very young.

"When participating in sports, do not indulge in overexertion.

"Take several moderately cool baths each day.

"Avoid overeating. A light diet consisting of dairy products, green vegetables, fruit and crackers, is to be favored during hot weather.

"Although sunlight is good for babies, this is not the time to expose them to the direct rays of the sun."

The Commissioner pointed out that many persons who lie about on beaches acquire not only sunburn but some suffer from heat exhaustion and sunstroke.

Due to the heat wave Coney Island had the largest week-day crowd in its history—400,000. The beaches all the way from Manhattan Beach to Sea Gate were black with people. Mothers with children, most of them refugees from sweltering tenements, were in a decided majority. It was estimated that 10,000 men, women and children slept on the beaches last night. Family groups, with blankets spread on the sands to the water's edge dotted the shore line all the way from Manhattan Beach to Sea Gate. Police Captain James H. Gillen of the Coney Island Station kept a patrol on the beach all night to prevent the sleepers from being disturbed. In the course of the day 100 lost children were turned over to the police and by them restored to anxious parents.

350,000 at the Rockaways.

With 350,000 heat refugees crowding the beaches at the Rockaways, the police there patrolled the beaches throughout the night to protect man, women and children who slept on the sands. Swimming pools were kept open until midnight in some places.

The appeals for ice and milk from among 2,500 families in serious trouble, who are being cared for by the Charity Organization Society, increased yesterday so rapidly that they totaled more than 500 at the end of the day. The society, according to Miss Clare Tousley, Assistant Director, will require for this month four or five times the funds it raised to meet its June milk bill of $1,400, and has appealed for contributions.

The Committee to Open Recreation Centres of the Community Councils made public the text of a letter it has sent to Mayor Walker and members of the Board of Estimate appealing for an appropriation of $22,974 for the purpose of keeping open on Saturday afternoon 413 playgrounds throughout the five boroughs which are now closed on that day.

John Pitzki, 54, of 181 Pavonia Avenue, Jersey City, collapsed from the heat near his home yesterday afternoon and was removed to the Jersey City Hospital.

BOSTON SHOUTS JOY TO AMELIA EARHART

City Gives Noisy Welcome to Girl and Companions of Flight Across the Atlantic.

RIDE IN SHOWER OF PAPER

Governor Fuller Greets Trio at State House—Dense Crowds Hail Fliers and Byrd in Parade.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 9.—Amelia Earhart came home today from her vacation laden with honors and bearing the glamour of a great adventure. The girl who took a month off and calmly flew to Europe was greeted with a tumultous reception that proved to be one of the greatest welcomes Boston has ever bestowed. And Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, her transatlantic companions, shared in her glory.

The three fliers found Boston in a different mood. When the Friendship rose off the waters of Dorchester Bay on June 3, the city, unaware of its mission, was unprepared to bid it an auspicious Godspeed. Today Boston was ready to rejoice—and did rejoice with fervor and pride.

It was a regal homecoming, full of color and pagentry. From the time the fliers landed at the Boston Airport, at 11:30 o'clock, until they returned to the Hotel Ritz-Carlton tonight they were literally taken to Boston's arms. For Miss Earhart it was more than a return to the starting place of the transatlantic flight; it truly a homecoming. She ran from the big Ford plane into the arms of her mother and sister.

Byrd Rides With Three Fliers.

From the field to the city and about the downtown streets she and her companions began to realize the effect of their flight on the imagination of Bostonians. They rode, with Commander Richard E. Byrd, another transatlantic hero, through lanes of densely packed crowds. In the financial district they passed through a canyon filled with colored streamers, ticker tape and shouting throngs.

The police estimated the crowds which lined the streets and stood in front of the State House and on the Common at between 250,000 and 300,000. The celebration was blessed with perfect weather and the procession found sunshine everywhere it passed. But the greatest display of color was on Congress Street, where Boston, for the first time, really took to the picturesque modern method of celebrating.

Governor Fuller Greets Them.

At the State House the fliers, greeted on the steps by Governor Fuller, again found a throng of admirers, who later marched down to the Common and augmented the crowd there. Wherever they went they found joy and pride. One of the events that appealed most to Miss Earhart was the reception in Hotel Copley Plaza by the staff of Denison House, to which she belonged.

There she was assured that, although she overstayed her vacation by at least nine days, she was forgiven and could return to her position whenever she chose.

The Ford plane which brought Miss Earhart home and a huge Fokker, carrying Stultz and Gordon were sighted over Boston at 11 o'clock, flying one above the other. They circled the city and made for the Denison Airport, where Amelia does most of her flying. The Ford sank low and circled the field as she waved to the pilots and mechanics.

Stultz and Gordon Slip Into Crowd.

As the party started for the office of Major Charles H. Wooley, Commander of the National Guard Air Force, to meet Miss Earhart and Muriel Earhart, Stultz and Gordon appeared on the scene. Their plane had landed without notice and the fliers were into the crowd before the official welcoming party could reach them. The entire party was escorted to the office of the National Guard and, while the other waited, Miss Earhart went inside to greet her mother and sister.

Amelia entered with her arms full of flowers and her mother, with a glad cry, embraced her, flowers and all. The exercises were short at the airport, as they were at every other event, and the fliers, after being photographed, started at the head of the procession for Boston.

Three Fliers Ride in Open Car.

Miss Earhart, Stultz and Gordon sat in the rear of an open car. As the procession moved from the airport, two fire engines cut loose with their shrill sirens. The great downtown crowds were first seen when the fliers got to Haymarket Square and from there to the Chamber of Commerce Building the procession passed through a deep lane of men and women. It was the noon hour, a circumstance which brought out practically every worker in that district.

Thousands were gathered in front of the State House and at City Hall, where stops were made. Exercises at the Common comprised the official welcome of the city and a large crowd spread out under the trees. Speeches were short and the entire program lasted only a half hour. The fliers then went to the Ritz-Carlton and rested for the Arena reception in the evening.

Tomorrow the City of Medford will greet Miss Earhart, its most famous citizen, after which the fliers will leave for New York.

Special to the New York Times.

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., July 9.—Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman to fly the Atlantic, with Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, who piloted her plane across the ocean, left for Boston in two tri-motored monoplanes this morning.

Miss Earhart departed in a Ford plane piloted by M. C. Brown of the Ford Company. With her were Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer Putnam and four Boston newspapermen. Stultz was at the control stick of the other plane, a Fokker, and, besides Gordon, those in the cabin ship were his wife, Miss Anne Bruce, fiancée of Gordon; Miss Marie O'Connell, representative of Mr. Putnam, and Lieut. Col. John Hambleton of the New York Airways, which furnished the plane.

Miss Earhart posed for moving picture cameramen before entering the Ford plane. To the small crowd that gathered to watch the take-off she called out as she stepped inside:

"We'll be back on Tuesday night or Wednesday morning."

WILKINS PLANE BACK; OFF TO DETROIT TODAY

Arctic Fliers Are Guests at Dinner—Stefansson Tells of Hopes for Amundsen.

Special to The New York Times.

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., July 9.—Lieutenant Carl Eielson, companion of Sir Hubert Wilkins on his Arctic flight, brought the Lockhart-Vega plane in which they made the Point Barrow-Spitsbergen hop to the flying field here today from Atlantic City to be ready for a take-off for Detroit tomorrow morning.

Lieutenant Eielson said Sir Hubert would accompany him on the flight to Detroit. Lieutenant Eielson left for the city after a short talk with friends in various hangars here.

Airmen, aeronautic engineers and other flying enthusiasts numbering about forty attended a dinner at the Yale Club last night in honor of Sir Hubert Wilkins and Lieutenant Eielson. The dinner was given by Air Associates, Inc. Frank Russell, Vice President of the Curtiss Corporation, presided. Among those present were Chance Vought, Clarence D. Chamberlin, J. W. Willson, director of the Transcontinental Air Transport; Captain Walter Bender of Mitchel Field, Colonel Charles Dolphus, commander of the French entry in the Gordon Bennett balloon race; Charles L. Lawrence, President of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, and Vilhjalmur Stefansson.

Mr. Stefansson held out hope for the safe return of Amundsen, lost in flying to the rescue of Commander Nobile in the Arctic.

"There is life on the Arctic pack ice," Mr. Stefansson said, "and if by chance Amundsen flew past Spitsbergen and came down in pack ice, he is likely to turn up yet."

He recalled that Wilkins had returned 100 miles over pack ice on one Arctic adventure.

SNUB BREMEN FLIERS AFTER VISIT TO DOORN

Cologne Citizens Are Cold to Koehl and Huenefeld and Both Protest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 9.—As was to be expected, the visit of Captain Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld to former Kaiser Wilhelm at Doorn Castle has created a political controversy which both fliers are now trying to end by the plea of liberty of the citizen.

When the two heroes of the east-to-west transatlantic flight landed on an empty field at Cologne after coming direct from Doorn this unaccustomed happening was explained by Baron von Huenefeld by saying he forgot to mention in his telegram their approximate time of arrival. Nevertheless, their reception at the old Rhine town was decidedly chilly.

Now both airmen have explanations of their short stop in Holland. Captain Koehl says:

"I am a private citizen and have always served as an officer. I have no party and recognize only the German Fatherland. I protest against my freedom being restricted to the point that I am not allowed to visit my former army commander. I am a free German. I love the German workers more than our Kaiser."

Baron von Huenefeld spoke much in the same tone, saying that as a free man he must be allowed to do as he sees fit.

THIEVES STRIP BREMEN OF COSTLY EQUIPMENT

Mechanic Uses Firearms to Drive Away Robbers Who Crossed Belle Isle Straits to Plane.

Special to the New York Times.

CLARKE CITY, Quebec, July 9.—According to information received from the telegraph operator at Long Point, Quebec, thieves from Newfoundland crossed the Straits of Belle Isle during the night and stole compasses and other instruments of great value from the airplane Bremen.

The Quebec mechanic, Thibault, who is still there, had a narrow escape and used firearms to drive the thieves off.

Thibault has asked for help and arrangements are being made to send it immediately.

The Bremen is the plane which Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, Captain Hermann Koehl and Major James C. Fitzmaurice flew across the Atlantic several weeks ago. It was damaged in landing and again when Fred Melchior, Junkers pilot, tried to take off for New York with it. The machine has been on the Labrador coast ever since.

FINES ACOSTA $1,000.

Commerce Department Finds Him Guilty of "Stunt" Flying.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Bert Acosta has been fined $1,000 by the Department of Commerce for "stunting." He was assessed $500 for flying that resulted in an accident at Curtiss Field, and an equal amount for low flying over the Chicago Municipal Airport last May.

The action against Acosta was taken by the aeronautics branch of the department and the fines are the maximum it can assess. He was notified June 10 of the penalty for the low flying in Chicago, and during the fifteen days in which he could file a reply the second offense was committed at Curtiss Field and resulted in the injury of two persons. He had been suspended for ninety days because of the Chicago incident when the second occurred.

It is expected that Acosta will ask for a hearing and plead for mitigation or remission of the fines. His transport pilot's license expired a few days after the Long Island accident and he has not applied for a renewal.

A clause in the law governing the issuance of fliers' licenses, the department said, provides that should an unlicensed pilot fly a licensed machine and be fined for violating rules the machine may be seized if the fine is not paid. The seizure is authorized even though the offending pilot is not its owner.

Open Munich-Milan Air Line.

MUNICH, Germany, July 9 (AP).—The Lufthansa mail and freight airplane service was opened this morning between Munich and Milan by way of the Alps. It will soon be followed by an air passenger service. The schedule calls for a four-hour flight. The railroad takes fourteen hours.

the things dropped to us were both whisky and brandy.

"By the morning of July 5 the weather had cleared and we could distinctly see Cape Leigh Smith. For a time we could not understand why help had not come to us in such excellent flying weather. We were all very despondent, and then a Hansa-Brandenburg machine appeared over us and let us know that help was at hand.

"At 1 o'clock the following morning Jacobson arrived with the Hansa and Schyberg with a Moth. While the former circled over us Schyberg succeeded in landing. I was taken into his machine and there I broke down completely."

No Word From Floe For 2 Days.

ROME, July 9 (AP).—No news has been received in Rome during the past forty-eight hours concerning the five men of the Italia's crew still marooned off Northeast Land, but the Ministry of Marine does not consider this ominous, holding that no news is good news.

The spokesman for the Ministry denied flatly published reports that Natale Cecioni, a member of the crew whose leg was broken when the Italia was wrecked on May 25, had died last week before the rescue of the Swedish flier, Lieutenant Einar-Paal Lundborg. Whatever Cecioni's condition at present, he was alive when the last reports were received Saturday night.

The group still on the ice were advised by Lieutenant Lundborg to stay under their red tent until they could be taken off in airplanes, because, if they should try to make an overland march or to use their rubber boats, they would be impeded by the necessity of carrying Cecioni.

Careless Preparation Denied.

Discussing various reports of dissension among the crew of the Italia, the spokesman also described as absurd stories that there was a mutiny aboard the dirigible. General Umberto Nobile, himself, paid warm tribute to the obedience and discipline of the entire crew, he said. All volunteered for the expedition and all had exceptional service records in the Italian Navy and other branches of the service.

He also denied statements that the expedition was undertaken without due preparation, asserting that an emergency landing on the ice had been clearly foreseen by Nobile and that supplies had been stocked with that very possibility in view but that the nature of the catastrophe—the falling of the gondola—was obviously outside the range of calculation.

The spokesman declared that it was futile to start recriminations now since General Nobile had been rescued and the survivors, who were being regularly rationed, should soon follow their chief to safety.

Tonight's report from the Citta di Milano said that silence continued so far as word from the five survivors of the Italia on the ice floe was concerned. The base ship explained that, due to some phenomenon, no short wave radio sets had been workable around Spitsbergen for two days. This applied to all the ships and planes so equipped in that region. The Viglieri group has only a short wave set.

The report added that the steamer Braganza left today for Cape North. She carried a Finnish plane.

Five Depressed and Ill.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 9. (AP).—Five survivors of the Nobile Arctic expedition who are encamped on the ice near Foyn Island have plenty of supplies and equipment but are depressed and ill and need moral encouragement until the Russian ice-breaker Krassin can reach them, according to a report received here today from Captain Tornberg, leader of the Swedish rescue expedition. The captain's message said:

"The group which is under the leadership of Lieutenant Alfredo Viglieri has stores for three months but all are suffering from depression and are sick.

"A landing on the ice with a sport plane is possible only when the temperature is below freezing, and even then it is attended with great risks. At present the temperature, because of cloudiness, is above the freezing point.

"The Swedish planes have so effectively relieved the material wants of the Viglieri group that further relief will be principally moral. It will, however, bring great risks for personnel and material.

"The icebreaker Krassin has advanced to within about twenty-five nautical miles of the camp, and eventually, if ice conditions improve, can reach the refugees.

"Dr. Finn Malmgren and his two companions, who started to seek land afoot, are either drifting on the floes or have perished. They had no weapons and wore bad footgear for ice work.

"The Nobile men who were carried away in the balloon part of the Italia probably were killed by the explosion which the Nobile group observed after the catastrophe.

"The Swedish Junkers plane can now be sent home."

Lieutennant Lundborg, who rescued General Nobile from the ice, believes that airplanes offer the best possible method of taking off the remaining five survivors. He visited the Nobile base ship, Citta di Milano, to discuss steps to be taken to rescue the men.

Nine other men who were aboard the Italia are missing, as are Captain Sora, who started overland toward the castaways, and Captain Roald Amundsen and five companions, who flew from Norway on June 18 to join in the rescue work and disappeared.

Fog Drives Russian Flier Back.

MOSCOW, July 9 (AP).—The Krassin, on her way to aid the marooned men of the Nobile expedition near Foyn Island, has halted fifteen miles north of Cape Platen.

Fog cut short a flight which the Russian aviator Chukhnovsky started today from the Krassin in an attempt to reach the stranded men, according to a radio report to the Soviet Rescue Commission. The aviator was in the air two hours.

The other Russian ice-breaker, Malgin, which is searching for Captain Amundsen, has approached Charles XII Island, and Babushkin, the Russian flier, is making ready to reconnoitre toward Cape Leigh Smith.

Cruiser Widens Search.

KINGS BAY, Spitsbergen, July 9 (AP).—The Norwegian cruiser Tordenskjold, which is searching for Captain Amundsen, left here yesterday to explore the icefield between the seventy-third degree and the great ice barrier.

The vessel will also go westward to

ADMITS THIRTY BURGLARIES

Woman Put Three Children Away to Join With Man in Thefts.

Mrs. Muriel Ballard Jensen, 27 years old and mother of three children was arrested last night and, according to Brooklyn policemen, she confessed to about thirty flat burglaries in that borough during the past six months. Mrs. Jensen said she joined with another man about a year ago when her husband was sent to jail and participated in many burglaries with him. She put her children in institutions and, according to policemen, moved from apartment house to apartment house, staying only long enough to learn the habits of other residents and then rob their rooms. The total loot was estimated at about $10,000.

Her husband, John Jensen, who was released several months ago, came to Headquarters and talked with her. The woman is charged specifically with having stolen $2,000 in jewelry from the apartment of Mrs. Matilda Divine at 586 Pacific Street, Brooklyn.

Later detectives arrested Joseph W. Tobin of 434 Sixty-first Street, Brooklyn, at the Times Square station of the B. M. T. subway and charged him with being the man who took part in the burglaries with Mrs. Jensen. They said he also confessed and that they found on him a complete tabulation of the thefts and the loot obtained in each burglary.

MRS. OMLIE DOWN IN TEXAS.

Plane of Only Woman Pilot in Air Tour Is Wrecked.

EL PASO, Texas, July 9 (AP).—Mrs. Phoebe F. Omlie, pilot of the Monocupe plane in the National Air Tour, escaped death, but was forced out of the 6,000-mile flight today, when her plane crashed at Marfa, Texas. The plane was completely demolished, advance members of the tour reported here.

Mrs. Omlie was the only woman pilot of the caravan of twenty planes which left Detroit on June 30 for a flight, by easy stages, to the Pacific coast, the Northwest and back to Detroit.

Paderewski in Excellent Health.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 9.—A visit to Ignace Jan Paderewski's home at Morges was made this evening by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent owing to recent rumors concerning the pianist's health. It has been reported that he was becoming paralyzed and was partly blind. Paderewski's secretary stated the rumors were false and that the artist was in excellent health. He gave a large dinner party last night and intends to return to America in October.

5 EXPEDITIONS SET FOR ATLANTIC HOP

Coudouret and Izikowski Only Await Favorable Weather to Start Flight From Paris.

COSTES WILL FLY ALONE

Lieutenant Paris Plans 3 Stages—Couzinet Will Have Drouhin and Lebrix With Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—With five air expeditions making their last-minute preparations for attempts to fly from Paris to New York, the prospects appear to be bright for the accomplishment this month of the first non-stop flight between the two capitals. Four of the undertakings are French and the fifth is Polish. Since the latter and at least one French plane are only awaiting favorable weather reports before taking off, the possibility of a transatlantic air race is again being discussed.

Two war airmen, Captain Coudouret and Count Mailly Nesle, have announced their readiness to take the air on the first satisfactory morning that come salong. Their plane, La France, occupies a special hangar at Le Bourget and is ready to be rolled out to the field at any time. The final tests of the Bernard ship proved highly satisfactory. The aunt of Count Mailly Nesle, the Princess Faucigny Cystria, was Miss Carolyn Foster of Waltham, Mass.

The Poles, Commandant Izikomski and Commandant Kubala, have also announced that they are ready to depart any day. For a whole year these brilliant aviators have been quietly training and planning, and Poland is placing high hopes on their venture.

Next in the possible order of departure is Lieutenant Paris of the French Navy, whose giant hydroplane is now at Brest awaiting a favorable moment for departure. Lieutenant Paris holds the world record for speed and load. He will make his attempt in three hops via the Azores, Bermuda and the Statue of Liberty, New York.

The fourth aspirant, who is by many regarded as the most promising competitor for transatlantic honors, is Dieudonné Costes, round-the-world flier, who is ambitious to emulate Lindbergh by flying the Atlantic alone. His new Breguet plane is nearing the final test, and his departure, according to a friend, may be expected within a very short time.

Another participant is René Couzinet, 24 years old, an engineer. He will have with him two experienced airmen, Maurice Drouhin and Joseph Lebrix, the latter of whom was until recently the partner of Costes. The end of the month is given as the tentative date for Couzinet's take-off.

WOMEN IN CRASH TO FLY ON

Mrs. Omlie and Stinson's Wife Get New Plane to Stay in Air Tour.

EL PASO, Tex., July 9 (AP).—Shaken up, but uninjured, Mrs. Phoebe F. Omlie, the only woman pilot in the National Reliability Air Tour, and her passenger, Mrs. Eddie Stinson, wife of the pilot, arrived here tonight after their tiny monoplane had been wrecked in landing at Marfa this afternoon.

"It was all my fault," Mrs. Omlie said. "I just turned too sharply after landing and tipped my plane over. Don't say anything else—just that."

Undaunted by their experience, the women will take off tomorrow for Tucson, Ariz., with others of the tour in a plane similar to the one wrecked today. It was turned over to them by Jack Atkinson, its pilot. The women came into El Paso as passengers on the big tri-motored Ford plane that is in the tour.

All of the other twenty-three planes made the 500-mile flight from San Antonio without incident. The first to reach El Paso was Louis Meister, driving a Buhl Airsedan.

Globe Circlers Fly for Mukden.

CHITA, Siberia, Tuesday, July 10 (AP).—The "City of New York," the plane in which John H. Mears and Charles G. D. Collyer are trying to establish a new round-the-world record, left here for Mukden, Manchuria, at 4 A. M. Yesterday's flight was from Novo Sibirsk with a brief stop at Krasnoyarsky.

SUSPEND SCHILLER AS PILOT

Canada Penalizes Him for Six Months Because of Crash.

OTTAWA, July 9 (AP).—The Department of National Defense today suspended the pilot's license of C. A. (Duke) Schiller, widely known aviator, for six months as the result of a recent airplane accident for which he was held responsible.

Schiller piloted the first relief plane to Greenely Island after the German-Irish crew of the transatlantic plane Bremen landed there.

The accident for which Schiller's license was suspended happened at the St. Hubert flying field, near Montreal, on June 20. He was taking off in an amphibian plane for Quebec, but the engine cut off when he was only a few feet from the ground and he crashed, breaking the plane's tail skid. He was uninjured.

Lord Carlow, Asleep, Crashes Car.

LONDON, July 9 (AP).—Lord Carlow, eldest son of Lord Portarlington, fell asleep at the wheel of his car while motoring through Surrey early today and only awakened when the machine crashed through a store window at the bottom of a hill. He escaped with a bad shaking and shock. The Viscount, who is 20, explained that he stopped the car on a roadside for a nap while driving alone from London to Aldershot, and after resuming his journey again was overcome by drowsiness.

Barrie Oliver Gets $5,825 Damages.

LONDON, July 9 (AP).—Barrie Oliver, actor and dancer, who gained a reputation on Broadway, has been granted £1,165 damages in the King's Bench Division from Clayton & Waller and the Moss Empire Theatres for alleged breach of contract in the musical production "Hit the Deck" in England.

Oliver alleged that he was given a "contemptuous part" and not one of the three chief comedy parts which he had expected.

RUSSIANS SAY JAPAN COVETS MANCHURIA

Hold Tokio Seeks to Extend Hegemony While We Are Busy With Election.

FOR SURPLUS POPULATION

Raid by "Bandits" Is First of Series to Give Nippon Chance to Intervene, Moscow Asserts.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 9.—The Manchurian situation is arousing growing anxiety here as the conviction deepens that Japan is determined to extend her hegemony over the whole territory. The mysterious death of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, whose weakling son, Chang Hsueh-liang, it is argued, will prove a puppet in Japanese hands, was followed by a raid of "bandits" under the leadership of lieutenants of the notorious Semenof, who recently visited Tokio.

It is recalled here that when the Americans under Stevens agreed in February, 1919, to administer the Chinese Eastern Railroad on condition that the Japanese police it, Semenof's semi-bandit forces made such administration practically impossible by incessant raids of similar character.

The recent incident is the first of a series that will afford Japan a pretext to "ensure protection" of the Chinese Eastern herself, Russians say. According to the Moscow theory, Japan, faced by the increasing difficulty of finding an outlet for and even feeding her growing population, has decided to make Manchuria her new "Far West."

Korea and Shantung, say the Russians, which are the principal Japanese spheres of influence, are already overpopulated. Manchuria and Inner Mongolia, on the other hand, demand agricultural development and are assured of a supply of the cheapest labor in the world by the immigration of Chinese from the war-wrecked provinces further south. The Japanese accordingly are seizing the opportunity now, when the United States is occupied with elections and the Soviet Union is otherwise occupied, to consolidate their power over these vital sources of food production.

Moscow does not imagine that Japan would try to oust the Russians completely from the Chinese Eastern, which probably would become more profitable than ever under Japanese control, but that the latter would result in diversion of traffic from Vladivostok to Dalny, if necessary by retracking the Harbin-Changchun section to Japanese gauge, no one here doubts—to say nothing of political and sentimental Nationalist considerations.

DEFINE MODUS VIVENDI FOR ALIENS IN CHINA

Nationalist Regulations Put Them Under Local Law Pending New Treaties.

NANKING, China, July 9 (AP).—The Nationalist Government Council has issued regulations governing the modus vivendi to be applied to foreigners during the period between the expiration of the old and the conclusion of new treaties. The Government recently announced its intention of negotiating new treaties with the powers to replace those which were considered disadvantages to China.

All diplomatic and consular representatives, the regulations state, shall be entitled to proper treatment in accordance with international law. The persons and properties of foreigners shall be duly protected under Chinese law, while foreigners shall be subject to the provisions of Chinese law and the jurisdiction of Chinese Courts.

Pending the enforcement of a national tariff schedule, regular customs duties on imports into and exports from China shall be collected in accordance with the existing tariff schedules. All taxes and duties payable by Chinese citizens shall be payable equally by foreigners.

Any question not provided for by these regulations shall be settled in accordance with international law and Chinese municipal law.

HAND GRENADE KILLS SIX.

Children in Silesia Play Fatal Game With a Live Bomb.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRESLAU, July 9.—The terrible tragedy which cost six young lives near Tarnowics last week was repeated today at Lassowitz, Polish Upper Silesia. A large group of children, rambling through the environs of the village, found an old hand grenade and started to play with it. A few minutes later the bomb exploded with disastrous results.

Eight of the little ones were literally torn to pieces, being instantly killed. Fourteen others were so severely wounded that several of them are expected to die. How the grenade came to be in such a position has not yet been ascertained, but it is supposed that it was thrown away by Polish rebels during the Silesian insurrection.

powers of a sea captain he could draw up a certificate and have it approved in the port where he landed, but such authority never has been granted to pilots.

"I am only able to investigate the case because I am a magistrate in the canton in which Loewenstein was a resident. It is for me to establish legal inheritance, but without a death certificate I am powerless."

Banker's Will Held Up.

BRUSSELS, July 9 (AP).—The request of the Loewenstein family for a death certificate was necessitated by the fact that Loewenstein's last will, in the hands of notaries, was presented to the President of the District Court, who refused administration unless death was legally established.

The family is anxious to avoid a British investigation owing to the uncertainty of what such an investigation might lead to, even a suicide hypothesis being possible.

Hope is expressed that Loewenstein's body will be washed ashore this week in the neighborhood of Gravelines, the accident presumably having happened about five miles from the French shore.

FRENCH PARLIAMENT ADJOURNS TILL FALL

Session Closes With Quarrel Between the Premier and M. Barger, Socialist Deputy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—The French Parliament ended its labors this evening, for at least three months, after a short six weeks' session, during which it has several times, and vainly, sought to establish its political complexion.

Its last act was to pass the Loucheur Housing bill, which provides for a really effective tackling of the serious problem of the shortage of workmen's houses and apartments, especially in urban districts. The bill has been rushed through both houses and both have been somewhat resentful that the expenditure of so much money as the bill involves should not have had longer discussion.

The Chamber, however, this evening showed that it at least acknowledged the necessity of the bill by voting it, with only nine Communists in opposition.

The session closed with a violent quarrel between Premier Poincaré and Socialist Deputy M. Bargery over the question of a loan the Government is reported to be considering making to Rumania.

M. Bargery demanded an assurance that France would not undertake this loan during the Chamber's suspension without the cooperation of other countries and without safeguarding the interests of French industry in case the loan is used for placing orders with outside industry.

The Premier took offense at the charges, declaring that Bargery was acting on behalf of the Rumanian opposition, and warned that the Peasant Party, in the meeting at Alba Julia, had announced that it would not recognize the foreign debts of the Liberal Government if ever it obtained power.

He assured the Chamber that the question of the loan to Rumania was being worked out in the United States and other countries, and that France would not participate without the proper guarantees.

Adjournment until probably the middle of October or the beginning of November assures political peace and a merited period of repose for Premier Poincaré and his overworked Ministers. They can now have leisure to attend to the affairs of their departments without having to keep a constant eye on their Parliamentary majority.

The Premier especially needs a rest, though most of his vacation will be spent in working out the details of next year's budget, which he is anxious to have passed by both houses before the end of the year. At the next session will be almost entirely occupied with this budget, the Government of National Union is expected to remain in power at least until then. No one, however, believes that it will be possible for the Radicals to remain in the same Cabinet with the Right and the Centre much longer than the beginning of next year.

Before the next session all parties will hold their conferences, during which they will decide on the attitude which they intend to take when the Chamber reassembles.

APPEAL TO LEAGUE AGAIN.

Poland and Lithuania Unable to Settle Boundary Dispute.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, July 9.—The Polish-Lithuanian negotiations reached a deadlock today and their differences will again be submitted to the League of Nations in the regular September session.

Vilna again proved the stumbling block in compact proposals submitted by Poland to the Kovno Government. Provisions were made for an arbitration court for settling the difficulties and for the prevention of a military attack by either party on the other. However, Poland inserted a clause fixing the boundary according to the 1927 League proposals.

Lithuania insisted on holding to the boundary line set forth in her treaty with the Soviets in July, 1920, leaving Vilna on Lithuanian territory. The Polish delegation thereupon said such a proposal was a direct attack on the Polish State and the negotiations ended sine die, bother parties feeling highly insulted.

CHINESE READ NOTE TO 20,000 DEAD MEN

At Nationalist Observance It Is Addressed to Feng's Troops Who Fell at Nankow Pass.

3,000 STAND AT ATTENTION

Japan Holds That Nanking Cannot Abrogate Treaty With Her, Although It Expired in 1926.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, July 9.—The reading of a letter addressed to 20,000 Kuomintang soldiers who were killed at Nankow Pass twenty-seven months ago after Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang had been driven from Peking, marked Feng's share today in the final triumph of the Nationalists over the North.

Four special trains carried Nationalist dignitaries to the Nankow scene of the fighting, where solemn memorial services were held. Generals Chiang Kai-shek and Li Chun-chen joined Feng in the tribute, while 3,000 of Feng's troops stood at attention.

Since the Nankow defeat in April, 1926, Feng has marched his now victorious army more than 20,000 li (about 7,000 miles) through ten provinces with no railroads, and his force is now larger and better disciplined than ever.

Japan reveals that her attitude toward treaty revision will be that the Nanking Nationalist Government's statement that it will abrogate treaties already expired is not applicable to her. The Sino-Japanese Treaty lapsed in October, 1926, but the old compact states that if no substitute were concluded within six months of expiration the old treaty would automatically stand for ten years more.

No new treaty was ever agreed upon, although spasmodic negotiations with the Northern régime continued until Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Dictator, abandoned the capital a few weeks ago.

ENGLISH URGE HUGHES FOR WORLD COURT SEAT

Put American's Name First in Nominating Also Dr. Walter Simons of Germany.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 9. (AP)—The English national group of jurists has nominated Charles Evans Hughes and Dr. Walter Simons, President of the Supreme Court of Germany, for the vacancy on the Permanent Court of International Justice created by the resignation of John Bassett Moore.

In transmitting the nominations to the League of Nations today, the English panel placed the name of Mr. Hughes first, as did Sweden in nominating the two jurists. It is believed likely that Chile, Hungary and Yugoslavia also will nominate the former American Secretary of State, Giving perhaps a second complimentary nomination to one of their own nationals.

The nomination from the American panel, which includes Elihu Root, John Bassett Moore and Newton D. Baker, as well as Mr. Hughes himself, is expected shortly. League circles predict that the Americans will also nominate Mr. Hughes.

Since Germany is almost certain to have a justice on the court when it is enlarged, or when the new election of the entire bench takes place, in 1930, it is expected that Mr. Hughes will be named now, especially as the election is to fill the unexpired term of an American.

RECOGNIZE NANKING, SENATOR KING URGES

He Says Such Acknowledgment by Us Would Help Stabilize China and Thwart Reds There.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Senator William H. King of Utah declared himself tonight in favor of the United States according full recognition to the Nanking Nationalist Government immediately.

The State Department continues noncommittal on the question of recognition of the Nationalists. It has been watching the situation very closely, but there has been no evidence that the Administration would feel justified in making a definite decision one way or the other just now.

Senator King said that the Nationalists were growing stronger and consolidating their gains, their aim being unification of the Chinese people and establishment of a progressive and liberal Government.

"It would be a helpful thing for our Government to promptly recognize the Nationalist régime and signify to the world that the United States has confidence in the governing power in China and believes that it is seeking the peace and happiness of the Chinese people," said Senator King.

"There are still Communistic groups in China and they are attempting to sow the seeds of discord and to prevent the development of amity and good-will between China and the United States and European countries.

"Feeling that complete recognition by the United States at this time would do much to stabilize conditions in China and to nullify any Communistic activities, I sincerely hope that our Government will immediately accord the fullest recognition to the Nationalist Government in China."

SLAYER IS TRIED IN GENEVA.

Negro Employe of Hungarian Minister Gets a Year in Prison.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 9.—The trial of a negro, John Coates, employed by Hungarian Minister Hevesy, delegate to the League of Nations, for having killed with a revolver last March the Minister's valet over a love intrigue with a girl employed in the same house, was held today in the Criminal Court.

The case lasted the whole day. Coates was sentenced to one year's imprisonment. It was shown that he acted in self-defense under great provocation. Coates was imprisoned for two months since the crime, and this was deducted.

ADVERTISING MEN MEET IN CONGRESS

Host of Problems Are Taken Up by Big Gathering in Detroit.

PROFESSION IS ONE TARGET

Chevrolet Official Declares Advertising Man Takes Too Much Credit.

Special to the New York Times.

DETROIT, July 9.—The advertising man turned upon himself and the world today the searchlight of friendly analysis and found fault with Government in business, bankers, some churches as now conducted, and not a little the matter with himself.

The annual convention of the International Advertising Association, with some twelve nations represented, attacked a myriad of problems in its opening day sessions today at Masonic Temple and boosted and picked to pieces advertising in all its forms.

R. H. Grant, Vice President of the Chevrolet Motor Car Company, gave a declaring touch as a starter by declaring that the advertising man made pretentious claims, exaggerated his own importance and annoyed the world by the share he claimed in the success of various businesses—a stunning frankness which moved the delegates to vigorous applause.

C. K. Woodbridge, President of the association, who gave the first address of the opening business session, reviewed the year's work of the association and recalled to the membership that death had taken two outstanding members in the past year, Joseph Meadon, former President of the Detroit Advertising Club, and E. T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture and President of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in 1919-20.

Hits Overstressing Sermons.

Homer J. Buckley of Chicago, addressing a meeting of the church advertising department, one of a series of some fourteen group meetings held after lunch, said that there was too much church selling on brilliant sermons.

"There is no demand for the unconverted man to go to church," said Dr. Charles Stelzle of New York, "and there is no law in a Democracy which compels him to do so. This means the burden of responsibility is upon the church and upon those interested in promoting religion."

A warning against "a growing volume of popular criticism of advertising" was sounded by Ralph Borsodi, director of the Fairchild Analytical Bureau of New York, speaking before the Associated Retail Advertisers.

"The critics of advertising are becoming articulate. They are beginning to get a hearing," he said. "The public are becoming advertising conscious, and the ideas which the public are being led to associate with advertising are making them suspicious about it and less responsive to it."

Calls Newspaper Best Medium.

Newspapers have become the most powerful and influential national advertising mediums, William H. Rankin, President of the William H. Rankin Company of New York, told the International Association of Newspaper Advertising Executives in speaking on "The Newspaper's Place in the Sun."

"Newspapers during the past five years have emerged triumphantly," he said, "meeting all kinds of new competition—radio and other new forms of advertising—to a surer, safer, sounder place in the sun of public appreciation.

"More newspapers are being read in all the homes of this country than at any time in the past. Newspapers have become more interesting; they are better edited, better illustrated because of the improvements in printing processes.

"The advertising departments of newspapers—local as well as national —are giving better and more comprehensive service with less waste to themselves and to advertisers. Department store advertising is now approaching a very high standard of sales producing copy and illustration instead of the old catalogue style of years ago.

"Ten years ago million dollar appropriations for newspapers were as exceptional as five or ten million dollar newspapers are today. And I may say in conclusion that the newspaper's place in the sun is more sure and more secure as a leader, today, than at any time in the past twenty-five years."

18 Die in Wreck in India.

CALCUTTA, July 9 (AP).—Eighteen persons, including the engineer, were killed in a train wreck Saturday night at Horwah, Bengal. Eight persons were seriously injured and twenty-four slightly injured. The engine was derailed, two coaches were telescoped and two others derailed and damaged. A special relief train with medical aid was rushed to the scene.

COBLENZ EVACUATION SOUGHT BY MUELLER

Early Removal of French Force Is Needed for Socialist Dominance in Cabinet.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 9.—Chancellor Mueller today initiated a new Government drive for hastening evacuation of the Second Zone of the Rhineland occupation, centering on Coblenz. He requested the Cabinet to agree to permit the Foreign Relations Committee of the Reichstag to express its opinion on the subject tomorrow.

This means that the Socialistic Chancellor, who today for the first time is referred to in the Berlin newspapers as conducting the Reich's foreign policies pending Foreign Minister Stresemann's return to office, desires the support of the Deputies before embarking on direct negotiations with Premier Poincaré.

Unquestionably the committee's backing will be forthcoming and also unquestionably the result will be the Wilhelmstrasse's application to the Quai d'Orsai for withdrawal of the French troops from the second area soon.

A concession on the part of France in this respect is absolutely essential for the preservation of the Socialistic dominance in German governmental affairs, since otherwise the bourgeoise factions will insist that the French are unwilling to yield an inch, regardless of whether the German attitude is conciliatory or nationalistic.

As a matter of form Secretary Kellogg's anti-war compact was also referred to the Reichstag committee. This does not imply that any doubt exists as to the Reichstag's intention of subscribing to the revised text submitted by Washington.

As a tactful move to prevent the appearance of a split among the parties having Ministers in the Cabinet, the question of making Aug. 11, the anniversary of the adoption of the Weimar Constitution, a national holiday will be presented to the Reichstag by the Federal Council and not as a Government proposal.

Since it is expected that the People's Party will oppose this measure, this step has been taken so that the Government will not be obliged to face a crisis because of the Populist's vote against other parties represented in the Government, as would be the case if the holiday resolution was presented by the Mueller Cabinet.

Steps have been taken by the Cabinet toward reviving the Polish-German commercial treaty negotiations. It is hoped to reduce the whole affair to a business basis and it is generally conceded that the treaty can be concluded in a short time if the issues regarding emigration between the two countries are not included.

PILSUDSKI STAYS AT HOME.

Cancels Trip Abroad to Guard His Political Future.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, July 9.—After spending a week in preparation for a long vacation in Hungary to regain his lost health, Marshal Pilsudski has decided not to leave Poland at all. He sees precarious months ahead. The Sejm Deputies did not take their chiding meekly, as the Marshal had expected, and he fears they might rise and assert themselves if he were beyond the border of the country. Therefore he will stay on the job, and he has so informed President Moscicki.

That he means a new coup d' etat should his powers be questioned is generally believed here. His health, though it has improved in the last two months, is still not good. He means to rest at his country home for several months, but he will keep a keen eye on the political situation.

Arrest 120 Rumanian Officials.

BUCHAREST, July 9 (AP).—One hundred and twenty Mayors, Prefects, Inspectors and other Government officials have been arrested in connection with an alleged gigantic plot to defraud the State by the acquisition of rich oil lands. Other arrests are expected.

NAME NEW ZEPPELIN WITH LIQUID OXYGEN

Sizzling Vapor Clouds Envelop German Dirigible—Choir Sings an Anthem.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 9 (AP).—Baptised with clouds of liquid oxygen instead of the traditional champagne, Germany's latest air giant, Count Zeppelin, lies ready for its trial flights preliminary to a transatlantic trip some time in August.

The dirigible was bedecked with greens and flags, with a floral arrangement in the shape of the letter Z in cornflowers, the famous inventor's favorite flower. The ceremony, which was of a semi-religious character, began with Beethoven's choral. "The Heavens Proclaim the Glory of the Lord."

Then, as the breaking of a bottle of champagne was believed to be a bad omen in aircraft construction, a bottle of liquid oxygen was poured against the bows of the new dirigible. A sizzling cloud of vapor, symbolic of its future mission, bewreathed the nose of the airship as, from a raised platform, Count Zeppelin's only daughter, Countess Hella Brandenstein-Zeppelin, accompanied by her two young daughters, performed the naming act.

The Countess, in a short speech, recalled her father's early struggles and final success. It is remembered, too, that Zeppelin at the age of 25 served as a volunteer in the Federal Army in the American Civil War.

The dirigible, which bears the official number LZ-127, was designated by Dr. Hugo Eckener as a "bridge of peace between nations."

President von Hindenburg telegraphed good luck to the new dirigible and the ceremony ended with a hymn of thanks.

Thousands crowded the vicinity of the hangar. They included representatives of the Federal and Wurttemberg Governments and also the Burgomaster of Zeppelin's birthplace, Constance, who pointed out that yesterday, the ninetieth anniversary of Zeppelin's birth, was celebrated there by a special memorial meeting of the German Aeronautical Society.

Simultaneously Lufthansa named a new four-motored Dornier-Superwal, just completed at Friedrichshafen, which is also called Count Zeppelin.

NICARAGUAN PARTY FACES NEW DILEMMA

Election Board Decides That Neither Faction of Conservatives Can Dominate the Other.

LIBERALS EXULT OVER SPLIT

Compromise Candidate to Take the Place of Cuadra Pasos and Rappacioli Is Suggested.

By Tropical Radio.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 9.—A resolution of the National Board of Elections, announced today, that neither faction of the Conservative Party had established its right to be recognized as representing the historical Conservative Party to the exclusion of the other leaves the Conservative Party in a difficult position.

It was the general belief, prior to the decision of the National Electoral Board, that it would be practically impossible for the board to name either Dr. Carlos Cuadra Pasos or Vicente Rappacioli the nominee of the Conservative Party on account of the exaggerated claims and conflicting evidence submitted by both factions. The local press, both Liberal and Conservative, all agree that the decision of the National Electoral Board was just and fair.

Some prominent Conservatives believe the decision throws the Conservative Party so far back in the political race that it cannot be an important factor in the coming Presidential elections, as the Liberals had their convention several weeks before the two Conservative conventions and the Liberal Party readily and quickly agreed upon their leader, General José Maria Moncada, as their standard bearer and the full force of the Liberal Party immediately was used to back him.

On the other hand, the Conservatives are split. The factional fight has been extremely bitter and neutral leaders of the Conservative Party have been unable to effect a reconciliation.

Chamorro Retires to Ranch.

General Emiliano Chamorro, the supporter of Señor Rappacioli, has gone to his cattle ranch across Lake Managua. Before his departure he stated he would never support Dr. Cuadra Pasos, who is supported by President Diaz.

The President, who has done everything possible to bring both factions together, is tired of the whole affair, as the past two years have been very strenuous. As President of Nicaragua and also President of the Conservative Party he feels that he has not received cooperation and support from the entire party, and it is more than likely that he will withdraw from any further active political participation. This will leave the Conservative political field almost clear for General Chamorro, who, except for President Diaz, has by far the greatest following, although the decision of the Board of Elections has hurt the prestige of General Chamorro, as his admirers had asserted that his protégé, Vicente Rappacioli, would be the Presidential nominee.

Cuadra Pasos to Continue Fight.

Dr. Carlos Cuadra Pasos will continue his fight for the nomination, although it is generally conceded that a candidate who has not the full support of General Chamorro has very little chance of being elected.

Conservative leaders are at a loss as to how they will proceed. Some leaders believe a third candidate should be selected on whom the most Conservatives can agree. Others believe if a third candidate is selected all propaganda and money already expended in favor of Dr. Cuadra Pasos and Señor Rappacioli will be lost. A meeting of leaders of the Conservative Party has been called to attempt to reconcile factions.

Liberals are exultant over the plight of the Conservatives and are confident of victory. General Moncada has injected American methods in his political campaign and a registration of all members of the Liberal Party will be made soon.

MACEDONIANS SALUTE ASSASSINATED LEADER

Revolutionists in Sofia Stand Guard Around Silver Coffin of 'Friend' of Yugoslavia.

SOFIA, July 9 (AP).—Assassinated by his own comitaji organization because, it is alleged, he refused to disturb the present good relations between Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, General Alexander Protogeroff "King of the Balkan Bandits," lies today in a silver coffin guarded by four stalwart Macedonian revolutionists.

From early morning ceaseless lines of fierce-looking comitajis passed the body and gave a last salute to the uncrowned monarch of the Macedonian irregulars.

General Protogeroff, who served brilliantly as a General in the Bulgarian army in the World War, was a conspicuous type of revolutionist, but he could not forget that Yugoslavia, "his enemy," was the first country to rush to the assistance of Bulgaria after the earthquake. When the most fiery elements of the Macedonian revolutionary organization pressed him recently to lead an attack against Yugoslavia he stoutly refused, saying: "We cannot cut off the hand that feeds us."

Irreconcilables, it is declared, then decided that war was the paramount issue. They vowed to kill him and lead the assault without him. They succeeded yesterday, and the General's faithful bodyguard were slain also, trying to save their chief.

Belgrade Glad General Is Dead.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 9 (AP).—The assassination of General Protogeroff at Sofia is greeted here with undisguised satisfaction and a new era of friendship between Yugoslavia and Bulgaria is expected.

While Sofia dispatches say that the General was assassinated because he refused to disturb the present good relations between Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, the Yugoslaws attribute to him all the frontier comitaji outrages and the murder of hundreds of Yugoslav citizens. They also cannot forget that it was the Macedonian comitaji leader during the World War who led the Bulgarian army that destroyed Nish.

It is expected in Belgrade that General Protogeroff's death will result in a further split within the ranks of the Macedonian revolution committee whose broad aim is the creation of an independent Macedonia.

The Macedonian Press Bureau of this city sent out the following signed statement last night in regard to the assassination of General Protogeroff, member of the Central Committee of the Internal Macedonian Revolutionary Organization:

General Protogeroff was assassinated late last Saturday evening in Sofia where on account of failing health he had gone without the knowledge of any Bulgarian official. His murderers are agents in the pay of the Serbain Government. Their identity is now well known to the Executive Committee of the Revolutionary Organization.

Certain dispatches coming from Vienna and stating that General Protogeroff was in the pay of Mussolini are entirely misleading and absurd. Neither General Protogeroff nor any of his associates is or has ever been in the pay of any Government. To preserve its absolute independence the Internal Macedonian Revolutionary Organization four years ago paid with the head of its great leader Todor Alexandroff, who was assassinated by the "Federalists," the Bolshevik agents in Vienna, for refusing their offer.

We want also to make it known that although every Macedonian is deeply affected by the death of General Protogeroff, the Macedonian Revolutionary Organization itself will not suffer a heavy blow and it will continue its work for the independence of Macedonia under the leadership of Evan Michailoff, who ever since the death of T Alexandroff has been its actual leader.

CH. N. NIZAMOFF,
Acting Director.

FRENCH BUILD MAGNET ON GIGANTIC SCALE

Electrical Machine Increasing Field Thousands of Times Will Be Used by Scientists.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—The completion of an enormous electro-magnet creating a magnetic field thousands of times greater than any similar machine now available for scientific use was announced today by M. A. Cotton to the Academy of Sciences.

Experiments with the machine, which will be conducted at the National Office of Scientific Research at Bellevue, near Paris, will be concerned with the scientific study of matter in general, with the molecular and atomic theories, and with studies of light, electricity, and radioactivity. There also will be an important series of experiments on the magnetic effects upon living creatures and human beings.

As M. Cotton explained, these experiments for the present are confined in scope to purely scientific ones and are not practical from an industrial point of view, but he pointed out that discoveries of the highest importance to industry might result.

DENOUNCES COURT AT FINING OF 8 REDS

Robert Minor Yells at Gotlieb, Charging Morgan Ordered Conviction of Paraders.

ALL DECIDE TO GO TO JAIL

Young Pioneers Demand Release of Girl, 14, Arrested in Wall Street Demonstration.

When eight men and women, members of the All American Anti-Imperialistic League, were fined by Magistrate Gotlieb in Tombs Court yesterday for creating a disturbance last Tuesday in front of J. P. Morgan & Co. at Wall and Broad Streets, one of them, Robert Minor, an editor of The Daily Worker and candidate for United States Senator from this State on the Workers' Communist Party ticket, shouted that their conviction "was an outrage."

"You are simply carrying out your master's orders. I mean J. P. Morgan," cried Minor to Magistrate Gotlieb. "You want political contributions for Al Smith. Our conviction was not justified; our trial was unfair."

Magistrate Fails to Hush Him.

The magistrate tried to still the outbreak by rapping his gavel repeatedly, after announcing that Minor, Henrietta Silverman, secretary of the local branch of the league; Robert Wolf, an author, and Rebecca Grecht must pay fines of $25 each or serve five days in the Tombs, and that Anna Block, Fannie Piotkin, Philip Frankfeld and Emanuel George must serve two days each in jail in lieu of payment of $10 fines. Two others Mrs. Kate Gitlow, mother of Ben Gitlow, former Communist candidate for Vice President, and Sophia Milman were discharged. The trial of four others was put off until next Thursday.

Three court attendants tried to stop Minor's tirade as they started to lead him back to the court detention pen. When he persisted in denouncing the Court, one of the attendants clamped his hand over his mouth. Minor, large of build and powerful, struggled with the attendants, who had to drag him back to the pen.

When the door was slammed on the four men and four women, Rebecca Grecht shouted that they considered themselves on a par with the patriots of 1776, and would serve the jail terms rather than pay the fines.

Patrolman Keegan of the Old Slip Station appeared as complainant against the ten men and women. He said that after a parade down Broadway to the entrance of the banking house Minor and Rebecca Grecht persisted in addressing the crowd which had gathered, when he and other policemen had broken up the meeting because it was being held without a permit.

The group then moved to South Street and Old Slip, where Rebecca Grecht again attempted to make an address in protest against intervention by the United States marines in Nicaragua and in China. Patrolman Keegan and other policemen, after a struggle, arrested sixteen persons, including Rose Piotkin, 14-year-old daughter of one of the defendants.

Assault Trial Thursday.

The charge against the girl will be heard in Children's Court. Keegan's assault charge against Nathan Kaplan, whom he accused of biting his finger at the South Street demonstration, will be heard next Thursday.

In finding Minor and the seven others guilty of disorderly conduct, Magistrate Gotlieb declared that their conduct tended to bring about a riot and bloodshed, and that it was the duty of the police "to maintain peace, quiet and order in the public streets." Minor remained calm until the penalties were imposed, and then opened his attack on the Court.

The Young Pioneers of America demanded yesterday the release of Rose Piotkin, who is a member of the organization. The girl is held by the Children's Society. The organization charged that an attempt is being made to send her to a Children's Society in Indiana where her mother lives.

The Young Pioneers alleged that the police "brutally attacked" the workers and children who participated in the demonstration on July 3 and called on "all workers and workers' children to protest against the arrest of Rose Piotkin" to "support the fight against colonial oppression" and to "support the fight for free speech and assemblage for all workers and workers' children."

GIRL WEDS DYING THIEF AT HOSPITAL BEDSIDE

Man Shot After Newark Hold-Up Also Gets Last Rites—Mamaux, Ball Player, Best Man.

Salvatore Comforte and Miss Julia Millikersi were married yesterday in the Newark City Hospital, where Comforte lies near death with a bullet wound in his spine, received Sunday after he and Joseph Garcia of 207 Garside Street had held up the proprietor and nine patrons of a lunch wagon in Vauxhall, a suburb of Newark. Three hours after the hold-up an unidentified man found Garcia and Comforte in the home of a friend on High Street. He killed Garcia with his first bullet and shot the second into Comforte's spine. The wound caused paralysis of the lower portion of Comforte's body and his chances for recovery are slight.

Miss Millikersi is 23 years old and lives at 221 Home Avenue, Trenton. When she learned that her sweetheart was dying she came to the hospital with a friend. She went to Comforte's cot and they whispered to each other a few moments. The girl left and returned shortly with the Rev. Mario Arcioli of St. Rocco's Church. The priest administered the last rites to Comforte, then performed the wedding ceremony, Miss Millikersi using her friend's wedding band in the emergency.

Al Mamaux, pitcher for the Newark Bears, is a patient in the hospital, suffering from a knee injury. At Comforte's request he acted as best man. Mamaux was in a wheelchair during the ceremony.

WOMAN GETS FIVE MONTHS.

Head of "House of Missing Girls" Sentenced on Charges of Two.

Mrs. Anna Gamblin, who presided over the "house of missing girls," was sentenced to five months at the county penitentiary yesterday by Judge Appell in the Children's Court in Mount Vernon and ordered to leave Westchester County when she is released. Two 14-year-old girls, Mrs. Gamblin's daughter and a niece, testified against her.

The woman was arrested after two girls vanished and investigation showed they had been taken to the "mystery house."

The police said that the woman induced high school girls to go to her house and that they left their homes afterward.

Nagel Heads Troop K, State Police.

State Constabulary officials announced yesterday that Troop K, which patrols all the suburbs of New York City, including Nassau and Suffolk counties, Long Island, and Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Rockland and Orange counties, had a new commander, Captain H. J. Nagel, who took charge yesterday. He relieves at the barracks in White Plains Captain John M. Keeley of Troy.

HEAD OF LAGO BANK HELD IN SHORTAGE

James V. Lago Arrested for Accepting Deposit in His Insolvent Institution.

DISCREPANCIES SINCE 1921

Grew From $30,000 to $250,000, Says Prosecutor's Aide—Court Names Bankruptcy Receiver.

James V. Lago, 35 years old, of 190-11 Hillside Avenue, Hollis, Queens, head of a private bank patronized by Spaniards, at 154 West Fourteenth Street, in which Superintendent of Banks Frank H. Warder discovered a shortage of $250,000 last week, was arrested yesterday in District Attorney Banton's office. Magistrate Norris in the Jefferson Market Court held him in $5,000 bail for the Grand Jury on a charge that he accepted $1,000 as a deposit from Juan Barrel of 355 West Eleventh Street on June 26, knowing that his bank was insolvent. Lago entered a formal plea of not guilty, although he had previously made a statement admitting the shortage, it was alleged.

Assistant District Attorney Kane, who had been investigating Lago's affairs, said there were about 2,800 depositors in Lago's bank, which he opened in 1917, when he was a bell boy in a local hotel. Lago came to this country fifteen years ago from Cuba, where he had lived for a time after leaving Spain, Mr. Kane said.

The assistant prosecutor said that investigation revealed that there was a shortage of $30,000 in Lago's accounts in 1921, which had grown steadily until the bank was closed by Mr. Warder when Lago was unable to give a satisfactory explanation of a claim the banker alleged he held for about $250,000 against a bank in Spain.

Lago subsequently was alleged to have admitted in a statement to Mr. Kane that this claim was fictitious and that the shortage was due to stock transactions and the maintenance of a rooming house for fellow-countrymen at 317 West Fourteenth Street and a book store.

Mr. Kane added that Lago assumed full responsibility for the shortage and exonerated his brother, Domingo, an employe in his bank, of any connection with it. Mr. Kane said that Lago told him that he had married one of his stenographers a few years ago.

Following the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against Lago late yesterday afternoon, Judge Mack in the Federal Court appointed Herman L. Weisman receiver for the bank. Superintendent Warder offered full cooperation to the receiver so that the latter would be in a position to inform the Court and the depositors of the amount they might expect to receive from the bank's failure.

BELFORT'S EFFECTS SOLD.

Office Furnishings of Missing Realty Man Auctioned for $1,005.

While the police of the Jamaica precinct are still seeking Julius Belfort, Jamaica realtor for whom a warrant was issued more than two weeks ago in connection with an alleged illegal mortgage transaction, the contents of his office in the Gertz Building on Union Hall Street, Jamaica, were sold at auction yesterday to satisfy a judgment in the Municipal Court. B. Gertz, a member of the firm of Gertz Brothers, Inc., was the high bidder and paid $1,005 for the furniture, which is valued at $3,000.

Gertz Brothers started an action in the Jamaica Municipal Court on June 26 for $250 for rent due them for an office in their building leased by Belfort. On July 2 Justice John Cragen signed an order granting judgment in that amount and ordering the marshal to sell the contents of the office to settle the claim.

PATROLMAN ARRAIGNED AS EAST SIDE ROBBER

J. H. Conlon Accused of Hold-Up With Another of Store—Auto Tag Clue in Arrest.

Accused of being one of two men who had held up a soft drink store and robbed the cash register and customers of $40, Patrolman John H. Conlon, 26 years old, of 41-52 Seventy-first Street, Winfield, Queens, was arraigned in Harlem Court yesterday and held without bail for a hearing Wednesday on charges of suspicion of robbery by Magistrate Ewald.

Conlon, who is attached to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, was arrested at his home early yesterday after the license number of his automobile had been found to correspond to that of the car in which customers said one of the hold-up men escaped. Conlon, who was on sick leave at the time of his arrest, denied any connection with the robbery and said his automobile had been in a garage at the time.

The hold-up took place at the store of John Fader, at 401½ East Seventieth Street, shortly after 11 o'clock Sunday night. Two men entered, and while one of them, alleged to be Conlon, held the customers at bay with a pistol, the other took $35 from the cash register and $5 from two patrons. Frightened by the sound of a police whistle, the men ran from the building and one of them, Alfred Zavasky, 23 years old, of 423 East Seventieth Street, was caught by Patrolman Charles Steckenback of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station. The other escaped in an automobile.

The men denied knowing each other when they were arraigned in court yesterday but were identified by Joseph Fader, son of the proprietor. Zavasky was also held for a hearing Wednesday. Conlon is married and has been on the force for two and a half years.

117 VOTERS ACCUSED IN JERSEY INQUIRY

Legislative Committee Decides to Send Names to Grand Jury Because of Shift in Party.

TWO TELL OF FORGERIES

Democratic Officers Who Voted as Republicans Deny Signing Their Petitions.

COURT CLERK UNDER FIRE

Woman Says He Induced Her to Change Party—Family Defends Its Switch at Primary.

The Case Legislative Investigating Committee decided yesterday to turn over to Attorney General Katzenbach for presentation to the Grand Jury which is inquiring into frauds in the recent primaries in Jersey City the names of 117 men and women who violated the Election law by voting in Republican or Democratic primaries last May when they had voted in the rival party's primaries in 1927.

As a result of the disclosures before the committee, which met in the City Hall of Jersey City yesterday, it was asserted by Russell E. Watson, committee counsel, that he had a list of 112 Jersey City Democrats who enrolled as Republicans this year, and a list of five Hoboken voters who enrolled as Republicans in 1927 and as Democrats in 1928.

Forgery of Signatures Charged.

The committee also decided to refer to the Attorney General for criminal action the transcript of the testimony of two witnesses who asserted that their signatures had been forged to a petition naming them as members of the Democratic County Committee. Both voted as Republicans. The signatures were those of Florence Muldoon and Arthur J. Foley, Lieutenant of the Hudson County Police. The petition bore an affidavit of Michael Connelly of 366 Pacific Avenue, Jersey City, who swore that Miss Muldoon and Foley had signed the document in his presence. The petition and the testimony concerning it were referred to the Grand Jury.

The Bureau of Elections is preparing a list of Democratic election officials, Democratic county committeemen and those who had signed petitions for Democratic candidates although they voted in the Republican primaries. Mr. Watson said he had a list of 500 names of such "one day" Republicans.

The committee linked a member of Mayor Hague's organization to the alleged frauds yesterday. Mrs. Mabel Youngblood of 49 Sussex Street, Jersey City, testified that Court Clerk William J. McGovern had induced her to vote in the Republican primary in May when she appeared at the polls ready to vote as a Democrat. She said McGovern asked her "as a favor" to leave the Democratic line and ask for a Republican ballot and she did as McGovern suggested.

Joseph P. Moore, Robert Hall Jr. and Illumato Cutro, admitted they voted in the Republican primary in May although they had enrolled as Democrats in 1927. They said they did not know that such action was in violation of the election law. Cutro testified that Steve Cuccia and Joseph Cestaro, election officers, accompanied him into the booth after one of them had marked a sample ballot for him. He had forgotten his glasses, he added, and thought that the man who marked the sample ballot might have "fooled" him.

For Hague Despite Change.

Evidence was also adduced from lifelong Democrats who voted for the first time in the Republican primaries that they had changed their political convictions because they felt that they wanted "a change." They maintained that while they desired "a change" they did not wish to be recorded as against Mayor Hague and the Democratic machine. With the exception of Miss Youngblood all denied having been advised to enroll as Republicans.

Four members of a family of a five voters, lifelong Democrats, told the committee they had never discussed changing their votes this year before taking part in the Republican primaries. Each had reached his or her conclusion independently, according to the testimony. Patrick Keating, an employe of the Sewer Department, father of the family, said he had been a Democrat for 35 years. He was unable to explain why he had voted in the Republican primaries.

Joseph and Frank Keating, sons of Patrick Keating, voted as Republicans although Democrats because they wanted "a change," they said.

Their sister Julia, when asked why she voted Republican, replied, "I felt like it."

"Will you feel like voting Republican in the Fall?" she was asked.

"That's my business," she retorted.

She said she did not think it was extraordinary for a family of lifelong Democrats to change suddenly.

Lays Bad Memory to Injury.

Lieutenant Foley admitted voting as a Republican in the primary because he had friends on the Republican ticket. He refused to name them on the ground that he was "a citizen and have a right to vote as I please." "I don't remember" was his frequent reply to questions. When pressed by Senator Case he said he had been in an automobile accident last year "and sometimes I get dizzy."

The witnesses demurred when Mr. Case suggested that he should not accept the city's money if his lapse of memory affected his recollection of traffic laws. Foley said his memory regarding traffic regulations was perfect.

Michael J. McEvoy, Superintendent of the Henry Rakowski Printing Company of 444 Pearl Street, New York, with a salary of $123 a week, admitted that he was on the Jersey City payroll for $4,000 a year as Secretary to the Assessment Commission. He gave the city his time when he was free from other duties, he explained.

The committee will reconvene at 10:30 Thursday morning, when it will investigate Hudson County sinecures.

George Riley, a reader of water meters in Jersey City, was dismissed yesterday. He charged that he was dropped because he opposed a Hague candidate at the primaries and plans to testify before the committee.

$6,000 USELESS FOR $1 FINE

Autoist Nearly Goes to Jail, Then Finds Enough Coins in Pockets.

With $6,000 in his pocket, Isaac Swimmer, 28 years old, of 1,374 Lyman Place, the Bronx, almost went to jail yesterday to satisfy a traffic court fine of $1 or one day.

On June 30 Swimmer received a summons for failing to keep to the right in his automobile at Ninety-third Street and Fifth Avenue. He pleaded guilty yesterday and the minimum fine was imposed by Magistrate Dreyer. Swimmer went over to Clerk Sam Hilsun to pay the dollar. He pulled out a bill. It was a $1,000 bill.

"You can't pay a one-dollar fine with that," said Hilsun firmly.

Swimmer fished into his pockets again and produced a $5,000 bill, ruefully admitting it was all he had.

"Too bad you have to go to jail for a $1 fine when you have $6,000 in your pockets," said the clerk.

Swimmer perspiring freely thought of the sultriness of the jail and dug desperately into his other pockets. One yielded a half dollar, another a quarter. In his vest pockets were three nickels, one dime and two cents. He placed all but the pennies on the clerk's desk and walked out a free man.

BACKS JURY REFORM PLEA.

Rotary Committee Endorses the Merchants' Memorial to Baumes.

The Better Citizenship Committee of the Rotary Club of New York sent a communication yesterday to Senator Caleb H. Baumes, Chairman of the State Crime Commission, endorsing the plea of the Merchants' Association for drastic changes in the jury system of the State. The communication, signed by Charles L. Robinson, Chairman of the committee, contends that improvement in the jury system could be brought about by doing away with the exemption of non-voters and classes of professional men now exempted by law and by centralizing the method of calling talesmen for jury service, so that they could be used in all parts of the Supreme and County Courts each day, instead of in individual courts. The suggestion also is offered that provision be made in a new law for talesmen to keep in touch with their business during the sessions of the court when they are not actually engaged in the trial of cases. This would decrease the number of talesmen required for jury service, the committee contends.

Failure of the Legislature to pass proposed legislation to aid the Commissioner of Jurors to reach non-voters is the principal reason why so many are able to evade jury service, Irwin Kurtz, attorney for the Harlem Board of Commerce, asserted in a statement yesterday.

FEW STRIKERS BACK IN NEW BEDFORD

Only Twenty Out of 28,000 Are Reported to Have Resumed Work.

PICKETS SURROUND MILLS

Reopening Is Marked by Absence of Disorder—Police and Troops on Guard.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 9 (AP).—Claiming victory in the first test of their strike, now in the thirteenth week, 28,000 operatives of twenty-seven textile corporations in this city were more determined than ever tonight not to submit to a 10 per cent. wage reduction.

With 400 city police on duty at mill gates and ninety National Guardsmen held in reserve at vantage points nearly all of the striking employes answered a request of the mill officials that they return to work this morning with strong picket lines and reiterated declarations that they would not accede to the wage cut.

Only about twenty returned to work, according to police estimates. No figures were available at the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers' Association.

The manufacturers had expected that the strikers would return to work at the reduced wages but the labor leaders had predicted otherwise. The word in strike circles tonight was that "the strike was won today."

No acts of violence accompanied the picket activities. Thousands of employes gathered near the principal mills and lent moral support to picketers who were led by labor leaders from textile centres of New England and New York.

With the continued quietness prevailing the National Guardsmen were withdrawn this afternoon from their posts to the State Armory. They are to be called to duty only when police request assistance.

Will Reopen Today.

The manufacturers held a meeting late today and said the mills would open tomorrow and henceforth as they did today. Reports of a break in the ranks of the manufacturers were rumored but could not be substantiated. It was said in strike circles that one of the largest mills was planning to retract their wage cut announcement.

Meetings at which each group denounced the aims of the other, but at which both claimed a victory in the strike, were held this afternoon by the United Textile Workers of America and the Textile Mill Committees, the principal labor bodies engaged in the strike. Friction has existed throughout the strike between these two groups. The Textile Mill Committees are classified here as a radical element.

The meetings were attended by several thousand operatives, with police guards at those of the Textile Mill Committees. The intense heat drove a great number of others to the bathing resorts on Buzzards Bay.

William E. G. Batty of the New Bedford Textile Council, affiliated with the United Textile Workers, said after the mill gates had been closed:

"Most of the employes did not even turn out to watch the proceedings. That indicated the strength of their refusal to accept the wage cut. They will continue to remain on strike until their demands for the old wage schedule are met."

Speaking for the Manufacturers' Association, Secretary Raeburn issued this statement:

"The mills will be open each day in accordance with the plan already announced."

When asked whether any machines in the mills were actually in operation today Secretary Raeburn said he did not know.

"However," he said, "very few operatives reported for work. They may answer your question."

Although the labor leaders are confident that any break in their ranks would have occurred today, sentiment in some circles was that the next few days would determine the situation.

Women Active in the Strike.

Among the labor leaders prominent in the strike activities here who led the striking operatives in the picketing today were three women, Miss Sadie Reisch of the Woman's Trade Union League, New York, and Miss Hilda A. McNulty and Miss Elizabeth Donneley of Boston. Miss Donneley has been active in organizing children for picket duty.

Others who led lines were Horace A. Riviere of Manchester, N. H. and Frank Manning of Boston, both affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America and Jack Rubenstein of New York and Eli Keller of Passaic, N. J., both Textile Mill Committee workers.

CARRANZA DEFERS START.

Mexican Aviator Fails in Attempt to Take Off for Home Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 9.—After failing in one attempt to take off here tonight Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican aviator who recently made a good-will flight from Mexico City to Washington to return the courtesy of Colonel Lindbergh's flight to Mexico, postponed the start of his proposed non-stop flight to Mexico City until tomorrow morning. He hoped to get off about 4:30 A. M. The unsuccessful attempt to take off tonight was made at 10:30 o'clock and terminated about 500 yards down the runway when Captain Carranza found the field insufficiently lighted.

There was a strong areas wind blowing, and the Mexican flier made the attempt to take off in the face of strong opposition from his friends. Flood lights had been brought from Mitchel Field to illuminate the runway, but they failed to work and after the silver Ryan monoplane had run completely off in the darkness Captain Carranza abandoned the attempt. Several hundred automobile loads of spectators were at the field and to these Captain Carranza announced that he would take off promptly at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. He is carrying 430 gallons of gas and hopes to make the 2,400-mile journey in about twenty-seven hours.

Wilkes-Barre Cashier Found Guilty.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 9 (AP).—Roger Williams, former cashier and treasurer of the South Side Bank, was found guilty today of a charge of embezzling approximately $64,000 and was sentenced to serve from six months to two years in Luzerne County jail. J. C. Maloney, Scranton, charged with aiding Williams, was found not guilty.

Gentlemen:

Here is a gift offer which we believe has no parallel in merchandising. An offer made solely to attract men to a fair trial of Palmolive Shaving Cream.

Our experience proves that most men who try Palmolive Shaving Cream become regular users. Thus our whole sales problem is to get every man we can to TRY IT.

To solve that problem, we go to great lengths. We occasionally make an offer that no man can afford to turn down. This one, you'll agree, is the greatest we have ever made—the most remarkable, we are told, in merchandising history.

Go today to the drug store. Buy a tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream at the regular price of 35c. The razor described above will be given you with it FREE with blade—all for 35c.

But remember: Dealers' stocks are strictly limited. When your store is out, he can get no more. Thus early acceptance of this offer is necessary.

The world's most magnificent razor

No matter how many razors a man has—of what makes or kind—he will want this luxurious Gillette—"a gold Gillette!" Never a man but has wanted one.

It is the IDENTICAL 24-Karat, Gold-Plated Genuine Gillette, for which, in a case with 12 blades, thousands of men formerly paid $6. The same razor EXACTLY which was the most popular gift razor—at Christmas, etc.

The ONLY difference is that at $6, a case and twelve blades were given with the razor. Under this offer, one blade accompanies it. Think of it!—free now with a 35c tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream which you probably need anyway!

Corrects the mistakes of old-time shaving preparations

Palmolive Shaving Cream is a scientific creation. Men by the millions are flocking to its use.

We started by asking 1000 men what they most desired in a shaving soap. Then met their exactments one by one. It is different in formula, action and effect from any other shaving preparation known. It corrects the 5 mistakes of old-time shaving preparations.

1. It multiplies itself in lather 250 times.
2. It softens the beard in one minute.
3. The lather maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face.
4. The extra strong bubbles support the hairs for cutting, where weak bubbles let them fall down.
5. The blend of palm and olive oils brings fine after-effects.

CLERK SAYS LAWYER SPLIT FEE WITH HIM

Littick Accused at Brooklyn Inquiry by Aide Who Tells of Sharing Profits.

DENIES 'CHASING' CLAIMS

Referee Refuses Plea to Dismiss Case—Kresel to Resume His Hearings Here Today.

Testifying yesterday at the hearing of Henry Clay Littick, an attorney charged with obtaining negligence cases on a percentage basis, in the ambulance chasing investigation by Referee Harrington Putnam in Brooklyn Supreme Court, Lester Fabricant said that he had worked for Littick as a clerk for several months without salary, receiving compensation for cases he brought to the attorney.

Fabricant said he obtained these cases through friends, and never solicited one. He got one-third of Littick's fees in these cases until last April, when he was put on a salary after being called before Justice Faber in the ambulance chasing inquiry. Later his remuneration came from a share of the profits, he said. At present, he added, he received $50 a week and no other compensation. He is 27 years old.

Charles E. Howell of 81 Eighth Avenue testified that he answered Littick's advertisement for a law clerk with sufficient acquaintance to bring new business into his office. He said Littick told him his compensation would be a percentage of the work he brought into the office. He quoted Littick as saying that this arrangement was not entirely ethical, but was not at all wrong.

Littick admitted that his offer to the young man was improper, but pointed out that the arrangement had never been put into practice. Referee Putnam denied a motion by Littick's counsel to dismiss the case against him on the ground that the attorney had not pursued the methods of ambulance chasers. The hearing will be resumed today with another lawyer before the referee.

The ambulance chasing inquiry in Manhattan before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel which was scheduled to resume yesterday morning at the New York County Court House was postponed until this morning to allow Isidor J. Kresel, special prosecutor, and members of his staff time to prepare evidence that will be brought out at the hearing.

WILL SIFT LABOR'S CHARGES

Jersey Board to Investigate Complaints Against Doctors.

A commission to inquire into complaints by labor leaders that physicians in the employ of the New Jersey Department of Labor were also accepting work from self-insuring employers organized at Newark yesterday. The commission was requested by State Labor Commissioner Andrew F. McBride.

Richard Hawthorne, representing the State Bar Association, is Chairman. Other members include Dr. John F. Haggerty, representing the State Labor Department; Henry Carless, representing the State Federation of Labor; C. N. Wheeler, representing the State Chamber of Commerce, and Edward L. Parker, a member of the State Social Service Bureau.

The first complaints will be taken up a week from tomorrow. Dr. McBride said yesterday he did not believe the commission would find flagrant cases of harm done to employes by the system complained of. He said that in a private investigation he found that the practice was not general and that Compensation Bureau Judges had been instructed that whenever a shadow of doubt arose after all testimony had been taken the petitioner was to receive the benefit of the doubt.

QUAI D'ORSAY HAS LAUGH.

Officials Ridicule Talk of a Guise-King Boris Wedding.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—Dispatches from Sofia saying that Foreign Minister Briand and Premier Poincaré were sponsoring the effort of a French Deputy to make a match between King Boris of Bulgaria and Princess Francoise, daughter of the Duke of Guise, claimant to the French throne, caused a guffaw that shook the Quai d'Orsay today.

Foreign Minister Briand is one of the founders of socialism in France and the Duke of Guise is head of the proscribed French royal family, so it would appear that the interests of the two could scarcely be reconciled.

The Foreign Minister today said laughingly of the Sofia reports: "That's a good way to export royalty, but I thought that had been accomplished by other means a good while ago."

Premier Poincaré was much too occupied with matters of State to take any notice of the reports.

Jack Latting of Pinehurst Dies in Auto Crash—Fiancee Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., July 9.—Jack Latting, 42, prominent peach grower and sportsman of Pinehurst, was killed and Mrs. Marion A. C. Galey of Southern Pines was injured, but not seriously, in an automobile accident near here today while on their way to Carthage, N. C., to obtain a marriage license.

The car skidded and went over an embankment. Mr. Latting's neck was broken. Mrs. Galey was reported suffering from the shock, but only slightly bruised.

Besides relatives in North Carolina Mr. Latting leaves a sister, Mrs. W. H. Shopwell of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a brother, Harry DeWolf Latting of New York City.

Mrs. Galey's family at one time held a controlling interest in the Philadelphia American League Baseball Club.

Mexican Bandit Chief Is Slain.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, July 9 (AP).—Travelers coming from the region of Tierra Blanca say that Mateo Amador, bandit chieftain who long operated in the State of Vera Cruz, was recently assassinated. It is believed that one of his followers killed him while he slept. His body was taken to Tierra Blanca and exhibited in the plaza. With the recent killing of Vidal Penorio, Amador's death removes the two principal bandit leaders in the State.

GRAFT HUNT TURNS TO CITY PURCHASES

Higgins Asks Data on Street Cleaning Supply Buying and on 'Sweeper Clerks.'

DRIVERS HOLD SINECURES

Records Fail to Show Extent of Ash Dumping on Public Land in Brooklyn Inquiry.

"Soft" berths in the Street Cleaning Department and recent purchases of supplies for the department without competitive bidding are to be made the subject of a separate inquiry, Commissioner of Accounts Higgins revealed yesterday at the close of another session of his city-wide investigation of that branch of the city service. Mr. Higgins had made another effort to get data on refuse dumping several years ago in the city-owned tract of the Coney Island Hospital by the Brooklyn Ash Removal Company, which has a contract with the Street Cleaning Department, when he ordered John J. O'Brien, chief clerk of the department, and John J. Devlin, in charge of the supplies bureau, to furnish to him a list of the uniformed men who had been holding down easy jobs and the list of emergency purchases made for the department in recent years.

"I want the list of district superintendents, foremen and assistant foremen who have details which do not call for actual street-cleaning work," the Commissioner told O'Brien. "I also want to know the identity of sweepers and drivers who are detailed as clerks, storekeepers, painters, mechanics and the like, and where they are working. I want to learn how many uniformed men there are who are not actually doing street-cleaning work."

Then, turning to Devlin, he said: "I want to know the amount of cash purchases—those of $25 and less—and also information on repairs, replacements and so forth where the amounts were under $1,000.

Sweepers Put on Clerical Work.

There had been testimony that sweepers and drivers were "detailed" to clerical work for which they had not been hired, and Devlin had revealed that he had authority to order articles for repairs and replacements, not to exceed $1,000 each.

From Thomas C. Ryan, appointment clerk in the department, Mr. Higgins sought to learn whether aliens had obtained appointments that should be given to citizens. Ryan testified that the Municipal Civil Service Commission controlled this phase of city employment.

When the Commissioner asked about refuse dumping in the hospital ground, Edward P. Green, superintendent of final disposition, promised to try to furnish data showing the number of loads dumped by the ash removal company since November, 1925.

James Dunn, clerk under Superintendent Green, had testified that the hospital ground had not been officially designated as a dump until November, 1927, and that the count of loads dumped there up to that time had not been separated from other records. Testimony indicated that thousands of loads must have been dumped there up to the time the tract officially was taken over as a dump, which might have effected a considerable saving in haulage for the company.

Data Sought in Manhattan.

Andrew C. McClure, supervising dump inspector in the Coney Island territory since February, 1927, said that he never received orders to inspect the dump, and denied that his infrequent visits constituted dereliction of duty. A sweeper had been assigned to check up the number of loads dumped by the ash removal company, he said, since the latter part of 1927.

Commissioner Higgins indicated that private interrogation of members of the uniformed street-cleaning force in Manhattan had to do with efforts to uncover instances of payroll padding and irregularities other than those of alleged grafting in snow removal, which he already had sent to District Attorney Banton for Grand Jury action.

Mr. Higgins yesterday did not take up the matter of the so-called "man higher up" in the Street Cleaning Department. He would not discuss the report that he knew who this man is, declaring that reticence on this point was necessary, because comment might interfere with his quest for evidence.

GOVERNOR SENDS FAWN BACK TO CRIPPLED BOY

Offers Indian Lake Lad Another and a Dog for Pets if He Wants Them.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 9.—"First Ballot," a fawn that was found near Indian Lake recently and presented to Governor Smith's zoo during the absence of the Executive, tonight was on his way back to Indian Lake. The Governor directed that the animal be sent to Charles S. Carroll, crippled son of the proprietor of a hotel at Indian Lake.

The fawn had been cared for by the boy's father for some time until officials of the Conservation Department took it away. Mr. Carroll alleged that it was removed unfairly, saying that some one was trying "to curry favor" with the Governor. He added that the crippled boy, who had made a pet of the animal, was almost heartbroken because it was gone.

Governor Smith knew nothing about the turn of affairs until Sunday; and he directed his secretary, George B. Graves, to get a complete report.

Secretary Graves obtained a report today and the Governor directed that a crate be procured and the fawn returned to the boy with his compliments. The Governor added that he would see to it that Mr. Carroll's son got a permit from the Conservation Department to keep the animal. He will add another fawn and a dog if the boy wants more pets.

Commissioner Llewellyn Legge, of the Conservation Department, said he did not know that the Carroll boy owned the fawn until he read it in the newspapers.

"Carroll got the State to pay for food for the fawn," he said, "and then objected because we wouldn't build a pen for it, so he tried to make political capital out of his boy's fawn."

WARREN DENIES VICE IS BAD AS REPORTED

cise the same surveillance over speak-easies that they did over saloons, and our investigators found speak-easies on the east side, the west side, midtown and many, many of them on Washington Heights."

Mr. Worthington reported increased police activity, and when asked if he had any recommendations to correct the situation disclosed by the report, said that if the police continued their present spurt there would be marked decrease in speak-easies within six months.

Finesse Curbs Expense Accounts.

He was asked how the committee functioned. He said that seven investigators, some on part time, had gathered the evidence. Three were professional vice hunters, who had been at it for ten to fifteen years. Others were amateurs, chiefly on part time. Their average expenditure per night had been $7.50, the lowest of the average being due to the skill and dexterity of the investigators in getting out of places.

"A great deal of finesse," observed Mr. Worthington, "is needed to get out, and the more experienced investigators give lessons to the new ones."

He added that he had not as yet any definite legislative remedies to suggest, but said that "if there were some way of putting the speak-easies out of commission, this problem of commercialized vice would largely cease to exist as far as the Committee of Fourteen is concerned."

District Attorney Banton, asked to comment on the report, said that the matter was one for the police. "If evidence of such things is handed to this office," he said, "we shall, of course, prosecute promptly and fully."

Poland Thinks Smith Is to Blame.

Orville S. Poland, head of the Legal Department of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, issued a statement on the report of the Committee of Fourteen, saying:

"The report of the Committee of Fourten confirms, practically in its entirety, the repeated contention of the Anti-Saloon League in respect to the responsiblity for the current era of liquor lawlessness in New York City. The newspaper excerpts from the committee report show the fine discrimination of the committee. It puts the blame squarely on Governor Smith. It neglected only to mention his name. It did, however, stipulate positively and unmistakably that vice conditions in New York are now worse than they have been at any time since prohibiton, and that the time of the increase in liquor lawlessness and its combination with vice is coincident with the signing of the repeal of the State Enforcement law by Governor Smith. The Committee of Fourteen says that it is only within about the past three years that these most disgraceful conditions have been as they are today. Governor Smith signed the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law five years ago which allows only for a normal time-lag until the cabaret and night club forces could perfect the technic of their business.

"The entire Committee of Fourteen's statement constituted a refutation of the philosophy of Governor Smith in his repeal message. It clearly indicates the absurdity of expecting a handful of Federal officers to do the work of a vast body of police, and is an indictment of Smith's policy of non-enforcement.

"A cheerful note is found in the fact that these places are so expensive that the committee went broke on one trip and couldn't make the second round. The indications are that their clientele must be fairly well limited to the butter and egg men."

"PEOPLE will read your message in the medium they seek and buy — the newspaper." ¶ "Newspapers, usually, are the best mediums for the advertising of banking institutions." ¶ "The newspaper should have clean editorial and advertising columns; should have a bona fide circulation, and not one built on premium schemes and other hothouse methods of making circulation grow while reader-interest is forgotten. The circulation you pay for won't benefit you unless it has the readers' interest with it, and we know this interest is most manifest in the people who buy the newspaper to read it."

— Extracts from the address of Samuel Judd, Publicity Manager of the Mercantile Trust Co., St. Louis, delivered at the 26th Annual Convention of the American Institute of Banking . . . Philadelphia, June 19th.

HERE, MR. JUDD, IS A NEWSPAPER BUILT TO THE BANKER'S SPECIFICATIONS . . .

In an Investment Market of Unusual Stability . . .

Philadelphia as a market is the third largest in America.

When figures are amplified by facts it becomes a market of even greater importance to the investment house and banker.

Philadelphia is a city of homes. The stabilizing influence of 600,000 homes in this market makes it safe, permanent, sure.

The man with a home has a responsibility. He has earning power and the investment habit. Saving is his second-nature!

He is the finest prospect for high-class securities. He is not the speculator, but the ultimate consumer who tucks securities into his strong-box and lets them mature.

He is not the floating, part-time worker, but the persistent accumulator of this world's goods.

He is the energy-producing factor in any community . . . and Philadelphia has a much higher-than-average percentage of his like.

Philadelphia has another unique factor which increases its importance to the banker.

Nearly every home can be reached through one newspaper at a low advertising cost: 600,000 homes — more than 500,000 daily sales of The Bulletin.

The Bulletin is a newspaper which people "seek and buy". A newspaper with "clean editorial columns". A newspaper with "reader-interest".

Bulletin readers are not headline scanners, for no scare-heads appear. It has no premium or contest circulation, for premiums and contests have never been used.

Every reader is a bona fide customer who daily buys and reads The Bulletin. More than half a million of them!

They live in wealthy suburb and modest city home. They are the permanent income class . . . the buying power . . . of Philadelphia, and they are overwhelming in their newspaper choice.

Here is a concentrated coverage,—which eliminates duplication and waste . . . a circulation that has grown steadily, unhurriedly through thirty-three years to its present dominant place.

A Gilt-edged Growth

The Bulletin, in 1895, had a few thousand readers. Carefully, unhurriedly, it has grown through the years to its present more-than-half-million total. Without premiums, prize or contests. Solely on its worth as a fine newspaper . . . . on its ability to win and hold readers by editorial merit and accurate news treatment. Nearly everybody reads The Bulletin. Today, in city and suburbs, it far exceeds any other newspaper's circulation; ranks among the great newspapers of America.

PULLMAN PORTERS SEEK STRIKE FUND

Union Men Want More Money and Will Set Date for Walkout.

NEGOTIATIONS AT END

Men Want Wages of $150 a Month, With All Tips Abolished.

The Policy Committee of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters met at the union's headquarters, 2,311 Seventh Avenue, yesterday with the business of setting a day for calling a nation-wide strike among the 11,000 members of the union before it. Plans are to be laid for organizing the 4,000 Pullman porters still outside the union, for raising a larger strike fund and destroying the company union.

In explaining the conference, A. Philip Randolph, general organizer, said:

"The clamor of the porters that a showdown by the Pullman Company be forced by a strike is so insistent that the Policy Committee must take some action with respect to fixing of the time for a strike." He added that the committee would continue deliberations until Friday, when its decisions will be made public.

"No more negotiations will be taken up with the United States Mediation Board," Mr. Randolph said. "Every effort has been made to secure a settlement of the dispute between the brotherhood and the Pullman Company, according to the provisions of the Railway Labor act, but to no avail. Now the organization is relying upon its economic power, namely, the strike."

Last May, when the union men voted 5,100 to 26 in favor of a strike June 8 was set for the walk-out, which was averted when William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, warned that economic conditions did not favor the move.

The union demands recognition, a minimum wage of $150 a month and a 240-hour month and abolition of the tip system.

The members of the Policy Committee are Roy Lancaster, Secretary-Treasurer of the brotherhood; Bennie Smith, field organizer; E. J. Bradley, St. Louis division organizer; N. P. Webster, Chicago division organizer; A. L. Totten and W. H. Des Verney, assistant general organizers, and Mr. Randolph.

SLAIN WITH AMERICAN WIFE

Assassins Kill Couple on Street Near Their Home in Beirut, Syria.

BEIRUT, Syria, July 9 (AP).—Kalill Saleeby and his American wife, who was a clerk in the United States Consulate here, were assassinated Saturday night on the street within a few yards of their doorway. The policeman who pursued the assassins also was killed.

An investigation is being conducted, but its results have not been announced. Mrs. Saleeby was formerly Carrie Erd of Lexington, Ky. The tragedy took place about 8 o'clock.

BERLIN FORBIDS ARMY TO SEE SOVIET FILM

Defense Minister Refuses to Bow to Critics and Upholds Officers' Ban on "Potemkin."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 9.—Despite the outcry in Liberal and Socialistic as well as Communistic circles against the measure, General Groener, Minister of Defense has upheld the action of his subordinate officers in placing military guards outside the movie theatre in which "The Cruiser Potemkin," a Russian revolutionary film, is being shown.

These sentries, who are dressed in civilian clothes, have prevented members of the Reichswehr from entering the theatre. No explanation has been given as to why this step was taken.

For a long time this Soviet film production had been barred from Berlin theatres, but when it was released more than a year ago it enjoyed a long run, and from a technical and artistic standpoint was well received. The present run is a Summer revival.

The Liberal press takes the stand that what the film censors pass Army officers must not forbid. General Groener's view is that he is allowed to run his army to suit himself so long as the men are not subjected to inhuman treatment. No one may question a Reichswehr officer's orders when he restricts his men to the confines of their barracks. Soldiers are not permitted to enter a number of hotel restaurants, although no complaint has been made by the public on this score. Therefore the Reichswehr heads see no grounds for complaint on the part of adherents of the Socialist and Radical Parties in pronouncing the theatre out of bounds.

The Radicals mean to bring the matter before the Reichstag in an attempt to prove that the officers are restricting the political liberty of the men.

NAMES YUGOSLAV PREMIER.

King Asks Minister to Berlin to Return and Form a Cabinet.

BELGRADE, July 9 (AP).—King Alexander tonight ordered Zhivojin Balugtchitch, Yugoslavian Minister to Germany, to return to Belgrade and form a Cabinet.

The summoning of M. Balugtchitch to form a new Cabinet is likely to prove satisfactory to the disaffected Croatian Peasant element in the tripartite kingdom. The new Prime Minister represented his country at Athens and Rome before being sent to Berlin. It was reported at the time of his transfer to Germany in February, 1927, that Italy had asked for his recall, asserting that he was holding secret meetings with Albanian refugees and that he had shown pro-Soviet leanings.

WOMAN LEAPS TO STREET.

Poised at Second Story as If in Prayer Before Jumping.

Ida Siech, 68 years old, climbed over a windowsill of her apartment on the second floor of 444 East Eighty-eighth Street shortly before seven o'clock yesterday morning, stood on the ledge over the doorway and jumped to the stoop, after holding her hands upraised as a diver and moving her lips as if in prayer.

Persons who saw her jump called Patrolman John Oliver, who summoned an ambulance, and she was taken to Reception Hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg and internal injuries.

Miss Siech lives with her 67-year-old brother, Aaron, an artist. Mrs. Louise Boos, the janitress, who entered the apartment to inform him of his sister's leap, found him asleep, a coffee pot boiling over and two irons on a range. No reason was known for her act.

Jail Rochester ace Track Man.

BATAVIA, N. Y., July 9 (AP).—J. Norman Beck of Rochester, race track manager, today began serving a 60-day sentence in the Genesee County jail for a violation of the State gambling laws. Convicted last December for operating a "donation and refund" system of betting at a Batavia race track, Beck appealed, but his plea was denied last week by the Appelate Division of the Supreme Court.

would show the court the speed with which the case had been put through, listing all American divorce cases under urgent business and using other devices to hasten a decree.

The clerks involved maintain that they accepted only 20 to 40 francs, which is the regular fee from attorneys for urgent cases. Various attorneys, charged with laxity in investigating the legal aspects of the clients' cases, reply that they had no way of being fully inofrmed except from their clients' statements.

The bailiffs are charged with carrying out the residential investigation purely on paper from the statements of the litigants and without conducting an investigation at their given domicile as the law prescribes.

Lawyers Say Fees were $125.

Many Americans who have obtained divorces in France may be surprised to learn that from the sworn statements of some French lawyers questioned their fees never exceeded a total of 3,000 francs, or a little more than $125.

These French attorneys stated that they did not know if their clients had also paid fees to American attorneys who do not appear in court, though they sometimes turn over such affairs to their French colleagues.

Judge Grenet, Vice President of the "divorce" court, is accused of negligence because, while his "moral probity cannot be questioned, he lacked foresight in failing to exact sufficient proof in the matter of residence and in failing to demand more thorough inquiries when it was evident that the cases being brought before his tribunal were assuming an abnormal character."

The attorneys who are to be tried before a disciplinary court are MM. Moreau, Prestat, Legrand, Nouel, Tual, Fichot and Burkhardt.

American Fees May Be Examined.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—The storm that has been hovering in French legal circles over the "American divorce mill" broke today when the Minister of Justice, Louis Barthou, approved a request for disciplinary action against lawyers and officials involved.

Whatever the outcome of the various disciplinary actions started today, the consensus of all legal opinion is that the developments in the case of the American "mill" will make French divorce courts unsafe for Americans desiring quick and painless legal separation.

The clerk of the court, M. Chibot, seems destined to bear the brunt of the penalties. He is reported ready to make a strenuous fight and to have declared that he will not "sink without leaving a trace through all the legal circles of Paris."

With regard to Americans who have received divorces in Paris, the general belief expressed in both French and American circles is that they need not worry. Colonel Leslie F. Naftzger, formerly a partner in the legal firm of Dudley Field Malone of Paris, but who has now opened an office of his own, said today:

"The only way decrees already granted could be invalidated would be for one of the parties to the action to have it reopened and prove that the decree should never have been granted."

American lawyers are not permitted to plead before French courts, and there would not be any possibility of any direct disciplinary action being taken against them during the Ministry of Justice's campaign.

It was declared after today's conference that no American lawyers were involved in the present investigation, although it was believed possible that unofficial steps might be taken to determine the amount of the fees they had collected in each case and the amount turned over to the French lawyer who appeared for them before the courts.

SIX MEN ARRESTED IN LIQUOR LEAK PLOT

Diversions Over 4-Year Period Charged to Employes of Cosmopolitan Warehouse.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY OPENS

3,680 Barrels, 6,981 Cases of Whisky and 3,304 Barrels of Alcohol Reported Tampered With.

The alleged diversion of 100,000 gallons of whisky and alcohol from a concentration warehouse here resulted a week ago in the arrest of six men charged with conspiracy, and the beginning of a Federal Grand Jury investigation which is now in progress. This was disclosed yesterday by Federal records and Robert B. Watts, assistant in charge of United States Attorney Tuttle's Prohibition Bureau.

While Prohibition Administrator Campbell, who previously had refused to discuss the matter, admitted yesterday "one instance" of diversion and "one Government storekeeper gauger implicated," he refused to identify the warehouse or the gauger. Mr. Watts, however, did not hesitate to name the gauger and others who had been charged with conspiracy, to say that the whisky and alcohol had been diverted from Concentration Warehouse No. 1 at 25-31 Rose Street.

That warehouse is operated by the Cosmopolitan Warehouse Corporation, of which Charles E. Heydt is President. Mr. Heydt, now an attorney at 2 Rector Street, formerly was a Commissioner of Elections and Republican district leader in the Ninth Assembly District. There is no complaint, however, against Mr. Heydt, nor does the evidence thus far gathered indicate that other than employes and outsiders were in the alleged conspiracy.

Permit Revoked Some Time Ago.

The permit under which the warehouse stored, bottled and distributed liquor for medicinal purposes was revoked by Prohibition Commissioner Doran some time ago. Following that the Government removed most of its liquor. As a result of that action, Mr. Heydt, setting forth that there had been a reorganization of the corporation, brought an action in equity seeking to have the Federal Court review the action of the prohibition officials. The suit was dropped later.

Mr. Watts, in an affidavit against the six men, charged that liquor had been diverted from January, 1924, until the men were taken into custody a week ago. The men arrested and the amounts of bail under which they are now at liberty are:

Thomas Sinclair, foreman at the warehouse, $3,500 bail; William Saam, gauger, $1,000; Paul Dondero, owner of a cafe at Frankfort and Rose Streets, $1,000; John Gilligan, superintendent of the building at 51-55 Rose Street, $500; Samuel Lanardi, a fireman in that building, $500, and Charles Sohn, watchman, $500. Saam is charged with having filed fictitious reports regarding the alcoholic strength of whisky which he analyzed. Sinclair lives at Harrison, N. Y. It was said prohibition agents visited his home but found there only a small quantity of liquor.

The charges against the six men were made, Mr. Watts said, after he had investigated complaints by Major Campbell. This investigation, he declared, disclosed that 3,680 barrels and 6,981 cases of whisky and 3,304 barrels of alcohol had been tampered with in the warehouse. The Government liquor stored there was removed to Concentration Warehouse No. 2, at Beach and Varick Streets, several months ago.

Although Saam is said to be an employe of the Cosmopolitan Warehouse Corporation, instead of a Government storekeeper gauger, he is believed to be the man referrd to in the following brief statement issued by Major Campbell yesterday:

"Since February last I have been conducting an investigation regarding the storage of spirits in bonded warehouses in this district. A regauge in February and May disclosed that in one instance a quantity of whisky and alcohol had disappeared from a bonded warehouse during a four-year period. The method of diversion has been discovered by my agents and was effectively stopped more than a month ago.

Army Warehouse Not Involved.

"Investigation is still in progress, and it appears that one Government storekeeper gauger is implicated. In view of the fact that this investigation is still incomplete, and in justice to all, I do not feel that I should identify any of the parties concerned. The Army Base Warehouse is not involved in this investigation."

The amount of spirits stored in the Cosmopolitan Warehouse, last reports stated, was 165,200 gallons of alcohol, 20,943 gallons of whisky in pint bottles and 176,640 gallons of whisky in barrels. Major Campbell's investigation is said to have disclosed that some barrels did not contain the amount of liquor they should have held, while in others water had been poured. Sinclair is alleged to have tapped about a dozen barrels with a siphon.

Additional arrests are expected, it was said at the Federal Building. Government agents are now trying to find out where the alleged diverted liquor went.

RACING PROMOTER FINED.

Sponsor of Cleveland Track Pleads Guilty to Gambling.

CLEVELAND, July 9 (AP).—A. K. Devereaux, President of the Forest City Livestock and Fair Company, which sponsors Grand Circuit racing in Cleveland, today entered a plea of guilty to charges of gambling and was fined $5 and costs, which were suspended.

Three other employes of the North Randall track, arrested with Devereaux, charged with operating gambling booths in connection with last week's Grand Circuit racing, received the same fines.

Indiana Parachute Jumper Killed.

SEYMOUR, Ind., July 9 (AP).—Everett Via, 22 years old, of Indianapolis, fell 300 feet to his death here yesterday when the third parachute in his triple parachute leap from a balloon failed to open. Via fell head first into a field, the body being buried two feet in the ground.

DECLARES LAWYER POINTED OUT SLATER

J. W. Hinckley, in Scotch Court, Questions Identification in Tombs 20 Years Ago.

COUNSEL SAYS MAID LIED

Informs Judges That Chief Witness Had Refused to Testify in Appeal Trial.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—Evidence of alleged irregularity in the identification of Oscar Slater while in the Tombs prison, was given by J. W. Hinckley, Assistant United States Marshal for the Southern District of New York, at the opening in Edinburgh today of Slater's appeal against his conviction twenty years ago for the murder of Miss Marion Gilchrist.

The appeal is being heard by five Judges in the same court where Slater was sentenced to death. The sentence was commuted to penal servitude for life and a few months ago Slater was released after spending eighteen and a half years in prison.

After Slater's arrest in America, Helen Lambie, Miss Gilchrist's maid, identified him as a man she saw leaving the house of the slain woman just after the murder.

Craigie Aitchison, Slater's lawyer, stated today that the maid, now Mrs. Gilian and believed to be living in Florida, had refused to come to court to testify, although everything had been done to persuade her to do so. Mr. Aitchison asked why the then Miss Lambie on seeing a strange man leaving the house did not ruah at once to the kitchen where she had left Miss Gilchrist.

"It leads us to this," he said, "that this woman Lambie is a lying witness. I suggest that she knew something which was never disclosed. Her conduct is inexplicable, except that either she had left a man in the house, or the man who passed her in the hall was some one she knew."

Assistant Marshal Pinckley, who is a giant in stature, then described how, when he passed through a corridor in the Tombs with Slater handcuffed to his wrist, the attorney acting for the British authorities in connection with the extradition proceedings had pointed to Slater and said to Miss Lambie:

"Is this the man?" or "that is the man."

"I was surely surprised at that," Hinckley said.

Autos Kill 864 in Canada in Year.

OTTAWA, July 9 (By the Canadian Press).—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports 864 accidental deaths in Canada due to automobile accidents in 1927, as against 606 in 1926, an increase of 42.6 per cent. The death rate from this cause for Canada as a whole was 9.1 per 100,000 populationin 1927, as compared with 6.5 in 1926. In the United States for 1926, the latest year for which figures are available deaths caused by automobiles numbered 23,294, or 18.2 per 100,000 population.

Real Ventilation Demands Circulation not Blowing

A BLOWER fan is all right—if you've got the time to pose before it. But AIRATOR makes you comfortable all the time—right at your desk. No blasts, no drafts, but just solid comfort, whether the thermometer outside is a hundred and ten in the shade or fifteen below zero. AIRATOR is a year 'round ventilator; not just a hot weather makeshift. Set it on desk or table anywhere and turn the switch. The entire room is cared for.

SAVORY AIRATOR

AIRATOR is different from any other ventilating device you ever saw. It gives 100% air movement without noise, draft or commotion. There's not a blast in a million revolutions. Its blades revolve horizontally, not vertically. They work by drawing in the fresh air and then sending it out again horizontally in all directions.

Ventilates by Diffusion

It replaces the used-up, worn-out air with the kind of stuff that's fit to breathe. It dissipates odors, tobacco smoke and exhalations. It sends the revitalized air to every corner of the room by diffusion instead of by direct draft.

Your dealer will be glad to demonstrate this simple, economical, portable ventilating unit. 'Phone him today.

107 STATIONS SEEK TO REMAIN ON AIR

Fifty-seven of 164 Ordered Off Fail to Protest to Radio Commission.

SOCIALISTS FIGHT FOR WEVD

Norman Thomas Says Its Elimination From Campaign Would Be Un-American.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—One hundred and seven of 164 stations ordered by the Federal Radio Commission to quit the air on Aug. 1 answered at a roll-call today as ready to show cause why they should be permitted to survive. Ten of the protesting stations expect to consolidate.

Having completed its docket at today's session the commission began to hear cases, one of the most conspicuous being that of station WEVD, the Socialist and Labor station of New York City. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, and G. August Geiber, Secretary of the Debs Memorial Radio Fund, owners and operators of the station, appeared before the commission.

Mr. Thomas asserted that now, of all times, the commission should allow the station to remain on the air when great political issues are to be discussed. He said that if the commission should squelch the Socialist station it would, in effect, be trying to censor the station for what it was broadcasting.

"If WEVD is taken off the air and, in fact, is not treated on a parity with others who are richer and more influential," said Mr. Thomas, "the people of this nation can truly recognize that radio, which might be such a splendid force for the honest clash of ideas, is nothing but a tool to be used by the powerful against any form of disagreement or any species of protest."

Mr. Gerber, who presented the main case for the station, said that during the life of the present Federal Radio Commission the number of stations operated by mercantile, manufacturing and other profit-making enterprises had risen from 58 to 75 per cent.

Mr. Gerber thought that the burden of proof as to why the station should quit the air was on the commission rather than on the station. He presented petitions from individuals in twenty-nine organizations representing 850,000 persons, who, he said, were asking the commission not to revoke the station's license.

D. F. Pfeffer of Station KGDM of Stockton insisted that his station is operating in the public interest and presented petitions signed by 7,000 listeners.

Only one station in the New York zone, WIBA, will be heard tomorrow. Other stations to be heard tomorrow are WQJ, KDLR, WEHS, WGWB, WOMT, WKBZ, WRAX, WFBE, WIBA, WBRE, WTAD and WIBC.

The stations in Zone 1 for which hearings have been set are:

July 11—WSGH, WSDA, WIBS, WBMS, WKBO, WHPP and WTRL.

BREAKS 8-FOOT LAW, DRIVER GETS $100 FINE

Court Tells Youth Who Hit Girl Getting Off Car That Offenses Are Increasing.

Declaring that violations of the eight-foot law are steadily increasing and that many persons injured by automobiles are victims of those who violate this law, Magistrate Leo Healy fined Jacob Silverstein, 21 years old, of 285 South Third Street, $100 yesterday in Homicide Court.

Patrolman Jacob Weiss testified that he had seen Silverstein following a Reid Avenue trolley car so closely on Utica Avenue, near Eastern Parkway, that when a girl alighted from the car she was brushed by a fender of Silverstein's car. Silverstein pleaded guilty.

The Magistrate turned to Silverstein.

"Have you a sister?" he asked.

Silverstein nodded.

"Well, how would you like to see your sister killed by some wild driver?" asked the Court. "I tell you there has been entirely too much of this going on and I am going to take some measure to see that it is stopped."

Silverstein declared he had thought the trolley was not going to stop at Eastern Parkway and he would have a chance to pass it.

"I say there has been entirely too much of this flagrant disregard for the law," Magistrate Healy repeated. "You and lots of others know there is an eight-foot law, but mighty few of you think it ought to be lived up to. In such weather as this when the streets are packed with automobiles driven by persons who will not live up to the law but continue to menace human life, something must be done."

DRY 'INVESTIGATOR' TRIED.

Former Bellerose Realty Man Charged With Assault.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 9.—David L. Berman, 35 years old, of 9,239 245th Street, Bellerose, self-confessed "lone wolf prohibition investigator," went on trial here today before County Judge Smith on a charge of first degree assault, made by Carmine Minardi of Bellport, who said that on June 6 while traveling along the motor parkway in Central Park, L. I., Berman followed him, fired a shot to stop him, and hit him on the shoulder with the butt of the revolver after he had stopped.

When Berman was called to the stand, he declared that he had followed Minardi in the belief that Minardi had liquor in his car. Under questioning by District Attorney Edwards, Berman admitted that he left the real estate business two years ago to become a prohibition investigator. He was never appointed, he said, but was given to understand that if he "made good" he might hope for an appointment.

Trial was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

FELIX M. WARBURG BACK.

Banker Says Developments in Palestine Are Encouraging.

Felix M. Warburg, banker, returned yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland from London, where he attended a meeting of an impartial commission selected by the Jewish Agency and the Zionist Organization to evaluate the financial standing and the properties in connection with the development of Palestine. He was accompanied by Mrs. Warburg and his sister, Dr. Louise Derenberg of Hamburg.

Mr. Warburg said he regarded the developments in Palestine as encouraging. During his visit to Berlin, Mr. Warburg said, he had reports on the progress of the Jewish colonies in Southern Russia. He said that despite earlier fears of bad crops, he had learned the crops would be on a par with last year.

"In Russia," the banker continued, "there is progress in farming, but little or none in industry. If the pattern set by the farmers were adopted for industry, then Russia would quickly progress."

Another passenger on the Deutschland was Mme. Josephine de Chacon, wife of the President of Guatemala, who placed her four children in school in S'tzerland before sailing. She left on the Congressional Limited for Washington to spend a day with the Minister for Guatemala and his wife before going to New Orleans to embark for Puerta Barrios on the steamship Abrongarez.

Clears Indian Agent of Impropriety.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 9 (AP).—B. E. Brigance, Indian Agent on the Deep Creek Reservation in Western Utah, today was cleared of charges that he made improper advances toward Goshute Indian girls. Herbert H. Fisk, special inspector for the Indian Bureau, said he found the charges "untrue, and were made in an effort to have him removed." Other charges of the Goshutes, that Mr. Brigance had misused tribal funds and had been negligent in dealing with an influenza epidemic, remain. Mr. Brigance contended that the unrest was caused by his demand that the Goshutes employ the white man's wedding ritual instead of the tribal ceremony, which he said was closely akin to "companionate marriage."

EUROPEANS AMAZED BY DAMROSCH PLANS

Broadcasting of Concerts and Lectures for Schools Unheard Of Abroad, He Says.

"RAYFOTO" SYSTEM SHOWN

First Public Demonstration of Sending and Receiving of Pictures Is Given Here.

European musicians and educators are amazed at the magnitude of America's plan to broadcast musical instruction this Fall to millions of school children over a country-wide network of radio stations, according to Walter Damrosch, conductor and director of the radio course, who has returned from a vacation abroad. On Oct. 26 the twenty-four weeks course will open over a network of at least twenty-eight stations headed by WJZ. Dr. Damrosch will lecture and lead a large orchestra weekly. The presentations are being interwoven with the regular curricula of many schools throughout the country.

"Nothing has been done along this line in Europe and I found no schools equipped with radios," said Dr. Damrosch. "This probably is due largely to the great spaces of Europe being divided by many boundaries and languages. The programs are mainly local in nature. My friends in Europe were aghast at the magnitude of our plan to teach music to millions of pupils in this country over the radio."

Through the children Dr. Damrosch hopes to stimulate the musical activity and taste of the entire nation.

The first public demonstration of the Cooley "Rayfoto" system of picture broadcasting and reception was given here yesterday in the Hotel Mayflower. Edgar H. Felix, vice president of the Radiovision Corporation, 62 West Thirty-ninth Street, which controls the Cooley patents, announced the beginning of quantity production of the apparatus in kit form for home constructors.

The apparatus demonstrated transmitted and received four by five inch pictures in less than three minutes each. Radio pictures by this system, invented by Austin G. Cooley, are now being transmitted over WMCA between 11 and 11:30 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and between 9:30 and 10:15 P. M. on Wednesdays. The system is also being used by radio stations in Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Scranton, Toronto and Winnipeg, and is to be used soon by other broadcasters, according to Mr. Felix. The demonstrations will be continued through today.

TEXAS PASTOR'S PLEA FAILS

Dallas Baptists' Counsel Withdraws Application for Habeas Corpus.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 9 (AP).—Efforts to obtain the release of the Rev. Earl Anderson, Fundamentalist Baptist preacher in jail at Dallas for violating an injunction restraining erection of a tabernacle there, failed today before the Supreme Court.

Henry G. Wills, the pastor's attorney, presented an application for permission to seek a writ of habeas corpus but after conferring informally with the Court in Executive session, withdrew it.

Neither Mr. Wills nor the Judges would explain for publication the effect of the action, but it was believed the Court definitely declined to intervene in the affair. Mr. Wills did not go to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

'YACHT ON WHEELS' TO BE SHOWN HERE

British Engineer Brings Super-Caravan for Use on a Hunt in Rockies.

HAS FOUR COMPARTMENTS

Vehicle Contains Ice Chest, Berths, Lockers and a Ship's Range—Weighs Four Tons.

Sweltering in the New York heat after leaving London on June 30 in a period of chilly weather, Melville Hart, a consulting engineer and naval architect of St. Stephen's House, Westminster, London, arrived yesterday morning on the Minnewaska of the Atlantic Transport Company, Ltd., with a luxurious house on wheels known as a "Flatavan," designed for hunting in the Rockies.

Mr. Hart will deliver the "land yacht," which is mounted on a Reo automobile chassis, to Glenn Stewart of Easton, Md., the purchaser. This "super caravan" will be on display tomorrow at the service rooms of the Reo Motor Car Company, 625 West Fifty-fifth Street. It is credited with being the first Anglo-American automotive combination of the kind in the United States, having an American chassis and an English built body.

The van has an over-all length of 24 feet. The actual body length, however, is only 17 feet 6 inches. The width is 7 feet 6 inches, and the weight is just over four tons. It is divided into four compartments—saloon, lavatory, kitchen and driving compartment. A searchlight with a range of one mile is fitted on the roof and underneath the van are water and gasoline tanks, as well as an ice chest and a cold storage locker. Mr. Hart said the caravan is capable of a speed of forty-five miles an hour.

The saloon is paneled in walnut, has an embossed green tinted roof, mauve and gold upholstery and curtains, and sponge rubber flooring. It contains two settees that may be transformed into berths, lockers beneath the seats, a sideboard, two wardrobes, a gun cupboard, glass and decanter cabinets, many lockers, including a secret one for valuables; an electric fireplace, hand-painted electric lamp shades and reading lamp, a clock, a barometer and altitude meter, and inlaid wood pictures.

The kitchen, which is tiled in black and white, contains a ship's cooking range fitted with an oven and hot water tank, a sink, cupboards for cooking utensils, a plate rack, water filter, and pumps for water supply.

The driving compartment is paneled in light oak. The driver's seat may be converted into a berth. It also has lockers.

POLLS ROADSIDE SENTIMENT

Alderman Found Most of Those Queried on Tour for Smith.

Farmers, gasoline station employes and casual roadside acquaintances in New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania told Alderman Patrick J. McCann of Brooklyn that they were going to vote for Governor Smith in the coming Presidential election, the Alderman said last night.

Alderman McCann has recently returned from an automobile tour to Canada on which he questioned everybody he could how they felt about the Smith-Hoover tickets. He said he asked between seventy and one hundred persons including farmers and pedestrians along the highways, waiters and cashiers in restaurants, and other tourists, and he found only three who said they were for Hoover.

He said that his "census" made him all the more confident that Smith would win the election, and that he was surprised to pick up such favorable comment from the mountain districts of Pennsylvania.

FILM CENSORS POWERLESS.

Their Prohibitions Without Effect in New Jersey, Court Holds.

Special to the New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 9.—Motion picture censorship boards in municipalities in New Jersey have no power to prevent the showing of any film which any theatre owners may wish to exhibit, Vice Chancellor Edmund Leaming decided in Chancery Court here today. He held that the Legislature never had authorized cities to use their police powers to stop the exhibitions.

An injunction was issued restraining the Camden Board of Censors and the police from preventing the showing of "The Road to Ruin," a picture that was to have started at the Towers Theatre on June 7 but was censored by the board. The injunction was issued on an appeal by the distributers, True Life Photoplays, Inc., of New York.

Baron William Edward de Ropp.

GLENDALE, Cal., July 9 (AP). — Baron William Edward de Ropp, in pre-war times a prominent member of the Russian-Lithuanian nobility, died in a hospital here today after a long illness.

Baron de Ropp was born in Lithuania in 1865, where he spent the greater part of his life. He was an authority on European farming and dairying.

He came to this country in 1915 to study American educational systems. During his stay the old Russian regime was overthrown and the Baron's return made impossible.

His widow, Madame Ottily de Ropp, who lived with him here, and a son, Egon de Ropp, who is still in Lithuania, survive.

Frederick S. Lamb.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Frederick S. Lamb, artist and city planner, whose home was in Berkeley, to which place he moved from New York, died today. He had been stricken ill a few hours earlier at his Summer place on the Noyo River, ten miles from Fort Bragg. His son, Harold A. Lamb, an author, of Berkeley, was with him. His age was 65. Funeral services will be held in Berkeley.

Alpine Ferry Service Resumed.

Regular full time ferry service between Yonkers and Alpine, N. J., which was interrupted last Friday morning when a landslide caused by a cloudburst tore away 100 feet of the Henry Hudson Drive of Interstate Park leading to the Alpine ferry slip, has now been resumed. A trestle has been built for motor traffic over the portion of the Palisades roadway torn away and the regular 6 A. M. to midnight ferry schedule is now running.

OPENS MUSIC SCHOOL TO TEST A NEW IDEA

Teachers College Enrolls Nearly 100 Children for Intensive Training.

The new Music Demonstration School connected with Teachers College, Columbia University, started yesterday morning with almost a hundred children between the ages of eight and fifteen enrolled for five weeks of training. According to Professor Alice E. Bivins, who is in charge, this is the first school of its kind ever attempted in this country. More than 150 students in Teachers College will observe the classes.

The project is being carried out in the Lincoln School, 123d Street, between Morningside and Amsterdam Avenues. Among the activities offered are song singing, reading of music, rhythmic expression, class lessons in piano and orchestral instruments, orchestra and band ensemble and the actual making of instruments. There are afternoon "hobby hours," in which each child takes up his favorite phase of music.

Grades will not be given to the children, as in regular public schools, but they will be advanced as their ability increases. At the end of the session, the faculty in charge of the school hope to have definite results on the effectiveness of an intensive musical education for children.

In conjunction with the demonstration school, a symphony orchestra for children of high school age has been organized. It includes 150 selected boys and girls from all parts of greater New York.

Rudolph Thomas, Assistant Director of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, is in charge of the orchestra. Visiting directors will instruct the children for one week each. Among the visiting directors are Willem van Hoogstraten, Director of the Philharmonic Symphony Stadium Concerts; Arthur Shepherd, Assistant Director of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, and Nicolai Sokoloff, Director of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra. Public performances will be given by the symphony orchestra at the end of the second, fourth and sixth weeks.

OLD FARCE BLOOMS ANEW.

"The Lawyers' Dilemma" Is No Better Than "Babies a la Carte."

THE LAWYERS' DILEMMA, a comedy in three acts, by Seaman Lewis. Staged by the management. Produced by S. L. Simpson. At the Belmont Theatre.

Nettie Nay	Isabel Dawn
John Lawson	Hal Munnts
R. T. Dial	Robert G. Pitkin
Betty Kidder	Mary Mead
Jim Kidder	Robert Toms
J. P. Berry	Lee Beggs
Tony	David Manning

The pernicious habit of bringing back previous theatrical failures under other names was continued in last night's heat at the Belmont Theatre. This time it was the farce known as "Babies a la Carte" when it was presented last August at Wallack's which returned under the only moderately deceptive title of "The Lawyers' Dilemma."

The current version has been considerably touched up and given new actors and new scenery. But it cannot be said that any of these changes have bettered the play, granting in the first place that anything could have bettered the production made at Wallack's last Summer.

On that occasion THE TIMES said that "Babies a la Carte" was "as childish, pointless and unfunny a farce as could possibly be evolved from a central idea which, although familiar stock material of the theatre, is not without its possibilities." There seems to be no reason for amending that description this morning in behalf of "The Lawyers' Dilemma."

The players worked at top speed last night and managed to stir up considerable fuss about nothing. Most of them went about their tasks as if they were performing the book of a musical comedy, and they might well have been. The author, billed as Seaman Lewis, is generally thought to be S. L. Simpson, the producer. Perhaps he deserves some credit for sheer bravado in venturing upon the torrid sands of Broadway at this season of the year.

FARNSWORTH, LOSER, QUITS

Says Baltimoreans Lack Taste for Art in the Theatre.

Special to the New York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 9.—Dissatisfied with financial losses and the amusement taste of Baltimoreans as he saw it, William P. Farnsworth, co-producer with Edwin H. Knopf Jr. of the Auditorium theatre players, has unexpectedly disbanded the company after twenty-two weeks. Many of the players left for New York today.

"Since our company has been in Baltimore it has not been out of the red," Mr. Farnsworth said, referring to his losses. "We have tried to give Baltimore only the best in entertainment, but our efforts have been fruitless.

"We came to Baltimore because we thought that here was the one city in the country for real art productions. Figures are interesting. 'Cradle Snatchers' brought a weekly gross of $7,000.25; 'Her Cardboard Lover,' $6,576.50, and 'The Captive,' $10,249.75. But the real artistic plays brought discouraging results. 'The Czarina' resulted in gross receipts of $4,259.50; 'Mr. Pim Passes By,' $4,141.25, and 'He Who Gets Slapped,' $3,089.50.

"These figures prove that Baltimoreans want dirt and not art in the theatre. I am greatly disappointed."

DISSENSION IN 'DIAMOND LIL'

Mae West and Play Producer at Odds, but Star Will Continue.

Dissension between Mae West, star of "Diamond Lil," and Jack Linder, producer of that play, which has been Broadway gossip for some time, became public yesterday when Mr. Linder issued a long statement in which he accused Miss West of trying to control the business affairs of the production and otherwise exceeding her rights as principal player.

Mr. Linder claimed that he had taken the matter up with the Actors' Equity Association. That organization, it was said yesterday, cannot act unless the star closes the show or otherwise breaks her contract. Miss West stated last night that she had no intention of withdrawing from the attraction.

"Roxy," 46, Has Surprise Party.

S. L. Rothafel ("Roxy") celebrated his forty-sixth birthday yesterday. The organization of the Roxy Theatre gave him a surprise party, presenting him with a set of traveling bags. His ordinary routine made up the rest of the day.

THE SCREEN

THE LOVES OF JEANNE NEY, with Edith Jehanne, Brigitte Helm, Hertha von Walther, Otto Henning, Fritz Kampers, A. E. Licho, Eugen Jensen, Hans Jaray and Wladimir Sokoloff; news reel, "The Skating Carnival at St. Moritz," and Chaplin revival, "The Vagabond." At the Cameo.

The scene of Jeanne shifts meekly and without much purpose from the Russia of the so-well-known revolution to the boulevards of Paris. As it goes it takes in fighting, sorrow, happiness and a robbery of sections of the Romanoff crown jewels.

Nevertheless, there are times when the acting of various persons in the cast swings the picture into something more valuable than the story itself can give. There is also a bit of good camera work doing its part to raise the level of the tale.

Edith Jehanne, as Jeanne, runs up against the unfortunate situation of having to face the greater number of impassable barriers, and hence she glides, rather than acts, her way through. At the same time she does not overact—a temptation which under the circumstances might easily be overwhelming.

A. E. Licho, as Jeanne's uncle, gives a good performance. The character he takes is a miserly detective, and the scene in which he is portrayed as counting the money he expects to realize from the sale of a diamond is most able, both as acting and photography.

The rest of the program includes a good hot-weather picture of ice skating, and the old Chaplin picture "The Vagabond."

THE GRIP OF THE YUKON, with Neil Hamilton, Francis X. Bushman, June Marlowe, Theodore Lorch, Otis Harlan, James Farley and Burr McIntosh; news reel, Aesop's fable, vaudeville. At the Hippodrome.

This portrait is all about two prospectors, one madman, one bad man, one virtuous maiden and a number of cabaret women who apparently never had the benefits of a fashionable education. The plot has, needless to remark, been shown for a number of years here and there under different names.

The two prospectors arrive in the middle of a snowstorm at the house of another prospector, who had gone mad thinking about gold. In the course of the night this third man is killed (the marshal eventually said it was in self-defense) and the two stake out the dead man's claim.

Then the daughter of the late prospector comes to the Yukon. No one meets her, so she goes to a hotel to wait for her father and runs up a large bill—not cigarettes and mineral water, however, for she isn't that kind. She owes so much finally that the villain attempts to have her become just a cabaret girl. At this point the two prospectors enter again, shooting.

Some time later Mr. Bushman decides that the girl is in love with his partner, so he heroically gives himself over to justice for the murder of her father. But the marshal is an intelligent man, and soon is able to persuade Mr. Bushman that he shot in self-defense, as, indeed, he did. The last we see of our friends is when two of them are in each other's arms and the third is stalking grimly away over the frigid skyline.

TED LEWIS BRINGS CHEER TO THE PALACE

Conducts His Musicians Through Mazes of Syncopation—Adele Rowland in Songs.

The chief excitement of the new Palace entertainment yesterday afternoon was Ted Lewis, an expert showman in any kind of weather, who is appearing with his, in manner of speaking, musicians. Mr. Lewis, still attired in dinner clothes and battered high hat, retails songs in high pressure fashion and conducts his satellites through the mazes of syncopation in a manner apparently satisfactory to the cash customers. Expert vendors of the more elemental sentiments in harmonic form, Mr. Lewis and his associates were held in high esteem yesterday by an audience which, up to their appearance, had not found much to cheer about.

Adele Rowland is another somebody in the program. She runs pleasantly enough through a routine of songs, but seems destined to inspire almost no dancing in the streets. The "fly" comedy of Will Ahern was again an amusing feature of the act staged, in the main, by him and sister Gladys. Coram, one of the best ventriloquists making the rounds of the music halls, is also present, as is the team of White and Tierney, which could do with better material.

Nitza Vernille, the dancer, is the headliner of the Hippodrome's vaudeville, which also includes May Usher, Harris and Van, Jack Hanley and the Colleanos. Frank Farnum in a tabloid revue is the principal attraction at the Broadway, while Loew's State bills Bobby Henshaw.

"Varieties" at the Eltinge Monday.

A combination of vaudeville and revue specialties called "Varieties" is scheduled to open at the Eltinge Theatre next Monday night under the sponsorship of Frank Martins, Inc. Ten or more acts will be presented, among the contributors being Marguerite Sylva, Bothwell Browne, the Piccadilly Band, Jay Seiler and Frank Hughes and girls.

Jewish School Hears Dr. Burnshaw.

America is fast replacing Europe in leadership in social welfare, due to superior man power and money power, Dr. Max Burnshaw of London told twenty-five young men and women from various parts of the country who yesterday began a fifteen months' graduate course in communal leadership at the training school for Jewish social work, a national institution which celebrated coincidentally removal to new school quarters in the Federation Building, 71 West Forty-seventh Street.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Both "Burlesque" and "Paris Bound" will end their New York engagements on Saturday night, the Arthur Hopkins office announced yesterday. The two plays will be taken on tour next season with the Broadway casts practically intact.

When "The Ladder" reopens tomorrow night at the Cort Theatre at the usual box office prices, the policy in effect last Summer will be continued. Any ticket purchaser dissatisfied with the play will be refunded his money at the end of the performance.

Janet Gibbs of the Baltimore Play-Arts Guild production of "Patience," will, it is announced, join "The Greenwich Village Follies," when the Gilbert and Sullivan revival finishes its run.

Carolyn Nolte, Dave Burns, Tommy Havel and the Ten Ebony Steppers are among those recently engaged for the musical comedy, "Just a Minute," which will be produced here about Labor Day by Morris & Green.

"Say When" has ended its engagement at the Morosco Theatre. It was reported last night that the musical comedy might reopen after the hot spell.

Ivan Simpson and Lumsden Hare have been engaged for "Dishonored Appointment," which Herman Shumlin will present here in October.

"Free-For-All" will be revived tonight by the East Side Stock Company at the American Laboratory Theatre.

PAINTINGS IN THEATRE SEIZED BY SUMNER

Two Nudes by Paramount Doorman in 5th Av. Playhouse Bring Manager's Arrest.

John S. Sumner, Secretary of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, walked into the Fifth Avenue Playhouse yesterday with a search warrant. He had come, he said, because of three or four complaints against two pictures painted by Arch Bonge, the six-foot-six-inch doorman of the Paramount Theatre. He said he had been told the pictures were hung in the lounge room of the Playhouse.

I. Cohen, manager of the theatre, took Mr. Sumner into the lounge and Mr. Sumner looked at the pictures. He had them confiscated, and directed a policeman to arrest Mr. Cohen. The theatre manager must appear tomorrow in Third District Court at Second Avenue and Second Street. Mr. Cohen said he asked Mr. Sumner if he had ever visited the Metropolitan Museum of Art. "Yes, I think so," the Secretary of the Society for the Suppression of Vice was said to have replied.

The theatre manager said it was the policy of the Playhouse to permit young artists to hang their pictures in the lounge free of charge. Mr. Bonge's pictures, both nudes, had been there for two weeks.

Mr. Cohen said artists who had been accepted by the critics as first-rate had told him that Bonge's pictures were "art—pure and simple." He said he had told Mr. Sumner that if he had received a single complaint he would have removed the paintings, and even offered to take them down at the behest of the Society for the Suppression of Vice. "But Mr. Sumner chose the more sensational course," Mr. Cohen said, "and so I'll appear in court."

Mr. Cohen said no children were allowed in the Fifth Avenue Playhouse. He couldn't quite make out, he said, how the morals of adults would be impaired by Bonge's work.

Mr. Bonge, a "college-trained movie doorman," became famous on May 23 when it was discovered that he had paid his way through the Art Institute in Chicago for three years by working as a doorman at the Roosevelt Theatre there. Before his art career started, he had gone to the University of Nebraska. There he was on the football, basketball, baseball and track teams. Mr. Bonge said he had refused the art editorship of a magazine to take up his doorman's job at the Paramount.

ADELE ASTAIRE FACES WEEK IN HOSPITAL

Dancer, Burned on Leeds's Speedboat, 'Doing Nicely'—Owner Treated at Home.

Adele Astaire, the dancer who was burned about the face and body Sunday in Oyster Bay, L. I., when backfire ignited gasoline seepage in the hull of William B. Leeds's speedboat, It the 2d, will have to remain in the New York Hospital, 8 West Sixteenth Street, for a week or more, it was said yesterday at that institution.

Miss Astaire was painfully but not seriously burned. It was not determined yesterday whether it would be necessary to graft any skin on her face or body. Her attendants said Miss Astaire requires mostly rest.

Mr. Leeds, who was also burned, is being treated at his home in Oyster Bay. He hopes to be about soon.

The speedboat, one of the finest of its kind on the sound, was destroyed by the fire. The gasoline became ignited while the boat was still at the Leeds dock while Mr. and Mrs. Leeds and a party of friends were about to leave for a ride on the sound.

Mr. Leeds said yesterday the loss of the boat by fire was of less concern to him than if the accident had happened to his speedboat "Fantail," on which early reports had placed the accident. The "Fantail" is a hydroplane speed boat having a specially designed stern to increase its speed. This boat is at present undergoing repairs and is in drydock.

In the afternoon Mrs. Leeds, the former Princess Xenia, called at the hospital and inquired for Miss Astaire. She was assured the dancer was "doing very nicely."

AIRPLANE TRIP FOR CRITICS

Mrs. A. H. Woods to Take San Francisco Reviewers to Los Angeles.

Mrs. A. H. Woods, who is now in San Francisco, will take the dramatic critics of that city to Los Angeles by airplane tomorrow afternoon to see the Pacific Coast Company of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," the Woods office announced yesterday. The play will soon open in San Francisco.

The airplane, which has been obtained through the courtesy of J. Talbot, will leave tomorrow morning, arriving in Los Angeles before the matinee. Luncheon will be served en route. The return trip will be made immediately after the performance so that the reviewers will be back in San Francisco about eight o'clock.

CITY BREVITIES.

A two weeks' midsummer conference for ministers and lay religious workers at Union Theological Seminary, Broadway and 120th Street, opened last evening.

The Right Rev. Theophilus Momolu Gardiner, Suffragan Bishop for the American Protestant Episcopal Church in Liberia, West Africa, arrived here yesterday to attend the triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church to be held at Washington, D. C., in October.

Homer Croy, novelist, arrived yesterday aboard the Santa Luisa from Chilean and Peruvian ports.

URGES GOOD DEEDS ON ELKS

Plans for Philanthropic Institution —Hulbert for Head of Order.

MIAMI, July 9 (AP).—A plea for the creation within the Elks' organization of an institution that would mould into deeds beneficial to mankind "the generous impulses and lofty ideals of our order," by John F. Malley, retiring Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, opened its sixty-fourth annual convention of the association tonight.

Declaring that "we are here to lay the foundation of a temple of philanthropy with a dome so vast that it will cover the entire nation," Mr. Malley announced the proposed establishment of a permanent endowment fund which eventually, he said, would accumulate to such proportion that the annual yield from its investments would substantially promote and support the programs of good deeds which the lodges throughout the country have undertaken in their respective territories.

Election of officers and selection of next year's convention city will come tomorrow, with Murray Hulbert, New York lawyer, virtually assured the post of Grand Exalted Ruler for the ensuing year and Los Angeles a favorite for the next meeting.

C. D. HENRY HAS RELAPSE.

Specialists Are Called to Placerville, Cal., for Mrs. Hoover's Father.

PLACERVILLE, Cal., July 9 (AP).—Two specialists were called from San Francisco to Placerville last night to attend C. D. Henry, father-in-law of Herbert Hoover, Republican Presidential nominee. Mr. Henry, who has been ill here for several days, was reported to have suffered an adverse change in condition.

Physicians attending Mr. Henry say he has lost the power of speech and use of his right side. He suffered a light stroke of apoplexy following a heart attack while camping near Placerville.

Mrs. Hoover, in Washington, was advised of her father's condition by Mrs. A. V. Laige, Mrs. Hoover's sister of Palo Alto. Mr. Henry's home is in Monterey, Cal.

While physicians today said that Mr. Henry's condition was satisfactory and that he had a good chance for recovery, they believed progress probably would be slow due to his advanced age. He is 84 years old.

AIR CRASH INQUIRY STARTED

Federal Bureau and County Sift Fatal Spring Lake Accident.

Special to the New York Times.

SPRING LAKE HEIGHTS, N. J., July 9.—Investigations were started today by officials of the United States Aeronautic Bureau and Monmouth County detectives into the plane crash here Sunday night in which a man and woman were killed and the pilot seriously injured.

The man and woman who were killed in a passenger carrying flight were C. P. McCormack, mining engineer of Cleveland, and Mary Jobling, English motion picture actress, living at 129 East Fifty-sixth Street, New York City.

Mr. McCormack had been stopping at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York, since his recent return from Russia and had planned to return to Cleveland today. The actress's family live in England. She was identified by a picture in a New York newspaper.

Lieutenant H. Saki, pilot of the plane, was reported to be slightly improved at the Ann May Hospital, Spring Lake, where he is suffering from shock, a broken nose and lacerated face.

AMERICAN FOUND SLAIN.

John Swetina Bound and Strangled at Steindorf, Austria.

VIENNA, July 9 (AP).—The body of a man about 45, believed to be an American, was found by police today at Steindorf, a holiday resort in the Province of Carinthia. The man was apparently murdered, as the hands were tied and death was due to strangulation.

A Bible printed in the United States and two letters of credit on a New York bank for $1,000 each, made out in the name of John Swetina, were found in a coat pocket. There was no other mark of identification.

Woman Killed by Train.

Mrs. Conjetta Matoli, 68 years old, of 216 Grace Church Street, Port Chester, was crushed to death at the Mount Vernon Station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad yesterday morning when she slipped and fell beneath the wheels of a train that was pulling into the station. The platform was filled with New York commuters several of whom tried to drag her to safety when she slipped. John Matoli, her husband was taken to the Mount Vernon Hospital suffering from shock.

National Registration Body Clears Paddock of Charges of Professionalism

PADDOCK CLEARED; TO RUN IN OLYMPICS

National Committee Accepts Previous Exoneration by the Southern Pacific A. A. U.

STAR RECEIVED NO MONEY

TEMPLETON PLANS PROTEST

Stanford Coach to Charge Nichols Failed to Qualify Because Hurdle Was Misplaced.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Charles W. Paddock of California was exonerated of charges of professionalism yesterday and is free to compete at Amsterdam as a member of the United States Olympic team.

Paddock appeared at Amateur Athletic Union headquarters and conferred with Daniel J. Ferris, Secretary-Treasurer of the A. A. U. and Chairman of the National Registration Committee, following which a statement was issued by Ferris saying that there was no new evidence beore his committee other than that considered by the Southern Pacific Association of the A. A. U. and that therefore the certification of eligibility given by that association last June would be accepted by the National Committee.

Also present at the meeting was Robert S. Weaver, President of the Southern Pacific Association and vice president of the American Olympic Committee. Others present were Charles Keppen, manager of the Los Angeles A. C., of which Paddock is a member, and Harold Dibbles, an A. A. U. official.

Following the meeting, which lasted for about two hours, Paddock said:

"I'm glad that's over, and will do my best to win for America."

The exoneration of the western flash will probably mean that Roland Locke, who had been named as his substitute in the event that Paddock was found to be ineligible, will stay at home. No official announcement was made to this effect, as any such statement must come from the manager of the Olympic track and field team, Major P. J. Walsh. This, however, is expected to follow as a matter of course.

Statement by A. A. U.

The official statement follows:

At a meeting of the Registration Committee of the Southern Pacific Association, A. A. U., held at Los Angeles, Cal., on June 12, called for the purpose of investigating the case of Charles W. Paddock, whose amateur status was questioned as a result of his activities in moving pictures and his personal appearance on the stage with his picture, affidavits were presented, signed by Franklin M. Baldwin, producer of the picture, and Nicholas Schenck, the exhibitor of the picture, containing the statement that Charles W. Paddock had never received any remuneration for his appearance in this picture or for his personal appearance on the stage with the exhibition of the picture.

Inasmuch as Paddock's amateur status was challenged by members of the National A. A. U. Track and Field Committee and the Olympic Selection Committee at meetings held in Boston last Saturday evening, the matter was referred back to the National Registration Committee for consideration and decision.

Mr. Paddock appeared at A. A. U. headquarters today and made a complete statement of his connection with his appearance in moving pictures and his personal appearance on the stage. He also signed an affidavit to the effect that he has not at any time received any remuneration either directly or indirectly in making the picture known as "The Olympic Hero" or for his personal appearance in connection with the exhibition of same. He also stated in his affidavit that he has no understanding with the producer or exhibitor to receive at any time any remuneration for his appearance in the aforementioned picture or his personal appearance therewith.

There being no new charges before the committee, the Chairman decided to accept the certification of the Southern Pacific Association as an amateur athlete and his eligibility for membership on the American Olympic Team.

Robert S. Weaver, President of the Southern Pacific Association, A. A. U., and Vice President of the American Olympic Committee, attended the conference and signed an affidavit to the effect that he had personally examined the affidavits of Franklin M. Baldwin and Nicholas Schenck and certified to the action of the Registration Committee of the Southern Pacific Association in exonerating Paddock.

Other Problems Remain.

While the difficulty about Paddock has been concluded other problems still beset the committee. One of these concerns Rosa Nichols, Stanford hurdler, who fell in the final of the event when a hurdle was out of place and higher than it should be. The official list of team members did not include Nichols although he is one of the best hurdlers in the country and Dink Templeton, Stanford and Olympic coach, is to protest to Major General Douglas MacArthur, President of the American Olympic Committee.

The leaving off the team of the decathlon men, Fait Elkins and Tony Plansky, the dropping of two men in the 10,000 meters who had finished third and fourth in the final tryouts and the elimination of Orval Martin, fourth in the 1,500-meter race, are still exciting widespread discussion among track and field followers and the athletes themselves. However, yesterday the main topic of discussion at the hotels in this city at which the athletes are concentrated, was Paddock.

The exoneration yesterday was the culmination of probably the most precarious of several similar experiences Paddock has had in the past. He has been a sprinter for fifteen years and competed in the Olympic Games of 1920 and 1924. Holder of more world's records than any other sprinter, the Westerner has been a popular and much discussed figure for years.

At one time or another Paddock has been called before examining committees to explain criticism of officials, use of his picture with advertisements, charges of excessive expenses and running in unsanctioned meets. In all cases he came through with flying colors.

Macom Will Bid Farewell To U. S. Olympic Athletes

The steamer Macom, which is famous for escorting distinguished guests from New York Bay to the city proper, will reverse its rôle tomorrow and accompany the American Olympic team from Pier 84, North River, to Quarantine. Its whistles which have so often shrieked in welcome will bid a farewell to America's athletes. The Fire Department Band will be on board the Macom. As the steamship President Roosevelt passes down the bay a water salute will be given by a fireboat to the departing team.

KALETCHITZ CHOSEN FOR U. S. BOXING TEAM

N. Y. State Heavyweight Champion Gains Place at Travers Island Elimination.

Alex Kaletchitz of the Lenox Hill A. A., New York State amateur heavyweight champion, gained a place on the American Olympic boxing team last night at Travers Island. He clearly demonstrated himself to be the class of a field of four boxers named by the Amateur Athletic Union to be the best contenders in the country for the place left vacant by the recent switch of George Hoffman, national amateur heavyweight champion, to the professional ranks. The selection completes the American squad, which will leave tomorrow on the S.S. President Roosevelt for Amsterdam.

The four boxers who were summoned by the A. A. U. for the final test were Kaletchitz, Tom Elliott of California, John Namisnack of Buffalo and Nelson Atanisoff of Schenectady. In the preliminary competition Elliott outpointed Namisnack while Kaletchitz gained the verdict over Atanisoff.

Kaletchitz showed himself to be the master of Elliott as soon as they squared off in the first round of the final match. He opened with a whirlwind attack and a succession of left jabs sent Elliott's head back. The rangy Lenox Hill boxer followed up his advantage and twice floored his rival in the initial round.

Elliott was game and fought hard but Kaletchitz was too experienced, too clever a boxer and too hard a hitter for the Coast boy.

MYERS'S COACH TO SAIL.

Bachelors Barge Club to Send Aikens With Sculler.

Special to the New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Members of the Bachelors Barge Club have subscribed a pool to send Tom Aikens, rigger and boatman, along with the American Olympic rowing squad, which sails on Wednesday, as advisory coach to Ken Myers, the United States sculling representative.

Aikens is thoroughly familiar with Myers's style of rowing and has rigged his boats for several years. Myers held a conference with the Reading Railroad officials today and was granted a leave of absence.

The University of California eight, which had planned to leave today for New York, will get away tomorrow morning accompanied by most of the Philadelphia oarsmen who have qualified for the trip abroad. The Golden Bears will not do any rowing until they get to the Sloten Canal near Amsterdam, but Coach Ebright has planned a series of work-outs on the machines that will be part of the S. S. President Roosevelt's athletic equipment.

Benny Nabors and Jimmy Kelly will meet in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the 22d Engineers Armory tonight. Frankie Leiberman faces Tommy Conti in the eight-round semi-final. Three six-rounders complete the card.

KING TUT VICTOR OVER KID WAGNER

Stages Uphill Fight to Win Main Bout at Dexter Park Before Crowd of 3,000.

LEONE CAPTURES DECISION

Easily Outpoints Jimmy Canzoneri in Six-Rounder—Deschler Stops Warner in the Fourth.

King Tut, bounding Minneapolis lightweight, staged a strong rally to defeat Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia veteran, in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Dexter Park Arena last night. A crowd of 3,000 witnessed the contest, which ranged from moments of tedium to spots of high excitement.

The Minneapolis boxer, rugged and aggressive, fought an uphill fight to win over Wagner. The latter, by far the better boxer, easily speared the unorthodox Westerner with jarring lefts during the first half of the bout and seemed on the way to an easy victory.

Tut, never one to retreat, rushed Wagner continuously and managed to wear the latter down as the bout progressed.

Wagner weighed 137 and Tut 134½.

Tut Rushes Wagner.

Tut rushed Wagner in the first round but the latter had little difficulty in smothering his rival's advance. The latter let swings fly from all angles in both the first and second sessions but Wagner, fighting a careful standup battle, jabbed accurately to keep the Minneapolis boxer at a distance.

Tut broke through Wagner's guard to land three lefts to the jaw in the third but Wagner bounded back and fought fiercely through to the bell. Tut launched a furious attack to start the fourth and bothered Wagner a little but the latter recovered and scored frequently for the remainder of the session.

Wagner's boxing skill earned him a goodly number of points in the next two rounds, spearing Tut with jarring lefts and rights at long range. The latter did good work at the infighting, backing Wagner against the ropes and landing heavily to the body.

Wagner tired perceptibly in the seventh, Tut's heavy pounding on the kidneys in the previous round having its effect. The Minneapolis entry ducked and bobbed skillfully in the eighth chapter reaching Wagner with long lefts to the face.

Wagner staged a short rally in the ninth, landing often on Tut's chin but making little impression. The latter rushed relentlessly in the final session and beat a heavy tattoo on his rival's body.

In the six-round semi-final, staged after the main bout, Mickey White of Brooklyn stopped Nick Salas of the Pacific Coast after 1:30 of the last round. White, towering over his stodgy opponent, scored easily with a long left, and except for a slight flurry in the third round, when Salas jarred him with two solid rights, had things his own way all through the bout.

Leone Defeats Canzoneri.

Joe Leone, west side featherweight, gave Jimmy Canzoneri of South Brooklyn a boxing lesson to win a six-round decision. The west side boxer was too fast for Canzoneri and had little difficulty in reaching his opponent with snappy lefts and rights. Canzoneri, at 128½, was a pound and a half heavier than Leone.

Tony Quagliani of Williamsburgh stopped Carl Hansen, Bay Ridge featherweight, in the final round of the scheduled six-round contest. Hansen was in bad shape in the sixth and Referee Johnny McEvoy stopped proceedings. Each boxer weighed 128 pounds.

George Deschler, 166½, Jersey City middleweight, knocked out Frankie Warner, 162, of Ridgewood, in the last round of a scheduled four-round bout, the referee stopping the bout after 2:15 of the final round.

In the four-round opener Lou Feldman of Brownsville, 120½ pounds outpointed Randolph Rasch, 123, of Harlem.

ST. GEORGE'S CLUB VICTOR IN CRICKET

Overpowers Crescents by Margin of 103 Runs at Bay Ridge—Littledale Shines.

Scoring 142 runs to their opponents' 39, the players of the St. George's Cricket Club yesterday gained a one-sided victory by a margin of 103 runs over an eleven of the Crescent Athletic Club on the Crescent grounds at Bay Ridge.

Claude Littledale, with 35; W. C. Block, with 33, and E. Batt, with 29, contributed the bulk of the runs for the St. George's team, which batted first. R. Howe added a double.

The bowling of F. Mitchell and Claude Littledale was too much for the Crescent batsmen, of whom C. H. Russell and H. Marsh alone succeeded in getting into double figures. Mitchell was credited with six wickets for 23 runs and Littledale with three for 12.

Canada Decides to Send Only One Swimmer To the Olympics; Walter Spence Is Chosen

TORONTO, July 8 (Canadian Press).—Consternation was thrown into the ranks of Canadian swimming officials today when they were notified by the Canadian Olympic Committee that that body would defray the expenses of only one swimmer to the Olympic Games. In spite of the earnest pleas of the representatives of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, the Olympic Committee refused to change the decision.

At a meeting held Saturday night, the Dominion Executive of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association selected four swimmers to compose the Olympic swimming team. Garnet Ault of Ottawa, Walter Spence, formerly of the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., now of the Montreal A. A. A.; Jim Thompson of Toronto Central Y., and Munroe Bourne of Montreal A. A. A. were the four swimmers named. Bert Gibson of Toronto was chosen as substitute for Thompson in the event of the latter being unable to make the trip.

Alf Phillips, Toronto Central Y. M. C. A. diving star, and Miss Dot Prior, Parkdale-Dolphinets, were selected to make the trip if private funds could be raised for their expenses. It has been the custom in the past for four swimmers to go overseas at the expense of the Olympic Committee. C. A. S. A. officials are much incensed over the Olympic Committee's refusal to send more than one swimmer to Amsterdam.

It was later announced that Spence would be sent by the Olympic Committee. The Ontario section of the C. A. S. A. has decided to pay Ault's expenses, while the Parkdale-Dolphinet Club will send Miss Prior.

TUNNEY WORKS OUT 10 ROUNDS IN HEAT

Heavyweight Champion Boxes 3 Rounds Each With Mays and Vidabeck and Punches Bag.

Special to The New York Times.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 9.—Champion Gene Tunney worked ten rounds in a stifling heat here today as part of his training for the defense of his heavyweight title against Tom Heeney, the British challenger, in New York City, July 26.

The champion worked three rounds each with Harold Mays and Billy Vidabeck and punched the bags four rounds. Tunney perspired freely in the intense heat, but did not appear the least bit tired at the finish, many of the spectators, who are here seeking relief from the city's heat, appearing far more exhausted.

It was a day of inactivity around the camp for everybody except the champion and his immediate camp.

Tunney will box tomorrow, but will not go on the road, it was announced this evening. His condition is impressive, especially in this Summer heat, which is not to his liking.

WALKER SCORES AGAIN IN NEWARK BIKE RACE

Defeats Spencer and Other Stars in Pursuit Event—Georgetti Wins in Title Event.

Cecil Walker, Australian rider and American all-around bike champion, further proved his versatility by capturing the Australian pursuit race last night at the Newark Velodrome, defeating Fred Spencer, Tony Beckman, Roy Garrison, Jimmie Walthour and Otto Petri.

Walker, despite a bandaged right shoulder and right arm, was in his swiftest mood. He eliminated Walthour, Garrison and Beckman and then Spencer.

Norman Hill, Coast star, came through in the unknown distance race, defeating Willie Grimm, Bill Hanley, Franz Duelberg and Paul Croley.

Franco Georgetti, national motor pace champion, increased his lead in the race for the present crown by taking the thirty-mile titular motor pace race, defeating George Chapman, Frank Keenan, Larry Gaffney, Vic Hopkins and Francesco Zucchetti. His time was 42.15 1-5.

The standing in the point table now is Georgetti 13, Chapman 8, Gaffney 5, Hopkins 6, Zucchetti 6, Keenan 5.

The summaries:

Australian Pursuit Race (professional)—Won by Cecil Walker, Australia; Fred Spencer, Plainfield, N. J., second; Anthony Beckman, Secaucus, N. J., third; Leroy Garrison, Kearny, N. J., fourth; James Walthour Jr., New York City, fifth; Otto Petri, Germany, sixth. Distance—Two miles. Time—4:04 1-5.

Won by Georgetti; second Chapman, third Keenan, fourth Gaffney, fifth Hopkins, sixth Zucchetti. Time—42:15⅘.

BIKE STARS RIDE TONIGHT.

30-Mile Motor-Paced Race Tops N. Y. Velodrome Events.

Three championship bicycle races will feature the card at the New York Velodrome tonight. The first will be a thirty-mile motor-paced event, the second a race in the sprint series, and the third a one-mile amateur championship test.

Franco Georgetti, Victor Hopkins, Larry Gaffney, Frank Keenan, George Chapman and Francesco Zucchetti will compete in the motor-paced race, while the outstanding contenders in the sprint will include Bill Honeman, Tony Beckman, Avanti Martinetti, Cecil Walker, Fred Spencer, Harris Horder, George Dempsey, Bill Fenn, Orlando Piani, Art Spencer and Jimmy Walthour.

Kid Roy Stops Garcia in 7th.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 9.—Leo (Kid) Roy of Montreal knocked out Bobby Garcia of Baltimore in the seventh round of a ten-round bout here tonight. Billy Grimes, Australia, lost to Bobby Mays, New London, in another ten-rounder. Frankie Lafay of Troy won a decision from Eddie Collins of New York in a preliminary tussle.

TOO HOT, HEENEY TAKES A DAY OFF

Tunney Challenger Does 5 Miles in Early Morning, Then Halts Training.

Special to the New York Times.

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 9.—The "No Training" sign was hung out today at the camp of Tom Heeney of New Zealand, who will battle Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight championship at the Yankee Stadium on July 26. It was too hot.

Even at this glorious spot along the Shrewsbury River, with verdure all around and Raymond Hoagland's estate as the setting, the heat was distinctly felt. Heeney contented himself with the usual five-mile road work in the morning before the heat began to be felt and in the afternoon he went to the West End Golf Club for a round of golf. The rest of the time he loafed under the shelter of an Australian pine.

To describe how Heeney looked would be false on an oppressive day like this. However, it can be said with safety that he is carrying too much flesh. That does not necessarily indicate anything now, because there are three weeks during which he can work that off.

There may be talk that Tex Rickard is having a hard time to ballyhoo the impending encounter, but any one at Heeney's camp has plenty of ballyhoo when Hoagland's 130 setters and pointers start baying. The heavyweight championship belt will be the stake for Heeney, and if trophies are any incentive Heeney will have had it when he steps into the ring, because he is surrounded by trophies and ribbons that Hoagland's dogs have won in field trials and in shows.

ROBERTI AND GROSS DRAW IN 10 ROUNDS

Italian Held to Even Break in Philadelphia Bout—McTigue Loses on Foul.

Special to the New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Roberto Roberti, 224-pound Italian heavyweight, fought a ten-round draw with Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., at the Phillies ball park tonight before 18,000 fans.

Roberti, towering over Gross with an advantage of 21½ pounds, almost put his opponent away in the first three rounds, but when the New Jersey heavyweight found his bearings he mauled Roberti from one side of the ring to the other and almost stopped him in the fourth round.

There were many who thought Roberti had earned the decision, but the judges disagreed and Referee Frank Floyd voted in favor of a draw.

Mike McTigue, veteran New Yorker, former world light heavyweight champion, fouled Matt Adgie of West Philadelphia in the fourth round.

McTigue coasted along for three rounds allowing Adgie to jab him and punch him at will. Then all of a sudden Mike caught Adgie with his left coming out of a clinch. Adgie doubled up, and after being examined by Dr. Abe Baron the bout was stopped and Referee Hindin awarded it to Adgie.

Rene Devos, middleweight champion of Belgium, defeated Vincent Forgione of Philadelphia in ten rounds.

Tom Toner, Philadelphia's new Irish light heavyweight, with Peter Maher in his corner, knocked out Pat Foley, of the League Island Marines in the fourth round. Toner, weighing 187 pounds, dropped Foley twice and the second time he went down Referee Bryan Hayes stopped the bout.

SHADE KNOCKS OUT COLIMA.

Stops Mexican In Seventh Round With Body Attack at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP).—Dave Shade of California knocked out Bert Colima, Mexican middleweight, in the seventh round of their scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. Colima was floored twice in the seventh before taking the count.

Shade showered Colima with a body attack, knocking him down in the second and sixth rounds. Colima was up each time, however, before a count was started. Shade weighed 159¾, Colima 155.

Savage in Portland Y. C. Regatta.

PORTLAND Me., July 9 (AP).—Lou Savage's 151 cubic inch hydroplane, Miss Massachusetts, will be raced for the first time in the Portland Yacht Club speed boat regatta here July 20 and 21, Philip H. James, in charge of entries, announced today. Miss Massachusetts is one of a class of super-powered hydroplanes, expected to do better than sixty miles an hour. James H. Rand of New York has tentatively indicated he will enter Miss Spitfire, another 151 hydroplane.

Testo to Box Grove.

Nick Testo, Troy welterweight, and Izzy Grove, east side boxer, will meet in the feature ten-round bout at the Coney Island Stadium Friday night. Joey Kaufman will box Eddie Mack in the ten-round semi-final, and Law Kersch and Nat Kawler will mix in the first ten-rounder.

Flynn Knocks Out Brown.

BOSTON, July 9 (AP).—Arthur Flynn, Lawrence middleweight, won on a knockout from Bobby Brown of Lowell in the fifth round of a ten-round bout here tonight. Flynn weighed 167, Brown 163.

QUEEN MAB WINS IN DRIFTING RACE

Beats Mistral by 5 Seconds as Eastern Yacht Club Cruise Gets Under Way.

BLACK SHEAR IS A WINNER

Crocker Scores His First Triumph With Yacht—Prestige and Seven Seas Score.

Special to The New York Times.

MATTAPOISETT, Mass., July 9.—The boasted breezes of Buzzards Bay failed to function with any spirit today, with the result that the initial event of the Eastern Yacht Club cruise, a twenty-mile triangular race off this port for eight classes and some three dozen yachts, proved more or less of a drifting match.

The winners in today's spiritless race were Frank Crocker's Black Shear, her first victory; Horace Binney's Queen Mab, Harold S. Vanderbilt's Prestige, W. A. Stewart's Iris, E. G. Draper's Blazing Star, E. I. Cudahy's Marilee, Van S. Merle Smith's Seven Seas and Grafton Smith's Nor'easter V.

Seven Seas Wins Prize.

The Seven Seas took the prize offered by Harry L. Maxwell for schooners, while the Nor'easter V. captured the trophy for sloops given by Samuel A. Salvage.

The yachts were sent over a triangular course which promised a beat, a reach and a run, but which turned into a purely tidal affair, a battle with stray zephyrs on the second leg and a broad reach before a three-knot breeze to the finish.

For the first hour it looked as if the Resolute would lose the others on the way to the first mark off West Island, but she bumped against a calm spot and a dozen boats were by her as if the cup yacht had anchored.

A light breeze from the northeast helped the tailenders some more, but it proved fickle and late in the afternoon the regular southwester went into action and blew the long-drawn-out fleet to a late finish.

Queen Mab in Close Race.

The only excitement at the line was a close race between the Queen Mab and the Mistral, which the former won by five seconds.

RACING YACHT SEEN 1,215 MILES AT SEA

Steamer Samaria Too Far Away to Learn Which Craft It Is Racing to Spain.

The officers of the Cunarder Samaria, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool via Queenstown, reported sighting a schooner yacht at 11 P. M. last Thursday night in latitude 40.28 north and longitude 47.33 west, which they said was about 1,215 miles east of the Ambrose Channel Lightship.

The yacht used the Morse lamp for signaling, but the letters were mixed up and rather indistinct. The officer on the bridge read the signal to be Atlantic or Atlantis. There was a light breeze, he said, at the time and a slight haze over the water.

There is no Atlantis in the race to Spain for either the King's or Queen's Cup. There is the Atlantic, but as it did not start until Saturday it hardly would be 1,215 miles at sea.

NORWAY'S YACHT WINS, U. S. CRAFT IS THIRD

Beafort Takes Second Gold Cup Race—Saleema Does Well in Heavy Going.

SANDHAMM, Sweden, July 9 (AP).—Norway's entry, Beafort, won today's test in the six-meter yacht race for the Scandinavian Gold Cup. Ingegered, the Swedish craft, was second, followed by the American yacht Saleema, in third place.

Starting well together, beating against a heavy sea, the order at the start was Sweden, Finland, Norway, America, Holland, Germany, Denmark and Spain.

The Saleema stood up well under the heavy conditions. Denmark and Holland were both compelled to abandon the race because of slight damages.

Schwartz Rounding Into Form.

Izzy Schwartz, recognized by the State Athletic Commission as the world's flyweight champion, is rapidly getting into shape for his title bout with Frisco Grande, which will be held at the Rockaway Beach Stadium on Friday night.

Loukola of Finland Breaks Olympic Steeplechase Mark

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 9 (AP).—The Olympic record for the 3,000-meter steeplechase was beaten today in the Olympic track and field tryouts by Loukola, who covered the difficult course in 9 minutes 25 seconds. The Olympic record of 9:33 3-5 was set by Willie Ritola of Finland at the Paris games in 1924. Loukola greatly outdistanced his rivals, Andersen, who finished second, being clocked at 9:38 1-5, and Helgas, who was third, in 9:46 1-5.

In the hammer throw Ericksson turned in the best performance with a mark of 153 feet 8½ inches.

M'VEY AND KAPLAN WILL BOX TONIGHT

Middleweight Contenders to Clash in Ten-Round Feature at Queensboro Stadium.

K. O. Phil Kaplan, hard hitting Harlem middleweight, will meet Jack McVey, who also hails from Harlem, in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Queensboro Stadium tonight. This bout brings together two of the foremost 160-pound boxers in the East, and the result is expected to have a bearing on the selection of an opponent for Champion Mickey Walker.

Both Kaplan and McVey are anxious to tackle George Courtney, who is directly in line for a chance at the title.

Harry Ebbets, the Freeport knock-out artist, will meet a newcomer to local boxing circles in Johnny Haystack, rugged Binghamton welterweight. The Freeport boy has compiled an enviable string of knockouts in his bouts this year, but Haystack promises to extend Ebbets to the limit. This bout is scheduled for ten rounds.

Al Mello of Boston, who fought a vicious battle with Ace Hudkins here last Summer, will tackle Jack McFarland of Newark in the first ten-rounder. McFarland jumped into popularity at the Queensboro three weeks ago when he substituted in a bout against Tony Vaccarelli and earned a draw verdict.

Two four-round bouts complete the card. Joe Jeanette will meet Pat Perkins, and Tommy Daly will oppose Georgia Kucera.

Sammy Vogel will face Mickey Chapin of Scranton in the feature bout of eight rounds at the Velodrome A. C. in Newark tonight. In the semi-final also listed for eight rounds, Irish Jackie Pilkington of New York will tackle Johnny Reno, Pacific Coast lightweight.

CANGRO STOPS COLANDRA.

Lummy Gains Decision Over Morofski in Staten Island Bout.

In one of the fastest battles ever staged at Thompson's Stadium by the Staten Island Sporting Club, Mickey Cangro, 145½, of Staten Island, in a ten-round bout stopped Tommy Colandra, 144, of Staten Island last night.

Arthur Lummy, 156, of Long Island, won a decision over Al Morofski, 150, of Jersey City in the eight-round semi-final bout.

George Scott, 158½, of Bayonne, lost a decision to Mike Carroll, 155, of Brooklyn, while Steve Conley, 145, of Boston, and Frank Buchanan, 147, of Long Island, fought a draw in the other six-round bout.

The first preliminary of four rounds resulted in a victory for Bert Eisner, 122½, of Elizabeth, who gained the decision over Jim Burns, 120, of Long Island City.

VOLLEYBALL BODY FORMED.

New National Organization Makes Provision for Boy Scouts.

A new volleyball organization was formed yesterday at a meeting of the National Volleyball Rules Committee at the West Side Y. M. C. A. The new body will be known as the United States Volleyball Association. It will have representation from the Boy Scouts, industrial organizations, the National Collegiate Athletic Association, playgrounds associations and the Y. M. C. A., among others.

Dr. George J. Fisher, Deputy Chief Executive of the Boy Scouts, was chosen President, and Dr. John Brown Jr., Secretary of Physical Education of the Y. M. C. A., was appointed Secretary and Treasurer.

HAGENLACHER AGAIN WINS.

Captures Two Balkline and Two Straight-Rail Matches.

Eric Hagenlacher won four more billiard matches yesterday at Lawler's Manhattan Academy, where he is meeting all comers. He defeated W. Marks, 200 to 2, in six innings at 18.2 balkline and 100 to 0 in one inning of 100 straight rail billiards or no count. He conquered D. Howe, 200 to 13, in ten innings of balkline and Howe, 100 to 0 in two innings of straight rail.

RED SOX WIN TWO FROM THE TIGERS

Russell Blanks Detroit in 1st, 4-0, Though Whitehill Gives Boston Only 4 Hits.

MORRIS TURNS TRICK IN 2d

Annexes His Twelfth Victory of the Season by 8 to 2—Carroll Batted Hard.

BOSTON, July 9 (AP).—The Red Sox took both ends of a double header from the Detroit Tigers today, 4 to 0 and 8 to 2, thereby earning an even break in the series. The first game was a pitching duel between Earl Whitehill and Jack Russell. Whitehill allowed only four hits but received poor support.

Ed Morris turned in his twelfth victory against four defeats in the second game. Carroll opposed him and although he was hit freely he also received ragged support from his mates.

Browns and Yankees Divide; Giants Lose; Robins Triumph

YANKS TAKE OPENER, BUT FAIL IN SECOND

Pennock Blanks Browns by 4-0—St. Louis Makes 20 Hits and Wins, 12-6.

UMPIRE BANISHES GEHRIG

Lou Banned for Disputing Decision —Meusel and Paschal Hit for the Circuit.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

The open season for double-headers came to an end at the Stadium yesterday and from now on the Yanks hope to have a rest from the two-a-day stuff. The champs aren't a howling success at it. They won one double-header from the Browns, lost another and yesterday they cleaved two games evenly, taking the first one, 4 to 0, and having the second one taken, 12 to 6.

It was a dip from the sublime to the ridiculous—from Herb Pennock's perfectly pitched game in the opener to the ludicrous efforts of four alleged pitchers in the second. Everything that Pennock was not the four later throwers were, and the Browns waded into them for twelve runs and twenty hits.

Besides which, Mr. H. L. Gehrig was tossed out on his shell-like ear for daring to question a decision by Umpire Dan Barry in the second game. This provoked the crowd to a monster uproar and Mr. Huggins to an eloquent keynote speech in which he touched lightly on the tariff, prohibition, the farm issue, Mr. Barry's failing eyesight and the futility of umpires in general.

Spectators Are Amazed.

Mr. Gehrig, grabbing a grounder, stepped on first base and then vainly attempted to catch a runner going home. Much to the amazement of all the spectators who could see, Barry averred that Gehrig had not touched first base. Your correspondent does not wish to be arbitrary in the matter, but if Gehrig didn't touch first base, then the moon is made of green cheese and George Ruth is a well-known shortstop.

Mr. Gehrig, quite properly aroused by Barry's defective vision, slammed his glove on the ground and was invited to admire the beautiful scenic view from the clubhouse. Whereat General Huggins came tearing out from the bench and began casting orations all over the premises.

In a weak moment he retreated to the dugout, but, happening to remember some insult that he had overlooked, came rushing back again, paced by Umpire Tom Connolly, who acted as chaperon for the brawl.

When Huggins, Lazzeri, Koenig and Gehrig had all spoken their little piece the clients took up the argument and gave Mr. Barry a terrific riding for the next ten minutes, decorating his manly brow with a chaplet of the wild raspberry. It was all very droll and exciting.

Allows Only Six Hits.

Pennock, who was at his best, blanked the Brownies with six hits in the opening number while the Yanks poked at Hal Wiltse and Walter Beck for four runs. Bob Meusel hit a homer.

Coveleskie, the elderly Polish spitballer, was knocked out in the second chukker of the next game. Moore was no improvement, Campbell was worse and Thomas was a world-beater. Ogden had an easy time for the Browns.

The Yanks made their first run in game No. 1 when Meusel clolted a homer into the right-field stand in the fourth. Two more tallies were produced in the sixth. Wiltse walked Ruth and hit Gehrig and then Lazzeri hit Mr. Wiltse for a single to right, and there wasn't any more Wiltse. Meusel's sacrifice fly fetched the second run in the inning. In the ninth Gehrig doubled and scored on an infield out and Kress's fumble.

The Browns made overtures toward a run in their half of the ninth, but Pennock pulled them up short.

The second game started like a dream and ended like a nightmare. The dream part came in the first inning when the Yanks jumped away to a three-run start on singles by Combs and Koenig, a walk to Gehrig, Lazzeri's sacrifice fly and Meusel's timely single.

Coveleskie Knocked Out.

But after that it was all nightmare. Blue and O'Rourke singled to open the second. Ogden's infield rap filled the lines and McNeely's single emptied two of them. Brannon singled and Mr. Coveleskie took it on the run. Manuah sloughed one to left off Moore and Schulte did the same to left, and with five runs in the Browns succumbed to utter exhaustion and allowed themselves to be put out.

Two more runs pattered over the pan in the fourth, and then the Browns staged another bunion derby in the fifth and scored five more on five hits. With two on and one out Moore was evicted in favor of Campbell. Brannon grounded to Gehrig, who touched first and then threw to the plate too late to catch Schang. On this episode Gehrig was tossed out of the ball game.

Continuing, Manush and Schulte singled, and Mr. Campbell sought the bench, decamping in favor of Thomas, who allowed two more hits, but finally managed to retire the side. It was pretty awful.

Paschal buried a homer in the right-field stand in the seventh and Combs manufactured a triple which scored another run in the eighth, but the Yanks were too far gone for such puerile measures.

ATHLETICS BAT HARD TO CONQUER INDIANS

Mackmen Hammer Two Pitchers for 23 Hits, Triumphing by 14 to 4.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP).—The Athletics had a merry batting orgy today, clubbing George Grant and Billy Bayne for twenty-three hits that defeated the Indians, 14 to 4.

George Grant, who had a string of seven victories without a defeat, had his record smeared and failed to last three innings. Three of the Athletics turned in perfect batting averages. These were Bing Miller, three doubles and two singles; Sammy Hale, three singles and a double, and Ossie Orwoll, two singles and a two-bagger.

CHICAGO TOPS WASHINGTON

Gains Lead in First Frame and Wins, 3-1—Clancy Gets Homer.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Hunnefield's single, followed by Clancy's triple and a double by Reynolds, gave Chicago a lead in the first inning of today's game that was never relinquished, the White Sox beating Washington 3 to 1. Clancy hit a homer in the sixth.

Washington got its lone run in the eighth when West tripled and scored on Bluege's single.

Pickups and Putouts.

Miller Huggins tried out three relief pitchers at the Stadium yesterday and they were all a great relief to the Browns. Each fresh shipment from the bullpen was worse than the one before.

Umpire Barry, whose decision at first caused such an uproar in the second game, missed a strike while behind the plate in the first game. Grabowski swung at a ball, but Barry didn't see it and had to be put right by Tommy Connolly.

The umpiring was nothing to cable King George about. We've seen better.

Heinie Manush made five straight hits in the second game and missed the sixth when Robertson smothered his hot grounder.

In the second game Benny Bengough bounded back into the arena for the first time since he hurt his hand six weeks ago. The Yanks can use Benjamin very nicely.

The Tigers move into the Stadium today for a four-game stay.

L. WANER'S HOMER SCUTTLES GIANTS

Circuit Blow With One on Base in Fifth Helps Pirates to 5 to 3 Decision.

GRIMES BEATS FAULKNER

Lefty's Failure to Hit With Men on Sacks Costly—Pittsburgh Annexes Series, 3 to 1.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to the New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—A little fellow played a big part for the Pirates today. The little fellow's name was Lloyd Waner, and the part he played beat the Giants, caused them to lose their third straight, and Pittsburgh to win the series, three games to one.

In the fifth inning, with the score tied and Burleigh Grimes all tangled up in a pitchers' battle with Lefty Faulkner, Little Lloyd, sometimes called Little Poison, hit a home run with one on base. That was what gave the Pirates the deciding margin of 5 to 3 when the game ended.

Faulkner was charged with the defeat in the pitching records, but it wasn't his pitching that lost the ball game—it was his lack of hitting ability. The story of the game and how it happened might be told in these two lines:

Men on base with Faulkner at bat, six.

Runs driven in by Faulkner, none.

Grimes wasn't so invincible that the Giants didn't have their opportunities, but when those opportunities arrived it seemed as though Faulkner was always the man at the plate to drive in the runs, an art at which he isn't among the greatest.

Giants Outhit Pirates.

The Giants collected ten hits off Burleigh, while the Pirates made one less than that off the combined deliveries of Faulkner and Bill Walker, who pitched the last inning, but the Pirates made more out of their blows, probably because seven of their safeties were made by the first three men in the line-up.

The Pirates cruised into the lead in the first inning when singles by Adams and Paul Waner, followed by a sacrifice fly from Traynor's bat gave them one run. But they didn't stay there for long.

The Giants got that one back in the fourth and might have made more if Grimes hadn't outsmarted them by purposely filling the bases at a very crucial, not to say critical, moment.

Lindstrom started the session with a single, and Ott walked. Terry singled, scoring Lindy, and moved up with Ott on Jackson's infield out. Grimes forced O'Doul to pop weakly to Traynor, but took no chances on the hefty Mr. Hogan. He purposely passed Shanty, preferring to face Faulkner in the pinch. That seemed logical. Faulkner forced Hogan for the third out.

L. Waner's Homer Breaks Tie.

Lloyd Waner broke the tie in the fifth with his homer after Adams had singled, but the fragrance of heliotrope lingered around that blow. It sailed over Welsh's head, and while Jimmy was pursuing it to the fence Little Poison beat his feet around the bases as though he were going somewhere and was late. But Welsh never should have let the ball escape him in the first place. He started in seven different directions before he chose the right one, which was to the rear, and quickly.

Those two runs at the moment seemed ample, but the Pirates picked up another in the seventh on singles by Adams and L. Waner and Brother Paul's sacrifice fly, while Grimes drove in one more in the eighth.

It was just as well that happened, for the Giants picked up two more in the eighth and ninth, one resulting from singles by Jackson, O'Doul and Hogan, and the other from a triple by Cohen.

Despite a two-game winning streak by the Pirates, the crowd was as slim as the first day of a dance marathon.

CARDS ADD TO LEAD BY BEATING BRAVES

Win, 8-5, and Increase Margin Over Giants to Four and a Half Games.

SCORE 5 RUNS ON 2 HOMERS

Bottomley's Nineteenth Brings In 2 on Bases and Harper's Drives In 1—Frisch Out of Line-Up.

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (AP).—The Cardinals increased their lead over the Giants to four and a half games, as the latter were losing, by defeating Boston here today, 8 to 5, clinching their third victory of the four-game series.

Outhit by 12 to 9, the league leaders scored five runs on two homers, Bottomley's nineteenth of the season, which brought in two besides himself, and Harper's with one on base. Sisler, erstwhile manager of the Browns, hit for the circuit with one on and added two hits.

Frankie Frisch watched from the bench the first game in which he had not started since joining the Cardinals in April, 1927. A thumb injury he received in tagging Sisler yesterday and a bruised leg benched him today, but he was expected to be ready to start in the series with the Giants tomorrow.

Reds' Twirler Drives In Two Runs in Sixth to Defeat Philadelphia.

PHILLIES GET 12 HITS

But Winners Bunch Their 9 to Best Advantage and Make 102d Double Play of Year.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 9 (AP).—Ray Kolp did a good day's job today in pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 5 to 4 victory over Philadelphia. His single in the sixth brought in two runs to complete the Reds' scoring.

Philadelphia had the edge on total hits by taking twelve off Kolp, but the Reds placed their nine safeties to best advantage. The winners made their one hundred and second double play of the year in the second inning, Dressen to Critz to Kelly.

Hotel Embassy Highweight Handicap at Empire City Track Is Won by Nusakan

NUSAKAN 1ST HOME IN EMPIRE FEATURE

G. A. Cochran's Colt, at 7 to 1, Takes Hotel Embassy Highweight Handicap.

LEW BLACK SCORES AGAIN

Two-Year-Old Wins His Second Straight—Beauregard Also Is Victor.

When Harry Payne Whitney's Lew Black came right back to score his second consecutive victory the crowd that had assembled in the interest of thoroughbred sport at the Empire City track yesterday sat back composed, for the two-year-old son of Headstrong and Black Lou was the favorite at 8 to 5. Being a Whitney horse, the talent, of course, had backed him aplenty. And Robertson got him home first by two lengths.

When B. G. Guth's Grand Bey, once owned by Edward Arlington before the latter sold him at auction, cornered the second race on this sizzling ninth day of July, the crowd toiled back more tranquil than ever, for the five-year-old gelded son of Sand Mole and Chateaubriand was the favorite at 11 to 10 and little Moon made every post a winning one, landing him first at the judges' stand by four lengths over his field.

But with the victory of Miss Peggie B. Bailey's Beauregard, a three-year-old daughter of Black Toney and Doreid, at odds of 3 to 1, the excitement began, excitement that lasted right up to the finish of the last race on the day's program. The talent had backed St. Henell as if it were all over but the shouting, but the son of St. Henry was not even in the money in the Spur Purse, in which there were five starters.

Nusakan is Victor.

While the sun was beating mercilessly down, Gifford A. Cochran's Nusakan contributed his bit toward a hot afternoon's sport by capturing the feature Hotel Embassy Highweight Handicap at odds of 7 to 1, beating Extreme, the favorite, easily. A breeze flitted across the hill. But what cared the talent, as its blood pressure began to rise!

Its blood pressure rose still more as the B. B. Stable's Low Gear, at 5 to 1, showed high gear enough to win the fifth race, a claiming affair for three-year-olds at one mile and seventy yards, beating the favorite. Jefferson Livingston's The Diver, heavily back from 3 to 1 to 12 to 5, by a length. And Vacation, owned by James Butler also heavily supported at 16 to 5 because he was a Butler horse running on a Butler track, was not even in the money in this seven-horse affair. In fact, Vacation was next to last.

By the time the last race was reached, this named so sweetly the Honeysuckle Purse, which was for two-year-old maidens, insurance agents were denying all applications for policies. The reason? "Why, high blood pressure!" they said. Naturally there also was high pressure on the pocketbooks of those who had braved such an afternoon in order to pick up a little pin money, as it were.

Twelve in Nightcap.

The talent was staggering as the twelve juveniles went to the post in the nightcap. Harry Payne Whitney had a pair entered—Letalone and Latchkey—the pair being the favorite at odds of 9 to 5, the support being so strong that the opening price of 3 to 1 was not long on tap. Then there was the Log Cabin Stud's Sin Cuidado, ridden by Maiben and the second choice at 12 to 5, backed down from 3 to 1.

"Look at that Perkins out there in front," wildly shouted one of the talent whose blood pressure had made him slightly delirious. "That's Marshall Field's colt. He worked w-o-n-derfully well this morning." In his delirium the racegoer had forgotten that his money was on Sin Cuidado.

The youngsters turned into the stretch with the supposed Perkins four lengths in front of his field. They were passing the lawn now.

"That's not Perkins," yelled the fan as he began to see things as they really were. "It's No. 8. Confound it! That number is Noble Charge!"

Noble Charge it was, owned by E. M. Byers and trained by Max Hirsch, at the remunerative odds of 8 to 1; so much neglected in the betting that the odds receded from the opening at 6 to 1. And with the victory of Noble Charge by five lengths over Sin Cuidado the talent quietly left on its homeward trip.

GILPIN IS VICTOR AT LAKE MOHONK NET

Beats Brethour by 6-1, 6-1, While Dr. Hawk Easily Conquers Walker.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., July 9.—Play began this afternoon in the eighth annual tournament of the Lake Mohonk Tennis Club with an entry of 43 men and 34 women. Most of the first round matches singles were disposed of and all of the seeded players came through.

Samuel B. Gilpin was kept going at a lively pace to conquer Brethour at 6—1, 6—1. Dr. Hawk had little difficulty in putting out George Walker. Miss Virginia Hilleary and Miss Marie Fensterer won their matches by superior driving, though the latter encountered much stiffer opposition from Mrs. George Stanwyx than the score indicated.

Mrs. W. H. Pritchard outsteadied the more brilliant Miss Eleanor Colket of Philadelphia.

The summaries:

Men's Singles, First Round—Watson T. Knight defeated W. D. Bourne, 6—2, 6—1; Kenneth D. Fisher defeated Major L. W. Colfelt, 6—1, 6—2; Arthur L. Reed defeated H. CHIAPETTA, WITH 148, TOPS BRISTOL FIELD

Leads Group of 26 Golfers in One-Day New England Professional Tourney.

BRISTOL, Conn., July 9 (AP).—Louis Chiapetta, Newington, Conn., led a field of twenty-six who finished the one-day New England professional golf tournament on the Chippanee course today with a total for two rounds of 148.

The others to finish in the prize money of $500 were H. C. Lagerblade, Bristol, 74—76—150; George Easton, Warwick, R. I., 75—75—150; Willie Ogg, Worcester, 77—74—151; J. E. Curley, Quincy, Mass., 75—77—152; Jack Stait, Hartford, 75—80—155; Maurice Kearney, 80—77—157, and Jim Andrew, New Haven, 81—76—157.

Under the sweltering rays which registered as high as 98 in the shade, Chiapetta shot a morning round of 73 which was the low score for the day. His consistency carried him through in the second round with a score of 75. Many of those entered failed to turn in cards for the two rounds.

Others who finished were:

J. D. Hackman, Methuen	79	79—158
Harry Quinn, Leominster	79	79—158
Ted. Turner, Andover	80	83—163

FARRELL IS HONORED BY TUCKAHOE FRIENDS

Fifty Autos in Procession for Open Champion—Johnny Makes Speech.

Special to The New York Times.

TUCKAHOE, N. Y., July 9.—The town of Tuckahoe, where Johnny Farrell lived for twenty-three years, added its homage to the newly crowned national open golf champion today.

A procession that included fifty automobiles besides the local fire companies wound in and around the town for more than an hour as part of the reception. At the head of this was Johnny, his mother, Mrs. Catherine Farrell, and his brother Jim. As hundreds of small boys crowded about his car the procession finally halted at Waverly Square where Supervisor Fred B. Close of Tuckahoe conducted the ceremony.

He introduced Mayor Robert Paterson of Bronxville, Mayor Walter D. Crouch of Tuckahoe, Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley of Westchester County, Gene Sarazen, one of Johnny's closest golfin friends, and Johnny himself.

In his speech the open champion referred to his earlier days in which he had played in Tuckahoe and said he considered that the town would always be home to him.

He struck a note of humor by adding that he appreciated the crowd which came "just to get a look at me."

A dinner was held tonight at the Leewood Golf Club, which all but ends a week of celebration given in New York in Farrell's honor. A final testimonial dinner will be tendered Farrell by the Catholic Club in New York City next Monday evening.

At the dinner the City of Tuckahoe presented a chest of silver to Farrell. Johnny no sooner had offered his thanks for it when the Knights of Columbus of Tuckahoe gave another set of silver to him.

WILL INVITE WOMAN TO PLAY CHESS HERE

U. S. Officials Want Miss Menchik, England, to Compete in Bradley Beach Congress.

WOULD SHATTER PRECEDENT

Dr. Alekhine, World Champion, Among Those Tentatively Listed for Masters' Matches.

For the first time in the long history of chess a woman may be a competitor in an international masters' tournament, it was indicated yesterday in an announcement of plans to hold a congress within a year at Bradley Beach, N. J., made by Victor D. Spark, general manager of the Hotel La Reine and member of the Manhattan Chess Club of this city.

Miss Vera Menchik of Hastings, England, who acquired the title of world's woman champion at London last year, is the young woman to whom an invitation will be issued. A native of Russia, she has resided in England several years and in that time has steadily made progress toward the top of the ladder in British chess circles.

Not long ago Miss Menchik won first prize from a strong field of men in the major open tournament at Cheltenham and, more recently, won her game from F. D. Yates, the present British champion, in a similar tournament at Scarborough.

Close examination of the scores of some of her games has disclosed talent of high degree. At Bradley Beach she will have an opportunity of meeting fourteen of the best European masters and seven picked experts from this side of the Atlantic. The tentative list includes the following:

Dr. A. Alekhine of France (world's champion), José R. Capablanca of Cuba, ex-champion; F. J. Marshall, Edward Lasker, A. Kupchik, O. Tenner and two others, United States; F. D. Yates and Miss Menchik, England; E. D. Bogoljubow and F. Saemisch, Germany; M. Vidmar, Yugoslavia; R. Reti, Czechoslovakia; A. Rubinstein, Poland; Dr. S. Tartakower, Ukrainia; Dr. M. Euwe, Holland; R. Spielmann and E. Gruenfeld, Austria; G. Maroczy, Hungary, and M. Monticelli, Italy. An invitation will also be issued to Dr. Emanuel Lasker of Germany, ex-world's champion, as soon as his case against the committee of the New York tournament of 1924 has been acted upon by the National Chess Federation of the U. S. A.

SEEDED PLAYERS WIN IN R. I. TITLE PLAY

Jones, Doeg and Abe Score Easily in Tourney on Agawam Courts.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 9.—The three seeded stars in the annual Rhode Island State lawn tennis championships, which got under way at the Agawam Hunt grass courts today, advanced through the early rounds with straight-set victories. Arnold W. Jones of Providence, seeded No. 2, defeated Robert Surabian of Edgewood, R. I., 6—2, 6—3, and G. M. Congdon Jr. of Providence, 6—3, 6—4, without stopping to rest between the two matches.

Tamio Abe, Japanese champion, made an impressive début, eliminating the hard-hitting Richard Chase of the Williams College team, 6—2, 6—2. Abe showed a well-rounded game. John M. Doeg of California, defending Rhode Island champion, seeded No. 1, had little difficulty overcoming Henry Phelps of Providence, 6—1, 6—2.

Despite the terrific heat, the eighty-two entrants made fine progress in the first day's matches. Two third-round matches, all the second round but one, and all the first-round matches were completed.

The New England sectional doubles championship tournament starts tomorrow afternoon. Herrington and McElvenny, Stanford doubles team, are seeded first and Jones and W. W. Ingraham, ranking New England pair, second. For the first time in years there is no women's tourney in connection with the Agawam play.

Medal Honors Captured by Miss Stifel With 79 in Shenecossett Golf Tourney

MISS STIFEL LEADS GOLFERS WITH A 79

Wins Shenecossett Medal by 1 Stroke—Misses Orcutt and Jenney Tie at 80.

MRS. HURD TURNS IN 85

Helen Payson Requires an 86 in Qualifying Round of Tourney at Eastern Point.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 9.—Miss Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, W. Va., realized her premier golf ambition today—to break an eighty—completing the Shenecossett Country Club course at Eastern Point in 79, just one stroke under, to capture the medal honors in the qualifying round of the tenth annual women's invitation tournament.

Miss Stifel has been trying to better her game for the last few years, but always fell short of finishing in the 70s. But she had her day today, just beating out Miss Maureen Orcutt, metropolitan champion from White Beeches, and Miss Marie Jenney of the Hudson River Club, who each turned in an 80.

Miss Stifel played consistent golf and had but one bad hole, the twelfth, when she required a six for the par five hole, being forced to use two strokes to sink her putt. Miss Stifel had only one birdie, that on the short fifteenth of 125 yards. She was on in one and made a 14-foot putt for her second stroke. Her drives and putting were both good but not sensational.

Miss Payson Takes 86.

For the most part, the favorites finished well up in the first flight. Miss Jenney and Miss Orcutt turned in good cards, but invariably one bad hole caused them to lose precious strokes. The distinct disappointment, if it may be called that, was Miss Helen Payson finishing down the list among the favorites with an 86, while Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, the defending champion, had an 85.

Mrs. G. Henry Stetson turned in a card of 83, while the steady playing of Mrs. H. G. Martelle of Hartford, who was out in 41 and returned with a 41 for a card of 82, enabled her to finish fourth.

Today marked one of those unusual golf days—at least for this tournament—for some of the upsets included the dethroning of Miss Orcutt as the medalist, the place she had won in both 1926 and 1927 and the failure of Mrs. Hurd to finish better than she did, although she turned in a score which qualified her for the match play.

Close to two hundred teed off, the score varying, with the highest registering close to 165.

Miss Jenney Has Long Drives.

The drives of Miss Jenney were the longest of the day, and her 275-yard drive of the long twelfth put her on in three and she used two more strokes to sink her putt. Miss Orcutt lost three valuable strokes on the short 162-yard sixth hole, when she required a six to sink her putt. She hooked her drive and experienced more difficulty by landing her ball in one of the sand traps and was on in four but on the edge of the green and took two putts for a six. She had another bad hole, the tenth, when she again drove in the trap and took another six for a par five hole.

Poor work on the greens kept Miss Bernice Wall from finishing better than she did, taking six 3-putt greens, to use at least seven unnecessary strokes, which would have been avoided if her short game was steady. Mrs. Hurd, had four 3-putt greens, but despite this she managed to turn in a low score. Mrs. Hurd had a 44 on the out nine and returned with a 41, being able to sink her first putts on only two greens.

Miss Stifel's driving of 200 yards and over was a big factor in her low score. She was on the green in two in most instances, but required two putts on each of the first, second, third, eighth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth, sixteenth and eighteenth holes, while on the fifth she required three putts.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

FROM a noted rowing authority with regard to "false starts" in boat races:

"Sir—In your column recently I noticed a communication signed 'Old Man River.' His attempt at humor means little to me, but to have his views endorsed in any way by you is certainly astonishing.

"Here are seven crews lined up for the start of the race. They have been working for four or five months for this one supreme event. In the hurry of the start something is quite likely to happen. Is it fair for them to have no chance to show their real worth because of some slight accident that may then occur? Last year, for instance, do you think the race would have been more interesting if Columbia, after its accident at the start, had dropped out of the race entirely?

"Here was a great crew, and a jumped slide is an accident that could happen to any crew. Certainly you will concede that Columbia's crew of last year knew something of the art of rowing. Also, why exaggerate the delays? The Board of Stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association for the past eight years has pulled off those races very close to scheduled time. In fact, with the exception of a single year, the average delay has not been over ten or fifteen minutes. If the crowd of spectators cannot wait that long to have a perfect start and a fair chance given to every crew, then my suggestion is that they had better stay away and let their places be taken by men who have a higher ideal of what good sport is.

"After the rush at the start is over and the race is on, every crew has to take its chance, and if that is not fair and just as it should be, then let me tell you that you disagree with every rowing authority in this country. Very truly yours, Julian W. Curtiss."

Fair Enough.

It would be a rash person who would rush into an argument on rowing with Mr. Curtiss, and, in any case, his main points are hardly open to argument. In match races, for instance, such as the Yale-Harvard affair, there can be no contest at all if one crew is crippled by an accident at the start. In races where there are a greater number of entries, it is certainly desirable to give every crew a fair chance for victory.

It is also true that the majority of the spectators who journey to New London or Poughkeepsie are too much interested in the results of the races to worry about delays, slight or considerable, in getting the shells started down the river. But the efforts of Mr. Curtiss and other rowing officials to avoid such delays show that they do not consider them an added attraction on any rowing program. They are merely petty annoyances that are endured because of the more important things at stake.

In that case, perhaps a feeble protest might be allowed when the whole program lags as it did in the Blackwell Cup regatta on the Schuylkill last May. Even "rowing authorities" were disturbed by the late starts in that regatta.

A Point for the Defense.

Mention of that day on the Schuylkill brings up one more point that is worth passing notice with regard to "false starts." In the 150-pound race the Columbia crew got away to a fine start and was at least a length in front when somebody jumped a slide in another boat, and the shells were called back. On the second attempt, Columbia made a poor start and eventually lost the race by a narrow margin.

It seems reasonable enough to assume, in this case, that Columbia lost its original advantage of a good start through no faults of its own.

Consider the Poughkeepsie regatta. Seven crews dash off at the starting signal, and perhaps one or two "get the jump" on the other shells. If No. 4 in the trailing boat jumps a slide, back they go to the starting point again. Of course, it might happen that No. 4 in the leading boat would be the one to jump his slide, but it can be seen that there are occasions when "false starts" might deprive one or more crews of the legitimate advantage of a good getaway.

Rowing authorities consider this a minor point in comparison to getting all the crews under way without accident, but at least it proves that the "false start" is not an unmixed blessing.

The Olympic Selections.

It is nothing new to find a certain amount of bickering over the selection of the athletes for an Olympic trip. It always happens that, through accident, misfortune or temporary lack of condition, noted stars fail to survive the elimination campaign. It's the luck of the game, and there doesn't seem to be any way of getting around the difficulty. If a star runner, hurdler or weight man who fails in the eliminations is picked for the team on his known record, the cry of "favoritism" is sure to go up. It is better to stick by a hard and fast rule for qualifying.

Where the Selection Committee laid itself open to a certain amount of criticism was in not sticking to the hard and fast rule in several events. The competitors in the 1,500-meter run at Cambridge, for instance, toed the mark under the impression that the first four men over the line would be rewarded with a trip to Amsterdam. At least they had received no official notification that the general rule had been changed with regard to this event. Thus it must have been a bitter disappointment to Orval Martin of Purdue, who staggered across the line in fourth place, to learn that he wasn't selected for the team because Lloyd Hahn, who didn't start in the 1,500-meter race at Cambridge, would run in that event at Amsterdam.

Again the "four-man" rule was suspended in the 10,000-meter selections. Only two men, Joie Ray and Johnny Romig, were selected on the ground that no others would have a chance against the foreign distance stars in the Olympic games. This doesn't seem fair to the men who trained hard for that event and competed at Cambridge with the idea that a third or fourth place would earn them a trip to Europe. Moreover, nobody can tell in advance what will happen at Amsterdam. There are surprise victories as well as unexpected defeats. It would have been safer and saner for the Selection Committee to hold to the general rule all the way down the line and to pick the team on what happened at Cambridge rather than on what is expected to happen at Amsterdam.

MISS FISHER LEADS IN MUNICIPAL GOLF

Wins Medal With an 81, Gets a Hole in One and Takes First Round Match.

Miss Marion Fisher had a field day at Mosholu Public Links where the New York Municipal golf championship for women began yesterday. Not only did she win the medal, but in the qualifying round she had a hole-in-one and also won her first-round match.

The score of 81 that she made was thirteen strokes lower than any one else in the field and the hole on which she got the 1 was the sixteenth which is 116 yards in length. Miss Fisher, who plays from the Tibbetts Brook Club, used a spade mashie on the hole and the ball landed on the green and rolled into the cup.

In the opening round of match play, she defeated Miss Nadia Eisman by 5 and 4 after being 1 down at the turn. After that she won six consecutive holes and playing out the bye-holes had another 81 round.

Her winning score in the qualifying round:

Out	5	4	7	5	4	6	3	4	4—42
In	4	4	4	6	5	5	1	6	5—40—81

Only nine competed in the event and two tied for second place. They were Miss Bertha Sawyer and Miss Kathryn Grossman whose totals were 94 each.

Other first round matches resulted in victories for Miss Sawyer, Miss Hazel Brunn and Miss Grossman. Miss Sawyer defeated Mrs. George Rudnick, who qualified with a 98, by 4 and 2; Miss Brunn, who was 96 in the qualifying round, defeated Miss Elinor Bergman, 3 and 2, and Miss Grossman defeated Miss E. Willis, 3 and 2.

In her match against Miss Eisman, Miss Fisher almost registered another hole in one. On the eleventh hole her ball stopped so close to the cup that she had an easy putt for a 2.

MacDONALD GOLF VICTOR.

Wins Low Gross Cup on Upper Montclair Course.

Special to the New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., July 9.—Managers of more than thirty golf clubs in the metropolitan district braved the heat and the difficult Upper Montclair Country Club course today in the monthly tournament of the New Jersey Stewards' Association, and the winner of the low gross cup proved to be one of the veterans, Donald MacDonald of the Bonnie Briar Country Club at Larchmont.

MacDonald, who for many years was attached to the Baltusrol Golf Club and through that connection holds membership in the Jersey State organization of club managers, had a score of 46, 44—90.

MacDonald won on the last nine by one stroke over Peter Draney of the Braidburn Country Club at Madison. Draney had a score of 46, 45—91. Frank Sullivan of the Essex Club in Newark won the low net cup with a score of 94—18—76. The runner-up was Samuel Blume of the Florham Golf Club. He had 96—18—77.

In addition to capturing the low gross cup MacDonald also won the sweepstakes with a score of 90—18—72. Oscar Straub of Newark, whose card of 42, 42—84 won low gross among the guests, was second in the sweepstakes with 84—10—74, and Sullivan was third, 94—18—76.

KYNASTON WINNER ON ORITANI COURT

Beats Higgins, 6-0, 6-3, to Gain Round Before Semi-Finals in Bergen County Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 9.—Percy L. Kynaston, of Rockville Centre L. I. reached the round before the semi-finals of the Bergen County tennis championship on the courts of the Oritani Field Club today when he defeated E. Higgins in the fourth round at 6-0, 6-3. The Long Island player was never called on to put forth his best efforts and after winning the opening set took matters easily, allowing his opponent three games.

One other player gained a round of eight with Kynaston. This was S. Hemmi, the Japanese, who eliminated Charles Jones in three-sets match at 8-10, 6-0, 6-1. S. Onda, another Japanese, is a round behind, as also are N. I. Comes, F. Peets, who put out Selden Noyes at 11-9, 6-3; James D. Ewing and J. P. Nikonow, who defeated Sidney Snitkin at 4-6, 6-10, 6-13.

The summaries:

Third Round—James D. Ewing defeated W. P. Lanz, 6—3, 6—1; J. A. Wright defeated G. Schoepps, 6—0, 7—5; Norman I. Comes defeated W. Upton, 6—2, 6—0; J. Lightfoot defeated E. S. Kuhn, 8—6, 6—3, 6—2; Percy L. Kynaston defeated W. C. Hodgeman, 6—4, 6—2; E. Higgins defeated W. J. McQueney, 6—3, 4—6, 6—1; F. Peets defeated Selden Noyes, 11—9, 6—3; J. P. Nikonow defeated Sidney Snitkin, 4—6, 6—0, 6—3; S. Hemmi defeated A. S. Miller, 6—1, 6—1; Charles Jones defeated B. Lethbridge, 6—0, 6—2; R. S. Berhune defeated F. Van Orman, 6—3, 6—3; W. Stetsch defeated F. Brower, 6—3, 6—0; S. Onda defeated R. K. Bramhall, 6—2, 6—2; W. Swaybill defeated B. German, 6—1, 6—3.

Fourth Round—Kynaston defeated Higgins, 6—0, 6—3; Hemmi defeated Jones, 8—10, 6—0, 6—1.

CORNELL GAINS NET FINAL.

Will Meet McKenzie Today for Staten Island Crown.

Robert Cornell and Dickson McKenzie will meet today on the Westerleigh Club tennis courts for the Staten Island junior championship.

Cornell and McKenzie, both on the Curtis High School tennis team, easily defeated their opponents yesterday. Cornell eliminated two men, while McKenzie had only one player to beat. The three players who lost were George and Joseph Dolgin, brothers, and Robert Ford. There are only five men in the tournament.

The summaries:

First Round—Robert Cornell defeated George Dolgin, 6—0, 6—1; Dickson Mackenzie defeated Joseph Dolgin, 6—1, 6—2.

Second Round—Robert Cornell defeated Robert Ford, 6—0, 6—0.

NATIONAL CITY TEAM WINS GOLF TOURNEY

Gains Third Leg on Charles H. Sabin Trophy by Victory in Bankers' Play.

CENTRAL UNION TRUST 2D

Winners Score 390 Points on Links at Mamaroneck—Taft Captures Low Medal Honors.

Special to The New York Times.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., July 9.—The five-man team of the National City Bank won a third leg on the Charles H. Sabin trophy by winning the tenth annual golf tournament for clerks in the Bankers' Athletic League Tourney over the Winged Foot Golf Club course today.

National City scored an aggregate of 390 points, finishing ahead of Central Union Trust, as their representatives totaled 336, while Bankers Trust Company was in third place with 313. There were fourteen teams entered, and the scoring system called for each man to play his corresponding opponent on each of the thirteen other teams.

Low medal honors went to W. H. Taft, No. 1 man of the Guaranty Trust. He had a 39, 41—80, leading Neal Fulkerson of the Bankers Trust, who made a 40, 41—81. H. Van a 41, 41—82, and K. B. Smith of National City 39, 44—83.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., July 9.—C. J. McDonnell won the one-day tournament of the Newspaper Golf Association here today over the Engineers Country Club course by tallying 44—40—84, which with his handicap of 15 gave him a net score of 69. G. M. Terry with 74—4—70 was second, F. Cavanaugh with 90—17—73 was third.

Penn and California Agree To Football Game in East

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP).—The University of California will meet the University of Pennsylvania at football on Franklin Field here Oct. 12 or 19 next year. This announcement was made today by Ernest B. Cozens, graduate manager of athletics at Pennsylvania, upon receipt of word that the game had been approved by President Campbell of California. California and Pennsylvania have met twice, the Western team winning both games.

FAVORITES SCORE IN STATE NET PLAY

Raleigh's Victory Over Ilano Features First Day of the Tourney at Syracuse.

HENRY NEER ALSO TRIUMPHS

Conquers Steele, Rochester City Champion, 6-4, 0-6, 6-2—Acheson Put Out.

Special to the New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 9.—Twenty-five matches were played this afternoon and tonight on courts of the Sedgwick Farm Club as the New York State tennis tournament got under way. All favorites got through their first round matches successfully, five of the eight seeded taking the courts.

Frank Shields and Fritz Mercur, seeded players, who did not arrive today, and R. Partridge will take part tomorrow. Because of late entries and cancellations it was necessary for the committee to make the draw over again and to order changes in the seeded list.

A feature was the victory of Tom Raleigh, city champion, over J. Ilano, Mexican Davis Cup player, in the first round by score of 6—2, 6—1.

Raleigh had eliminated J. Nicholson, 6—3, 6—1, in the preliminary round. The city champion will meet Mort Bernstein tomorrow. Howard Barth was another Syracuse player to win his first match, defeating M. Hutchins, 6—2, 6—8, in the first round. Barth later lost to Henry Culley of Santa Barbara, 6—4, 6—2.

A. R. Acheson, former city champion, was eliminated by A. Neidlinger, 2—6, 6—1, 7—5. Fred Meamer, Syracuse and Georgetown University star, was defeated by L. Palmer in a hard three set battle, 6—3, 1—6, 6—4. Woolcott Wiard, another city player defeated M. Bernstein, 6—0, 6—2. J. M. Keese lost to W. Aydelotte, 6—2, 6—3.

The seeded players romped through their matches with little difficulty. One of the best was the battle between Henry Neer of the University of Oregon and L. Steele, Rochester city champion. Neer won in three sets, 6—4, 0—6, 6—2.

The summaries:

Preliminary Round—J. I. Lane defeated R. Burbridge, 6—2, 6—3; T. Raleigh defeated J. Nicholson, 6—3, 6—1; M. Bernstein defeated W. Wiard, 6—0, 6—2; J. Young won from W. Chittenden by default; L. Brown won from J. K. Rene by default; H. Neer defeated L. Steele, 6—4, 0—6, 6—2; S. Adelstein defeated A. C. Haffner, 6—0, 6—1; L. Ferguson defeated T. L. Legrone, 6—1, 6—1.

First Round—Wallace won from S. Harts by default; F. H. Fogler won from W. Halory by default; R. Tapia defeated R. Wooley, 6—0, 6—1; M. McKee defeated C. Alexander, 6—2, 6—3; W. Aydelotte defeated J. W. Keese, 6—2, 6—3; W. Bartlett defeated A. E. Sheridan, 2—6, 6—4, 6—1; L. Palmer defeated F. Meamer, 6—4, 6—4; A. Neidlinger defeated A. R. Acheson, 2—6, 6—1, 7—5; D. Jones defeated Norton, 6—3, 6—1; Ed. Claiss won from W. Milnes by default; Henry Culley defeated J. Calder, 6—2, 6—4; H. Barth defeated M. Hutchins, 6—2, 6—8; T. Raleigh defeated J. I. Lane, 6—4, 6—1; Bernstein defeated J. Young, 6—0, 6—0; K. Mendel defeated W. Sneed, 6—4, 6—1; Winter defeated J. Fiely, 4—6, 6—1, 6—3; R. Hoops defeated W. Hawkins, 6—1, 6—3; B. Bell defeated R. Murphy, 6—0, 6—2; H. Dunlap won from A. Griffin by default; R. Metz defeated C. Frank, 6—1, 6—0; S. Jacquith won from H. Kay by default; L. Thalheimer won from E. Franklin by default; F. Wolfheimer won from R. Snell by default; T. Taylor won from S. Woods by default.

Second Round—Wilmer Allison defeated F. H. Fogler, 6—2, 6—2; Culley defeated Barth, 6—1, 6—2; Dimott defeated Jacquith, 6—0, 6—4.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS.

It will be some time before the newspapers begin printing little warning notices, addressed to would-be voters, that if they intend to exercise the franchise in November they had better "Register Today." The regular registration period this year will be from Oct. 8 to Oct. 18. But under a new provision in the election law bipartisan boards began last week preparing the registration lists for the election. The innovation, known as "central registration," will allow certain classes of voters to qualify in advance of the usual date.

Under the old Absentee Voters law railroad employes, commercial travelers, actors, Federal employes and others who were unavoidably absent from their New York homes on election day were able to obtain ballots from the Board of Elections in advance and send them in by mail. Comparatively few persons—only a few hundred usually—have availed themselves of that privilege. Some of the reform organizations interested in simplifying the election process say that the trouble is with the formalities of registration. There is little use letting a man vote from distant parts if he has to come home to register. So this year he will be able to perform that civic function, too, at his convenience, by applying in advance—any time Monday or Friday between now and Sept. 1—to the central registration board for his county.

The Citizens Union, the League of Women Voters and other civic organizations have for some time been urging a general system of central registration of voters. Many States have lately discussed permanent registration, conducted by a central office throughout the year, instead of in the precincts on particular days preceding each election. Boston has had such a system for many years and so has Omaha. Kentucky, Idaho and New Jersey are among the States having permanent registration, though it has not worked everywhere with equal success. The New York Legislature was not disposed to adopt a general plan this year, but agreed to a compromise measure, limited in scope. Legislators will doubtless be influenced in their further consideration of the subject by the extent to which the voters avail themselves of the new law.

MR. HOOVER'S "IDEAS."

We are often told to look to foreign contemporary opinion of our affairs and of our public men, as being the surest guide to the ultimate judgment of our own coming generation. This does not always work. Much depends upon the intelligence with which foreign opinion at the moment is formed. In the case of M. BERNARD FAY, who writes in the Paris Figaro about "Les Idées de M. Hoover," one would expect a good degree of intimate knowledge of the United States. M. FAY has written books about America, and has visited this country. He does not, in fact, make in this article any serious blunders about our politics. He is fully aware that Secretary HOOVER was not the Presidential choice of the Bourbon Republicans; that Secretary MELLON looked at him askance; and that at least some international bankers, to whose plans Mr. HOOVER had shown himself cold, were opposed to his nomination. This French writer also shrewdly warns his countrymen and Europeans in general not to believe the report that Secretary HOOVER is more a cosmopolitan than he is an American, and that he cherishes a "warm love for Europe." This is decidedly not, according to M. FAY, one of the ideas of Mr. HOOVER.

When, however, this French authority undertakes to say what are the ideas and plans of Secretary HOOVER, he betrays a passion for hasty generalization and for grand doctrinaire conceptions. The Frenchman sees the American through a kind of glorifying haze. Mr. HOOVER is said to be enamored of "gigantic enterprises." The bigger and more costly they are the keener he is to undertake them. He is said to contemplate an enormous development of American resources, which will bring in its train a new class of "super-millionaires." All this will be done through Mr. HOOVER'S extraordinary genius for organization. The word of command will go forth from Washington when he is President, and every good citizen will hasten to obey. Even over a reactionary Senate Mr. HOOVER will be able to triumph through his vast organizing ability. Then, concludes M. FAY:

> The universe will be able to observe in action three dictatorships of very different nature, and to measure the worth of each. They are: the Russian dictatorship, Communist and Proletarian; the Italian dictatorship, political, governmental and imperialist; and the American dictatorship, capitalist, liberal and industrial.

This will certainly not be quoted by Mr. HOOVER'S supporters as a campaign argument in his favor. It is, in truth, one of those forms of search after "super-realism" which, as a French critic has recently remarked, so often leads into unreality. M. FAY should have first tried it out on a dog or two in America. From a Vermont farmer he would have got not much more than "Dew tell!" A bolder and more impolite man in Kansas or Iowa would have said, sententiously, "Oh, shucks!" Perhaps it is just as well to let it go at that.

PROHIBITION A LA MODE.

Kansas has long been Dry. Testimony from that quarter about drinking at Houston during the Democratic National Convention is from the side of the line sympathetic with the Dry laws. The Lyons Daily News, discussing a report in The Great Bend Tribune of the same State about lapses from sobriety at Houston, presents some personal testimony on the part of its editor calculated to make Governor MOODY'S insistence on a bone-dry plank in the platform seem an integral part of the farce of enforcement.

> This editor was a member of the subcommittee on platform and he may therefore be assumed to have been behind the scenes. A drunken, howling mob, "led by Tammanyites," was the description of Houston given by a Kansas woman after the nomination as quoted in The Great Bend Tribune, and to this account the editor of The Lyons News addresses himself as follows:
> If The Tribune is after the truth and will take it from one who was there, we wish to say that there was plenty of liquor at Houston but very little drunkenness before, during or after the convention. * * * The surging mob that celebrated the nomination of Governor SMITH was intoxicated all right, but through sheer joy and not liquor. Half of the howling marchers were women and girls. Believe it or not, no liquor of any kind was dispensed at the New York Tammany headquarters nor from any of the rooms of the hundreds of New Yorkers registered for the convention. The finest appearing, most intelligent, most orderly delegation at Houston was that from New York. The only drunks we saw removed by police from the floor of the convention were from the Mississippi, Alabama and North Carolina sections, all dry States threatening to bolt the party if AL SMITH were nominated. The wets at Houston stayed sober. The drys soaked up the liquor.

To this argument between two Kansans outsiders have the right to add only the comment that what The Daily News says about the New York visitors was stated in nearly all the Houston dispatches. But it is worthy of note that Governor MOODY, who expressed such sorrow over the defeat of a bone-dry plank, had the entire regiment of the Texas Rangers present under his command during the convention, and could have proved his faith by his works if he had been so minded.

FINISHING THE JOB.

A special dispatch from Paris to The Evening Post tells of the plans for finishing the work of what has been called the "world's greatest adventure in international friendship," the Near East Relief. Whether or not it takes first place in magnitude, it is safe to say that no single cause of the kind has evoked a wider or more continued American support. No other voluntary agency of international scope, depending upon popular contributions, has stuck to its job with such persistence and helpfulness to alien peoples—many of them without a national home. For many years it was almost the sole friend of these hundreds of thousands of refugees aside from their compatriots in this and other lands, but it has of late years confined its help largely to sheltering, feeding and training orphan children, not only to keep them alive but to enable them to become self-supporting and useful citizens in a re-established national life.

The Near East Relief Committee has spent during these years of its activity somewhat more than a hundred million dollars. It hopes to raise enough in the next twelve months to complete its undertaking, so far at any rate as the children are concerned. It is proposed to continue their direct care and training for a definite period and then provide for those that are left through institutions and other responsible agencies that have been developed locally—many of them with American assistance. The final appeal is therefore for enough to make possible the winding up of this work with the spirit and efficiency with which it was begun and has been carried on through and since the war.

Over 30,000 children have during the last four years been outplaced; and this work is going forward with such speed that in time all will be provided for outside of orphanages and other institutions, except those who because of physical or mental defects or ailments will have to be permanently cared for in special institutions. But to do this will require somewhat more than is usually contributed in one year. For 1927 the total regular expenditures were $2,675,623.79 ($702,359.75 less than the preceding year), but the underwriting for the ending of the work should reach at least $4,000,000. This should be increased to $6,000,000 if adequate provision is to be made for health and welfare work among graduate orphans and for an adequate contribution toward a solution of the larger refugee problem. What has been so generously and nobly begun and supported through these years of distress and suffering from war, earthquake, disease and famine for millions of homeless children and broken, helpless exiles should be carried on to the crowning end.

WHY JONAH!

If JOHN TAYLOR of Duluth, who preaches in the Congregational Church at Brule, were a clergyman, people would say that he is "deficient in tact." Having all the rest of the Minor Prophets to draw from, why did he preach to Mr. COOLIDGE last Sunday on JONAH? The weight of Mr. COOLIDGE'S catch is increasing daily and discourse of "a great fish" might be thought sympathetic; and the sea is a cooling thought on a burning day. But never talk about rope in the house of a man who has been hanged. Mr. TAYLOR is innocently unfamiliar with the sign, the prophet and the portent that are driving even pious Republicans to profanity.

The harbingers and omens of calamity were black enough already. The preacher might have made a good sermon out of HOSEA or JOEL, AMOS, OBADIAH, MICAH, NAHUM, HABAKKUK, ZEPHANIAH, HAGGAI, ZECHARIAH, MALACHI. Fatally he chose JONAH, the son of AMITTAI. For the Republicans have their Jonah. Neither literal nor symbolic nor mythological interpretation gives them comfort. The whale, who may be regarded as the elephant of the sea, cast the Hebrew prophet out after three days and nights. There seems to be no way of casting out the Western prophet. From the belly of Leviathan he emits continual proclamation and prediction. If it be counted to the honor of the original JONAH that he occupied his piscine tenement as a penalty for evading the command to go and preach against the city of Nineveh, perhaps out of a misguided compassion for its inhabitants, that makes the Republicans almost as furious against him.

For in political allegory, Nineveh is New York. Written ideographically, "Nineveh" means "fish-dwelling," a plain reference to Fulton Fish Market. The Republican Jonah can preach against Nineveh as much as he likes, for the wickedness of the Fish City is great. Yet it seems to have had one good point. The fact of its cattle and sheep may be treated as a poetical description of an early movement for a high tariff on wool and hides. The shooting up and withering of the gourd is less pleasant to Republicans.

There was nothing partisan in that gourd. The vegetable ironist did but prefigure "campaign predictions" by whomsoever made. What with one thing and another, notably the great storm, the Book of Jonah is not one from which cautious preachers will select a text until after election. Yet, as friends of peace and joy, we remind irritated Republicans that "Jonah" means "dove." Don't we hear all around, in States that are Republican or have got to be, a sweet murmurous cooing? As for the contemporary Jonah, why will the Republicans be of froward heart? For MOSES cometh and finisheth the work.

IMPERIAL CABLES AND RADIO.

Highly interesting is the report from London that the conference on imperial communications has recommended unification under one control of the cable and radio systems of the entire British Empire. The Government is to be a partner in the proposed merger of the existing companies. It is presumed that this partnership will not be altogether "silent." Rates are to be adjusted on a sliding scale in proportion to the earnings of the various systems. Perhaps by combining the radio and cable systems under the same management cable tolls will no longer have to be cut in order to meet the lowered cost of radio operations.

Great Britain has long been foresighted in such matters. As she was the first to understand the relationship between a navy and a merchant marine, and the first to make extensive use of steam power and of iron in shipbuilding, so she was the first to realize the value in peace as in war of cable connections between London and the ends of the earth. While the United States has not been behind-hand in catching up with the development of cable communications and has made extensive strides in developing radio transmission, it is doubtful whether the international significance of these things has been properly understood in this country.

The World War was an eye-opener. Americans found their private messages to Europe censored by the nations controlling the cables. Their business messages were subjected to embarrassing delays. All communications with the Central Empires before the United States entered the war were subject to the good-will of the Allies. Allied control of cables and radio deprived Germany of a powerful means of propaganda in the United States.

What is true in war is largely true in peace. To be sure, censorship is now obsolete and delays occur only under "unavoidable" circumstances. Furthermore, the number of available routes being greater now, it is easier to assure rapid transmission. But the importance of controlling communications is so great that our State Department has not hesitated to encourage extension of American cable systems throughout Central and South America and to support America's plans to enlarge radio communications to China. The Navy Department has aided in the development of transpacific radio communications.

There is no reason to believe that the proposed British imperial cable and radio merger will have an adverse effect on American or other foreign interests. Great Britain has had too much experience in world affairs to stand for a restrictive policy. Radio and cables will in time cooperate rather than compete. This is to the interest of both. For the present, at least, the cooperation promises to follow national lines of organization.

WORSE THAN THE RAINES LAW.

Commercialized vice today, according to the Committee of Fourteen, is a more serious social menace than in the old days of the Raines law hotel. Not the entire responsibility rests with the Volstead law. The committee's report deals in part with the dance hall, which is a phenomenon antedating prohibition. It is precisely in the twenty years since the Committee of Fourteen has been functioning that the dance craze has swept the world. The public ballroom is part of the response to the demand for more and worse dancing. Inevitably it was bound to supply a field of operations for the once-famous "cadet" and a general market place for prostitution. Other agencies before this have reported on conditions in the dance halls with their staffs of "hostesses," from whom incidentally the Committee of Fourteen finds the night club and speakeasy "hostesses" to be recruited in large measure. This phase of the problem is not essentially connected with liquor. Without prohibition we should still have to take cognizance of the promiscuity of the dance "palace" and its facilities for what a more Puritan age used to call "temptation."

When we come to conditions in the night club and speakeasy there is no room for disagreeing with the committee's findings that vice conditions are more disturbing than they were twenty years ago. This is said both of the volume of vice and of the manner of its exploitation. It is the second feature that will bite in hardest on the public conscience. The old saloon back room and the old Raines law hotels carried a brand which was a safeguard for the unsuspecting and the self-respecting. The speakeasy and the night club draw young men and women, to whom they are part of metropolitan "life." Like the pocket flask, the speakeasy is often youth's defiance to restraint, or a display of the sporting instinct. The night club has become a regular after-theatre feature, by many today approached in a spirit not different from the after-theatre restaurant of former times. But in the speakeasies and night clubs investigated by the Committee of Fourteen it was found that 85 per cent. were identified with vice traffic, and of its women habitués two-thirds were professionals.

Young people are thus exposed to contacts which would have been impossible in former days and from which they would shrink even today in the public dance halls. The Raines law hotels, the saloon back rooms and the dives were subject to police intervention. The speakeasy is exempt, except in the case of public disturbances. It is significant that the Committee of Fourteen should have been compelled to restrict its investigations because the cost of repeated visits to obtain evidence was "prohibitive." That high cost and the comparative difficulty of access and the general sense of adventure are among the lures that draw the young people; and for that state of mind prohibition stands responsible.

POSSIBLE THEATRE EXCHANGES.

Actors in London and New York are said still to be extremely annoyed with one another for playing in one another's back yards. The rage that seethed in cooler weather has abated somewhat, but it is merely simmering, and actors' associations in both countries are ready to defend the home stage from English-speaking invaders. Unless the lassitude of the season has entirely overcome them, some comment is to be expected on the announcement of Mr. CHARLES B. COCHRAN. He is a well-known producer in London, and to show his fellow-citizens "an objective for us to aim at," he is planning to take the New York Theatre Guild Company overseas for a six weeks' season next Summer. The British have a rule that no rôle may be played in their theatres except by native talent unless the foreign aspirant can do it better. Fond and loyal New Yorkers may run over the list of Guild players and consider that there is nothing to worry about in that dictum. Many of them have done fine work in a great variety of parts. If theatrical people in London can improve on them, they may be able to stop the show.

Every year New York sees a number of English players and plays, and sometimes an entire production is imported. Next season we are promised the latest Noel Coward revue, with the young author himself playing a leading part. Just as some English newspapers are already complaining that Mr. COCHRAN is trying to Americanize the British stage, so a few hundred percenters on this side inquire what is wrong with our own song, dance and humor that we must have a bright boy from London show us how to do it. But the actors' associations in both countries should somehow work out a satisfactory basis for permitting players of any nationality the greatest freedom in the exercise of their art. No doubt they learn as much as they teach in association with a group of foreign players.

It appears rather a waste of energy anyhow for the British to begin their attacks on Mr. COCHRAN. His plans are not to be carried out for a year, and announcements of theatrical engagements are subject to change. That is not due entirely to the flightiness of player folk. Producers, with one curious exception, are given to trumpeting their announcements as soon as they have the hint of an inspiration to go on. If their favorite playwright has written two lines they come right out with all the news—the name of the play, the leading players and the probable theatre and opening date. New York hopes that London will really have the Guild for six weeks, but one cannot yet be sure.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

New York's Hot Weather Exodus.

Three million people, or half the inhabitants of the city, are estimated to have poured out to the beaches and the woods and hills on Independence Day. Two million was the reckoning for the subsequent hot Sunday. Allowing for the usual exaggerations when it comes to appraising crowds, it is still true that every Summer rest day in New York is marked by incomparably the greatest folk migration in history.

The bulk of the city's population today is nearer in time and space to its recreation areas than a generation ago. As far as Manhattan is concerned, the subways and other forms of rapid transit have brought Coney Island and the Rockaways within less than an hour's ride. But the great majority of the city's people now live in the outlying boroughs, and so are permanently nearer the beaches and waterways. Brooklyn has Coney Island and the Rockaway peninsula. The Bronx has the Sound and the Hudson.

It is in the light of this vast outpouring, equal perhaps to the entire population of Indiana, approaching the entire population of New Jersey, that one should read the figures of drownings and other casualties. They probably do not exceed the toll that would be paid if these millions stayed at home. And if the great mass of physical and mental recuperation be taken into account there can be no question that the ultimate gain for vital statistics is substantial.

Mr. Dill Pledges Enforcement.

While holding that the Volstead act is not only "bad legislation" but "actually injurious," Commissioner DILL, who is the Democratic candidate for Governor in New Jersey, has stated that if elected he will "enforce its provisions with all the sincerity of purpose and expenditure of effort that have characterized my work in enforcing the provisions of the Motor Vehicle and Traffic acts." It is a pledge of which citizens of New Jersey will know the meaning. Mr. DILL has served for ten years with a seal, activity and impartiality that have really made his name a household word in the State.

In three State elections the voters of New Jersey have recorded their judgment that the Volstead act is indeed "bad legislation" and "socially injurious," but it does not follow that all of them wish to see it enforced by a public official of Mr. DILL'S stamp. Those who have been satisfied with lax enforcement now know that WILLIAM L. DILL as Governor will have no sympathy with them. He is the kind of man who hews to the line.

Obviously, it is his view that the way to get an undesirable law repealed is to enforce it up to the hilt. But it is days should understand that he does not agree with them that such "sumptuary legislation" as the Volstead act will ever "stop drunkenness." He has often pointed out that the curve of drunkenness among drivers of motor cars has sharply risen year after year. Mr. DILL is not concerned about D. support, for he has declared it to be his belief that "each State should have the right, if the people of the State desire, to permit the sale of light wines and beer."

One Who Outlived His Fame.

Only a few paragraphs were required yesterday to tell of the death and career of former Senator GEORGE E. CHAMBERLAIN of Oregon. Had he died ten years ago the obituary would have occupied much more space. In politics especially, when a man outlives his activity, he shrinks in importance in almost the exact proportion represented by the shrinkage in notices of his passing.

Less than twenty years ago Mr. CHAMBERLAIN was one of the most conspicuous men in national affairs. A Mississippian who emigrated to Oregon, he was one of the first Democrats in the Far West to achieve high office and country-wide fame. He was Governor, he was Senator, and it was a legend that he could not be defeated in Oregon.

When he came to the Senate, and his party took control, he became Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, and thus played a great part in the World War. His importance in party councils began to diminish, however, when he openly advocated the establishment of a "coalition Cabinet" to guide President WILSON as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and the Navy. This suggestion was repugnant to Mr. WILSON in the form that Senator CHAMBERLAIN presented it—as a sort of coordinate Executive branch—and its sponsors in the Democratic Party were not thereafter warmly welcomed at the White House.

English Barmaids Threatened.

American tourists are often accused of robbing old-world cities of their romantic charm. Paris is rapidly becoming Americanized and London is not what it once was. And now a movement is on foot to get rid of the pretty barmaids in the British pubs. But this threat against an ancient and picturesque tradition cannot be attributed to American influence.

The proposed bill would prevent the present number of 26,000 barmaids from being increased, and would gradually cut it down to only the wives and daughters of keepers of public houses. The leaders of the anti-barmaid crusade say that the health of the girls "suffers from the stuffy and unhealthy atmosphere too often found in the saloons." Their morals also are endangered.

They are a class well worth saving, as advertisements show that they "are selected mainly for their youthfulness, good looks, smartness and attractive appearance." Deprived of an opportunity to serve at the bar, they should have no difficulty in qualifying for an almost equally perilous position in some stage review glorifying the English girl.

It seems doubtful that such a bill can be passed. Clients would protest vigorously against the disappearance of cheery maids from behind the bar, and novelists, playwrights and writers of thrillers would be unable to continue their work without that standard prop of their industry, the British barmaid.

An All-American Habit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES account of an interview with Miss Earhart, the writer said that Miss Earhart had Lindbergh's "slowly drawn out 'well' prefixing a pause before answering."

This drawling, preludial "well" is not peculiar to either Miss Earhart or Lindbergh. It is a characteristic typical of my fellow-countrymen, the Americans. One meets it East, North, South and West.

John Emerson of Sandusky, Ohio, President of the Actors' Equity Association, has a "well" that it is worth going miles to hear. The "well" in my native New England is longer than in any other section of the country, though the Southern "well" is not without its merits as a rival. But in New England it is spun out in the same way that a child takes hold of a lump of chewing gum and pulls the gum out to a distance of a foot or more while retaining one end in the mouth.

WIND, ESQ.

Full blast and bellowing like a bull,
Red-eyed and smashing against the door,
Stripping the road for a bellyful,
He swings out over the meadow floor.

He tears out over the meadow grass,
Gulping and heaving and riding low,
Tossing a sign post down the pass,
Splitting the poplars cabbath row;

Ripping the hats from the village corn,
Slashing the shirts from a town of wheat,
Drooping the toughest of hedges born—
He reaches at last my garden's feet.

And a puzzled look creeps into his eyes
(While silence comes in a velvet coat),
And ever so wearily he sighs
And picks at a thistle lodged in his throat.

AN ISSUE NEEDS CLEARING.

Definite Statement on the Tariff Should Come From Democrats.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We need a statement, to clear the tariff issue between the parties, such as Grover Cleveland gave in his celebrated message to Congress of Dec. 6, 1887.

After describing the then surplus in the Treasury and its evils in contracting the currency, and pointing out the gross abuses of the then existing tariff, far lower and less oppressive than the present Fordney-McCumber law, Mr. Cleveland said:

> "Our progress toward a wise conclusion will not be improved by dwelling on the theories of protection and free trade. This savors too much of bandying epithets. It is a condition which confronts us—not a theory. Relief from this condition may involve a slight reduction of the advantages we award our home productions, but the entire withdrawal of such advantages should not be contemplated. The question of free trade is absolutely irrelevant; and the persistent claim made in certain quarters that all efforts to relieve the people from unjust and unnecessary taxation are schemes of so-called free-traders is mischievous and far removed from any consideration of the public good."

Cleveland was defeated the following year (1888) on the unfair cry of "free trade," but in 1892 he swept the country and carried both branches of Congress. His beneficent reform was substantially defeated by the rise of the "silver issue" and the evils of disordered currency and banking laws—the fruits, chiefly, of civil war legislation, long obsolete and outgrown.

We have today in effect the so-called Fordney-McCumber law—the highest in its tax rates of any tariff law in our history, including the McKinley, Dingley and Payne-Aldrich acts of unhappy memory. Moreover, this Fordney act is filled with abuses other than the extortionate, prohibitive rates of duty-taxes. Such, surely, is the so-called "flexible clause" which permits the President, upon report of the Tariff Commission, to raise or lower rates of duties; in other words, to take over the exclusive functions of Congress as prescribed by the Constitution. That extra-constitutional power has been exercised by a high protectionist President almost exclusively for the raising of the already grossly excessive Fordney rates. The Tariff Commission recommended a reduction in the sugar rate; the President raised the rate. And only recently the Executive advanced the rate of the very important item of pig iron by 50 per cent. The rate on live quail from Mexico was lowered. Perhaps the cost of production of "bob-whites" in Mexico is higher than in the United States and so the rate was lowered!

The Democratic Party must sound no uncertain note in attacking the existing abuses of the Fordney-McCumber law. It must be true to its historic principles and to the urgent need for a fair and reasonable abatement of these generally admitted abuses of the taxing power of the nation.

As Grover Cleveland courageously said: "It is a condition which confronts us—not a theory." He further said: "But our present tariff laws, the vicious, inequitable and illogical source of unnecessary taxation, ought to be at once revised and amended." These words apply with quadruple force to the existing Fordney-McCumber abuse.

DRESS REFORM FOR MEN.

But We Are, It Seems, Doomed by Commerce to Present Garb.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the editorial of last August in THE NEW YORK TIMES, "What Men Won't Wear," is the direct answer in the following:

When the Men's Style Designers' Convention met at the Waldorf-Astoria in the Winter, I met the President, who was so pleased with the idea of blouses for men in hot weather he planned to put it before the convention. However, the Secretary said to me: "This organization does a billion-dollar business. All these men are wool merchants. Your plan would cut our throats!"

Do men realize that in bowing to the dictation of a group of men who arbitrarily assume the government of style they sacrifice their lives to the mercenary interest of wool merchants?

Science shows the reason. "The ultra-violet rays of the sun cannot reach man's body through the thick clothes he wears." (Quoting Dr. Hill of London.)

Any individuals, or group of men, are welcome to models I had drawn by a first-class style artist, which include an original idea to eliminate the uncomfortable and harmful leather belt. Any physiologist (or any fool) can glance at a man's figure and know it is not designed by nature with sufficient curves to support the trousers by a belt without having to draw the belt dangerously tight.

Pray understand I do not seek to make a penny. I have no interest in any manufacturer.

I have seen the proprietors of four large hotel systems of New York who heartily sanctioned the wearing of the blouse in their dining rooms and lobbies when hot weather, health and comfort demand common sense. It is originally the working man's garment of France. Women have only borrowed it the last fifteen years. I am informed policemen have adopted it in parts of New York State and that the New Jersey State Troopers wear it. Whoever decreed that wool is more masculine than silk, linen or cotton?

Illustrious Tammanyites.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Probably I am one in a hundred million or larger number of people in the United States who did not know that President Andrew Jackson was a member of the Tammany Society, and that Samuel J. Tilden was not only a member but several times Grand Sachem. Recently I have received authentic information to this effect; further, that Washington was the only President who was a member of Tammany's unloved sister Society of the Cincinnati.

Now will the Antis be good and deem their bricks!

CHECK ASTRONOMY OF TEMPLE OF SUN

Scientists Find Meridian of Ancient Andean Priests Only 57 Minutes Off.

OBSERVED SOLSTICE THERE

Professors Posnansky and Muller See Sun Rise at Lake Titicaca, Proving Indian Figures.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 9 (AP).—Professor Arturo Posnansky, scientist and founder of the Tiahuanacu Museum, and Dr. Rolf Muller, subdirector of the Astronomical Observatory at Potsdam, have just returned from an investigation carried out in the prehistoric ruins on the banks of Lake Titicaca.

At the Temple of the Sun, situated in these ruins, Professors Posnansky and Muller observed the stars, sun and moon from the same post at which the ancient Tiahuanacan priests took observations thousands of years ago, especially of the sun and the moon, in order to give the people, essentially an agricultural race, the seasons for sowing and the breeding of domestic animals.

The scientists made their observations from June 20 to 23, the time of the solstice being June 21. The difference between the Tiahuanacan meridian as figured by the ancient priests and the meridian of today, figured by comparing the position of the west wall of the temple with the present meridian or a line due north, is only 57 minutes, thus demonstrating the exactitude with which the ancient astronomers carried out their studies.

According to Professors Muller and Posnansky the ancients probably used the polar stars to determine the meridian, establishing with very fine metals the culmination of some of them, thus determining a line exactly south which they marked with a great white sign or "mira" (look) painted on the side of a mountain of rock fifteen kilometers from Tiahuanacu. This could be distinguished from the observatory in the Temple of the Sun, appearing about the size of an egg. This sign also served the ancients for building their edifices in line with the meridian.

Years ago Professor Posnansky announced his theory that the ancient Tiahuanacans knew mathematically the angle of ecliptic obliquity.

He surmised this because the Temple of the Sun is so constructed that it forms a square including an angle, the vertex of which, situated in the middle of the west wall, is the amplitude of the sun between the two solstices, or double the obliquity of the ecliptic of that ancient age.

According to Professor Posnansky, this enabled him to determine the age of the temple as 13,000 years, establishing it as the oldest granite temple of the sun in the world.

It was an emotional moment for Dr. Muller when with Professor Posnansky he proved mathematically the rising of the sun over the enormous rock which in Tiahuanacu signified the beginning of the Winter or the sowing solstice.

To determine the south geographical line, Dr. Muller used the stars Alena and Beta of the Centaurus. He was very enthusiastic over having been able to make the same observations as did the ancient priests thousands of years ago.

COLUMBIA SUMMER SCHOOL.

Enrolment of 13,230 Is Expected to Exceed 14,000.

Enrolment in Columbia University Summer Session yesterday reached 13,230 students and will probably exceed 14,000 after the late registration period, according to Professor John J. Coss, Director. The final figure is expected to surpass that of last Summer by more than 300 students. All classes for the six weeks' session started yesterday morning and will continue until Aug. 17.

Dean William F. Russell of Teachers College delivered the address of welcome at noon to more than a thousand students who gathered in Russell Court for the annual Summer convocation. He urged the new students of Teachers College "to get to work quickly and to stop quickly" so as to get the most out of their six weeks of Summer study, and also advised them to take advantage of the opportunities offered them in the City of New York.

"Model yourselves after the subway train," said Dean Russell to the students, "rather than after an ocean liner or an airplane. The subway starts, goes and stops quickly, while the Leviathan, great as it is, takes a long time to start and stop. You are here for only six weeks, with all sorts of opportunities before you."

The Rev. Raymond C. Knox, chaplain of the university, addressed the students yesterday morning in St. Paul's Chapel at 8 o'clock, and Professor L. W. Crawford, director of excursions, lectured on "Columbia University in the City of New York" in the afternoon. Excursions to various points of interest about the city are being organized under Professor Crawford.

Two lectures will be given in McMillin Academic Theatre today. Albert Ten Eyck Olmstead, professor of history and curator of the Oriental Museum, University of Illinois, will talk on "A Day in Babylonia;" this afternoon, and the Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin, President of Union Theological Seminary, will speak on "The Sources of Religion" tonight.

Thirty-three courses in library service are scheduled for the Summer Session.

HANGCHOW SCHOOL CLOSES

Board in America, Despite Faculty, Refused Nationalist Terms.

SHANGHAI, July 9 (AP).—Hangchow Christian College, founded eighty-one years ago by the Presbyterian Mission, announces that it is closing down indefinitely. It is thus carrying out the decision of the Board of Governors in America, who object to the regulations of the Nationalist Government requiring mission schools to allow voluntary attendance at religious service and Bible studies, instead of making such attendance compulsory, as heretofore.

Many mission schools in China have complied with the Nationalist regulations, which provide also: First, that a Chinese President must be at the head of all the schools; second, that the board of directors must be under the control of a Chinese majority; third, that compulsory weekly memorial services must be held for the late Sun Yat-sen, who is considered the father of Nationalism.

The faculty of the Hangchow College opposed the American board's action.

GEORGE EARLE CHAMBERLAIN, Ex-Senator of Oregon, Who Died in Washington Yesterday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—George Earle Chamberlain, former United States Senator from Oregon, wartime Chairman of the Senate Military Committee, in which position he became the "father of the selective draft law," and later a member of the Shipping Board, died here at 2 A. M. today in his apartment at Wardman Park Hotel. Death was the culmination of ill-health which began two years ago when he was stricken with paralysis. He seemed to have recovered, but had a relapse in January and had been in bed most of the time. His age was 74.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday. Interment will be at Arlington in tribute to his outstanding work as Chairman of the Senate Military Committee during the World War.

Mr. Chamberlain won distinction for his battle for popular government in Oregon, the fight for National Preparedness prior to America's entry into the World War, the Universal Draft act, the Food Control bill and the Army Reorganization bill under which the peace time forces are now disposed.

Born on Plantation in South.

Though identified with Oregon since early manhood, Senator Chamberlain was born on a plantation near Natchez, Miss., on Jan. 1, 1854. He received his education at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., and was graduated in 1876.

Like many other young men from the South whose ambitions were fettered by the political and economic handicaps after the Civil War, he struck out for the far West. Immediately after graduation, he started the practice of law in Portland, Ore. Three years later he married Miss Sarah Newman Welch of Natchez.

Politics appealed to Chamberlain, and he soon became prominently known in Democratic circles. In 1880 he was elected to the Oregon House. He was District Attorney for the Third Judicial District from 1884 to 1886; Attorney General of the State from 1891 to 1895, and District Attorney of the Fourth Judicial District from 1900 to 1904.

His popularity had grown to such an extent that he was elected Governor for the terms 1903 to 1907 and 1907 to 1911. He resigned the Governorship in 1815, after two years of his second term, upon his election to the Senate.

Mr. Chamberlain was the only Democrat ever elected to the Senate by a Republican Legislature of Oregon. At that time he was the people's choice for Senator, and President Theodore Roosevelt sent a message to the Oregon Legislature urging it to "stand by the people's vote." This act served to cement a friendship between Senator Chamberlain and Roosevelt that was lifelong.

Mr. Chamberlain came to the Senate from the Governorship with a reputation as a champion of the "Oregon system" of government. He was sent to the Senate by Republican votes under Statement No. 1, and made a notable speech in the Senate in support of the Federal amendment for popular election of Senators.

Champion of Preparedness.

He almost immediately became a national figure after his admission to the Senate. In time he became the ranking Democrat on the Military Affairs Committee and with the outbreak of the World War in 1914 he was one of the outspoken champions of preparedness in the United States.

Senator Chamberlain worked forward in influence, and gave loyal support to the policies of Woodrow Wilson. The outbreak of the war found him at the head of the military committee and an advocate of placing the United States in a position of military defense. From the date of the American declaration of war he took charge of one war measure after another to organize and make effective the war strength of the United States. Finally, as the country's impatience increased, he directed his committee in an inquiry into the conduct of the war, which led in a few months to a controversy with the President, who declared that the Administration was being embarrassed.

With the declaration of a state of war between the United States and Germany, Senator Chamberlain was perhaps the most formidable proponent of preparedness in the Senate. Upon his shoulders fell the duty of putting the Administration's military program through the Senate.

He was one of the first to realize the necessity of a universal draft act for the successful prosecution of the war, and his name is attached to the National Defense act as author.

Wilson Breaks With Him.

As the war progressed, Senator Chamberlain displayed an independence of action that had more than once marked his earlier career in the Senate. Although exerting all his leadership in putting through a rigid military program, he openly criticized the conduct of the war on numerous occasions. This brought about a break between the Military Affairs Chairman and President Wilson, which was never reconciled.

Speaking before the National Security League in New York City in 1918, Senator Chamberlain declared that the War Department had ceased to function. He criticized the Administration for sending men overseas without adequate training. He criticized also the failure of the War Department to furnish adequate guns and the condition of uniforms and other equipment about which there had been widespread complaint in the A. E. F.

Upon his return to Washington, President Wilson asked him if he had been quoted correctly in his speech and Mr. Chamberlain replied that he had.

The President sharply resented this, and issued a statement in which he denied Chamberlain's charges in caustic language. In one of the greatest speeches of his career, Senator Chamberlain replied to the President's denouncement of him on the Senate floor. Old-timers recall the emotion of that speech and the deep impression it created. Chamberlain insisted that important facts had been disclosed by his committee which the country should know, and that the purpose was to speed the country's effort to win the war.

From that day Chamberlain ceased to be one of the confidential advisers of the Administration, although continuing in his duties as Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee throughout the war period and later. Despite the break, he held the utmost confidence of his Senate colleagues.

This coolness caused by the controversy between the President and the Senator existed during the remainder of the Wilson Administration.

Supported Lodge in Treaty.

It was accentuated when Senator Chamberlain supported the Lodge reservations to the League of Nations, although he first voted to ratify the Treaty of Versailles without amendment.

When he came up for re-election in 1921 Senator Chamberlain was one of several Democrats singled out for personal opposition by President Wilson. Mr. Wilson sent a message to the voters of Oregon about twenty-four hours before the election asking them to defeat Chamberlain, and questioned his record as a Democrat. It came too late for the Senator to make a reply.

He was defeated in the election, although he ran about 60,000 votes ahead of the Democratic ticket in Oregon, which was smothered in the Harding landslide. Chamberlain and Wilson went out of office the same day in March, 1921, when Harding was inaugurated.

On July 1, 1921, Chamberlain became a member of the United States Shipping Board by appointment of Harding, a warm personal friend. He served until 1923, when he resigned and resumed practice of law in partnership with Peter Q. Nyce. Two years ago the firm was reorganized as Long, Chamberlain & Nyce, admitting former United States Senator Chester I. Long of Kansas.

Mr. Chamberlain surprised his friends in Washington in July, 1926, when he quietly went to Norfolk and was married to Mrs. Carolyn E. Shelton, who had been clerk to the Senate Military Affairs Committee. He had been a widower about two years before his second marriage. With him at the time of his death were his wife and one of his six children, Mrs. Lucie Blair of Newport News, Va. His other children are Charles Thomson Chamberlain, Mrs. Carrie Lee Wood and Mrs. Fannie Tevis of Portland; George Earle Chamberlain of Fort Bragg, Cal., and Mrs. Marguerite Gurther of Piedmont, Cal., who is on her way from San Francisco to Washington.

Fight Over Panama Tolls.

Senator Chamberlain came into prominence in the Senate in the fight for the exemption of American ships from Panama Canal tolls in 1912 and 1913. This led to a considerable diplomatic controversy with Great Britain, and from that time on till German aggression made America's entry into the war necessary the Senator was anti-British in his attitude.

On April 21, 1913, he introduced a resolution declaring the Hay-Pauncefote and Clayton-Bulwer treaties void, and in the following June blocked for a time the renewal of the arbitration treaty with Great Britain on account of the fear that the Panama tolls question would have to be arbitrated. From that time dated his opposition to the Carnegie peace movement, which he feared would "make the United States an annex of Great Britain."

It was said that much of Oregon's widespread public confidence in his integrity was due to his action in personally paying off by years of saving $30,000 lost by he depositors of a bank in which he was a director when it failed through investments made over his protest.

Mr. Chamberlain was counsel for Harry Daugherty during the Senate investigation of the former Attorney General in the Harding Administration.

HENRY YATES THOMPSON.

Book Collector and Former Publisher Dead at 89 in London.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—Henry Yates Thompson, who once owned The Pall Mall Gazette, but is better known as a collector of rare books and illuminated manuscripts, died here yesterday at the age of 89. Mr. Thomoson went to the United States in 1863 and saw the battle of Chattanooga. He returned home with admiration for America and hatred for war. He anticipated at that time the Cecil Rhodes Foundation by formulating a project for American scholarships at Cambridge University and offering an endowment, but the United States and England were not then ready for it. He became a warm friend of each succeeding American Ambassador, and welcomed many Americans at his house in Portman Square.

Henry S. Dulaney.

Special to the New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 9.—Henry S. Dulaney, one of the best known churchmen and philanthropists in Baltimore, died last night.

He was one of the foremost contributors to the Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Episcopal Church, having been Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the First Methodist Church. He was also a director of the Maryland Casualty Company. He was a former trustee of Goucher College.

Mr. Dulaney was one of the State's earliest advocates of prohibition and his active work for the Anti-Saloon League had made him an important factor in the national councils of the organization.

Mrs. Dulaney, who was an aunt of John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for President of the United States in 1924, died four years ago.

RABBI POLYACHECK, SCHOLAR, DIES AT 51

Professor in the Elchanan Theological Seminary Undergoes an Operation.

OUTDOOR FUNERAL TODAY

Services to Be Held in Public Square on East Side—Many Delegations to Attend.

Rabbi Solomon Polyacheck, Professor of Talmud in the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary and Yeshiva College, 301 East Broadway, died on Sunday night at Sydenham Hospital, Manhattan Avenue and West 123d Street, after an operation on his jaw. His age was 51. He was internationally known as a scholar and an authority on Jewish law. A widow, two sons and three daughters survive. His home was at 1,954 Sixtieth Street, Brooklyn.

Born in 1877 at Meitshet, Russia, Rabbi Polyacheck attended the Talmudical Academy at Volosin. After serving as a rabbi in Brest-Litovsk, Poland, he was Dean of the Talmudical College in Lida, Poland, from 1910 to 1917.

Coming to this country seven years ago, he assumed the post of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Seminary which he occupied at his death. He was the author of several books. Recently he became an American citizen.

Funeral services will be held at 10 A. M. today in the public square at Grand Street and East Broadway. The Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada and the New York Board of Rabbis have proclaimed today as a day of mourning.

Delegations of rabbis from Jewish organizations here and elsewhere will take part in the funeral. Rabbi Polyacheck's Seminary will be represented by the entire Faculty and the alumni. The Union of Orthodox Rabbis will be represented by Rabbi Israel Rosenberg, J. Konowitz, J. C. Siegel and B. L. Leventhal. The Rabbinical Council will be represented by Rabbis J. F. Epstein, T. F. Pfeffer and E. Gunick.

MICHEL LAZARD DIES SUDDENLY IN PARIS

Head of Bankers, Lazard Freres, Was a Leading Figure in International Finance.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—Michel Lazard, one of the leading figures in international finance and head of the banking firm of Lazard Freres, died suddenly in Paris today at the age of 60 years.

He descended from three brothers Lazard who went to the United States where they made the beginning of their great banking firm which has ramifications in the world markets. They went first to New Orleans and then to San Francisco where they founded the concern, which in 1856 opened a Paris branch and later established offices in London.

Michel Lazard was known here as a sportsman and turfman and had a magnificent residence in the Bois de Boulogne. He was an indefatigable worker and even this morning was at his desk in the banking firm as usual.

Word was received at the New York office of Lazard Freres, bankers, yesterday of the death in Paris of Michel Lazard, one of the senior partners of Lazard Freres et Cie., Paris.

M. Lazard had been connected with the banking firm since his early manhood and had wide financial experience. At one time he centered his activities in New York, but that was more than twenty years ago. He had also served at times in England and other parts of Europe. While active in many lines of banking, M. Lazard was regarded as particularly proficient in foreign exchange, and he had put in exceptionally hard service in that branch of the firm's business since the war.

The wide fluctuations in the value of the franc following the war and up to the time it was virtually pegged at its present level had made foreign exchange dealing in Paris risky and the close relations of the Lazard firm with the French Government had called not only for a high degree of tact but of expert banking ability. M. Lazard, according to officials of the firm here, was chiefly responsible for the successful handling of the foreign exchange problems and also for a general expansion which has taken place in the firm's business.

DR. RALPH HUDSON HUNT.

East Orange Physician Dies After a Long Illness.

Special to the New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 9.—Dr. Ralph Hudson Hunt, specialist in diabetes and tuberculosis, who had practiced here for the last thirty-one years, died today in Orange Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. May Williams Hunt; a daughter, May Hayward Hunt, and a brother, the Rev. Walter Reid Hunt of Boston. Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 3:45 P. M. at the Colonial Home, 132 Harrison Street.

Dr. Hunt served as a surgeon with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel for seventeen months during the World War. He was a member of the Hope Masonic Lodge, the New Jersey Medical Society and the Orange Mountain Medical Society and was Past President of the Pierson Medical Society of Orange.

Born in Camden, Me., Dr. Hunt graduated from Bowdoin College and later from the Medical School of Bowdoin. He was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. At the time of his death he was President of the Essex County Mosquito Extermination Commission. Some time ago he founded the Anti-Tuberculosis Day Camp here.

Mrs. Alice Sykes Meara.

Mrs. Alice Sykes Meara, widow of Dr. Frank S. Meara, former Professor of Clinical Medicine at the Medical College of Cornell University, died yesterday in New Haven, Conn. Dr. and Mrs. Meara formerly lived in New York. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1,041 Forest Road New Haven.

Woman Dies as She Nears 104.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP).—Mrs. Katherine Rickert, 103, is dead at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Schmidt. She was to have celebrated on Aug. 4 the 104th anniversary of her birth. She was born at Baden, Germany.

MICHAEL B. ABRAHAMS BURIED WITH EULOGIES

Rabbi Reichert and Ex-Judge Wahle Pay Tributes to Veteran Member of New York Times Staff.

The funeral of Michael B. Abrahams, a member of the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES for almost half a century, who died in his sleep Saturday morning at the age of 87, was held yesterday afternoon at the Riverside Memorial Chapel, 180 West Seventy-sixth Street. Following the religious service, members of Centennial Lodge 763, F. and A. M., conducted the Masonic burial ceremony. Mr. Abrahams was a Past Master of the Lodge.

Rabbi Irving F. Reichert of Tremont Temple in the Bronx, who conducted the first part of the services, eulogized Mr. Abrahams as "a gentleman in the highest and best sense of the word; a man of character and of intellectual attainments who proved himself worthy of the highest achievements."

"Through merit and industry," Dr. Reichert said, "he won an enviable position in the newspaper field and held that position by his honesty, integrity and sobriety. Through all of his experiences his own character and ideals were undefiled. He was a man to whom strife was alien and he lived his life in amity and concord."

After Henry Lippman, Past Master of Centennial Lodge, had recited the Masonic burial ritual, former Judge Charles G. F. Wahle, another Past Master, paid tribute to Mr. Abrahams, whom he referred to as "the most respected, beloved and revered member of Centennial Lodge." He recalled that on July 9, 1876, fifty-two years ago to the day, Mr. Abrahams had severed his connection with Greenwich Lodge 467, F. and A. M., of which he was a Past Master, to become a charter member of Centennial Lodge.

The Past Masters of Centennial Lodge who took part in the services included also former Judge William Grossman, Louis J. Vorhaus, Baldwin Schlesinger, Albert R. Lesinsky, Sidney S. Simon, Arthur Kilianheimer, Irving Nathan and Herbert A. Mossier, the present Master.

Mr. Abrahams's son, his two daughters and his grandchildren were among 200 friends and former associates who attended the services. The coffin, covered with pink rose buds and blue larkspur, was taken to Salem Fields, Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn, for burial.

ELLIOTT FUNERAL FRIDAY.

Services for Former Railroad Executive to Be Held in St. Bartholomew's.

Funeral services for Howard Elliott, former President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Northern Pacific railroads, who died Sunday at Dennis, Mass., will be held at St. Bartholomew's Church, Park Avenue and Fifty-first Street, Friday, at 11 A. M., it was announced yesterday.

The New England Society of the City of New York, of which Mr. Elliott was Vice President, announced that the following committee of officers and directors would represent the society at the funeral services: Irving Bacheller, Bertram H. Borden, George W. Hodges, Harry A. Cushing, Frederic W. Allen, Seth B. Hunt, Henry E. Meeker, Robert Scoville, Ethelbert Ide Low, Edwin G. Merrill, John E. Rousmaniere, Allen Wardwell, Arthur A. Ballantine, James G. Blaine, Howard A. Halligan, Edward L. Rossiter, Chellis A. Austin, Charles A. Corliss, Carl A. Mead, Charles F. Noyes.

While there naturally has been no discussion of a possible successor to Howard Elliott as Chairman of the board of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, the consensus in financial circles yesterday was that the office would either be abolished or combined with that of President, with Charles Donnelly, present head of the line, occupying both offices.

George Brengel.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA CLIFF, N. Y., July 9.—George Brengel, one of the earliest residents of Sea Cliff, died in the Mary Immaculate Hospital, Jamaica, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Brengel, who would have been 84 years old in September, was in Louisiana when the Civil War broke out and came North to enlist with a New York regiment.

Members of the James F. Brengel Post, 456, named in honor of Mr. Brengel's only son, who was killed in the World War while serving with a telephone battalion in the Signal Corps, will attend the funeral services at the Fairchild Funeral Parlors at 164th Street, Jamaica, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Rev. Hartley J. Hartman, chaplain of the Post, will officiate and a firing squad will give the last salute at the interment.

The Rev. Francis P. Burke.

PRODUCER IN DRAMA WITH A COURT SCENE

As Curtain Rises Policeman Objects to Parking of Car by Laurence Schwab.

MANAGER PROVIDES ACTION

Launches Blow at Patrolman—Then He and Three Others Are Held as Liquor Is Found in Auto.

Laurence Schwab, one of the producers of "Good News" and other plays, staged an impromptu melodrama on Broadway last night and it had an unhappy ending. He, his mother, a woman friend and his chauffeur were severally charged with disorderly conduct and with violation of the Volstead act.

Properties in this Schwab production, which was considered a great success by those of his friends at Fiftieth Street and Broadway who witnessed it, were Mr. Schwab's new automobile, a case of Bacardi and a case of whisky. The rôle of fate was played by a patrolman, Thomas Mitchell of the West Forty-seventh Street Station and Lieutenant Barney McGowan of the same precinct.

Critics found the action of the episode gripping. This included a blow on the mouth, directed by Mr. Schwab at Patrolman Mitchell, which was later identified as disorderly conduct, and a rescue by the supporting company when the police man sought to take reprisals. The dialogue also, it was asserted, was strong.

Mr. Schwab, who gave his age later as 35, was riding through Forty-ninth Street, and his chauffeur, Louis Gonzales, was looking for a place to park. In the car were Mrs. Caroline Schwab, the producer's mother, who gave her age later as 48 years, and Geraldine Barnett, 40, of 531 West 124th Street.

A traffic policeman waved the new car on. It turned north in Broadway and came again to the curb. Patrolman Mitchell had seen the traffic man forbid the automobile's parking in Forty-ninth Street, and came over to move it on. The chauffeur meanwhile had left the car.

Schwab, according to the policeman, declined to show his license. "I'll have you broken," the police men said the producer threatened. "I have influence. You can't stop me. I won't show you my license." Mitchell invited the car and its occupants to drive to the station, and jumped on the running board.

In Fifty-first Street, heading toward Eighth Avenue, Mitchell said Schwab became abusive. Then the theatrical man leaned forward, Mitchell said, and swung a hard right to the mouth. The women screamed and prevented Mitchell from returning the blow. A scuffle took place while the car was coming to a stop, in which Mitchell got a mauling.

At the police station, Schwab, dissatisfied with Mitchell's assertion that he only wanted to see his license, continued to protest to Lieutenant MacGowan. MacGowan ordered Mitchell to inspect the car and in it the policeman found the two cases of liquor.

Thereat the party was charged severally with the two offenses. Later they got $500 bail each and went away in a taxicab. Mrs. Schwab lives in North Drive, Great Neck.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

To Be on Time Is a Habit Well Worth Cultivating

The very smallness of the matter of being five minutes late make it less excusable. Hurry is the child of unpunctuality, procrastination and irritability. To pay a fine for the five or ten minutes late would not be any compensation to a dozen other men kept waiting with other engagements to fulfill. We haven't any right to throw things out of gear. No one should be considered eligible for a place on a committee or a board who is a chronic behind-timer. What kind of a Store would this be if it were not on the minute with its fashions and fabrics?

Numdah Rugs, Now $10

Our Regular $15 Grade—4 by 6 Feet

Rugs whose picturesque charm is of that informal order especially desirable for summer, whether in the town apartment or the country cottage. They come from Kashmir and are made of felted Angora goats' hair embroidered in wonderfully effective Oriental designs of exotic flowers, birds, butterflies, the graceful pointed Shanari leaf and the Tree of Life. The fringed edges add much to the decorative effect and the size is a useful one anywhere. They make delightful veranda rugs and are equally appropriate in bedroom, bathroom or living room. Many have black or white backgrounds nearly covered by the vivid or pastel hued embroideries. And there are many other shades, including lovely wood browns, and greens, peacock blues, rose and lilac.

These rugs are of the admirable quality we have always sold hitherto at the higher price.

CAPONE PUTS 5 HERE DAY UALE WAS SLAIN

POLITICIANS SEE GANGSTER

Women Who Call to Invite Him to Church Are Cowed by His Six Bodyguards.

POLICE TRACK THREE AIDES

'Chicago' Trip Held Clue to Crime Here—Brooklyn Criminal, Uale Lieutenant, Is Seized.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., July 9.—"Scarface" Al Capone, surrounded by his attorneys and his bodyguard, visited the county building here this afternoon to be questioned by County Solicitor Robert R. Taylor on the slaying of Frankie Uale, Brooklyn gangster. Capone was closeted with Mr. Taylor and a court stenographer for about ten minutes over the protest of his lawyers, whom Mr. Taylor barred from the room.

After the examination Mr. Taylor declared that Capone had given the names of five men who left here Friday night preceding Uale's death on board a New York train. This train arrived in New York on Sunday morning, July 1, a few hours before the shooting.

Capone stipulated, Mr. Taylor said, that the names be not made public. The County Solicitor said he would turn the list over to New York or Chicago police upon request. He named the hotel in which the men made their headquarters and an examination of the register of this hotel revealed the names of three men, who, the management said, associated with Capone. They were Jack Guzik, gang leader of Cicero, Ill., and said to be Capone's chief lieutenants during his absence; Daniel Sarritelli and Charles Frischetti. Miami police declare they do not know what connection these men had with Capone or with gang affairs in Chicago.

Chicago Officials at Hotel.

Also in the same hotel, but occupying separate suites, the hotel books show, were State Senator Serri and Alderman Pinelli of the Second Ward, Chicago. They had explained that they were in Miami sightseeing, according to the hotel management, but they frequently were seen in company with Capone. The hotel manager declined to say who paid the hotel bills of the three men.

Capone informed Mr. Taylor that three men, presumably Guzik, Sarritelli and Frischetti, left here for Chicago Friday night, June 29 and that he could produce proof that they arrived in Chicago Sunday afternoon. Capone is said to have refused to discuss his connection with the Uale gang in Brooklyn.

Mr. Taylor admitted he had not been authorized by the Chicago or New York police to question Capone and because of this he did not press the subject.

The Chicago gangster, after revealing the names in answer to Mr. Taylor's first question, is said to have turned on the prosecutor and protested bitterly about the way he was being treated in the Miami district. He complained that the police were shadowing him morning and night and the Miami Beach authorities had placed a searchlight in front of his house.

Visited by Church Women.

The Miami Beach police say that since Sunday, July 1, Capone has kept himself indoors except for an occasional automobile ride accompanied by the bodyguard, which has been increased from one to six men. The exact number of gangsters now being housed by Capone in his Palm Island villa became known yesterday when a delegation of Miami women called on him, according to delegation members, to invite him to become a member of a Miami Beach church.

The women explained today that they had read much about Capone and that they did not believe he was as black as he had been painted, but in their opinion a little religion wouldn't do him any harm. Capone personally answered the delegation's knock at the front door. The women said he was courteous and invited them into the house. When the front door closed they said they found themselves surrounded by six vicious-looking men. The bodyguard's move to protect their chief so completely frightened the delegation, members explained, that the church invitation was not extended.

The Miami Beach police explained that they had substituted searchlights for regular street lights in front of the Capone villa because they feared a reprisal by Brooklyn gangsters would be made on the villa. They added that Capone would be watched as long as he remained in the Miami area, to let him know that he was "a very unwelcome citizen."

Capone has refused to listen to the demands of the Miami Beach City Council to leave the city. He bought the villa through a deal handled by the real estate firm of Mayor J. Newton Lummis Jr., of Miami Beach and he warned the authorities he intends to stand on his constitutional rights as a citizen. Mayor Lummus has been severely censured by citizens for the transaction.

TRACK CAPONE GANGSTERS.

Police Believe Gunman's Aides Stopped Here on Way to Chicago.

New York detectives who were sent to Chicago after the murder of Frankie Uale in Brooklyn a week ago Sunday are expected to check up today on "Scarface" Al Capone's statement to the Miami prosecutor about the three gangsters who left Miami on the Friday night before the murder.

Although Capone said that the trio went direct to Chicago, arriving there the same day Uale was killed, the police here have information that they came to New York first. They are said to have reached here on the Havana Special the morning of the day Uale was shot, and to have continued their journey to Chicago that night.

Whether these particular men killed Uale or not, the police are convinced that the murder was committed by three Chicago gunmen because Uale betrayed Capone in liquor running.

Giuseppe Periani, an ex-convict known to the underworld as "Clutching Hand" because of a crippled left hand, two fingers of which were shaved off in a knife battle, was arrested yesterday at his home, 1,436 Seventy-seventh Street, in the Bath Beach section of Brooklyn.

Periani was charged with a $450 jewelry burglary in the home of Ray Klein of 2,177 Seventy-eighth Street, Brooklyn, on the night of July 2, but it was admitted at Police Headquarters that the real reason for his arrest was to question him about the Uale case.

The police learned from underworld sources that Periani was a trusted lieutenant of Uale and was the last person known to have been with him before the murder. Uale and Periani were together on the night before the murder, and the police thought they might be able to get information from Periani to throw light on the murder. Periani refused to talk, however.

Periani has a long police record and is known to the police as a "killer," although he has usually been successful in avoiding prison sentences. He is 39 years old and his record dates back seventeen years to 1911, when he was sentenced to twenty years in Palermo, Italy, for a killing.

Why he did not serve out that term is not known here, but in 1918 he was arrested and discharged on a homicide charge in this city. The following year he was arrested in the Brooklyn "barrel murder." Giuseppe Candello's body, crammed into a barrel, was found on the street in Brooklyn, with thirty-eight knife wounds in the face, neck and chest. He had been murdered after ignoring warnings to stop selling tomato paste in territory claimed by a rival. The jury disagreed in Periani's first trial after standing eleven to one for conviction, according to the police, and he was acquitted on the second trial.

Periani was arrested again in 1920 on a homicide charge after the body of a man slashed to death was found in Coney Island Creek, but was discharged for lack of evidence. He was sentenced to two to four years in Sing Sing later in 1920 for stealing a truckload of alcohol and served the minimum time. He was arrested on a charge of felonious assault with a pistol in 1923 and was discharged.

Last March he was arrested on another homicide charge after his automobile had killed a child on the lower east side, but was discharged. He was arrested again in April on a charge of felonious assault and was discharged.

In recent months, according to the police, Periani has been running a gambling game in Coney Island as an agent of Uale, and under the protection of Uale's gunmen.

Magistrate Healy in the Homicide Court, Brooklyn, yesterday gave the police another forty-eight hours in which to produce evidence against Henry Veasy of 47 Java Street and Edward Jacobs of 322 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, who have been held for several days in connection with the murder of James "Hickey" Senter, a race track bookmaker, who was shot the day after the Uale murder. Senter is said to have been killed over a money dispute with partners in beer running. The police said yesterday they needed more time to produce out-of-town witnesses. State Senator Louis Jacobson, attorney for the two prisoners, protested against holding them any longer without evidence.

The police said there was no connection between the Uale case and the firing of a shot through the window of Detective Prospero Petrosino's home at 1,223 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, early yesterday. They found a hole in the window that might have been made by a 22-calibre bullet, but did not find the bullet. It was thought the bullet might have been a stray shot. Petrosino has not been working on the Uale case, it was said at Headquarters.

DOUBT CAPONE AIDES' GUILT.

Chicago Police Think His Action Points to Innocence in Uale Case.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 9.—The readiness with which "Scarface Al" Capone gave to the Miami authorities the names of three men sought by New York police for questioning in connection with the murder of Frank Uale convinced the Chicago police that the three were innocent so far as their having any knowledge which might lead to the capture of the assassins of the Brooklyn gangster.

The Chicago police were tonight trying to check up on the assertion of Capone that Jack Guzik, Dan Sarritelli and Charles Frischetti were in this city a week ago Sunday, when Uale was shot to death as he was riding in his automobile in a Brooklyn street.

Guzik has long been known as Capone's right-hand man and bodyguard, and has been his chief lieutenant in gambling and beer syndicate activities in Cicero, a Chicago suburb, it is said.

Sarritelli is a Chicago city sealer, and also is committeeman in the first ward of Michael (Hinkey Dink) Kenna. The first ward is overwhelming Democratic and Sarritelli is looked upon as the representative of the "America First" faction, headed by Mayor Thompson. He is President of the Newsboys' Union.

Little concering Charles Frischetti, beyond identifying him as an aide of Capone, was to be learned tonight.

Denies Mariand Romance Step.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Reports that an "important announcement" was pending concerning the romance of Ernest W. Mariand, Oklahoma oil man, and Miss Lydia Miller Roberts of Flourtown, his former foster daughter, were denied today at the Roberts residence. The engagement was announced last January of Mr. Mariand, who is 54, and Miss Roberts, 22. Her adoption by the oil man was canceled a few days later in Common Pleas Court here. This step was followed by a postponement of the wedding, due, it was said, to a nervous ailment suffered by the young woman.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Philadelphia club women took up aerial bridge today.

Several thousand feet above the city four women played eight hands and after landing declared that bridge in the air was far superior to bridge at home or in a stuffy clubroom, especially with the temperature above 90.

At 2:40 a Fairchild cabin monoplane carrying the players and piloted by Victor Dallin took off from the Philadelphia airport. The game lasted thirty minutes. The players were Miss Dillwyn J. Wattis Jr., hostess; Mrs. Margery Valerius, Dr. Exel Hill, Mrs. May Harb of Jenkintown and Mrs. Jane Stenken.

TWO ARE SHOT DEAD IN BROOKLYN ATTACK

Longshoremen Slain and Two Companions Wounded as Gang in Car Opens Fire.

THUG FEUD ERROR BLAMED

Four Taken for Foemen by Italian Criminal in Red Hook Area, Police Hold.

A fusillade of shots burst from a green sedan as it sped past the corner of Sackett and Van Brunt Streets, Brooklyn, last night. The bullets poured into a group of four young Porto Ricans standing on the corner. Two were instantly killed. The two others fell to the sidewalk wounded.

The shooting roused the neighborhood, which is in the Red Hook district of the borough and as crowds gathered the green sedan, racing east on Sackett Street, disappeared around a corner.

Detective Hal McCarthy, who questioned one of the wounded men, said that the early investigation indicated that the firing of the bullets at the Porto Ricans might have been due to mistaken identity. He added that the men in the sedan were described as Italians, and that it was possible that they might have been attempting to assassinate gangsters connected with the killing of Frankie Uale, slain underworld leader.

The men killed were Golito Marrero, 22 years old, of 90 Atlantic Avenue, and Florentino Fan Jufp, 19, of 11 Columbia Street.

Marrero was hit in the throat and Fan Jufp in the head by bullets from the pistols of the men in the sedan. Rouble La Porto, 19, of 19 President Street, was hit in the jaw and Isaac Rivera Garcia, 18, of 19 Degraw Street, in the left shoulder. La Porto was taken to the Cumberland Street Hospital.

Garcia, who received only a flesh wound, was taken to the Hamilton Avenue station, where he told Detective McCarthy that he and the others were longshoremen and that they had no enemies that they knew of. He said the four were discussing a prospective trip home to Porto Rico when without warning five men who looked like Italians opened fire from the speeding sedan.

SEIZED IN JERSEY KILLING.

Suspect Captured in Philadelphia in Hunt for Perry's Slayer.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 9.—Captured by four detectives in a chase in which several shots were fired, Michael Bottles, alias Mike Murray, was arrested in Philadelphia tonight and brought here for questioning in the murder of Joseph Perry Jr. of Philadelphia, whose body, almost decapitated, was found at the roadside near Hammonton yesterday afternoon.

Bottles, alleged by police to be a member of Perry's gang, admitted knowing the murdered man and told of a bungalow near Hammonton where week-end parties had been held by Perry and his friends. He was held on suspicion, but the police declined to reveal the extent of his admissions.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., July 9.—Police of New Jersey and Philadelphia differed today in their conclusions as to who murdered Joseph Perry Jr., 23-year-old Philadelphian, whose body was found at a roadside three miles from here yesterday afternoon. While New Jersey State police were inclined to believe that the slaying of Perry was inspired by a woman's desire for vengeance, police in Philadelphia were preparing to spread a net for a group of men with whom Perry "went for a ride" Saturday night.

The Police Department there leaned strongly to the belief that Perry's death was another chapter in the long roll of gangster murders prevalent in Philadelphia, New York and Chicago.

Philadelphia Murder Squad detectives this morning established that Perry was an intimate friend of George Catania of that city, who was shot to death a week ago with four men in a sedan. Catania's murder has not been cleared, but that it was a gang reprisal is confidently believed by members of the Murder Squad.

Perry was one of the principal mourners at the funeral of Catania on Saturday, a few hours before he was to start for Atlantic City.

HELD ON YEAR-OLD CHARGE

Westchester Ferry Head to Be Tried at Hackensack.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 9.—Leo E. Schwartzenstein of Yonkers, President of the Westchester Ferry Company, operating the ferry between Alpine, N. J., and Yonkers, N. Y., today is awaiting trial of a chancery court action brought against him early last year by Joseph D. Casper of 306 Central Avenue, Jersey City.

Schwartzenstein was arrested at Alpine last Saturday on a writ of exeat and was released here in $10,000 bail, which was provided by Harry Zisk of Hackensack.

Casper alleges that Schwartzenstein had agred to turn over 1,700 shares of the ferry company's stock to him in return for about $15,000 and his services, but had failed to carry out his part of the agreement.

QUAKERS CONFER ON YOUTH.

Friends See Old Meeting House on Fifth Day of Meet at Cape May.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 9.—The fifth day of the Friends General Conference was given over to the problems of the young Friends.

Led by Arthur C. Jackson, Chairman of the Conference, a pilgrimage was made this afternoon to the old Quaker Meeting House at Seaville, fourteen miles north of here.

This evening Mrs. Martha Bensley Bruere will talk on "Does Prohibition Work?" Jesse H. Holmes, Professor of Philosophy of Swarthmore College, will make the address at the Tuesday morning session, taking as his topic, "A Christian Civilization." Tomorrow afternoon 500 of the delegates will make a tour of Cape May County. In the evening Mrs. Lillian M. Gilbreth will address the meeting on "What the Church Could Do for Industry."

Seven Toil in Heat Laying Up Coal for Winter; Police, Finding Car Robbed, Cold-Hearted

Special to The New York Times.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., July 9.—Seven young men of Port Reading emulated the laborious ant in the fable last night, toiling through the heat to lay up stores of good chestnut coal against the chill days that would follow when the Summer was done. Thirty tons of it in all they accumulated, from a gondola car on a stalled freight on a siding here, while the crickets danced and sang their foolish songs in the neighboring fields and gave no heed to the wisdom of Aesop.

The coal was in transport on the New Jersey Central Railroad. The freight that was conveying it was politely waiting on a siding for a Shore flyer to pass. The flyer was late, and the seven young men of Port Reading had more than an hour to work in. They dragged the coal, which sells at $14 a ton, in sacks behind bushes. They apportioned it there and presently removed it to their seven cellars.

Woodbridge and railroad policemen discovered the fact through another event of the same nature which took place a few hours later on the same siding. Another freight was stalled there, waiting for a newspaper train to pass bearing the universe's report for the day to Asbury Park. Seals were found broken on three box cars, and bags of chicken feed and cement were strewn on the ground. The police, with no eye for fable, termed both acts thefts.

The law's dragnet fished through Port Reading and turned up one of the toilers, who confessed. Later in the day three more of the busy and farsighted seven admitted their share in the night's doings, and by tomorrow the police expect to find the three others.

Much of the coal has already been recovered. It was found in various bins and listed to continue its interrupted journey.

CLEARS CIGARETTES AS CANCER SOURCE

British Report Asserts Tests Prove Smoking Does Not Start Lung Tumors.

USE FORMALIN AS REMEDY

English Investigators Assert Drug Caused Disappearance of Malady in 38 Animals.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—Cigarette smoking does not cause cancer of the lung, according to the annual report of the British Empire Cancer Campaign, announced today. Animals were experimented on with tobacco smoke, but all attempts to produce cancer by this means have failed so far.

The report states that while no spectacular discovery in regard to the causes of cancer has been made definite progress has been achieved in the knowledge of the problems involved. Great difficulty, however, has been experienced in finding suitable research workers.

The report adds that a series of experiments has been carried out to try to produce anti-bodies against cancer within living tissue by treating implanted tumors with formalin and it is asserted that these experiments have been largely successful. In forty animals the disappearance of tumor has been produced in thirty-eight, while a large number of animals thus treated proved to be immune to subsequent tumor inoculation. The report proceeds:

"It is obvious that such experiments would have much greater weight if they could be carried out on animals with natural tumors, but the difficulty of finding such material is great. In one case a rat with a natural tumor was treated with anti-serum and its tumor disappeared."

Confidence in the final triumph of the campaign is expressed in the following sentence:

"The Grand Council feels that its present policy is the best that can be pursued and that it eventually will result in freeing human beings from this scourge."

The report declares that motion pictures made possible, to a degree never before known, the accurate study of the development of the disease and its reactions to other substances. Injuries as producers of cancer apparently are much more indirect than hitherto had been supposed, according to the report, which declares radium and X-ray treatments met with success. On the other hand, the investigators report no marked results from the lead treatments.

STUDY ARMY PRACTICES.

Reserve Officers at Camp Dix—Governor to Address Men at Sea Girt.

CAMP DIX, N. J., July 9.—Rifle practice, the study of army problems and the establishment of headquarters made up the program today of the 307th Infantry, the 308th Infantry and the Seventy-seventh Division Reserve Officers in camp here.

The men will spend the next two weeks in studying and executing various problems in army practices, and on July 16 will start formal manoeuvres. A sham battle is planned.

Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt is in command of the Seventy-seventh Division officers; Lieut. Col. H. T. Spooner is in charge of the 307th Infantry officers, and Lieut. Col. L. S. Breckinbridge is in charge of the 308th Infantry officers.

CAMP MOORE, Sea Girt, N. J., July 9.—Governor Moore will address men of the 113th Infantry, N. J. N. G., encamped here, during the regiment's patriotic night program Wednesday night. In an order issued from camp headquarters this afternoon, Colonel Edward Phillips, regimental commander, was authorized to send the machine gun companies of the outfit to Camp Dix Thursday to practice on the ranges. They will return on Saturday. The howitzer company will go to Camp Dix next Tuesday for two days' practice.

Urges Reaching God Through Bible.

STONY BROOK, N. Y., July 9.—Men should not read the Bible for its literary value alone, but rather as a medium for getting into closer touch with God, the Rev. Dr. R. W. Cummings, Presbyterian missionary of India, told the United Presbyterian Conference today. His address opened the second day of the annual conference, under the auspices of Stony Brook Assembly, on the grounds of Stony Brook School.

"Many men know God as a historian knows a King," he said, "but we should know God as a King is known by his son."

Glaring Headlights Blamed for Night Collision on the Jericho Turnpike.

CYCLE POLICEMAN KILLED

One Drowned, Three Escape When Machine Plunges Into Passaic River.

Special to The New York Times.

COMMACK, L. I., July 9.—Mrs. Francis J. Bradley and her son, Patrick, 1 year old, were killed early today on the Jericho Turnpike, just outside of Commack, when the car in which they were riding was in collision with an automobile driven by Robert Gregg of 52 Gramercy Park, New York.

The car in which Mrs. Bradley was killed was driven by her husband, who with two more of his children, escaped injury. Gregg and his two passengers, Van Vechten Berger of 20 East Seventy-sixth Street and A. F. Greer of Exchange Place, New York City, were cut and bruised, but were able to leave for New York after they had been treated by a physician.

Bradley is said to have told the police he was blinded by the glare of approaching headlights and swerved into Gregg's machine.

PATERSON, N. J., July 9.—Salvatore Maresca of Cambridge Avenue, Jersey City, was drowned, but three uninjured friends swam to safety today after Maresca's automobile plunged twenty-five feet from the Hudson River trolley trestle here into the Passaic River. Maresca mistook the trestle for part of the highway, according to the police. The three who swam ashore are George J. Ryan of 119 Ogden Avenue, John Barringer of 69 Griffiths Street and Frank Clune of 236 Palisades Avenue, all of Jersey City.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 9.—Mrs. Caroline Dunville, 33 years old, a widow who lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olst, at 74 Maple Avenue, was almost instantly killed when the automobile in which she was riding, driven by Thomas C. Barry of 366 Grand Avenue, Leonia, crashed into a stone wall at New Milford. Barry, badly cut and bruised, was held in $1,000 bail on a technical charge of manslaughter.

When two buses sideswiped each other in Edgemere Avenue, Rockaway Beach, yesterday afternoon, Edward Wall, 28 years old, of 323 Beach Sixty-eighth Street, Arverne, had his left arm out the window. It was lacerated.

CHILD AUTO TOLL LOWER.

Police Report Shows 20.5% Cut in Fatalities for Six Months.

Deputy Police Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt, Chairman of the Police Traffic Board, issued a statement yesterday regarding deaths from motor accidents in the city. The statement follows:

"Deaths of children 16 years old and under resulting from highway accidents in New York City were 20.5 per cent. less during the first six months of 1928 than they were for the corresponding period in 1927. Fatalities to persons over 16 years increased 4.8 per cent.

"In the case of children, the highway fatalities for the first half of 1926 totaled 166, while the deaths during the first half of 1927 totaled 209. The fatalities for those over 16 totaled 345 in 1928, as compared with 329 for the corresponding period in 1927.

"There has been a continuing reduction in deaths of children from highway accidents in New York City for several years. In 1923 there were 453 highway fatalities to children 16 years or under. Last year reached a new low mark of 402, although in four years, 1923 to 1927, the number of cars registered in the city increased from 350,000 to 648,000, and the population increased from 5,780,000 to 6,000,000."

EDMONTON, July 9 (by the Canadian Press).—Appointment of Dr. R. C. Wallace of the University of Manitobe, as President of the University of Alberta, succeeding Dr. H. M. Tory, was announced today by the Minister of Education, Perren Baker, in the absence of Premier Brownlee, who left on Saturday night for California. Dr. Wallace expects to take up his duties by Sept. 1.

FRANCE TO ANSWER KELLOGG THIS WEEK

Will Accept Anti-War Proposal and Express Readiness to Sign It.

TALK OF JULY 14 AS DATE

Chamberlain Tells Commons Consulting the Dominions Delays Britain's Action.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—During this week it is expected the final French answer will be made to Secretary Kellogg's proposal for a multilateral treaty outlawing war. This reply will constitute an acceptance and indicate France's willingness to sign along with other invited powers.

The note will, however, be accompanied—as will be also the case with England and probably Germany—by a recapitulation of the Government's interpretation of the obligations of the treaty and of its nature. Special stress will be put, it is believed, on the pleasure which is felt in signing in agreement with America a treaty which must result in close American association in the work of preserving world peace.

Cheered by Democrats' Attitude.

Here, and especially in England, incorporation in the Democratic Party platform of approval of a treaty of this nature has had a great deal to do with speeding of acceptance. The European Governments had until then feared that a change of Government in the United States and alteration in the character of the Senate might provoke at least delay in ratification of the treaty after they had signed it.

Now they believe that, whichever party wins the election, they can count on ratification, and that has removed not a little of their hesitancy in acceding to the proposal of the Republican Administration. They think the treaty will be in no way an electoral issue, and that has greatly encouraged them to proceed with the work of final negotiation.

France will seek to obtain the immediate association of her allies, Rumania and Yugoslavia, and will advocate that diplomatic means be established enabling all other countries to adhere as soon as they desire to do so.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—The compact outlawing war can be signed any time that Secretary of State Kellogg wishes it, official circles intimated today. The Fourteenth of July, the great French holiday, has been suggested in Paris, but there has been no discussion of this detail with Washington.

The impression is abroad here that Secretary Kellogg himself would come over for the ceremony, but the Foreign Office is unaware of any definite plans concerning this.

Question Kellogg Visit to Paris.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—State Department officials were not inclined today to speculate as to the suggestion in a Paris dispatch that Secretary Kellogg would visit Paris to participate in a general ceremony in connection with signing of the treaty. Obviously, it was said, the Bastile Day date, July 14, mentioned in the Paris dispatch, was out of the question since there has been no preliminary exchange and there is not now time to arrange a ceremony.

The department made public without comment a message from Ambassador Gibson at Brussels quoting the Belgian Foreing Minister as having told the Chamber of Deputies that the Government was examining the American anti-war treaty project "with the most lively and most friendly attention" and the hope that it would soon result in "a new guarantee of international order and peace."

The Ambassador added that in subsequent debate the leader of the Socialist opposition, M. Vandervelde, expressed the conviction that the Belgian Parliament would unanimously accept such a treaty.

British Laborites Resent Delay.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—Labor M. P.'s are dissatisfied with Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain's replies in the Commons today to their request for the reason why Britain has not yet signed the Kellogg peace compact and they have given notice that they will raise the matter in Parliament again at the earliest opportunity.

Sir Austen Chamberlain said he was unable to say when the Government intended to sign the treaty, but that everything was being done to hasten the British reply to the American note.

Colonel Wedgwood referred to a Paris report that Britain and France intended to sign the compact with a protocol containing reservations. Was this true, he asked, and were not the Dominions prepared to sign without reservations?

To the first question Sir Austen gave no definite answer. To the second he replied that the negotiations between the home and Dominion Governments were not yet completed.

He gave no answer to the Communist Saklatvala who asked if during these negotiations Sir Austen had taken any steps to stop America, herself, from carrying on her war in Nicaragua.

GIOLITTI GRAVELY ILL.

Ex-Premier of Italy Has a Recurrence of Uremic Trouble.

CAVOUR, Italy, July 9 (AP).—Italy's aged ex-Premier, Giovanni Giolitti, is suffering from a recurrence of his old uremic trouble, with complications that have caused paralysis of a leg. He is in grave condition at his home here, and his daughter, Enrichetta, and his son, Curio, have been sent for.

The venerable patient expected until quite recently to take his usual holiday cure at an Alpine resort near the French frontier. Up to a few days ago his tall figure was a frequent sight in the village streets.

Giolitti's last appearance in the Chamber of Deputies was when he defied Mussolini, denounced Fascist measures and declined to vote for the electoral law early this year.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 9.—This foot runner Paddock certainly is a professional, as far as the amateur association is concerned, they have been running him all over America to raise funds to send over runners that nobody would pay to see run.

It's unfortunate for Paddock that America don't share in the gate receipts in Holland. If they did, our association would let him go over. He was an amateur when he was running for the same money, but to go to Europe and run for nothing he is a professional.

See where Vice Presidential nominee Joe Robinson is visiting Al. Smith, to wish him health and good fortune till March 5 next.

BUYS BIRTHPLACE OF ROCKEFELLER

Mrs. S. S. Dennen Plans to Move Home From Tioga County to Coney Island.

WILL OPEN IT AS MUSEUM

Brooklyn Woman Declares House Will Be Refurnished—Visions It as American Shrine.

Mrs. Sarah S. Dennen of 2,624 East Twenty-seventh Street, Brooklyn, declared yesterday that she had bought John D. Rockefeller's birthplace to keep early American history before the masses. She was going to move it down from its site in Tioga County, N. Y., to the Coney Island boardwalk, she said.

Although the original furnishings of the "primitive looking house" were not available, she plans to refurnish it as accurately as possible and open it as a museum. The probable site, she said, would be the city-owned Dreamland parking space on the boardwalk near West Eighth Street, Coney Island.

Mrs. Dennen is Secretary of the Long Island Chamber of Commerce, but she says that organization had nothing to do with her purchase. She bought the house and the seventy-five acres upon which it is located from Mrs. Carrie Rockefeller, whose late husband, Simeon, was a second cousin of Mr. Rockefeller, she said. The deed, she added, was transferred last Saturday. She did not tell the price paid.

Mrs. Dennen said that the property, located on Michigan Hill, two and half miles northeast of Richford, N. Y., and about 275 miles from this city, had once been owned by William A. Rockefeller, father of the oil man, but John D. Rockefeller's representative said yesterday that his branch of the family had never owned the house where he was born. A deed recorded in the County Clerk's office, Tioga County, Sept. 21, 1835, indicated that William A. Rockefeller had bought the property from Thomas Astley of Philadelphia, through his attorney, James Pumpelly. Mrs. Dennen said. There was another deed, she went on, that recorded the selling of the land by William A. Rockefeller and his wife, May 30, 1846. John D. Rockefeller was born in 1839. Mrs. Dennen said the land had passed through several hands before it was bought in 1877 by the Simeon Rockefellers.

Whether to take the little house apart and ship it to New York in sections or to truck it down intact, has not been decided. Mrs. Dennen was not certain whether an admission fee would be charged, but it was likely, she said, that a nominal amount would be collected to meet operating expenses.

VANDERBILT JR. CALLS SECOND WEDLOCK BEST

In Chicago With His Bride, He Says It Is Often Like Sober Second Thought.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., believes that second marriages are often like sober second thought, and that divorce and remarriage is much more honorable than companionate marriage.

He expressed these views at a hotel, where he is stopping with his bride, the former Mrs. Waldo Hancock Logan of Chicago, whom he married in Reno ten minutes after she obtained her decree.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was out shopping while her husband talked with reporters.

"One's first marriage may be the result of some light love or youthful flare, or it may be from parental arrangement," he said. "Often it is but an experience that aids one in sound judgment the next time."

Of companionate marriage he remarked:

"It may be all right, but what is wrong with divorce? I think divorce is much more decent. In this modern age there are countless numbers of married folks who wish they were separated, but have not the moral courage to face the notoriety. I would rather be frank and open about the matter. Get a divorce and marry again."

JERSEY BARBERS FINED.

Kept Open in Bradley Beach Sunday in Violation of Law.

Special to The New York Times.

NEPTUNE, N. J., July 9.—After overruling a dozen motions by Counselor Stokes of Freehold, defending several barbers who were charged with violating the State law by cutting hair and shaving customers on the Sabbath in Bradley Beach, Police Recorder Dodd imposed fines of $25 each and costs, while one of the alleged offenders was obliged to pay $50, having repeated the offense last Sunday after he had been found guilty of a similar act on June 17.

Counselor Silverstein of Asbury Park represented the complainants, who were barbers maintaining a closed shop on Sunday. The fines were paid under protest.

MOVE BY B. M. T. AIDS DEAL WITH THE CITY

Corporation Ends Voting Trust Agreement and Seeks to List Shares on the Exchange.

DIRECTORS TO BE NAMED

Meeting Called for September —Wiggins, Dahl and Strauss to Resign as Trustees.

EFFECT ON UNIFICATION

Program Seen as Opening Way for Renewal of Negotiations on Sale of Subways.

Announcement in the near future of a definite unification plan as a basis of negotiations between the city and the B. M. T. looking to the purchase of the company's rapid transit lines was forecast yesterday by those in close contact with the transit situation. It became known that the company had applied to the New York Stock Exchange for listing of its preferred and common stock following termination of the voting trust agreement under which its affairs have been conducted since July 2, 1923.

The voting trust agreement expired on July 1, last, and on July 5 the B. M. T. applied for listing of 249,468 shares of Series A no par preferred stock and 789,911 shares of no par common stock, comprising its total outstanding shares of both classes. These shares will supersede the voting trust certificates after trust certificate holders have been notified of the termination of the agreement and have received an opportunity to exchange their trust certificates for stock certificates.

Let Agreement Lapse.

B. M. T. voting trust certificate holders will be notifed later this week of the termination of the agreement and of the resignations of Albert H. Wiggin, Gerhard M. Dahl and Frederick Strauss as voting trustees. The agreement was renewable by its terms for another five-year period, but upon decision of the trustees it was allowed to terminate. The stockholders will meet on the second Monday in September for the first time since the company was organized on May 24, 1923, to elect directors and transact company business.

An official, who has been in close touch with the lengthy negotiations in which representatives of the B. M. T., the Board of Transportation and the Transit Commission have participated during the past four or five months, indicated yesterday that the corporation, intermingling its trust agreement and seeking to list its shares, was paving the way to final negotiation with the city by removing the fiscal tangle of Transit-Unification which was the basis of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company reorganization in 1923.

Paves Way for Purchase.

Substitution of stock certificates for voting trust certificates and listing of the actual securities on the New York Stock Exchange, it was said, paves the way for agreement on the purchase price at which the city may acquire B. M. T. lines for unification with its own independent rapid transit system.

It is understood that counsel for the B. M. T., in protracted conferences with Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission, and John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Board of Transportation, have reached substantial agreement as to what parts of the B. M. T. are to be included in a unified system. The matter of price, however, is said to remain quite unsettled.

It was intimated yesterday that the plan upon the basis of which price negotiations will be carried on has been developed to such an extent that it may be announced shortly.

The voting trust agreement provided that the three voting trustees, in whom was vested almost uncontrolled power over the affairs of the B. M. T., should elect three directors nominated by the Transit Commission to represent the public, three nominated to represent holders of Rapid Transit Security Gold Bonds of the company and three named by holders of voting trust certificates.

G. T. VAN SCHAIK KILLED.

Auto, Failing at Turn, Plunges Over Wisconsin Embankment.

Special to the New York Times.

RHINELANDER, Wis., July 9.—When his automobile plunged over an embankment on the county highway between Eagle River and Conover, in Vilas County, yesterday, Girard T. Van Schaik of Highland Park, Ill., President of the Universal Railroad Supply Company, received injuries which caused his death in Rhinelander Hospital several hours later.

It is stated that his car failed to make a sharp turn, and, shooting across the road, rolled down the steep incline.

Mr. Van Schaick was born in Chicago in 1880. His father and grandfather were pioneer lumbermen, and both of them were men of real business worth, enjoying directorates in the prominent banks of their respective cities, Chicago and Milwaukee. Harrison Ludington, his grandfather, was Mayor of Milwaukee and Governor of Wisconsin.

Mr. Van Schaick was a member of the Union League Club of Chicago and the Exmoor Country of Highland Park, Ill. He was a life member of the Sons of the Revolution and had forty-three ancestors who were in the Revolutionary War, among them two Colonel, one Captain and three Majors. During the World War he supervised all the publicity at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, under now Admiral Moffett.

In addition to his connection with the railway supply business, he was also a director of the Lake Forest Academy.

MISS MARY THAYER ENGAGED TO MARRY

Eastern States Women's Tennis Champion to Wed Dr. Maurice Fremont-Smith.

MISS KIBBE BETROTHED

To Wed Paul J. Fitzpatrick, Yale Graduate—Alice Cuddihy to Marry Thomas Guerin.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 9.—The engagement of Miss Mary Dixon Thayer, Pennsylvania and Eastern States women's tennis champion, to Dr. Maurice Fremont-Smith of Boston was announced here today by the bride-elect's parents, General and Mrs. Russell Thayer of Chestnut Hill. The wedding probably will take place in October.

Miss Thayer is descended from a family distinguished in Pennsylvania history and is known as a poet and novelist. She is a great-granddaughter of George Mifflin Dallas, Vice President of the United States during Polk's Administration and Ambassador to Russia and England.

Dr. Fremont-Smith, son of Mrs. F. Fremont-Smith and the late Dr. Fremont-Smith, formerly of Washington, was graduated from Harvard University in 1913. He practiced medicine in Boston and lectures at Harvard. He was in charge of a hospital in Turkey during the World War.

Cuddihy—Guerin.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Cuddihy of 300 Park Avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Cuddihy, to Thomas Guerin, son of Dr. James J. Guerin, M. P., of Montreal, Canada.

Miss Cuddihy's father is publisher of The Literary Digest. Mr. Guerin, who is a writer, was graduated from the University of Montreal. Miss Cuddihy attended school in Montreal.

The wedding will take place in East Hampton on Aug. 18.

Kibbe—Fitzpatrick.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Dorothea Cornelia d'Auby Kibbe, daughter of Mrs. Harry Ulysses Kibbe of 825 Fifth Avenue, and the late Mr. Kibbe to Paul J. Fitzpatrick, son of Mrs. Frederick F. Fitzpatrick of Larchmont, N. Y., and the late Mr. Fitzpatrick.

Miss Kibbe was graduated from the Gardner School in 1924, and was introduced to society three years ago at the Plaza Hotel. She is the granddaughter of the late Henry Clay Kibbe of San Francisco and of Paul A. Rasor of this city. Her mother is the founder and President of the Bide-a-Wee Home. On her mother's side Miss Kibbe is a direct descendant of Aaron Austin, Revolutionary patriot, and a great-great-granddaughter of Alexandre d'Auby, who came to this country with General Lafayette.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was graduated from the Canterbury School and from Yale University this June, where he was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. He is a member of the Apawamis, Westchester Biltmore and Larchmont Yacht clubs. His mother is the former Miss Margaret Neal of St. Louis. His father at the time of his death last November was President of the American Locomotive Company and Chairman of the Board of the Railway Steel Spring Company. He is a brother of Mrs. W. Kenneth Watkins of Larchmont, N. Y.

Owing to the recent death of Mr. Fitzpatrick's father, only members of the family and intimate friends will be invited to the wedding, which will take place in a few weeks.

OPPOSE SPECIAL RULES TO BENEFIT VETERANS

Civil Service League Writes Fish That Standards Should Not Be Lowered.

Opposition to lowering the standards for war veterans for admission to civil service was expressed yesterday by the National Civil Service Reform League in a letter to Hamilton Fish Jr., Chairman of the Special Advisory Committee appointed by President Coolidge to make a study of the civil service rules relating to veterans' preference.

"This league," said the letter, "has taken a strong position in favor of suitable rewards for all those who have served the country" * * but it has been firm in opposing utterly mistaken methods of granting rewards through a lowering of administrative efficiency. We protest against any standard of admission to the public service other than ability to perform the work required. Any modification of this test by way of a preference will simply resurrect the spoils system under cover of a sham patriotism."

H. Elliott Kapian, Secretary of the league, who wrote the letter, said he believed veterans were satisfied with the credit rating of ten points now given to disabled veterans who make passing marks, and that the league believed these credit ratings were just.

"We are strongly of the opinion," he wrote the league, "that your honorable Special Committee should recommend to the President that the passing marks for veterans in all civil service examinations should be made the same as for non-veterans, and the preference given to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines only when they are equally qualified with non-veterans."

Assets and earning power under 5c fare operation entitle these bonds to a thoroughly sound investment rating.

In event of higher fare, the issue would become a "gilt edge" investment of highest character.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Decline After Early Strength—Call Money 5%, Sterling Up, Then Down.

Money on the Stock Exchange rose to 6 per cent. yesterday, the highest since its abrupt descent from 10 to 5 last Tuesday. This is the usual movement after so sudden a reaction. Whether from that cause or from others the stock market, which had been rising in the early hours, reversed its action in the afternoon and ended with a predominance of declines. At their lowest, a few stocks were carried 4 to 9 points under last week's closing. But the market was highly irregular; there were other shares which went up 3 to 5 points and closed at a substantial net advance. As a whole, the day's market appeared to be made up of rapid change of position by professional operators.

The Treasury's announcement yesterday, that the $250,000,000 new fifteen-year 3% per cents offered for cash had been oversubscribed, was not accompanied by information as to how the holders of "Third Liberties" were acting on the invitation to take the new bonds in exchange. Apparently, they have been slow to respond. There was no evidence yesterday that the Liberty bonds are being bought on the market with a view to exchanging them; for the 4¼s, which rose from a trifle over par before the offer to 101¾ on Thursday, fell back yesterday to 100 1-3. The whole incident is singular. Applications for cash purchase aggregated $725,000,000, or three times the total offer. It is quite true that last November's offer of $400,000,000 seven months 3 1-3 per cent. brought tenders for $1,108,000,000, and that even the $360,000,000 one-year 3¾s of March were applied for nearly twice over. But the Wall Street market for secured time loans was 4 per cent. in December and 4½ in March, with the Stock Exchange call money rate only 4 and 4¼ per cent. on the two occasions, whereas last week's time-money rate was 5¾ to 6 per cent. and call loans went as high as 10.

The long term of the present offer makes it more difficult to say how far the market's response to the cash proposal was based on ideas in regard to the coming decade, and how far on belief in easier money during the rest of 1928. One of the two results, if not both, must have been anticipated. The main employment for this quarter of a billion 3¾ per cent. bonds taken at par will necessarily be for temporary investment of surplus bank or company funds. Looked at from that viewpoint, the cash subscription to the Treasury's new loan would seem to have the same general effect on the immediate money situation as the sale of an equivalent sum in government obligations by the Federal Reserve, between the middle of January and the end of June.

Yesterday's "cotton-acreage estimate" contained material for another demonstration of wrath from the South and the cotton market. The trade had made up its mind that not much more than 44,000,000 acres had been planted, as against last year's deficient 42,683,000. On the basis of that belief, and of unfavorable weather, cotton had been put up since March upward of 21 per cent. But now comes the unlucky Crop Reporting Bureau, tripping up the market again with an estimate of 46,695,000 acres. The spot price at once fell 3¾ per cent. below Saturday and 5 per cent below the recent high point. An evil genius seems to brood over these cotton forecasts. Fortunately perhaps for the Washington statisticians, Congress has adjourned. It is the Southern Congressmen who particularly resent official estimates looking to a large cotton crop and possibly lower prices. As it stands, the bureau's estimate is the largest by 4,000,000 acres of any planting on record aside from 1926 and 1925. But we are only at the beginning both of the season and of the controversy over acreage.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Because of the extreme heat, customers' rooms of Wall Street commission houses were almost deserted yesterday, and although a fair amount of business was done, there was little enthusiasm. Leading issues on the Stock Exchange upon which trading interest has converged for some days continued their irregular advance, but without making any substantial headway, and the trend was reversed after the call money rate was advanced from 5½ to 6 per cent. shortly before 2 o'clock. Interest in the market diminished, however, when the market turned heavy, and the decline was checked before the close. Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Sinclair Consolidated and General Motors led the morning advance with considerable energy. The general run of "pool stocks" followed in only half-hearted fashion. Brokers agreed that the weather hurt business.

Banks Check Money Rise.

Several of the large banks were understood yesterday to have placed new funds at the disposal of the money market, preventing a further rise in the call money rate after the advance from 5¾ to 6 per cent. While there is no "money pool" in the old accepted sense, there may be an agreement among some of the institutions not to let the situation get out of hand. The calling of $15,000,000 of loans yesterday and the temporary tightness which this caused were attributed chiefly to preparations of the banks for their settlement with the Federal Reserve Bank and to the return of a large volume of first-of-the-month checks for collection.

U. S. Steel's Earnings.

Earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the quarter ended June 30, which will be given out on July 31, are expected to be well above those of the preceding quarter. They may exceed those of the second three months of last year, according to careful estimates in Wall Street. The company earned $40,934,032 in the first quarter of this year and $46,040,460 in the second quarter of 1927. Some Wall Street calculators have placed the total for the three months ended on June 30 as high as $50,000,000, which would bring the earnings for the first half of this year up to about the same figure as was shown in the same period last year. More conservative forecasters estimate, however, that the second-quarter earnings will run close to those of the second quarter last year.

Rediscount Rate Prospects.

The possibility of an advance in the rediscount rate again came to the fore yesterday in Wall Street discussions. The idea that the rate may be put up was based mainly on the continued expansion of credit as reflected in the large rediscounting figures and on indications that stock market loans are not being reduced materially. The present open money-market rates show more than the ordinary spread from the rediscount rates. The belief seemed to exist that if the rate level is moved upward the trend will be inaugurated at an outside Reserve bank and be followed by action at New York. There was, however, a strong body of opinion that nothing will be done at present regarding the rate. With the agricultural and commercial demands only a short time away, many bankers believe that action would not be favored which might increase the charges for business money.

"Hot Weather Stocks."

The shares of corporations which do their heaviest business in the hottest weather, notably in the ice companies, shares of confectionery stores, electric refrigeration issues and other stocks of the sort, were in brisk demand on the Stock Exchange yesterday. This buying was accompanied by statements that, in the case of most of these corporations, sales and earnings are well ahead of the same time last year.

***

Six Months Company Earnings.

The earnings of the large corporations for the first six months of the year are commencing to appear, although the statements of the ten or fifteen largest will not be ready for announcement for another week or so, since there is no definite time for giving out these figures. From those which have come to hand already the conclusion is being drawn that earnings for the second quarter of the year will be generally better than in the first quarter and that, considered as a whole, business in the first six months of the year was just about on a par with the first six months of last year. One of the most important developments in corporate affairs is that, in many cases, particularly in the motor industry, the gross volume of business continues to compare favorably with the same time last year, while the net is lower. This is accepted as bearing witness to the sharp increase which has taken place in competition, and to the fact that in many lines producers are willing to cut prices in order to keep going.

The Crude Oil Advance.

The advance in Pennsylvania crude oil posted yesterday was interesting to Wall Street as an indication of the trend in the industry, although recognized as a development due to a special condition in that territory. The oil shares made only a feeble response to the announcement. The fact that the purchasing companies in the Pennsylvania territory have seen fit to ignore the advice of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey excited considerable comment. The New Jersey company, which is the largest unit in the industry, urged strongly in a recent article in its company magazine against any further advance in crude on the ground that it might upset a situation which has gradually been getting better for some time.

MONEY.

MONDAY, July 9, 1928.

Stock Exchange was firm with a good demand in evidence throughout. After renewing at 5½ per cent. rate was advanced to 6 at 1.45 P. M., holding until close. About $15,000,000 was called. Time money market was quiet and deadlocked, in fact, borrowers not evincing much interest in offerings at present quotation but looking for concession. However, levels continued unchanged at 5¾@5¾ per cent. Commercial paper and acceptances were unchanged.

RISE IN REDISCOUNTS DISCUSSED IN CHICAGO

Majority of Executive Committee of Reserve Bank Said to Favor Higher Rate.

The question of an upward revision of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate has again been raised by the Executive Committee of that institution, according to a report sent to a news bureau here yesterday. The Chicago bank was averse to following the policy of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington last Summer which resulted in a decline to 3½ per cent. and it was among the first to increase the rate successively to 4 and then to 4½ per cent. early this year. All twelve Reserve institutions are now maintaining a rate of 4½ per cent.

The indications are now said to be that the majority of the Executive Committee of the Chicago Bank favors a further increase in the rate. Whether the step of notifying Washington that a change is desired has been taken has not been revealed.

"All Chicago directors of the bank are members of the Executive Committee, and while they do not compose a majority of the board, they are understood to represent majority opinion," the report said.

"Further, it has been clearly indicated in conversations with members of the committee that a telephone poll of the out-of-town members of the board would suffice to enable the taking of action. There is a report that such a poll was recently taken and that a change was recommended. No convocation of the board is requisite to a rate change.

"Based on observation, it is a fair assumption that George Reynolds of the Continental National Bank and Trust Company voices the general sentiment of the directorate. In a recent interview with a representative of the Wall Street News he inferentially voiced a preference for a higher rate, but stated his belief that New York, as the money centre of the nation, was clearly the locale for the initial move.

"It is believed that this view is not held in Washington, but on the other hand it is as well authenticated that Washington does favor the imposition of a high rate if the present tendency to increase borrowings by member banks from Reserve institutions is not checked."

Consolidated Coppermines Corporation Plans Improvements.

The Consolidated Coppermines Corporation announced yesterday that it had let contracts to the Kansas City Steel Construction Company for extensive improvements at its mines. The contract calls for the construction of steel machine shops, a steel head-frame and steel bins with a capacity of 5,000 tons. Construction already has begun.

General J. B. Haffner, who made the announcement, said that the Emma-Nevada five-compartment shaft had been completed at a depth of 750 feet. This shaft is to work the company's porphyry mines. Development work at the Morris-Brooks and Alpha shafts, he said, is progressing rapidly. Surrounding properties are being studied, he added, with a view to extending the proved area.

Dr. Eduard Heims, Managing Director of the Company, summarizes his letter as follows:

History and Business: The International Mortgage and Investment Corporation was incorporated under the laws of Maryland on February 12, 1926, for the primary purpose of investing its resources in German mortgages payable in Gold Marks. The Company's charter is liberal, permitting it to utilize its capital in other forms of investment deemed desirable and proper by its Board of Directors, and plans now under way call for an extension of the Company's activities in the German mortgage field. Through its international contacts, the Company has access to a broad diversification of attractive investment opportunities which are not available to the individual investor.

Financial: The value of mortgages now owned will give the Common Stock a cash liquidation value in 1932 (even if the Company should do no further business) of more than $20 per share, after providing for the payment of all the Company's present liabilities and the retirement of the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock at $105 per share, but before providing for German and United States corporate taxes, the amounts of which cannot now be determined. However, this estimated value is believed to be conservative, as the present plans of the Company contemplate an extension of activity in the mortgage field and an expansion into other fields of international finance not heretofore covered, all of which should provide increased earnings on the Common Stock in the future.

Management: The Board of Directors of the Company will include the following:

GEORGE H. BURR, President of the Company, and Member of the firm of George H. Burr & Co., New York.
B. A. TOMPKINS, Vice-President of Bankers Trust Company, New York.
ROBERT C. ADAMS, Vice-President of The Equitable Trust Company of New York.
NOBLE CRANDALL, Member of the firm of George H. Burr & Co., New York.
RICHARD POHL, Member of the firm of Hardy & Co., G.m.b.H., and President Berlin Stock Exchange, Berlin.
FRITZ ANDREAE, Member of the firm of Hardy & Co., G.m.b.H., Berlin.
GUSTAV OBERLAENDER, Secretary and Treasurer of Berkshire Knitting Mills, Reading, Pa.
PAUL SIMS, Of Bankers Trust Company, New York.
EDGAR S. BARUC, Member of the firm of Colvin & Co., New York.

The majority of the Common Stock of the Company is held by the above individuals and the institutions represented by them.

Preferred Stock Provisions: The Certificate of Incorporation of the Company, as amended, will provide conservative provisions for the protection of the holders of the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, as set forth in Dr. Heims' letter.

We offer this stock in units consisting of one share of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock and one-half share of Common Stock, if, as and when authorized, issued and received by us, and subject to approval of our counsel, Messrs. Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, of all legal proceedings in connection therewith. The accounts of the Company are regularly audited by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co. Of the $1,500,000 par value of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, only $1,125,000 par value represents new financing, the balance having been acquired from individuals. It is expected that delivery in temporary or permanent form will be made on or about July 24, 1928. Delivery will be made in the first instance in the form of allotment certificates for units exchangeable for definitive stock certificates when prepared.

$1,000,000,000 LOSS IN STOCKS CHARGED

Ottinger Aide Puts That as Sum of Worthless and Defaulted 'Counter' Shares Since War.

FAVORS A NEW MARKET

Believes Produce Exchange Plan for Trading Would End 'Vicious Practices.'

Charges that securities in excess of $1,000,000,000 sold "over-the-counter" to the public since the war have defaulted or become worthless, were made yesterday by Assistant Attorney General Timothy J. Shea, in charge of the Bureau of Securities of the Attorney General's office.

Mr. Shea's statement said that further revelations would be made eventually, but did not name any individuals, groups, securities or plans for prosecutions.

"Revelation of this condition of affairs," the statement said, "is based upon an investigation of the activities of the 'over-the-counter' market, the groundwork of which has just been completed. A corps of investigators acting under the personal direction of Assistant Attorney General Shea is engaged upon this inquiry, designed by the State to throw the spotlight on every phase of operations in the so-called unlisted securities market."

Method of Inquiry Changed.

Mr. Shea said last night that his statement should not be taken as inferring that members of the Unlisted Securities Dealers' Association or other old and reputable firms are included in his charges. "The members of the association," he said, "do an enormous amount of business each year, and they do it well and honorably. The fact that we favor a third securities Exchange as a solution of some of the evils attending over-the-counter dealing does not mean that we intend to interfere with free bargaining."

At Mr. Shea's office it was said that the questionnaire process of investigation adopted when the investigation began last year, had been dropped.

"The process of investigation was merely altered to make it all the more intensive and to expedite the disclosure by more certain means of those practices about which complaint has been filed with the Bureau of Securities," Mr. Shea's statement said. "I am confident that the new method of investigation involving the utilization of the services of skillful investigators and analysts directed to a personal scrutiny of the affairs of concerns whose securities are traded in and the operations of a large number of dealers in this market will be productive of these results."

Mr. Shea at the same time announced that the State Bureau of Securities is receiving the cooperation of Harrison S. Martin, former Assistant Secretary of the New York Stock Exchange, who has been retained by the New York Produce Exchange to draft a plan for the creation of a "third securities exchange," with the avowed purpose of supplanting so far as possible the present "over-the-counter" market.

"The final results of our investigation of the 'over-the-counter' market activities and the recommendations of this office to correct certain abuses will be made after observation of the operations of the third securities market so that we may have an opportunity to see if it has corrected the abuses I have mentioned," Mr. Shea said. "If the new exchange is successful, it will at least accomplish one thing, and that is to centralize the control of unlisted security transactions in such manner as to establish them under an authority that must stamp out obnoxious practices, control personnel and scrutinize offerings."

"It must be understood that the Bureau of Securities does not entertain the idea that listed securities have any greater merit than those not listed," the statement continued. "In fact, many of the securities that are not listed are as desirable, if not more so from the investor's viewpoint, as many listed securities.

"A limited number of excellent and highly reputable firms have for years sold sound securities over the counter, it of course being understood that most of this buying and selling is done over the telephone. It is also common knowledge that in the dealings among the unlisted traders there is a great deal of middlemen's profits. Even were this great enough to amount to a considerable 'scalping,' the Attorney General would not consider this fact enough to call for inquiry.

"The fact is, however, that in recent years the number of over-the-counter dealers and traders has increased by hundreds. Many of these new firms are conscious of their responsibilities and have the best of intentions. Others, however, deliberately take a position in wretched offerings so fundamentally worthless that it would seem the only test applied by their house of issue was he one question, 'Will the stuff sell?' There are tens of thousands of citizens in New York State who buy securities for investment purposes. This is so despite the vast volume of speculation witnessed in recent years.

"To date our inquiry has revealed a startling indulgence in vicious practices by some professing to be serving the public in the confidential capacity of broker. The record of defaults and failures among concerns whose securities were floated through 'over-the-counter' market houses has convinced me and my advisers that more open-and-above-board methods of promotion must be followed by the houses dealing in this class of securities. Then, too, the fact that much dishonesty exists in the publication of quotations, many of them downright fictitious, leads me to believe that a standardized system of making these public must be devised. The public seems to demand this. If we accept the proposition that exchanges are justifiable and necessary and serve a useful purpose, we feel that the vast volume of over-the-counter transactions should in some manner be recorded with the attendant benefit that publicity given to quotations entails.

"Despite the decency of a fairly large number of over-the-counter brokers and the unquestioned worth of hundreds of the offerings in that market, I am convinced that the present situation is made to order for unscrupulous insiders to push worthless goods and literally trim the public.

Favors Produce Exchange Plan.

"It certainly is not the intention of the Attorney General, acting for the State of New York, to foster the business project of one group of individuals at the expense of other groups. In stating that we believe this plan of the Produce Exchange is a wise constructive first step in dealing with the difficulties inherent in the unlisted securities market, we do so because we believe that a great public benefit may come from this plan. The working out of the Produce Exchange securities division is entirely up to the competency and ability of those in control of it. We can furnish no guarantee how well their plan will work, except that we will afford them reasonable cooperation consistent with State policy.

"The numerous complaints now on file in the Bureau of Securities for the most part come from those of the investing public in the 'over-the-counter' market who are buyers of the 'paper' projects which unfortunately are handed out to hundreds yearly and are fraudulent in their inception and subsequent promotion. To protect these investors in the future is the duty of the State, and that is just what we propose to do.

"The number of securities dealt in in the over-the-counter dealing probably exceeds the combined total of those listed on the two recognized Exchanges in New York. For the most part the transactions of this over-the-counter market consists of purchases by dealers of securities for their own accounts which they in turn retail to their clients, who may be either the general public or some other dealer. There is no restraint upon the dealers. Consequently each has worked up a code of ethics for himself which is represented in the main by his own personal integrity, ability and standards generally."

NEW TREASURY BOND SINKS BELOW PAR

Market Valuation Calculated From Decline in Price of Third Liberties.

OTHER SECURITIES EASIER

Both Domestic and Foreign Issues in Lessened Demand on Stock Exchange.

Despite the heavy oversubscription of the Treasury's new offering of 3¾ per cent. bonds, a market valuation of less than par was placed on the issue yesterday by a decline in Third Liberty 4¼s, which are exchangeable into the new securities. There is as yet no actual market trading in the new 3¾s, but they are closely related to the Third Liberty 4¼s through the provision for exchange.

Third Liberty 4¼s at a shade under 100¾ are considered the equivalent of the new 3¾s at par because of the double interest provision under which holders of Third 4¼s who exchange their bonds will receive interest until Sept. 15 not only on their old holdings but also on the new issue. After announcement of the new issue last week Third 4¼s were bid up to a high record of 101¼ by investors who desired them for exchange purposes, which placed a market premium of about ½ point on the new 3¾s. At the close of the bond market yesterday the Thirds were quoted at 100¾, which was equivalent to a discount of about ¼ point on the new issue. As the demand for exchanges lessened it was to have been expected that the price of the Thirds would recede. When the exchange privilege expires the Thirds will sink to the neighborhood of par, as they will mature on Sept. 15.

Subscriptions for cash to the new issue were about three times the amount of the offering. The cash offering has been closed, but the exchange offer for Third Liberties remains open. Other United States Government securities were mostly easier yesterday, the Treasury 3¾s declining 31 point, while the Treasury 3¾s issued last year lost ½ point.

A firm tone prevailed throughout the general bond market, but transactions were on a small scale, sales on the Stock Exchange totaling only a little more than $9,000,000. Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific adjustment 5s were one of the few active issues, but they held within narrow limits despite a large turnover. There were few features in the foreign group. French and German issues were a trifle easier, but Italian bonds were firm. Australian 4½s declined ¼ point.

National Tea Retires Stock.

Stockholders of the National Tea Company have approved a reduction in the authorized preferred stock from $5,000,000 to $4,755,200 by cancelling $244,800 of preferred stock in accordance with sinking fund provisions. They also approved an increase in the directorate from six to seven members. Guy A. Thomas, formerly with the Minneapolis National Tea Company, was elected as the additional director.

NICARAGUAN LOAN HALTED.

Wall Street Hears Bank Credit May Take Place of Bonds.

Negotiations for a $12,000,000 loan to Nicaragua for the refunding of indebtedness, the payment of revolutionary claims and other purposes have been halted, according to information in Wall Street banking circles, and the project may either be postponed until Fall or revised so that Nicaragua will obtain a short-term banking credit instead of selling a bond issue.

The proposed loan was under discussion several months, following the return to this country of W. W. Cumberland, who made a survey of conditions for the State Department and whose data was made available to bankers in this city. In the event of a loan, it was proposed to set up a new system of financial supervision in Nicaragua under American sponsorship. It is understood that the present question over the loan arose in connection with the specific security that would be provided.

Nicaragua recently paid off the last of a private banking credit that had been obtained here and that amounted originally to $2,000,000. Several such credits have been obtained in the past, and it is understood that a new one amounting to $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 will be obtained in lieu of a loan on bonds.

TO SELL DEPOSITED BONDS.

Committee of South Carolina Gas & Electric Reports.

The protective committee for the South Carolina Gas and Electric Company first mortgage twenty-year 6 per cent. bondholders announces that it has entered into an agreement for the sale of all bonds deposited with it prior to July 25. The committee consists of Charles C. Hood, James T. Monahan and William H. Eshbaugh.

Bondholders are notified that they may dissent to the sale and withdraw their bonds if they so desire. Those who have not filed such a notice prior to July 25 will be deemed by the committee to have consented to the sale.

Australian Loan for London.

A sharp fall in the last Commonwealth of Australia loan has definitely upset the likelihood of the City of Sydney borrowing in this market at this time. The loan, one of £2,000,000, probably will be offered in London. The Australian Loan Council's program provides for borrowing £40,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

BOND FLOTATIONS

New Corporation Issues to Be Offered for Subscription by Investors.

Offering of a new issue of $1,500,000 Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company first mortgage 6½ per cent. sinking fund bonds, due on June 1, 1940, will be made today by P. W. Chapman & Co., Inc., and Throckmorton & Co. The issue is priced at 99½ and interest, to yield more than 6.55 per cent. The company was organized recently to supply natural gas to companies serving Kansas City, Mo., which include the American Pipe Line Company, a subsidiary of the Cities Service Gas Company, and the Gas Service Company, a subsidiary of the Cities Service Company, which have contracted for service during the life of these bonds.

Quincy Memorial Bridge.

New financing for the Quincy Memorial Bridge Company, which will operate a toll bridge over the Mississippi River from Quincy, Ill., to West Quincy, Mo., will be made shortly. It is planned to offer a new issue of $800,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. sinking fund bonds, due on June 1, 1940. The offering will be made through Bartlett & Gordon, Inc., and Stevenson & Co. of Chicago.

Manhattan Towers.

Offering will be made shortly of an issue of $500,000 Manhattan Towers twenty-year 6½ per cent. sinking fund debentures, supplementing a fee loan of $1,650,000 issued last March. The Commonwealth Bond Corporation, which has underwritten the issue, states that a bonus of ten shares of capital stock of the borrowing corporation will be given to the holder of each $1,000 bond, with bonds of smaller denominations sharing in the bonus pro rata. The building, a twenty-three-story combination hotel and church structure, is being erected on the site of the Manhattan Congregational Church, Broadway and Seventy-sixth Street.

STRAUS INTERESTS COMBINE

Delaware Corporation Increases Stock for Consolidation.

A change in the corporate structure of S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., a Delaware corporation, was authorized yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Directors in order to facilitate the consolidation of all the Straus interests. The directors authorized an increase in common stock capitalization from 300,000 to 1,000,000 no-par-value shares and took over all the stock of the S. W. Straus & Co. corporations with gross assets of close to $100,000,000. S. W. Straus will continue as President of the Delaware corporation.

The Delaware corporation previously owned the New York and Illinois corporations of S. W. Straus & Co. It now will own also 30 per cent. of the stock of the Straus National Bank & Trust Company of Chicago; all the stock of the Maryland, Massachusetts, California and Canadian corporations, as well as all the stock of the corporations owning the Straus buildings in New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh and San Francisco.

NEW STOCK ISSUES

Offering of Corporation Shares for Subscription by the Public

New stock issues on the market today are headed by an offering of $7,280,000 of common stock of the Kimberly-Clark Corporation, consisting of 140,000 shares priced at $52 a share. The offering group is composed of Hollgarten & Co., Lehman Brothers and the First Wisconsin Company of Milwaukee. Consolidated net earnings of the predecessor company and its wholly owned subsidiaries, after depreciation, since 1923, have averaged $4.47 a share on the common stock of the new corporation to be presently outstanding. Application will be made to have this stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Kimberly-Clark Company holds majority ownership of the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company, Ltd., the remainder of which stock is owned by THE NEW YORK TIMES Company, which receives its newsprint supply from the new Spruce Falls plant under a long-term contract. This company represents a total investment of approximately $27,000,000, of which $6,500,000 was furnished by the Kimberly-Clark Company and the balance by THE NEW YORK TIMES Company and from the sale of bonds.

Investment Stock Offered.

A new issue of $1,500,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the International Mortgage and Investment Corporation will be offered today by Colvin & Co. The offering is in the form of allotment certificates in units of one share of preferred and one-half share of common, priced at $112 a unit. The company, which is heavily interested in German mortgages, plans to extend its activities in that field.

Oakland and Pontiac Sales.

Sales of Oakland and Pontiac cars by the Oakland Motor Car Company division of the General Motors Corporation for the half year ended on June 30 were 161,548 units, a gain of 62 per cent. over the preceding six months. Sales in the corresponding period last year were 99,986 cars. June was the greatest month in the history of the division, with 30,345 cars sold, as against 20,080 last June.

Florida Income Tax $17,184,326.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—Through a typographical error the table of income tax receipts by States for 1928, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES today, gave the receipts for Florida as $217,184,326. The correct figure is $17,184,326. An additional "2" was placed before the dollar sign by mistake.

NEW ISSUE

$1,500,000

Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company

(Kansas City, Missouri)

First Mortgage 6.50 Per Cent Sinking Fund Gold Bonds
Series A
With Stock Purchase Warrants

Dated June 1st, 1928 Due June 1st, 1940

Principal and semi-annual interest (June 1st and December 1st) payable in Chicago, Illinois, or New York City. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500. Registerable as to principal. Redeemable as a whole or in part on any interest date upon thirty days' published notice, to and including December 1st, 1930, at 105 and accrued interest, the redemption premium decreasing one-half of one per cent during each year thereafter. Interest payable without deduction for that portion of any Federal Income Tax not in excess of two per cent. Refund of state property taxes not exceeding six-tenths of one per cent of the principal per annum and state income taxes not exceeding six per cent of the interest, upon timely and proper application, as provided in the Mortgage. Central Trust Company of Illinois, Chicago, Trustee. J. T. Franey, Co-Trustee.

Issuance of these bonds is subject to the approval of the Public Service Commissions of Missouri and Kansas

The following information has been summarized by Mr. Frank P. Parish, President of the Company:

Business: The Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company will supply natural gas to distributing companies furnishing gas to Kansas City, Missouri, and eight communities, all located in the immediately tributary territory, having a total population estimated in excess of 400,000.

American Pipe Line Company, a subsidiary of Cities Service Gas Company, and Gas Service Company, a subsidiary of Cities Service Company, have contracted to purchase from Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company a maximum of 12,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, for a period of 12 years. The earnings from this contract alone are estimated to be sufficient to amortize this issue on or before maturity.

Properties and Gas Reserves: Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company will own 200 miles of pipe lines, including gathering and branch lines, of which more than 100 miles are already completed and in full operation, together with necessary rights-of-way, and compressor stations aggregating 1,665 horse-power, and will control, through gas purchase contracts, 196 gas wells and the gas rights in more than 61,000 acres of land in gas producing districts.

Messrs. Brokaw, Dixon, Garner and McKee, Geologists and Petroleum Engineers, New York, have reported upon the gas reserves controlled by and available to Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company and have estimated the same to be in excess of 67,000,000,000 cubic feet, which reserves are considered to be more than sufficient for the complete amortization of this issue of bonds.

Security: These bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a first mortgage on the fixed assets of the Company, including all pipe lines, rights-of-way (which may be subject to the usual farm mortgages), compressor stations and by deposit with the Trustee of all gas purchase and sales contracts.

The properties, securing the bonds of the Company, have been appraised at approximately $2,650,000.

Earnings: Messrs. Brokaw, Dixon, Garner and McKee have estimated that, upon completion of the additional pipe lines and compressor stations now under construction, the earnings applicable to the payment of the principal and interest of this bond issue will be as follows:

1929	1930	1931

Maximum annual interest requirements on this issue $97,500

Sinking Fund: The mortgage will provide for a fixed sinking fund payable monthly to the Trustee beginning June 25th, 1929, calculated to be sufficient to retire this entire issue by maturity. The mortgage will provide further that 25 per cent of net earnings, as defined in the mortgage, together with the proceeds from the exercise of stock purchase privileges, shall be used for the retirement of bonds.

Management: The officers and directors of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company include men with long experience in the production and transportation of natural gas in the states of Kansas and Missouri.

Stock Purchase Warrants: Each $1,000 bond will carry a warrant entitling the holder thereof to purchase ten shares of the Common Stock of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company at $5.00 per share to and including June 1st, 1931, at $7.50 per share to and including June 1st, 1934, at $10.00 per share to and including June 1st, 1937, and at $12.50 per share to and including June 1st, 1940, provided, however, that warrants may be redeemed upon 30 days' published notice and upon the expiration of such 30 days' notice all warrant rights not previously exercised shall cease and the warrants shall be relinquished to the Company upon the payment to the holders of $50.00 per warrant.

Engineering reports by Messrs. Brokaw, Dixon, Garner and McKee, New York City. Audits by Arthur Andersen & Co., Chicago. Legal matters are under the supervision of Messrs. Chapman and Cutler and Messrs. Nicholson, Crandall and Snyder, Chicago, and Messrs. Wilson, Bondschu & Bailey, Kansas City, Missouri. These bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us, subject to the approval of counsel. Original delivery may be made in the form of Trustee's receipts or temporary bonds exchangeable for definitive bonds.

Price 99.50 and accrued interest to yield over 6.55 per cent

Wabash-Harrison Building

Chicago, Illinois

First Mortgage Sinking Fund 6% Gold Bonds

(Being part of an issue of $2,225,000 of which $125,000 are general mortgage bonds subordinate to the balance of the issue)

Dated: July 1, 1928 Due: August 1, 1943

Federal Income Tax not in excess of 2% paid by borrower.
Various State Tax Refunded.

Trustee: STRAUS NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY OF CHICAGO

Bonds Priced at Par and Accrued Interest.

We summarize as follows from a letter from the President of the borrowing corporation.

MORTGAGED PROPERTY: These bonds are secured by a direct closed first mortgage on land owned in fee located on the Southeast corner of South Wabash Avenue and East Harrison Street, having a frontage of approximately 120 feet on Wabash Avenue and 173 feet on Harrison Street, together with a 19-story steel and reinforced concrete fireproof office, garage and store building, to be erected thereon. The office portion of the building will occupy the upper 12 floors. This portion of the building will have a 40 foot setback on the South and with street frontages on both Wabash and Harrison Streets and an alley on the East side, it is assured adequate light and air on all four sides. The lower 7 stories will contain a thoroughly modern 600 car parking garage which will be equipped with every modern convenience to provide for quick and efficient handling of cars and the convenience and comfort of patrons. No cars will be parked on the first floor, so that the greater portion of space will be occupied by attractive stores and shops.

The location of the property, less than 200 feet from Michigan Avenue with its exclusive shops, and near to several of Chicago's leading hotels and theatres, is excellent for a garage. The office portion of the building is likewise excellently served by local transportation facilities and because of the moderate rates at which space can be profitably rented, it is expected the space will be quickly absorbed. The combination of a garage with office space has been shown by experience to be mutually helpful. Tenants will use garage space and will be attracted to sign leases because garage space is available.

VALUATION: Land and building, when completed, have been independently appraised as follows:

		Lower Appraisal
LAND: Owned in fee, appraised by
E. B. Woolf & Company, Chicago	$1,230,000
Murray Wolbach, Chicago	1,213,360	$1,213,360
BUILDING: Appraised by
Alfred S. Alschuler, Architect, Chicago	1,872,732
	$3,086,092

EARNINGS: Net annual earnings are estimated at $329,300, approximately two and a half times the greatest annual interest charge.

BORROWING CORPORATION: These bonds are the obligation of Michigan Boulevard Garage Corporation, whose principal stockholder is Harry W. Rubloff, a prominent Chicago Real Estate man of experience and marked ability, who has a record of unbroken success in his business undertakings.

SINKING FUND: Beginning February 1, 1935 the sinking fund will retire $500,000 before maturity, leaving a balance of $1,600,000 maturing August 1, 1943.

Insured Bonds

A 6½% Bond with Cash in Trust

Principal of our current offering of Wakenva Coal Company 6½% Bonds is secured by properties which cost more than seven times the amount of all the mortgage indebtedness in the hands of the public.

And as an additional factor of safety, it is further secured by a life insurance endowment policy, deposited in trust, with all premiums paid in advance to maturity and which matures with the bonds. Based on the present dividend and interest rates of the life insurance company, this policy will at maturity have a cash value in excess of the bond issue.

Send for circular describing this unusually safeguarded 6½% issue.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

British Trading Opens Quiet and Maintains Steadiness, With Changes Irregular but Slight.

LONDON MONEY HARDENS

French Market Is Dull, Expecting Tighter Money — German Boerse Sags After Confident Opening.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—The new account began under very quiet conditions. The market maintained the steadier tone which succeeded the fall last week caused by the first news of the Loewenstein tragedy, but there was still a disposition on the part of many operators to adopt a waiting attitude.

Gilt-edged securities showed a tendency to harden on the news of further arrivals of gold at the Bank of England. Home rails continued weak. Oil and nitrate shares were firm.

There was little selling by speculators, caused by the setback in the cable group, Eastern falling to 245. Marconi eased to 66s 6d. On the other hand, Canadian Marconi, on American influences, rose further to 31s 6d.

International Holding and Hydro-electric were dealt in within limited ranges of prices, the former closing at about $145 and the latter at $40.

The mining market was quiet, but demand for De Beers sent the price up ¾, while Rand Mines was unchanged.

There was less money available on Lombard Street, and borrowers had to pay 3.5 per cent. for fresh money for the night. Discount quotations responded to the tightening of money conditions.

The New York rate closed a sixteenth lower at $4.87 1-16, as a result of demand for dollars in the afternoon.

Rentes Maintain Positions.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—The Bourse session today was extremely dull, with trading almost stagnant.

Even after two days of closing there were not sufficient orders to create much activity in the opening hours and transactions diminished as the day progressed. The condition was attributed partly to the disruption of the Brussels market as a result of the Loewenstein mystery and partly to reports of a prospective tightening of the monetary situation for the impending mid-month settlements, which many brokers predict will be difficult.

There was, however, no great variation in the quotations on rentes, which, although lightly traded in, maintained their position. Threes closed at 89.30, 1917 4s at 79.25, 1918 4s 79.25, 1915 5s 92.45, 1920 redeemable 5s 112.20 and 4s 101.40.

Easier Money Stimulates Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 9.—Stimulated by an easier money market the Boerse began the new week confident. The so-called Loewenstein papers were neglected, but a few electrovalues advanced sharply on account of heavy purchases by a large local bank.

In the second hour denial of a report that a big money shipment for the Reichsbank was en-route from America caused a flurry, which was further accentuated by denial of a rumor that S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for Reparations, had recommended a quick return of seized German property. Quotations dropped along the whole line, in some instances as much as twenty points. The only exception was new Guinea colonials, which advanced 90 points. Trading at the closing hour was almost at a standstill, with prices at the lowest level. Even favorites lost practically all the original gains in the last hour.

Foreign stocks and rentes were unchanged. Call money was plentiful at 6 and 8 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Weakness Continues, With Three Bills at New Lows—Absence of Demand Factor.

Pressure against the foreign exchanges continued in evidence at the opening of business for the week, and in three—sterling, lira and the Argentine dollar—new lows for the year were marked up. Elsewhere the Scandinavians, Swiss, German, Spanish and Swiss documents were carried off for sharp losses. However, in none of these exhanges was the selling heavy to explain the decline, but rather the absence of demand, which has tapered off to nominal lines the influence toward lower levels. Holland guilders alone advanced, while the French franc held steady.

Sterling's new low of $4.83⅝ for checks and $4.86⅞ for cables came near the close, after a steady decline from the start. Italian touched 5.24¾ cents, and the Argentine, around 40.27 cents, came near the wind-up of the day. All of the Chinese exchanges yielded, the Japanese yen giving up ground, too.

DEMAND DEPOSITS INCREASE IN WEEK

Report of Federal Reserve Board Shows Drop in Investments and Government Deposits.

INVESTMENTS FALL OFF

Net Time Deposits Are Above the Total for June 27 in the New York District.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Federal Reserve System's condition statement of 637 reporting member banks in leading cities as of July 3 shows increases for the week of $339,000,000 in loans and discounts, of $330,000,000 in net demand deposits and of $157,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks, and decreases of $32,000,000 in investments, of $12,000,000 in time deposits and of $40,000,000 in Government deposits.

Loans on stocks and bonds, including United States Government obligations, were $252,000,000 above the June 27 total at all reporting banks, increases of $242,000,000 being shown for the New York District and of $18,000,000 for the Cleveland District, and a decrease of $3,000,000 in the Kansas City District. Increases of $89,000,000 in "all other" loans and discounts reported by member banks in the New York District and of $7,000,000 each in the Boston and Kansas City Districts were partly offset by decreases in most of the others districts, all reporting banks showing a net increase of $57,000,000.

Holdings of United States Government securities increased $7,000,000 and $5,000,000, respectively, at reporting banks in the Chicago and Philadelphia District, and declined $7,000,000 and $5,000,000, respectively, in the Boston and Richmond Districts and $7,000,000 at all reporting banks. Holdings of other bonds, stocks and securities declined $25,000,000 at all reporting banks, $27,000,000 in the New York District, $10,000,000 in the Chicago District and $5,000,000 each in the Philadelphia and Richmond Districts, and increased $14,000,000 and $6,000,000 respectively, in the Cleveland and St. Louis Districts.

The principal increases, by districts, in net demand deposits, which at all reporting banks were $330,000,000 above the June 27 total, were: New York, $248,000,000; Chicago, $31,000,000; Boston, $26,000,000, and Philadelphia, $19,000,000. Declines of $50,000,000 and $12,000,000, respectively, in time deposits in the New York and Chicago Districts were partly offset by increases of $35,000,000 and $18,000,000, respectively, in the Cleveland and San Francisco Districts, all reporting banks showing a net decrease of $12,000,000. The principal changes in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks for the week were increases of $65,000,000 in the New York District, $26,000,000 in the San Francisco District, $23,000,000 in the Chicago District, $22,000,000 in the Cleveland District and $8,000,000 in the Philadelphia District. The Boston District showed a decline of $6,000,000 and all reporting banks a net increase of $157,000,000.

A summary of the principal assets and liabilities of the 637 reporting member banks, together with changes during the week and year ended July 3, 1927, follows:

ALUMINUM WAR IN EUROPE.

Berlin Newspaper Says American Prices Worry Continental Cartel.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 9.—A price-cutting war is now on between the Aluminum Company of America and the European Aluminum Cartel, according to the Vossische Zeitung tonight.

In the first skirmishes America seems to have scored asignal victory. The cartel is greatly worried because materials from across the ocean are offered at lower prices than those quoted by the trust, although they recently were reduced to offset American competition.

The cartel is considering another cut, but this idea is strongly opposed by its leaders, especially since the new rates were put into effect only a few weeks ago.

Business Women Open Meeting.

NEW ORLEANS, July 9 (AP).—More than 1,200 women, identified with business and the professions throughout the United States were due here today for the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which opened tonight with a program of addresses and a reception to the officers. The formal opening of the sessions will take place tomorrow morning, with the final session on Friday.

FRENCH LOSE ON SILVER.

Government Will Pay but 40 Cents on Dollar for Demonetized Coins.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—The silver coins hoarded for years by French peasants in their proverbial woolen socks will not be redeemed at par, but at two-fifths of their pre-war value.

The Government has fixed the ratio, effective next Monday, for the silver pieces which have been demonetized under the stabilization bill, the value being set on the basis of the bullion price.

Consequently, Frenchmen who did not trust banks, thinking that any hard money was always worth par, will get only forty cents on the dollar for their silver coins.

The CITY of a Hundred Towns

GIVEN a large market, electricity can be supplied economically: a large market permits large-scale production and constancy of output, first essentials of efficient generation.

In the congested metropolis, the market is within easy reach of the generating plant. In the small towns and over the less populous country-side the generating plant must seek out its market with a widespread network of transmission lines, through which it serves not one, but a hundred towns—a "city" of power users spread over a vast area.

In this fashion the Middle West Utilities Company's subsidiaries have brought ample and cheap power to widespread sections of thirty states, in some cases replacing uneconomical local plants, in other cases bringing electric service for the first time.

This widely diffused power supply enables industry to occupy non-metropolitan territories, avoiding big-city congestion and high costs and gaining lower costs and more pleasant working conditions, while contributing to the greater economic progress of the small towns.

Investing $10,000 Sensibly

"I must obtain steady income from this fund, but I would like some benefit from market appreciation," an investor wrote to us recently. At the same time the action of the market was clearly demonstrating that investors who must obtain steady income cannot depend on such income from market appreciation.

Ordinarily, only one of two courses is possible for the investment of $10,000—one course for the investor who must be safe through investment in sound securities bearing a fixed interest rate—the other course for the business man or woman who can afford to take some risk.

But with the advent of Guaranteed Participating bonds as issued by Realty Foundation, Inc. and guaranteed by General Surety Company, the needs of both classes of investors are fully met—both are given new and unique advantages in safety and in possibilities for future profits.

An interesting bulletin has been prepared which outlines these advantages now available to conservative investors who desire the benefit of long term market appreciation as well as guaranteed current income.

GENERAL ELECTRIC SELLS SUBSIDIARY

General Contract Purchase Corp., for Backing Dealers, Goes to Industrial Acceptance.

LATTER TO ACQUIRE OTHERS

Swope Says the Finance Business Requires Organization Skilled in Special Banking Field.

The entire capital stock of the General Contract Purchase Corporation of New York, instalment financing subsidiary of the General Electric Company, has been acquired by the Industrial Acceptance Corporation, according to a joint announcement yesterday by Gerard Swope, President of General Electric, and Arthur J. Morris, President of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation. Affiliated contract purchase corporations in Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Dallas and San Francisco have also been acquired.

Organized by the General Electric Company in 1921 the General Contract Purchase Corporation and its associated companies have extended a national service to General Electric distributers, dealers and to those manufacturers whose product contains General Electric apparatus.

Arthur J. Morris will be Chairman of the board and Percy M. Hall Chairman of the Finance Committee. E. W. Miner, who has been President of the General Contract Purchase Corporation, continues as President and General Manager. Frank J. Scott, Vice President of Industrial Acceptance Corporation, becomes Executive Vice President, and Clinton T. Miller Vice President and Controller.

The Board of Directors will include J. W. Lewis, assistant to the President of the General Electric Company, and several other General Electric officials, as well as some of the present members of the board of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation.

Commenting on the deal, Mr. Swope said:

"The General Electric Company for more than seven years has been financing time instalment sales of electric products in which General Electric apparatus has formed a part, and this service has grown to such an extent that at the end of 1927 General Electric had advanced more than $16,000,000 to its subsidiary financing companies. Over the period of operation more than 800,000 contracts amounting to upward of $114,000,000 have been financed.

"It has long been recognized that this business requires special treatment and by an organization that is skilled and experienced in this specialized field of banking. After study and consideration the directors of the company decided to dispose of the capital stock of its financing subsidiaries to the Industrial Acceptance Corporation."

Mr. Miner said: "These contract purchase corporations will be perpetuated and the facilities which they have heretofore extended to the General Electric distributers and dealers as well as manufacturers using their product will be broadened from this time forward. The close relationship between the General Electric Company and the contract purchasing corporations continues and will be extended to keep pace with the development in sales of General Electric products."

Androscoggin Mills Reorganize.

LEWISTON, Me., July 9 (AP).—Stockholders of the Androscoggin Mills at a brief meeting today voted to rescind the liquidation action taken on June 26. Under the reorganization plan Walter S. Wyman, George Otis Spencer and E. H. Maxey, all of Augusta, W. B. Skelton of Lewiston, Philip Y. De Normandie and Charles E. Inches, both of Boston, were announced as directors.

Hartford Battery Company Sold.

Control of the Hartford Battery Manufacturing Company has been acquired by Automotive Standards, Inc., it was announced yesterday. No new financing was necessary. Stock of the Hartford Battery will be exchanged on the basis of one share of 7 per cent. preferred for four shares of Automotive Standards and twenty shares of Hartford Battery common for one share of Automotive Standards common.

How the causes of worry are Eliminated from investing

The investment which inspires the greatest confidence is one in which the causes of worry have been, not merely bolstered up temporarily, but permanently eliminated. The chief causes of worry in investments are: 1. Security which fluctuates. 2. Uncertainty as to prompt interest payments. 3. The need for your personal supervision and constant vigilance.

The Guaranteed First Mortgage Certificates of this company completely eliminate these causes by reason of: 1. The most stable security known to mankind—New York Real Estate. 2. Prompt payment of principal and interest GUARANTEED—and the guarantee is backed by a fund of over $7,000,000. 3. All details supervised for you by a strong competent organization.

That night the factory burned down

Sales were keeping steadily ahead of production. The organization was functioning smoothly. He went home happy in the knowledge that his business was prospering. When morning came his factory was merely a pile of smoking wreckage and hot bricks.

Insurance? That would help some—when he collected it. Just now—action!

We immediately advanced him funds against his receivables, and, a little later, more against his adjusted insurance. He wired for new machinery and supplies, and within ten days was filling orders from a temporary shop he had rented, while his new factory was being built.

Ours is a commercial banking service flexible enough to meet the constructive requirements of any sound business. Our facilities are complete for either domestic or foreign transactions. 18.7% GAIN IN JUNE BY 26 STORE CHAINS

Sales of $107,740,907 Reported, Against $90,732,539 Year Ago.

NEW UNITS CHIEF FACTOR

Responsible for Greater Part of Advance—14.5% Increase in Six Months.

Chain store sales in June as reported to date by twenty-six organizations amounted to $107,740,907, against $90,732,539 for June last year, an increase of $17,008,368, or 18.7 per cent. For the first six months of the year the same chains report total sales of $564,295,670, as against $492,548,238 in the corresponding period last year, an increase of $71,747,432, or 14.5 per cent.

These figures include some of the largest chains in the variety, grocery and five-and-ten cent fields. The greater part of the total increase is probably due to the opening of new units, several chains reporting earlier in the month that old stores showed only moderate gains of from 2.4 to 4.5 per cent.

The largest sales reported yesterday were those of the J. C. Penney Company, Inc., with June sales of $14,129,186 and sales for the six months' period of $71,753,618. The largest percentage gains for June over the same month last year were made by the People's Drug Stores and Safeway Stores, Inc., with increases of 41.9 and 38 per cent. respectively.

The reports issued yesterday follow:

PLANS NEW POWER STATION.

New Jersey Power and Light Co. to Have High-Pressure Plant.

Plans have been announced by W. S. Barstow & Co., Inc., for a new all-12000-lb. station to be built for the New Jersey Power and Light Company at Holland, N. J. The initial installation will consist of a 55,000 kilowatt turbine generating unit of the cross compound type, employing a high and low pressure turbine with boiler reheat between them.

This station will be the second in the world to be designed entirely for high pressure steam generation. The Deepwater Station, pioneer all high pressure station, was announced a few months ago. General Electric turbine generating units will be installed in both stations.

COUNTER STOCKS GAIN IN MODERATE TRADING

Bank and Insurance Shares and Industrials Active at Opening, Quiet at Close.

Trading was of moderate volume in the over-the-counter market yesterday and the price trend was generally upward, although only a few of the leading issues were bought actively.

Industrials, bank stocks, trust company and insurance issues opened with a flurry of strength, but quieted down toward the close. Chain store, sugar, utility and communication shares and bonds of all descriptions were steady in rather quiet trading. Bunker Hill, A. O. Smith common and Crocker, Wheeler common made spirited advances in the industrial group. American Salesbook common, Industrial Finance common, Industrial Acceptance common and Phelps Dodge moved forward for fair-sized gains. Singer Manufacturing, Joseph Dixon, Westland Oil, Syracuse Washing Machine, American Salesbook preferred, Standard Screw, Southern Baking preferred and Draper Corporation were easier.

Great A. & P. Tea common and J. C. Penney common were leaders of the advance in the chain store department. Schiff preferred and United States Stores common B were easier.

Phoenix and Aetna Casualty were features of the advancing issues among insurance companies. Hartford Fire, Aetna Life and Aetna Fire also moved up briskly.

Clairmont National, Manhattan Company, Public and Seventh National held the leadership in the bank group.

HEARING ON COTTON TODAY

Osmond's Action Against Exchanges and Others Will Be Assailed.

When the suit of Louis N. Osmond, cotton trader, for an injunction against the New York Cotton Exchange and the firms of George H. McFadden & Bros. and Anderson, Clayton & Fleming is called for a hearing in the Supreme Court this morning an application will be made in behalf of the defendants for dismissal of the complaint on the ground that it fails to state a cause of action.

The plaintiff sues to restrain the defendants from making deliveries of cotton of less than the legal grade on July contracts, asserting that a large quantity of illegal cotton is stored in New York warehouses and that traders and the public generally will be damaged if such cotton is delivered.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT AT A RECORD HIGH

Production for First Six Months 24,792,883 Tons, Against 23,807,387 in 1927.

OPERATIONS AT 84.31 P. C.

Compare With 83.47% Last Year—143,960 Tons Daily in June, a Gain of 3.31%.

Steel ingot production in the first half of the current year established a new high record with the output aggregating 24,792,883 gross tons, comparing with 23,807,387 tons last year and 24,705,124 tons, the previous peak, in the first half of 1926, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute. Operations for the first six months of 1928 averaged 84.31 per cent., as against 83.47 per cent. for the first half of the preceding year. These percentages are based on a theoretical annual capacity of 58,627,910 gross tons for 1928 and 57,230,350 for 1927.

The past month steel ingot production averaged 143,960 gross tons daily, compared with an average of 134,446 gross tons in the corresponding month last year, an increase of 9,514 gross tons, or 3.31 per cent. The calculated monthly production of all companies aggregated 3,742,964, compared with 4,203,190 gross tons in May and 3,495,609 tons in June, 1927.

The June output of reporting companies, which in 1927 produced 94.68 per cent. of the country's total steel ingots, was 3,543,838 gross tons, compared with 3,979,580 gross tons in May and 3,308,160 gross tons in June, 1927. Of the production reported for last month, 3,016,487 tons were open-hearth and 527,351 tons Bessemer steel.

Figures for 1928 and 1927 of calculated monthly production of steel ingots in tons by all companies follow:

	1928.	1927.
January	3,991,332	3,789,874

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

CHRYSLER CORPORATION.
NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a special meeting of the stockholders of Chrysler Corporation, a corporation organized under the laws of Delaware, will be held at the office of said Corporation, 341 to 365 Chalmers Avenue, City of Highland Park, Wayne County, Michigan, at two o'clock P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) on the 17th day of July, 1928, to consider and act upon resolutions or motions which will be presented to said meeting in respect of the following matters:

1. To amend the Certificate of Incorporation of the Corporation as set forth in the following resolutions adopted by its Board of Directors at a special meeting of the Board duly called and held on the 14th day of June, 1928:

Resolved, that the Board of Directors of Chrysler Corporation hereby declares it advisable that the Certificate of Incorporation of Chrysler Corporation, as amended by Certificate of Amendment filed in the office of the Secretary of the State of Delaware December 3, 1925, be further amended—

(1) By striking out the first sentence of Article marked Fourth of said Certificate of Incorporation as amended, which now reads as follows:

"The total number of shares of stock of this Corporation authorized is 5,475,000 shares, of which 275,000 shares are Preferred Stock without nominal or par value, and 5,200,000 shares are Common Stock without nominal or par value" and inserting in place thereof:

"The total number of shares that may be issued by the Corporation is 6,000,000. All of said shares shall be Common Shares of one class without par value."

(2) By striking out all of the remainder of said Article marked Fourth of said Certificate of Incorporation as amended, except the sentence reading as follows:

"The Corporation shall commence business with 20 shares of Preferred Stock, Series A, without nominal or par value, and issuing in place of the same stock as follows:

"No stockholder shall have any preemptive right to subscribe to or to acquire from the Corporation any shares of its stock."

Further Resolved, that a special meeting of the stockholders of this Corporation entitled to vote be called to be held at the office of the Corporation, 341 Massachusetts Avenue, City of Highland Park, Wayne County, Michigan, at two o'clock P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) on the 17th day of July, 1928, for the consideration of the above mentioned proposed amendments to the Certificate of Incorporation as amended, and for the purpose of authorizing the directors and officers of this Corporation to take all steps necessary or advisable in order to effectuate the intent and purpose of any or all of the resolutions adopted at said meeting.

2. To approve, ratify, confirm and adopt any and all action heretofore taken or authorized by the Board of Directors or the Finance Committee of the Corporation or Justin Steiner, whether pursuant to any previous authorization by the stockholders or otherwise.

3. To consider and act upon such other matters as may properly be transacted at the meeting.

The stock transfer books of the Corporation will not be closed.

Under the By-Laws of the Corporation only stockholders of record at the close of business on June 30 will be entitled to vote at said meeting.

By order of the Board of Directors.
CHRYSLER CORPORATION,
W. P. CHRYSLER, President.
FRANK A. MORRISON, Secretary.
Dated, Detroit, Michigan, June 14, 1928.

A. M. FRASER, Secretary.

CITY EXPERT FIGHTS GAS RATE INCREASE

Bemis on Stand Objects to Brooklyn Company's Demand for 95-Cent Charge.

FINAL HEARING CONCLUDED

After Arguments by Counsel Service Commission Orders Briefs Filed July 31.

The fight that the Brooklyn Union Gas Company has been making before the Public Service Commission for permission to charge 95 cents for the first 500 feet of gas or less was practically ended yesterday when the company, the city and representatives of the consumers announced that they had no more testimony to offer. Decision was reserved on a motion of attorneys representong the consumers that the petition of the company be dismissed. Both sides were directed to file briefs on or before July 31.

In the argument on the motion to dismiss, it was contended that the company had failed to show proof that the new rate sought was justified, and that the initial charge asked for was in fact a service charge. Under the new rate, it was argued, 70 per cent. of the company's customers would have their gas bills increased.

Dr. Edward Bemis, expert for the city, testified that he opposed the minimum charge asked for by the company, as a matter of policy, but that if the commission decided that such a charge was justified, it should not be more than 25 cents a month. He objected strongly to the demand of the company for a minimum charge of 95 cents for the first 500 cubic feet or less, and a charge of 9 cents for each additional 100 feet.

His suggestion that the minimum charge should not be greater than 25 cents a month, the witness said, was based upon an examination of the company's books. Even this small charge, he thought, should be equalized at the end of the year and that a rebate should be allowed if the cost of the gas was less than this charge.

The witness admitted that the company should get some return for its meters that were not registering, but that this return should come in the general cost for gas and not as a minimum charge. Jackson A. Dykman, counsel for the company, asserted that the witness had not considered an item of about $600,000 of an account called "withdrawal of fixed capital," and another item of $65,000 in the "withdrawal of service account." The witness retorted that even if these two items had not been considered in his analysis they would not have made a difference of more than 2 per cent. a month to the consumer.

Those who questioned Dr. Bemis on the direct examination were John F. Hylan, the former Mayor; Jacob Brenner, representing the Ridgewood taxpayers, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Judson Hyatt.

CORPORATION REPORTS

Monthly and Other Statements of Earnings of Industrial Companies.

Corporations' reports of earnings and sales in the first half of 1928 and in recent fiscal periods, as reported yesterday, show moderate increases over corresponding periods of last year. These reports are considered in many quarters the best indicator of the business trend of the year.

Among the companies submitting reports yesterday, a drug and chemical house and an axle and spring manufacturer both showed increases in earnings. A manufacturer of iceless refrigerators reported a substantial increase during May as compared with the previous month, the advancing season making this a matter of course.

Eaton Axle and Spring Company.

The Eaton Axle and Spring Company reported a net profit of $445,634 for the quarter ended on June 30, after charges but before taxes. This was equivalent to $1.82 a share on 250,000 capital shares, which compares with $315,820 or $1.26 a share in the previous quarter and $304,492 or $1.22 a share in the June quarter of 1927. Six months' profit aggregated $770,955 or $3.08 a share, compared with $579,346 or $2.32 a share in the corresponding period a year ago.

Lehn & Fink Products Company.

The Lehn & Fink Products Company reports preliminary consolidated net profits of $1,051,600 after tax reserve for the half year ended on June 30, equal, after dividends on management stock at the annual rate of 30 cents a share, to $3.48 a share on 295,000 common shares. This compares with net profits of $650,564, or $2.28 a share on 275,000 common shares outstanding in the corresponding period of 1927.

Copeland Products.

The Copeland Products Corporation reports for May a net profit of $75,727 after depreciation, interest and taxes, an advance of $9,391 over the previous month. Net profit for the first five months of the current year aggregated $82,135, equivalent to $1.79 a share on the Class A stock. These figures do not include operations of subsidiaries.

British Celanese

British Celanese reports a profit of £864,893 for the year ended on Feb. 29 after deducting £778,323 for debenture and bond interest and expenditures for royalties and research. This compares with a net profit of £223,194 in the previous year.

Collins & Aikman Corporation.

The Collins & Aikman Corporation reports net profits of $94,520 for the three months ended on May 31, after depreciation and reserve for Federal income tax.

Lawyers Mortgage Company.

Record earnings have been reported by the Lawyers Mortgage Company for the last six months, the net profits of $1,479,744 comparing with $1,264,562 in the first half of 1927 and with $1,118,885 in the first half of 1926. Gross earnings for the six months were $3,388,405, compared with $2,053,347 in the same period last year, and with $1,884,175 in the first half of 1926

Pullman, Inc., and subsidiaries for the quarter ended on March 31 reported a consolidated net income of $2,563,243 after all charges, including depreciation and Federal taxes. This is equivalent to 76 cents a share earned on 3,375,000 shares of no par stock which will be outstanding when all $100 par stock of the Pullman Company has been exchanged for stock of Pullman, Inc.

UNEMPLOYMENT ROSE IN THE STATE IN MAY

Albany Report Says Decline in Factory Work Was Mainly Seasonal—City Slumps Most.

ALBANY, July 9 (AP).—Although factory employment throughout New York State continued to decline during May, according to figures just compiled by the State Department of Labor, the decline was mainly seasonal, corresponding to similar declines in former years.

The reduction in the ranks of workers in New York City, although proportionately much greater than in the rest of the State, was virtually the same as in May, 1926 and 1927. The slump in employment in New York City was ascribed to the pronounced end-of-the-season decrease in the output of the clothing and textile industries centred largely in that city. The difference between New York City and the up-State centres was also due in large measure to large seasonal increases in up-State brick and cement plants.

Pig iron plants and steel rolling mills, which usually slacken work in the Spring, reported increases in employment for the month, and brass, copper and aluminum factories also showed again.

Some increase was noted in the number of workers in machinery and electrical appartus plants. Makers of automobile parts increased their forces, but agricultural machine and some automobile factories laid off workers. The Summer decrease in railroad repair shops began in May, but was offset by some increases in railroad equipment plants.

Shoe factories reported decreases in employment, particularly in New York City. The Labor Department reported that this was not a seasonal movement, but was due rather to the decrease in demand as a result of unfavorable weather conditions. More fur workers were employed, the increase being much larger than in the corresponding month of any year since 1919.

Other seasonal decreases occurred in glass, furniture, piano, paper goods and canning factories. Leather plants did not show the customary seasonal reduction. Increases were noted throughout the State in drugs, industrial chemicals, paints and color factories. Employment in sugar refineries varied in different sections, with a net loss of 2½ per cent.

Per Capita Wealth Fell 96c Last Year, Up $5.60 Over 1914

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Americans are ninety-six cents poorer per capita this year than last, but they are $5.60 wealthier than in 1914.

Treasury records made public today show that the per capita wealth of the United States, based on an estimated population of 118,364,000 on June 30, the end of the 1928 fiscal year, was $40.52, compared with $41.48 for 1927 and $34.92 for 1914.

All United States money in issue at the end of the fiscal year was put at $8,117,768,758, compared with $8,667,286,075 for 1927 and $3,796,456,764 for 1914.

Of this amount, $4,796,408,667 was in circulation at the end of the 1928 fiscal year, with the remainder held in the Treasury and by Federal Reserve Banks, compared with $4,851,325,356 in 1927 and $3,458,089,755 in 1914.

Tobacco products factories, which had shown unusual increases in March and April, declined in May.

Small changes were noted in the food products industries, with seasonal increases in bakeries and beverage and candy factories.

Wage payments in New York City dropped 2 per cent. below the April mark, but throughout the State as a whole were slightly higher. In metal working plants, with the exception of railroad repair shops, the decrease of 7 per cent. in the number of workers being accompanied by a 4 per cent. increase in total wages.

Payrolls fell in the textile mills, with the exception of plants manufacturing broad silks, carpets, woolens and cotton goods. In leather plants payrolls fell nearly 5 per cent. Other decreases in employment were accompanied by decreases in the total amount of wages paid.

Admits Stock Certificates.

Certificates of deposit for the cumulative 7 per cent. preferred stock and the common stock of the International Paper Company have been admitted to trading by the New York Stock Exchange. The stock is being deposited under the plan for the formation of the International Paper and Power Company, which will acquire all of the paper and power properties of the International Paper Company.

PARIS THINKS NEW LIRA LED VOLPI TO RESIGN

Ex-Italian Finance Minister Thought Rate Was Too High, Political Circles Believe.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—The news of the resignation of Count Volpi as Finance Minister in Premier Mussolini's Government is connected in political circles here with a fundamental disagreement between the Italian Finance Minister and the Dictator with regard to monetary policy.

Count Volpi, it is generally known, had been opposed to the revalorization of the lira and it was only with difficulty that he was brought to accept the rate at which stabilization was established. Since that time, and particularly since the French stabilization at a lower rate, Count Volpi is believed to have become convinced that the lira was fixed at too high a rate and it is considered that he resigned because he was out of sympathy with the Premier's policy.

It is reported here that Count Volpi asked to be permitted to enter the diplomatic service, and it is mentioned that he may be appointed an Ambassador, possibly to France.

GLEN COV' RESTRICTS PARK

New Rules Will Reserve J. P. Morgan's Gift for Residents Alone.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN COVE, L. I., July 9.—The problem of restricting the Morgan Memorial Park for the use of the residents of this community was brought up this afternoon before the Glen Cove City Council. The terms of the lease to the city require that it be restricted to the use of the residents of Glen Cove and the community of Locust Valley.

The Commissioner of Public Safety, John W. Gammack, was requested to proceed at once to clear up the situation by setting up parking regulations which will in effect preserve the beach and park for the use of those for whom it was intended.

J. P. Morgan, who donated the park, his sons, Junius and Harry Morgan, Mrs. Harold I. Pratt and William H. Seaman, who is also Mayor of the city, are the trustees of the park.

CENTRAL PUBLIC SERVICE.

Corporation Gives Additional Rights to Class A Stock.

Stockholders of the Central Public Service Corporation yesterday approved amendments which vest full powers of participation in the future growth and earnings of the properties of the corporation in its class A stock. It is said the reclassification of the class A stock is only the first step toward a readjustment of the capital structure of the corporation in order to facilitate the financing of properties for growth. Utility service is at present rendered by the corporation in twenty States and in two Canadian provinces.

Heretofore the class A stock has been limited to $2.50 a share annual dividends and $25 a share in the event of liquidation. As a result of the amendment, it had priority over the common stock to the extent of $1.75 a share yearly in dividends and $30 a share in liquidation, and will participate equally with the common stock when that stock has received a sum equivalent to the priorities of the class A stock.

OILS, COPPERS ACTIVE ON THE CURB MARKET

Trading Volume Increases, but Is Confined to a Small Number of Favorites.

Oil, copper and manufacturing stocks were the leaders in a quiet and colorless market on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday. Business, although somewhat larger in volume than it has been in some days, was confined to a limited number of trading favorites.

Oil stocks were helped by the advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude. Vacuum, Galena Signal, Ohio Oil and Creole moved up in brisk trading. Newmont Mining, Hudson Bay Mining and Consolidated Copper mines led in the mining group.

Other industrial issues that were in demand included Columbia Graphophone, United States Gypsum, Swift International, Crocker Wheeler, Doehler Die, Durant Motors, Midland Steel Products, Mountain Producers, Freshman Radio and A. O. Smith.

Bonds were somewhat higher in the early dealings, but sagged fractionally later in the day.

BANKERS SAY POLITICS NOW DOMINATE STOCKS

Argue Prices Are Being Kept Up for Sake of Political Candidates.

Before the nominating conventions, Nelson, Cook & Co. of Baltimore argue in their monthly financial bulletin, "a vigorous, busy security market with little time for side shows was responsible for much public apathy to the political game. But a receding market and a less active one has provided more spare time to notice other things, and forces upon our reluctant attention the disagreeable fact that from now until after the election, politics will be a dominant security market factor.

"It may be observed that politicians on each side are more anxious than ever to impress upon the business world that each candidate is favorable to industry. So long as Governor Smith's friends and Secretary Hoover's friends each believe a strong market favorable to their particular candidate's success, it would seem that we shall have a strong market. But a political campaign which includes stock market or money market manipulations is undesirable, no matter which candidate such manipulation is assumed to favor."

DAIRY MERGER COMPLETED.

National Absorbs the Telling-Belle Vernon Company.

CLEVELAND, July 9 (AP).—Details of the $100,000,000 merger of the Telling-Belle Vernon Company, a Cleveland dairy concern, and the National Dairy Products Company of New York, were completed here today.

National Dairy deposits a sufficient amount of stock with the Cleveland Trust Company to cover the shares of the Telling company deposited for exchange. Under the terms of the merger, which was announced in May, Telling shareholders will receive fifty shares of National Dairy for seventy-eight shares of Telling.

NASH EARNS $2,768,473.

Board Votes Regular $1 and Extra 50 Cents for Quarter.

RACINE, Wis., July 9 (AP).—A net income of $2,768,473 for March, April and May was reported today at a meeting of the board of the Nash Motors Company.

All expenses of manufacturing, including depreciation, selling, administration and providing for local, State and Federal taxes, have been dedeuetad from this amount.

The quarterly dividend of $1 a share was declared and an extra dividend of 50 cents a share, payable on Aug. 1, 1928, to stockholders of record at the close of business July 20, 1928.

CHANGES IN DIVIDENDS.

Initials Are Declared by Two Companies—Bank Increases Rate.

Art Metal Works, Inc., declared an initial quarterly of 45 cents a share on the convertible preference stock. The Mercury Mills, Ltd., declared an initial quarterly dividend of 1¼ cents, establishing a 6 per cent. annual rate.

The Citizens National Bank of Los Angeles increased its dividend rate from $16 to $18 a year by ordering a quarterly payment of $4.50.

The Power and Light Securities Trust declared a stock dividend of 1½ per cent.

COTTON BREAKS $4 ON ACREAGE REPORT

Government's Statistics Show Plantings Twice as Great as Private Figures.

AMAZEMENT FILLS MARKET

Rush to Sell Follows Posting of Figures and Speculative Liquidation Marks Session.

The Government's report on the cotton area under cultivation on July 1, announced yesterday, showed an increase just 100 per cent. greater than the average of private estimates, and the 11.4 per cent. larger area this year than last proved to be so much above general expectations that prices broke more than $4 a bale on all three Cotton Exchanges yesterday. An extensive long interest had been created during the recent upward movement of 2¾ cents, and the figures from Washington precipitated active speculative liquidation, which continued to the close of the session. Final quotations were 78 to 84 points lower than on Saturday.

Before the report appeared at 12 o'clock, contracts had changed hands for two hours within a narrow range of less than $1 a bale, prices abroad and here holding around Saturday's closing quotations. As June weather had caused some abandonment of acreage, few expected the department would show as much as 10 per cent. increase this year. When the figures were posted, a rush to sell caused a running break of half a cent, all months going below the low point of last week's reaction, when October halted slightly below 22 cents. Both professional and commission house interests sold heavily, contracts coming on the market in quantities that filled all the scale buying orders for trade account on a steadily declining basis.

Weather over Sunday brought more rainfall than at any time last week. Rains extended throughout Georgia, Alabama, Oklahoma and the greater part of Texas and Arkansas, being heavy at many points in the first three States. Predictions, however, were for fair, warmer weather in the Western belt today, with scattered thunder showers in Eastern sections.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

New Orleans Market Breaks.

NEW ORLEANS, July 9 (AP).—A decline of nearly $5 a bale featured the cotton market today in one of the most active trading sessions witnessed on the New Orleans Exchange in some time. The primary influence behind the break was the bearish Government acreage report showing an increase in acreage under cultivation July 1 of 11.4 per cent., which was much larger than traders expected.

The market dropped 85 points immediately after publication of the report, but prices recovered 30 points of the loss only to sag again under renewed liquidation. In the last half hour of trading the October delivery was selling around 21.00 and December 21, or 95 points under the day's high, and 86 to 87 points below the previous close. The undertone continued weak.

ACREAGE OF COTTON ABOVE EXPECTATION

Government Report Puts It More Than 4,000,000 Acres Over That of Last July.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—The acreage of cotton in cultivation on July 1 was estimated today by the Department of Agriculture at 46,685,000 acres, which is 11.4 per cent. more than in cultivation a year ago.

Owing to late planting, the department announced, the need for repeated replanting in many sections, and owing to the impossibility of working the crop out at the proper time, the reported stand of cotton is 6 per cent. below the stand reported by correspondents on July 1 last year. The estimates of acreage, like those of previous years, do not refer to the total acreage planted but only to that portion remaining in actual cultivation on July 1. Allowance has been made in the 1928 estimate, the department explained, for about 150,000 acres of cotton flooded out in Arkansas during the last week of June and for a small acreage similarly flooded in Missouri.

The increases in acreage this season are most marked in the less important cotton States, in the extensive area flooded last year and in some other areas where the acreage was sharply reduced last season. California and Arizona are the only States where the acreage this season is greater than in 1926.

Last year's area in cultivation on July 1 was 41,905,000 acres, and the quantity of cotton ginned from the harvested area was 12,950,473 equivalent 500-pound bales.

Acreage under cultivation on July 1 in the principal cotton States compares as follows with the similar estimates made on July 1 in the two past years:

	1928	1927	1926
Virginia	84,000	73,000	86,000
North Carolina..	1,831,000	1,814,000	2,057,000
South Carolina..	2,577,000	2,500,000	2,780,000
Georgia	3,906,000	3,822,000	4,026,000
Florida	100,000	70,000	113,000
Missouri	390,000	307,000	486,000
Tennessee	1,138,000	954,000	1,191,000
Alabama	3,471,000	3,329,000	3,860,000
Mississippi	3,183,000	2,980,000	3,900,000
Louisiana	1,886,000	1,636,000	2,019,000
Texas	18,295,000	17,635,000	19,140,000
Oklahoma	4,000,000	3,944,000	4,053,000
Arkansas	3,613,000	3,267,000	3,987,000
New Mexico	114,000	106,000	120,000
Arizona	205,000	140,000	159,000
California	228,000	122,000	167,000

The acreage in Lower California (Old Mexico) not included in California figures nor in United States total is 160,000, and the acreage of the other states is made up of 4,000 acres in Illinois, 160,000 in Kansas, and 28,000 in Kentucky.

Acreage under cultivation for cotton on July 1 compares as follows with the acreage reported as under cultivation at the same date in previous years and with the acreage actually harvested. In some cases cultivation in July were subsequently reduced.

Year.	Acreage Planted.	Acreage Harvested.
1928	46,685,000

GRAIN PRICES SHOW LOSS ON LIQUIDATION

Wave of Selling Carries Wheat, Corn, Rye and Oats to Low Finishes.

MARKETS LACK SUPPORT

Export Demand for Hard Winter Wheat Shows Improvement—Harvesting Progresses.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 9.—Drastic liquidation was on in the grain markets from start to finish today. There was heavy and general selling of all deliveries which carried prices off sharply. December wheat, corn and rye and all deliveries of oats were at a new low on the crop. The finish was at the bottom, with net losses of 3⅝ to 3⅞ cents on wheat, 2½ to 4¾ cents on corn; 1⅞ to 6 cents on oats and 4⅝ to 5⅝ cents on rye. An outstanding feature was the lack of aggressive support. A good part of the buying in all grains was by holders of daily and weekly bids and by shorts. The sellers of them were forced to protect themselves on the way down.

An estimate that Kansas might raise 300,000,000 bushels of wheat this season made by J. C. Mohler, Secretary of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture, attracted much attention, as it would establish a new record. Despite heavy rains over the week-end, harvesting is making rapid progress in the Southwest, and a continued heavy movement is expected.

Canadian crop reports were decidedly optimistic, and Winnipeg closed 2¾ to 3 cents lower. The visible supply of wheat increased 175,000 bushels for the week and is now 39,097,000 bushels against 38,922,000 bushels the previous week and 24,650,000 bushels last year.

Primary arrivals today aggregated 3,979,000 bushels, week ago 1,560,000 bushels, last year 2,496,000 bushels. Shipments 1,211,000 bushels, last week 1,106,000 bushels, last year 711,000 bushels.

Longs in September and December corn were on the selling side from the start. The market lacked support. July again acted somewhat tight, with elevator interests on the buying side early, but later there was some pressure from such interests, and the latter also sold September.

Primary receipts today 607,000 bushels, week ago 905,000 bushels, last year 710,000 bushels. Shipments 554,000 bushels, week ago 628,000 bushels, last year 255,000 bushels.

Oats had the largest break in one day in some years, with the new July off 6¾ cents from the early top and the finish was at the bottom.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

Department of Agriculture Recalls Certificates of 1,425 Bales Here.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—A reclassification of disputed bales of cotton in the stock on the New York Cotton Exchange, the Department of Agriculture announced today, indicated "that the original classification was performed as accurately as is possible with the method thus far developed."

Following the filing of a report of a Senate sub-committee which had investigated the cotton trade and had reported that 6,761 bales of stock of the Exchange were "unfavorable and shy of the requirements of the law," Secretary Jardine ordered a reclassification of these bales. The result was that the department recalled the classification certificates of 1,425 bales and for 94 bales for which ownership could not be determined. Of the recalled certificates, the original classification of 929 bales had not been previously reviewed and was not final, the department said.

Many Buyers to Be Here.

All indications point to a heavy representation of buyers here during the remainder of this month, according to the advices received by local resident buying offices. Executives of several offices said they believed the forthcoming arrivals would be "unusually large." The number of buyers here yesterday showed a very pronounced gain, the attraction being the Fall fashion show of the Garment Retailers of America, which takes place at the Hotel Astor tonight. With the show coming three weeks earlier than was the case last year, and thus pushing the determination of style trends ahead that much, the view was taken that advance buying should benefit.

Retailers Add Two Executives.

Addition of Professor James L. Fri and Lester W. Francis to the staff of the National Retail Dry Goods Association was announced yesterday. Professor Fri will become local representative and director of the Merchandise Managers' Group of the association, succeeding Arthur W. Einstein, who resigns on July 16 to become associated with L. Bamberger & Co. Professor Fri, a graduate of the Harvard Graduate School of Business and now a professor at Columbia University, is an authority on practical and theoretical retail merchandising. Mr. Francis, who is a graduate of the Syracuse University School of Business, joins the organization's Bureau of Research and Information.

Tropical Openings Next Week.

While one or two lines of men's wear tropicals have been opened for the 1929 season, general showings are not expected to begin until next week. Among the firms expected to offer their new lines then are the American Woolen Company and the Goodall Worsted Mills. Herbert Lawton & Co., a representative of the firm said yesterday, will not open until about Aug. 1. The general price level for the new season will average about 5 per cent. higher, although some fabrics will be available at unchanged figures.

Sport Footwear Being Duplicated.

The effect of the vacation season on sport footwear of the "tennis goods" type is plainly apparent in the repeat orders for this merchandise now being received here. A very large part of the business is in children's sizes, which is usually the case a week or ten days after school closes, but duplicates in men's sizes have been good also. In women's shoes there is a marked trend toward fancier lines for sport wear, purchases of footwear of the really athletic type being confined to those younger women who make a serious business of sports. In leather shoes, orders are about evenly divided between "at once" and forward deliveries. Most of the latter call for shipment in September and October.

Seek Light on Curtailment Need.

While the suggestion that production of cotton goods be reduced still further by weekly shutdowns next month, in September and possibly in October, is steadily gaining favor here, it was said yesterday that the movement lacks much of the spontaneity which marked the curtailment period that ended yesterday. In one well-posted quarter it was said that not all manufacturers are agreed that the situation requires such stringent methods, but it was hinted that this feeling may disappear with the issuance today of the monthly production, sales and stock report of the Cotton Textile Merchants' Association of New York. This report, which is the most comprehensive in the industry, will give data covering June, and from it accurate deductions of the need of more drastic curtailment may be drawn.

Cap Prospects Promising.

Forecasts of good business for the cap industry, based partly on the increasing number of golfers who wear such headgear, were made yesterday by Henry M. Tobias, of Cincinnati, President of the Associated Cap Manufacturers, meeting at the Hotel Pennsylvania. A wide choice in materials for caps is sought by the public, it was stated at the session. The trend toward variety, those at the meeting declared, is a new development in the trade and in the coming year there will be no strict adherence to one type of material as in the past.

Buyers to Ask Test Reports.

To broaden the scope of the joint testing laboratory recently established here, leading retail establishments have been asked to issue instructions to their buyers to ask for reports on the fabrics used in the garments which they are interested in buying, Frank Stutz, managing director of the laboratory, said yesterday. Buyers are to get the reports from the garment manufacturers, who will be informed where they can obtain the desired testing data. It is understood that a large number of stores have already indicated their cooperation in this work in the belief that it will be of great benefit in improved buying practice.

Mills Drop Profitless Cloths.

One of the features of the preparations for the new season in men's wear fabrics is the tendency to greater concentration on the part of the mills on types of fabrics on which they can make money and the elimination of the others. For example, two well-known mills are dropping tropicals entirely from their lines. Questioned as to the reason for this, sales executives of both concerns made identical replies: "We are concentrating on more profitable goods." Poor profit margins, coupled with adverse selling weather at the critical stages, it was added, have made for unsatisfactory market conditions in tropicals for some years past.

***

Gray Goods Almost at Standstill.

The severe break in cotton, following the issuance of the bearish Government report, played an important part in limiting business in gray goods here yesterday. Another factor was the heat, which drove many of the trade from their desks before the usual closing hour. Actual business in printcloths was limited to light trading in such staples at 39-inch 68-72s at 9 cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 8 cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 8 cents. Sheetings and the rest of the market were very quiet. About the only sales of importance were in 4.70-yard sheetings at 7¾ cents.

Ice Cream Sales Up Sharply.

Consumption of ice cream in the metropolitan district increased from 150 to 300 per cent over the week end and including yesterday, Harold Comfort, president of the Metropolitan Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, declared yesterday. Factories throughout New York and vicinity enjoyed one of the busiest periods of the present year, it was stated.

To Protest Cuban Invoice Law.

Notice that the Department of Commerce has interested itself in the protest by American exporters against the recent Cuban order requiring consular invoices on shipments to that country to be written in Spanish was received by the Merchants' Association yesterday. The order, effective Sept. 1, would work a hardship on small exporters who do not employ interpreters, the Merchants' Association stated a week ago in transmitting the exporters' complaints to the Commerce Department.

Oil, Fat and Grease Prices Lower.

Prices of miscellaneous oils, fats and greases declined slightly during the week ended July 7. The index number of prices, as calculated by The Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter, was 135.2 (100 in August, 1914) at the close of the week, compared with 135.4 a week earlir and 140.6 at the same time last year. Trading was reported in fair volume.

Kerosene Price Cut in Indiana.

Kerosene prices were reduced 1 cent a gallon yesterday by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the reduction to be effective throughout the territory of the company. The 1 cent a gallon discount to buyers of 50 gallons or more was eliminated at the same time.

CUSTOMS COURT DECISIONS.

Flax Fabrics Protest Wins—Wool Samples Get Lower Duty.

Claims by James F. White & Co. of New York for a 35 per cent duty under paragraph 1011—for flax fabrics weighing less than 4½ ounces per square yard were sustained by the U. S. Customs Court in a decision yesterday. The shipment had been held dutiable at 40 per cent under paragraph 1010 as woven fabrics not specially provided for.

Stone & Downer Company of Boston win a protest against duty of three-quarters of a cent per pound imposed under paragraph 1001 on a shipment classified by the Collector as flax noils. The Court's decision holds the material properly dutiable at 10 per cent. under paragraph 1457 as waste not specially provided for.

Wool cloth samples imported by Milhan, Leaman & Co. at New York are held dutiable at 30 per cent. under paragraph 1119 as manufactures wholly or in chief value of wool, not specially provided for, in another decision of the Court. They had been returned for duty as wool cloth subject to a tax of 45 cents per pound and 50 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 1109.

Lends Pontoons for British Cruiser.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—At the request of the British Government the Navy Department today authorized the loan of two pontoons to the British Navy for use in salvaging the British battle cruiser Dauntless, now aground in Halifax Harbor. The pontoons, which will be sent from the Boston Navy Yard immediately, have a lifting capacity of eighty tons and are the same as were used to salvage the submarine S-4. Admiral Sir Walter Cowan, Commander-in-Chief of the British American and West Indies stations, expressed his appreciation to the Navy Department for the aid.

Find Woman's Body in Hudson.

The body of an unidentified woman about 45 years old was found yesterday in the Gap, a small inlet of the Hudson River off the foot of Jersey Avenue, Jersey City, by the crew of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company's tugboat Cornell. It had apparently been in the water a long time. The body was that of a woman about five feet six inches in height, weighing 135 pounds. The hair was brown and the eyes gray. On the body was a blue dress with white printed figures.

ITALY SUES Y. M. C. A. FOR OUTLAY IN WAR

Demand $100,336 in Freight Bills on Merchandise Sent Abroad on Seven Ships.

SUMMONS SERVED IN 1924

Application for Permission to Serve Complaint Is Made When Negotiations Are Futile.

A dispute between the Italian Government and the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association over the repayment by the Y. M. C. A. for moneys advanced by Italy in connection with Y. M. C. A. war work has resulted in a suit in behalf of the Government to collect $100,336. This was made known yesterday when the Italian Government filed an application for permission to serve a complaint in the case in which a summons was issued in 1924. The case will be heard tomorrow.

An affidavit by Romolo Angelone, for many years Commercial Attaché for the Italian Government in New York, in explaining why the differences between his Government and the Y. M. C. A. developed into a lawsuit and why no complaint had been served four years ago, said that the money sued for in the present action was advanced to the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. in payment of freight on merchandise shipped by the organization during the war.

Mr. Angelone said that in 1920 and 1921 he was assistant to F. Quattrone, Italian High Commissioner to the United States, and that two claims were entrusted to him against the Y. M. C. A., one for moneys advanced by Italy to the United States Shipping Board on account of the personnel of the organization sent to Europe during the war, and the other for moneys advanced on freight shipments.

"After prolonged negotiations, extending over a period of several years, the claim for moneys advanced for personnel was adjusted and paid," said Mr. Angelone.

Because of the inability to bring about a settlement of the other claim, a summons was served on the defendant on Jan. 26, 1924, and the defendant appeared through its attorneys. The plaintiff got an extension of time in June of that year to file a complaint, but since that time the case has been held in abeyance, "the plaintiff believing it would be settled amicably," Mr. Angelone explained.

The bill rendered by the Italian Government to the Y. M. C. A. for freight payments, which is attached to the papers, shows that they covered seven ships sailing in 1918 and 1919 from New York, Wilmington and Baltimore for European ports.

3 Trapped in Pennsylvania Mine.

Special to The New York Times.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 9.—Three miners, Charles Boebe, John O. Polick and Matthew Besock, were trapped 450 feet below the surface in the Lytle colliery this afternoon when a gas explosion caused a rush of rock and coal on the fourth level of the mine. Gangs of volunteers set to work tearing away débris and attempting to force an airpump line down the obstructed shaft, but only slight hope was held for the miners' rescue. All are married and have families. Four other men working on the level escaped.

Sees White Whale Off Maine Coast.

PORTLAND, Me., July 9 (AP).—A whale "30 feet long and white from stem to stern" disported itself 150 yards from Spring Point Lighthouse yesterday, A. A. Wilson, assistant keeper, said today. "I have heard tell of white whales," he declared, "But I have never seen one before. This fellow was all white without a black spot on him anywhere.

CREDITORS ACCUSE IN CORAL GABLES SUIT

Six Charge Diversion of Funds in Bankruptcy Action Against Two Corporations.

Special to the New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., July 9.—A petition to open up for judicial scrutiny the entire record of the Coral Gables Corporation and Coral Gables Consolidated, Inc., particularly in regard to alleged misapplication of funds and illegal transfer of authority, with examination of Seneca D. Eldredge of the New York banking firm of Eldredge & Co.; Lynn H. Dinkins, a New Orleans banker; George E. Merrick, former President of the corporation, and other principals, was filed today in Federal court here by six creditors who have begun bankruptcy and receivership proceedings.

Mr. Eldredge and Mr. Dinkins were members of the banking group that took over the management from Mr. Merrick on April 14 in an effort to refinance the corporation.

Applications for the examination of officials and corporation records will be presented tomorrow in the Federal court at Jacksonville, it is understood, at the time of the hearing on the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings and petition for the appointment of a receiver, begun last week by unsecured creditors.

Charges are made that the corporation has diverted funds received from lot purchasers to administrative expense instead of to the purchase of clear titles to the lots it contracted to deliver; that funds are not being deposited to the account of the alleged bankrupt corporation, but to the credit of other persons, and that for more than sixty days the corporation's affairs have been administered by persons who are not its legally constituted officers or agents, but who are "responsible to no constituted authority."

The complete list of those whom the creditors seek to examine in court under Section 21a of the amended national act follows:

Mr. Merrick, Telfair Knight, F. W. Webster, Robert H. Cook, Charles F. Baldwin, H. F. Harris, S. D. Palmer, E. W. Upton Jr., L. H. Coombs, James S. Edson, Mr. Dinkins, Mr. Eldredge, F. G. Bailey, Adrian T. McCune, R. M. Price, Lester F. Alexander, George W. Hopkins, John E. Norman, E. M. Lee, R. T. Vaughan and "all other officers, directors and agents" of the corporation.

The petition was filed by Walton & Spencer of Chicago, the Four Seas Company of Boston, Charles R. Hayes, executor of the estate of J. Lawrence Young; the Coconut Grove Development Company, Virginia R. Boatwright and Christopher F. Staats.

SEEKS TO COORDINATE ALL WELFARE WORK

International Social Conference at Paris Makes Unemployment Its Chief Issue.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—The work of the International Social Conference, which has opened here and is now in full swing, was outlined in a general way as an effort to find out "how health, public welfare and social aid services can be most effectively coordinated at each rung of the ladder."

This general outline of the work drawn, delegates today discussed the concrete questions in detail. Prevention of unemployment was put at the head as the most important problem, and relief of unemployment, when it cannot be prevented, was placed in second rank. It was said during the discussion that at no time during the past few years had the total unemployment in the world fallen below ten million.

It was stated that the prevention of unemployment was an economic and political question rather than a social one, but, inasmuch as it brought on the need for social work to relieve the consequences of it, it was a proper subject for the conference to discuss.

One of the possible reliefs considered was a system of public employment exchanges which would see that no one should seek in vain for something to do while elsewhere there was work waiting with not enough hands to do it. The general note of this discussion was that some means must be found to get workers away from places where there are no prospects of their finding anything to do.

NECKWEAR UNION TO APPEAL

To Fight Supreme Court Decision on Picketing at Poughkeepsie.

The United Neckwear Makers' Union, 11,016, 7 East Fifteenth Street, announced yesterday through Edmund Gottesman, Secretary-Treasurer, that it would appeal from the decision handed down last week by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins that union pickets had been guilty of unlawfully picketing the shops of C. Stern & Mayer, Inc., neckwear manufacturers, at Poughkeepsie. A permanent injunction to restrain the union members from picketing the plant is to be signed this week.

Gottesman said a meeting of the Executive Board of the union would be held tonight at 7 East Fifteenth Street, when plans for the appeal would be discussed with Louis Waldman, former Socialist Assemblyman, legal representative for the union.

"This is the most important case in the history of organized labor," Gottesman said yesterday. "The right of union members to picket is involved. It is our duty to do what we can to have the decision reversed. We are going to make a finish fight of it."

Justice Tompkins did not question the right of the union to post pickets, but he held that in the case of C. Stern & Mayer, Inc., the pickets "unreasonably obstructed the sidewalk in front of the factory and interfered with the ingress and egress of the plaintiff's employes."

SILK EXCHANGE TO MEET.

First Annual Gathering to Be Held This Afternoon.

The National Raw Silk Exchange will hold its first annual meeting today at 4 P. M. on the floor of the Rubber Exchange, 31 South William Street, as the quarters of the Silk Exchange in the Grace National Bank Building have not yet been completed. President Charles V. V. Smillie will preside and the Board of Governors will report progress made since the organization of the exchange in April.

The amount of annual dues will be fixed at this meeting and a statement of finances submitted by the Treasurer. The annual election of officers will be held on July 17 at the office of the Secretary, 64 Water Street. Polls will be open from noon to 2 P. M.

CRUDE PRICES RAISED BY SOUTH PENN OIL

Increases Range From 15 to 20 Cents on Various Grades—Second Advance in Month.

The South Penn Oil Company announced increases in Pennsylvania crude oil yesterday ranging from 15 to 20 cents a barrel. This is the second advance within a month, the previous one having been made on June 28, when prices were raised 25 to 30 cents a barrel. On Dec. 18, 1927, the prices were advanced 5 to 10 cents a barrel.

Advances posted yesterday were as follows: Pennsylvania grade oil in New York Transit lines, 15 cents a barrel, to $3.30; Bradford oil in National Transit lines, 15 cents, to $3.20; Pennsylvania grade crude in National Transit lines, 20 cents, to $3.10; Pennsylvania grade in Southwest Pennsylvania lines, 20 cents, to $3.10; Pennsylvania grade in Eureka lines, 15 cents, to $3, and Pennsylvania grade in Buckeye lines, 20 cents, to $2.85. Other grades remain unchanged.

The present top price of $3.20 a barrel for Pennsylvania crude compares with the 1927 high of $3.40. The low price last year was $2.65 a barrel, following the reduction of 25 cents on July 30, 1927.

Although the latest advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude was accepted by oil interests as an indication of the general upward trend, reflecting improvement in the industry, there was no sign that an advance was imminent in the price of Mid-continent crude. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in the last issue of its company magazine advised the industry against unwise advances in crude prices, pointing out that such action might cause a new race to bring oil out of the ground.

Conditions in the refining branch of the oil industry have been improving for some time. Gasoline prices in many parts of the country were advanced about six weeks ago. The latest increases in Pennsylvania crude have not been reflected in the prices of refined products.

RECORD FOR JURISTS HERE.

Circuit Court of Appeals Disposes of Most Cases, Survey Shows.

The Circuit Court of Appeals for this district disposes of more cases than any other in the country, according to statistics just tabulated. During the last fiscal year it passed on 450 appeals, wrote 157 decisions and decided many cases from the bench. The United States Supreme Court, which has nine justices, handed down only 171 opinions in the same time, or an average of nineteen for each member.

Only one out of every ten defendants who appealed to the Supreme Court from a decision of the Circuit Court was successful. The cases heard by the Circuit Court included admiralty, bankruptcy, prohibition, counterfeiting, mail fraud and violation of the Narcotic laws. The Circuit Court has five members, including Judge Julian W. Mack, who often is assigned to other districts. The four judges are Martin T. Manton, presiding; Learned Hand, Augustus N. Hand and Thomas D. Swan.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Trading in sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange moved irregularly yesterday. Initial quotations were 1 point higher to 1 point lower. Selling of distant months was attributed to European account, while a leading producing interest was on the buying side. Withdrawals were heavy. The raw market was quiet. Later in the day support was lacking and as a result prices eased slightly.

Price ranges for raw sugar futures yesterday were:

Coffee.

Coffee futures rose sharply at the opening yesterday, due to better cables and brisk buying. The A contracts opened from 10 to 35 points higher, while the D contracts were 15 to 23 points higher. Buying was attributed to European and Brazilian account. Five hundred bags of coffee were delivered on the A contract. In the spot market a better demand was noticed with Rio 7s quoted at 15¾ cents, while Santos 4s ranged from 23¾ to 24¼ cents.

Cocoa.

Inactivity marked trading in cocoa futures on the New York Cocoa Exchange yesterday. The bulk of the turnover was in September and October positions. The market was 10 points easier, with dealers the principal sellers. December was steady at a decline of 7 points. The actual market was dull. Cables were slightly easier. The market closed from 4 to 8 points lower.

Deny Hiding Assets in Bankruptcy.

Samuel B. Werber and Morris Friedman, officers of the bankrupt Elite Butter and Egg Company of 474 Sumner Avenue, Brooklyn, pleaded not guilty to concealing its assets before Federal Judge Inch yesterday. They were held in bail of $5,000 each for trial on Sept. 4. The liabilities of the company were placed at $83,167 and the assets at $20,000.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Receipts of 55,000 hogs here for the day were the largest in July since 1924. The market was steady to 15 cents lower and closed at the bottom. The top was unchanged at $11.50, while the day's average was 10 cents lower at $10.70. Bulk of the 160 to 200 pound averages sold at $10 to $11.50, with 200 to 250 pound kinds $10.40 to $11.50 and 250 to 350 pound butchers $10.30 to $11.40. Packing sows sold at $9.10 to $10.40. Packers bought 30,000 and shippers 12,000, with 14,000 left over. Estimated for tomorrow 23,000.

Cattle were unsettled, with top grades firmer and with the general run selling at steady prices, while poorer kinds were easier. Best yearlings sold at $16.25 and heavy steers at $16, with the bulk of beef cattle at $14.50 to $15.85. Receipts 18,000. Fat lambs were off 50 cents for bulk of sales, with natives largely around $16 and Westerns at $16.25 to $16.35. Sheep were steady at $5 to $6.50. Receipts 17,000.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Federal Report Sends Spot Cotton Off 85 Points—Grains and Lard Weak.

Spot cotton dropped 85 points to 21.95 cents yesterday, in response to the Federal report forecasting a bigger acreage than had been expected. Grains also sustained a shock to their price structure in anticipation of the Government report on the foodstuffs today. Lard also gave up ground. Other articles were uniformly steady.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

COTTONSEED OIL.

After marking time yesterday morning, the cottonseed oil market on the New York Produce Exchange developed considerable activity later in the day. Sales totaled 12,500 barrels and prices at the close were from 15 to 20 points lower. Commission houses were on both sides of the market. Prices sagged steadily in the afternoon. The crude oil market was purely nominal.

Won't Restrict Cuban Sugar Crop.

HAVANA, July 9 (AP).—President Machado will not restrict the forthcoming sugar crop, but he will not allow the brinding season to start before January. This is regarded by the growers as virtual curtailment. Colonel Jose Tarafa, President of the National Sugar Defense Commission, is now en route to the United States with instructions to go to Berlin in October for a sugar conference there.

RUBBER TRADING ACTIVE.

Prices Advance Well in Morning, but Fail to Hold.

After a generally firm forenoon in crude rubber futures on the Rubber Exchange, in which good-size gains were distributed over the list, the trend changed near the close and the list finished unchanged to 10 points higher. Sales totaled 269 lots, in seven deliveries.

Strength in the preliminary trading came from buying by commission houses, local operators and shorts, and gains extended to 20 points by noon. Some of the larger brokers started to liquidate on the upturn, and while offerings were fairly well absorbed, prices eased off a trifle on some profit-taking transactions. July, September and December closed with 10 point gains, and March finished unchanged.

London closed barely steady after slight reductions from the highs. Spot and July advanced 1-16d to 9 5-16d, August 1-16d to 9 7-16d, October-December 1-16d to 9 9-16d, January-March 1-16d to 9 5-16d. Stocks of rubber in London, as of July 7, totaled 36,915 tons, a decrease of 1,696 tons compared with the preceding week.

FINDS STAGGER PLAN INCREASES TRAFFIC

Police Check-Up Shows 53,518 Autos Passed Ocean Av. and Av. P., Brooklyn, in 12 Hours.

BUSIER THAN FIFTH AVENUE

Growing Motor Travel Revealed Also by Figures for Holland Tube and New Bridges.

Something of the rapidly increasing Sunday and holiday automobile traffic on the outlying thoroughfares of New York was revealed yesterday by Deputy Police Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt. He issued a statement to the effect that a police checkup at Ocean Avenue and Avenue P, Brooklyn, showed that 53,518 automobiles had passed that point between noon and midnight Sunday. This exceeds the daily traffic at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue by more than 10,000 cars. Much of this volume of traffic is due, the Deputy Commissioner said, to the new progressive traffic light system recently installed on Ocean Avenue. This system permits cars to travel without stopping if they maintain a speed of twenty-two miles an hour and has made Ocean Avenue the favorite route to Coney Island.

One result of the new light system was a letter dispatched to the police authorities yesterday by the Flatbush Chamber of Commerce protesting against the use of Ocean Avenue by trucks. In requesting that the avenue be reserved for pleasure cars, the chamber asserts that many residents and property owners are complaining of the vibration caused by the heavy trucks maintaining a constant speed of 22 miles an hour.

Other evidences of increasingly heavy motor traffic were found between New York and New Jersey over the Arthur Kill bridges and through the Holland Vehicular Tunnel. The two bridges were used by more than 60,000 vehicles in the first ten days of their operation, the Port of New York Authority announced yesterday. The Holland Tunnel reached a new high peak during the first week in July, when 202,710 motor vehicles passed through the twin tubes. This exceeded by 6,050 any previous week and brought a record-breaking revenue of $107,225.95.

'PDQ' STATION PROVES HOAX

Ohio Village "Broadcaster" of Gossip Merely Tapped Radio Sets.

CROOKSVILLE, Ohio, July 9 (AP).—All last week reports emanated from here that a phantom radio station which signed itself "PDQ" was broadcasting local gossip to the embarrassment of many respected citizens. Futile efforts were made to locate the station, the stories said. But the announcer continued his occasional sallies and ruined reputations nightly with remarks on secret poker parties, quiet little sessions over steins of home brew and nocturnal excursions with unrelated members of the opposite sex.

Today it came out that the station never existed, but that a group of merry villagers had perpetrated a hoax upon their fellows by tapping radio sets with a wire having head phone connections, and then talked into the headphone from a point outside the house. The headphone was connected to the two primary terminals on the first audio transformer.

Radio experts described such a method as entirely feasible.

PROHIBITS BLOCK BOOKING.

Cleveland Court Grants Temporary Injunction Against Film Producers.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 9 (AP).—A temporary injunction preventing fourteen film producing companies from enforcing the "block-booking" system of distribution of motion pictures was granted in the Federal court here today by Judge Paul Jones upon the application of George Schade of Sandusky, Ohio, theatre operator.

Schade contended that he was forced to accept pictures that he did not desire as a result of film companies' insistence on contracting for pictures on a group basis.

Joseph N. Ackerman, counsel for the Cleveland Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, said that he would file a brief on behalf of the association seeking to make the injunction permanent. He declared the case was of importance throughout the motion picture industry.

ARSON SUSPECT AFIRE.

Man, His Clthing Burning, Caught Fleeing From Brooklyn Blaze.

Seen running from a burning tenement in the Brownsville district with his clothing afire, Max Cohen, 45 years old, of 621 Stone Avenue, Brooklyn, was caught after a chase and held a prisoner, charged with arson in the second degree. He was taken to the Kings County Hospital for treatment for serious burns about the face, head, arms and chest. The damage to the building was estimated at $2,000.

Cohen denied he had set fire to the building, a four-story brick structure at 187 Osborne Street with accommodations for sixteen families, but occupied by only three families, who were forced to flee to the street. Cohen said his clothing had caught fire in the explosion of an automobile gas tank in the neighborhood. He was arrested by Patrolman Frank Gehrig of the Brownsville Station on complaint of Assistant Fire Marshal George Winkler.

The fire started in a ground floor tenement in which, the police said, firemen found two partly emoty five-gallon gasoline cans. Mrs. Esther Klein of 99 Thatford Avenue, owner of the building, who was questioned by Detective Joseph Connors, said she had never seen Cohen.

CRACK SHOT HITS HUSBAND.

Buffalo Bill's Woman Expert Shoots Him After Quarrel Over Money.

DENVER, Col., July 9 (AP).—Henry J. Wassoner, 34 years old, was shot in the right shoulder today by his wife, Nellie, 32, a former crack shot in Buffalo Bill Cody's Wild West Show, with which she traveled for eight years.

The shooting followed a quarrel over the financial affairs of the family, the police said. Wassoner is expected to recover.

NEW THEORY OF ORIGIN OF SPECIES ADVANCED

Doubling Chromosomes in Tobacco Hybrid Gives It Fertility, Professor Clausen Finds.

A possible solution of a problem which has long engaged the study of scientists—the method of evolution and origin of species—has been discovered by Professor Roy E. Clausen of the Division of Genetics in the University of California College of Agriculture.

"Investigations on the hybridisation of related plant species," says a university bulletin, "have not only in one case actually resulted in the creation of a new species, but have also tended to explain the origin of such botanical puzzles as the yellow primrose and the loganberry.

"Several years ago, with Professor T. H. Goodspeed of the botany department, Professor Clausen decided to attack the specific problem of the mode of origin of some existing species. As a part of his investigations in 1925 he observed in a population of a hybrid between two distinct species of Nicotiana, tabacum (the tobacco of commerce) and glutinosa, which normally is completely sterile, a single plant which had the usual characters of the normal hybrid, but was fertile. Plants grown from the seeds of this particular individual have now been carried along for five generations, during which time it has produced a uniform progeny possessing the characters of the normally sterile hybrid.

"Research led to the discovery of the presence of seventy-two chromosomes in the fertile line, whereas the normal sterile line has but thirty-two chromosomes. This led to the generalization that doubling of the chromosome number in a hybrid between two distinct species will at once give rise to a constant, fertile form possessing the characters of the normal hybrid.

"The commercial significance of the discovery lies in the fact that in plants, hybrids between species are frequently vigorous, luxuriant individuals, possessed of superior qualities which might be of considerable economic importance, were it not for the fact that such hybrids are usually sterile. In the rare cases when such hybrids have been fertile, they have hitherto produced a highly variable progeny, most of which are inferior.

"The experiments of Professor Clausen led to the clearing up of one long-noted plant mystery, proving that the yellow primrose, a form much used in garden work, is also a hybrid which changed from the sterile to the fertile condition by doubling of its chromosome number. Since then seven or eight similar instances have been discovered, tending to prove that these species, at least, originated in this manner. It has been suggested that the loganberry, an outstanding horticultural puzzle, also originated in this way.

"Part of the work which led to his discovery was done by Professor Clausen a year ago, when he was sent to Stockholm, Sweden, as a fellow of the International Education Board. Articles covering his investigations have since been published in the University of California Publications in Botany and in the proceedings of the Fifth International Congress for Genetics, held in Berlin in 1927.

"Professor Clausen is continuing his investigations, regarding the work done already in the fertile Nicotiana digluta strain as only preliminary to more important experiments."

ART OF LIVING OUTLINED.

Science Has Changed Us, Says Dean Woods of California.

Science has changed the art of living, according to Dean Baldwin M. Woods of the University of California, and whether or not it injures the art of living depends upon the individual. If scientific discoveries are well used, the world will be better, he says; but if not, it will be worse.

"Science has brought us three great things in the last century," he points out, "transportation, communication and organization. In the last, organization, lies the danger, for we are organized beyond the ability to manage.

"Science has also aided in freeing us from disease, so that in the last half century fifteen years have been added to the human span of life.

"Every person is affected somehow by science. Possibly by the domination of things until the man becomes a mere robot. Perhaps we are bewildered by the complexity of things, until we do not know what to do, whether to listen to the radio or read, see a picture or a play, ride in an automobile or an airplane, go to a concert or to church, dine or go to a dance. Man is more efficient through the use of machinery, if he desires; what he accomplished with a spade in 500 years, with a team in four years, he can now do in thirty-six hours.

"Or possibly he may be inspired to put art into living. The hod carrier may become a mason and then an architect; the laborer an artisan and then an artist; man labor may develop into art and then into fine art. Or perhaps, finally, science may stir us to grow throughout our lives, so that we may continue to develop. The greatest vocation is that in which we reach the top the latest in life."

Dean Woods points out that a prizefighter reaches his zenith at about the age of 30, the banker at 60, the statesman at 70, and such men as Henri Faber develop until they are 90.

The art of living has not gained in proportion to the development of science, concludes Dean Woods; but the human reactions normally are good, and he sets no reason for pessimism in the outlook of the present day.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Trading Picks Up—Benjamin Winter Resells Park Avenue Corner at Good Profit.

HARLEM PLOT ASSEMBLED

Investor Buys Cable Building at the Corner of Broadway and Houston Street.

The real estate market made a good start at its opening yesterday after a week of inactive, scattered trading, and the prospects are that it will gain strength and volume.

The majority of yesterday's transactions were in Manhattan, the most important being the resale by Benjamin Winter, Inc., of 77 Park Avenue, of the fifteen-story apartment house on the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street to Jerome C. and Mortimer C. Mayer.

At the same time the Winter Company took back a long-term lease on the property, giving the company an additional profit on the transaction. The property was purchased recently by the Winter Company.

The apartment house, ranked as one of the finest in the Murray Hill section, will be managed by A. H. O'Brien, Vice President of Benjamin Winter, Inc., and managing agent of all properties under its control. The selling price and the terms of the lease were not made public, but it was said that the sale yielded a good profit.

The property has a frontage of 74.8 feet on Park Avenue and an irregular depth of 170 feet. It was built three years ago by Sonn Brothers. The house contains 110 apartments from two rooms and kitchenette to seven rooms and three baths. It also has a restaurant and a complete staff of servants.

Lexington Avenue Deal.

Another east side sale that has been pending for some time was closed by the Leelex Realty Corporation, which purchased from separate owners through Leon S. Altmayer 1,679-1,681, 1,683-1,685, 1,687-1,689 Lexington Avenue, and also 150-152-154 East 106th Street, consisting of five-story apartment houses with ten stores, and forming the southeast corner of 106th Street and Lexington Avenue, being the junction of these two important thoroughfares.

By this transaction a corner has been assembled having a combined frontage of 220 feet divided as follows: 150.11 feet on Lexington Avenue and 70 feet on East 106th Street.

There has been considerable activity recently on 106th Street, and large plots have been purchased. The Skin and Cancer Hospital has purchased the block front, east side of Fifth Avenue, 106th to 107th Street. Another 100-foot plottage on the south side of 106th Street, between Park and Madison Avenue, has been sold recently for the erection of a fifteen-story apartment house, and on the north side of 106th Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues, an eleven-story steel-construction clubhouse is under construction to be occupied by the Odd Fellows. A new fireproof building was also recently constructed by the Federation Settlement of Harlem at 115-117-119 East 106th Street, being directly opposite St. Cecilia Roman Catholic Church and Academy.

Arthur A. La Porte, operator, purchased the five-story tenement house at 303 East Thirty-ninth Street from Katherine Walsh. Young & Hughes represented the buyer.

West Side Trading.

On the west side, Irving I. Levine, Inc., resold to the E. A. L. Apartment Management Corporation, Edgar A. Levy, President, 171 West Fifty-seventh Street, northeast corner Seventh Avenue, a twelve-story and pent-house apartment on a plot 104 feet on Fifty-seventh Street and 100 feet on Seventh Avenue. The structure was built in 1921 by day's work from plans by Warren & Wetmore on land purchased from the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

One of the features is a roof garden apartment of fourteen rooms, especially constructed for one of the original owners for his own use. The steel structure of the building was specially reinforced to hold the many tons of earth, transported to the roof garden, which is beautifully planted with lawns, trees and shrubbery.

The roperty was held at $1,850,000 and was purchased by the sellers several weeks ago through Byrne & Bowman from the Shamokin Realty Corporation, the builder.

The Alliance Realty Company, Clarke G. Dailey, President, has purchased from the Mulhern estate the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 145th Street, 100.5 by 125 feet, a ten-story fireproof apartment house, known as the Deerfield. It has sixty apartments of four, six and seven rooms, returning a gross rental of about $103,000 a year. The brokers in the sale were John R. and Oscar L. Foley. They sold the land to builders who erected the structure.

The Schilling Realty Company, represented by Arnold Gross, acquired from Solomon Robinson the six-story apartment at the northwest corner of St. Nicholas Avenue and 157th Street, on plot 46.8 by 103.8 feet.

Foot & Martin sold to an investor the nine-story Cable Building, at the northwest corner of Broadway and Houston Street, running through to Mercer Street. It is a steel and concrete office structure on a plot 200 by 127 feet. Robert T. McGusty was the broker.

OTHER MANHATTAN SALES

Deals in Business and Other Parcels Reported Yesterday

The two four-story dwellings on a plot 46 by 102.2 feet at 40-42 East Seventy-second Street, between Madison and Park Avenues, owned by the Hubbard estate for many years, have been acquired by the Cuppia Realty and Trading Company.

The property, which lies between two tall apartment houses, is under negotiation for an eighty-four-year lease to the 40 East Seventy-second Street Corporation, recently formed by V. C. Voss, attorney.

The American Radiator Company interests have acquired the twelve story office building at 35-37 West Thirty-ninth Street, abutting its skyscrapar at 40-46 West Fortieth Street, facing Bryant Park.

The Thirty-ninth Street building occupies a plot 44 by 100 feet and has been purchased from the 35-37 West Thirty-ninth Street Corporation, Henry Tobin, President. The property was transferred subject to mortgages of $601,750 to the Titusville Building Company, holding concern for the American Radiator Company.

Mrs. Majorie Content, daughter of H. Content, sold the four-story and basement Colonial residence at 3 East Ninth Street, on a lot 25 by 105 feet. The structure is the largest private residence on the block. The buyer contemplates extensive improvements, according to William P. Robertson, the broker. The purchaser was represented by H. F. Mels, of Hirsch, Limburg & Hess, attorneys.

The Benlou Realty Corporation (B. and L. M. Shapiro) sold the two five-story houses at 350-2 East Fifty-fourth Street, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, to R. A. Peterson: Spear & Co., Inc., were the brokers.

Herald Square Hotel Sold To Investor by R. E. Simon

The Herald Square Hotel, a twelve-story structure at 114-20 West Thirty-fourth Street, has been sold to an investor by Robert E. Simon, who purchased the property in 1920. The building is a short distance west of Sixth Avenue, and has a frontage of 105 feet on the street. It was held at $2,500,000.

The hotel portion of the building, which is under lease to one tenant for a term of years, will be continued as heretofore. According to Tankoos, Smith & Co., the brokers, negotiations are pending to lease the store floor and basement to a large chain store organization.

CONSTRUCTION AWARDS SHOW 15 P. C. INCREASE

New Building in Metropolitan Area for Six Months Exceeds the Total a Year Ago.

A gain of 15 per cent. during the first half of this year over the similar period in 1927 was apparent in construction started in the metropolitan area of New York, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. The total value of new building awards during the first half of this year is estimated at $801,499,000.

The week of June 30 through July 6 had a total of $32,730,300 for contracts let on new building and engineering work. This figure was $4,500,000 ahead of the total for the preceding week. It included $17,467,000, or 53 per cent., for commercial buildings; $11,656,100, or 36 per cent., for residential buildings; $1,787,900, or 5 per cent., for public works and utilities, and $1,155,900, or 4 per cent., for educational projects.

The daily average of contracts awarded on new construction work in this territory from Jan. 1 through July 6 is now $5,209,200, as compared with a daily average of $4,598,600 for contracts let during the first six months of last year.

Contemplated projects as reported last week in the metropolitan area reached a total of $46,261,000, a gain of 20 per cent. over the amount reported in the previous week. New work contemplated since the first of this year has reached a total of $1,517,540,400, making the daily average $9,665,900, against a daily average of $6,210,200 for new work contemplated during the first half of 1927.

LEASEHOLD DEALS

Manhattan Parcels Reported Under New Control

Dobkin & Lowenstein have leased from the Murmeen Corporation, represented by John J. Meenan, the five-story building at 174 West Seventy-second Street, adjoining the southeast corner of Broadway. Henry Shapiro & Co., the brokers, recently bought for the present lessees the lease on the ground floor, which has been occupied by the Piccadilly Restaurant. At the same time Dobkin & Lowenstein secured from the United Cigar Stores Company the leasehold on the five-story building at the corner.

The combined plot fronts 100 feet on Broadway and 53 feet on Seventy-second Street. The United will retain the corner store and the use of the property for restaurant purposes will be continued. Both leaseholds are for a term of years.

AUCTION IN NEW JERSEY.

Lots in Englewood Cliffs Bring Total of $189,600 at Sale by Day.

A total of $189,600 was obtained for lots at the intersection of Palisade and Sylvan Avenues, Englewood Cliffs, N. J., at an auction last Saturday by Joseph P. Day.

Arthur J. Rooney and Frederick Atanasio bought the plot at the northwest corner of Palisade and Sylvan Avenues for $82,000. There is a small office on the corner which Mr. Rooney will occupy. This corner is directly opposite the site of Dr. Paterno's proposed apartment house.

The southwest corner of the two highways was purchased by Charles W. Burkett Jr. for $45,000. Mr. Burkett will erect a builders office. The two-lot plot adjoining on Palisade Avenue went to Alexander Miller for $11,200, who also purchased the lot on Sylvan Avenue adjoining the corner of Dillingham Place for $8,300.

Fourteen fully improved plots in Beaumont Park, West Orange, N. J., were sold at auction last Saturday by Major William Kennelly for a total of $68,444, an average of more than $4,500 a plot. Most of the buyers came from the Oranges. The sale was held by order of the Beaumont Realty Company.

Plots on Northfield Avenue brought $54 to $64 a front foot; plots on Keeting Place sold for $50 to $58 a front foot and plots on Grand View Avenue at the rate of $44 to $48.

Leases Adirondack Camp.

Mrs. William Curtis Demorest has leased for the Summer her ten-acre camp in the Adirondacks to Mrs. Reginald V. Hiscox. The property, known as Hukweem Lodge, fronts on Look Lake. Potter, Hamilton & Butler, Inc., were the brokers.

NEW RECORD SET BY 1928 BUILDING

Manhattan Figures for First Half of Year Surpass Mark Made in 1927.

PLANS FOR 671 STRUCTURES

Estimated Cost Placed at $199,440,880, an Increase of $64,268,425 Over Total a Year Ago.

Despite predictions of a slump and warnings of an over production of apartment houses and loft buildings, the report of building operations in the Borough of Manhattan for the first six months of the year, issued yesterday by Superintendent Brady, shows that the figures run far ahead of 1927, both in the number of plans filed and the estimated cost.

Even the month just ended, which is not usually considered very active from a construction standpoint, shows an increase of more than $7,000,000 and ten buildings over June, 1927.

During the half year just ended, plans were filed for the construction of 671 new buildings costing a total of $199,440,880, compared with 448, costing $135,172,455, during the same period last year.

Classification of Buildings.

The comparative figures, according to classes of buildings, were given as follows:

Three dwellings costing $78,000, against four costing $104,000 in the same period last year; 143 tenements costing $60,115,000, against seventy-eight costing $32,140,000 in the first half of last year; fourteen one family residences costing $46,150,000, against thirteen, costing $9,208,000; thirty store and loft buildings costing $6,455,000, against forty, costing $8,525,800; thirty-nine office buildings, costing $53,640,800, against forty-seven, costing $51,370,500; twenty-two factories and workshops costing $14,388,000, against twenty-four, costing $11,358,000; five school houses costing $1,610,000, against four costing $3,830,000.

One church costing $90,000, against two, costing $2,800,000, in the same period last year; nine municipal buildings costing $2,-815,500, against six costing $435,000; sixteen places of amusement costing $4,525,000, against twenty costing $6,100,000; four hospitals costing $4,100,000, against four costing $1,850,000; 338 garages and stables costing $1,991,705, against 177 costing $4,851,000, and thirty-five other structures costing $58,375, against twenty-one costing $14,355.

During the first half of this year applications were filed for alterations to 1,584 buildings costing $23,-712,297, against 1,680 costing $18,-291,677 during the same period last year.

A High Record for June.

The report for the month of June shows that plans were filed for fifty-nine new buildings costing a total of $35,362,675, against forty-nine costing $28,991,305 in the same month last year. They were classed as follows:

Twenty-five tenements costing $18,380,000, against seven costing $3,270,000 in June last year; no plans for dwellings, against one costing $10,500 last year; two hotels costing $1,500,000, against one costing $830,000; two other residences costing $1,475,000, against one costing $285,000; five store and loft buildings costing $160,000, against seven costing $3,934,000; six office buildings costing $9,680,000, against eight costing $15,125,000; two factories and workshops costing $1,425,000, against one costing $30,000; two school houses costing $680,000, against one costing $350,000; no churches, against one costing $400,000.

Two municipal buildings costing $950,000, against one costing $100,000; four places of amusement costing $1,050,000, against three costing $1,250,000; two hospitals costing $2,-250,000, against one costing $250,000; six garages and stables costing $123,725, against eight costing $543,000, and five other structures costing $6,950, against eight costing $3,805 the same month last year.

During the month applications were filed for making alterations to 278 buildings at a cost of $3,285,790, against 294 at a cost of $2,441,800 the same months last year.

JUNE BUILDING SHOWS 5 PER CENT. INCREASE

Dun Reports Total in the United States at $251,504,000—Gain of 16 P. C. for New York.

Building statistics for June show an increase of about 5 per cent. over a year ago, according to R. G. Dun & Co. Last month's permits for new construction issued in the United States involved an estimated expenditure of $251,504,400, contrasted with $238,552,000 in the same month last year.

The total for Greater New York, aggregating $88,658,000, is more than 16 per cent. in excess of the $76,169,-000 of a year ago, whereas outside cities report permits valued at $162,-851,000 against $162,388,000, or a decline of about 0.3 per cent. The Middle Atlantic, Western and Pacific Coast sections show increases, but these changes are slightly more than offset by reductions in New England, the Southern States and the Central West.

Comparative figures showing the value of permits for new building, issued in the United States, follow:

Month.	1928.	1927.
June	$251,504,400	$238,552,000
May	256,036,800	248,208,900
April	234,632,000	263,066,700
March	266,459,900	271,613,000
February	236,460,900	216,243,800
January	164,849,400	178,672,700
	1927.	1926.
December	$197,448,400	$248,850,700
November	212,240,400	231,357,800
October	166,468,500	263,344,900
September	174,146,200	187,847,000
August	220,361,800	247,044,600
July	186,324,000	244,232,400

BUSINESS LEASES.

Leased for business purposes announced yesterday included the following:

Bank of America, ground floor of Powell Building at 166 Hudson Street, northwest corner of Franklin Street, for twenty years; Robert R. Rainey Company, Inc., and Manford & Henderson, Inc., brokers. The branch to be established will cater to produce merchants in the district.

National Raw Silk Exchange, Inc., ground and second floor in Grace Building Annex, 58-60 Water Street, from W. R. Grace & Co.; Newspapers Film Corporation, part of fifth floor in General Motors Building, 1,775 Broadway; Goshlin Fabrics Corporation, eighth floor at 10 East Fortieth Street, through Cross & Brown Company; Chantal F. Noyes Company, Inc., broker.

Julian Bullard Academy, to occupy in two-story building under construction by Horn & Hardart Company at 976-9 Eighth Avenue, between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth Streets; Tankoos, Smith & Co., brokers. Store space has been leased to Pratt & Knoblock and Elias Cole, completing rental of the building.

W. T. Grant Company, operating department store chain, store at Main and West Houston Streets, Paterson, N. J., now occupied by John J. Dickon Department Store; arranged for twenty-one years by I. Brussels Company.

Castles Clothes, Inc., 10,000 square feet in 918 Broadway, through David A. Bernstein; Mercher Brothers, floor at 110 Fifth Avenue; Adams & Co., Inc., brokers.

To Raze Business Building On Upper Bowery for Hotel

A three-story business building at 338 Bowery has been sold to an investor who plans to erect on the site immediately a five-story hotel with modern improvements. The property is on the upper Bowery, near Bond Street and Cooper Union. The site is 17 by 106 by 25 feet. The cost of the new building and the land is estimated at $100,000.

The seller is the estate of William H. Lyons. Mr. Lyons bought the property fourteen years ago through the present brokers, A. Finkelstein & Sons.

QUEENS REALTY SALES

Transactions Reported Yesterday in Various Properties

The Safeland Building Corporation sold the southwest corner of Steinway and Washington Avenues, Astoria, to Fred G. Randall, as agent for Irving Lewine. On the plot are two brick garages under lease for a period of years. The broker was S. Norman.

T. H. Thompson of Manhattan sold a plot 100 feet square on the east side of Stone Street, in the Sunnyside section of Long Island City, to a local speculator. Lobell & Poly were the brokers.

Burden & Co., department store owners in Jamaica, acquired possession of the three-story building adjoining their present store at Jamaica Avenue and New York Boulevard, Jamaica, and now occupied by the Tiber Drug Company. Building plans of the Burden firm call for the erection of an addition to equal the height of their present four-story building.

According to an officer of the corporation, if building restrictions permit the elevation of the structure to six stories such plans will be made. The present building occupies a plot 70 by 160 feet. After the enlargement it will be 90 by 180 feet. Work of demolishing the Tiber Drug Company building will be started early next month.

BRONX PROPERTIES SOLD

New Dealings in Improved and Unimproved Holdings

The Grand Terrace Construction Company resold to the Retorno Company, Inc., an unrestricted plot, 78 by 111 feet, at the southwest corner of Tremont and Beach Avenues. Connaughton & Eisenstein, Inc., and Aron Wainberger arranged the deal.

William Kenney sold 2,080-2,084 Eastern Boulevard, a one-story taxpayer of four stores and four three-room apartments. The property was held at $25,000. William F. Kurz, Inc., was the broker.

Brooklyn Apartment Deal.

The Simplex Holding Company, Inc., has sold to Joseph Parascandola and George W. Scura the five-story apartment house at 101-5 Clark Street, opposite Monroe Place, in the Brooklyn Heights section. The price was about $100,000, according to the broker, the Martin Real Estate Company.

GRANT HOUSE AUCTIONED.

General's Home on East Side Goes to Plaintiff for $180,000.

The five-story house at 3 East Sixty-sixth Street, once the home of General U. S. Grant, was bid in for $180,000 yesterday at a foreclosure sale by Mary D. Gerard, plaintiff in an action to satisfy a mortgage judgment of about $84,000 obtained against the Three East Sixty-sixth Street Corporation and others. The bid covered a first mortgage of $124,-000 on the property. James R. Murphy was the auctioneer. The defendant corporation had planned to erect an apartment hotel on the site.

General Grant was the first occupant of the house, acquiring it soon after its erection by Cornelius W. Luyster, a leading builder of his time. It was sold by Mrs. Grant in 1893 to Phillips Phoenix.

Other auction results yesterday were:

By JAMES R. MURPHY.

East 106th Street, 318, 39 by 125; five-story tenement and stores; due $10,656; taxes, &c., $600; prior mortgage, $26,000; to Edward A. Whitelaw, plaintiff, for $35,000.

By I. LINCOLN SEIDE CO.

East 213th Street, 741, north side, 120 feet east of Holland Avenue, 25 by 100; due, $10,247.95; to Angelo Justo for $11,700.

Buys Apartment From the Plans.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co., Inc., have sold from plans to Mrs. Grace A. Dunlap an apartment consisting of four rooms and two baths on the seventh floor in the new 100 per cent. cooperative building, 40 Fifth Avenue, to be erected at the southwest corner of Eleventh Street for completion of the fall of 1929 by the Calvin Morris Corporation from plans by Van Wart & Wein.

Buys in Franklin Square, L. I.

A. Edward Feldstein bought a five-room bungalow type house on the east side of James Street, 739 feet south of the Hempstead and Jamaica Turnpike, Franklin Square, L. I. A. Mishkin arranged the sale for the Blue Jay Realty Corporation.

TRANSFERS RECORDED.

ACQUIRE 500 ACRES IN WESTCHESTER

Lawrence Interests Assemble Tract Between Chappaqua and Mt. Kisco.

NEW COMMUNITY PLANNED

Bronxville Developers to Extend Operations to Northern Part of the County.

One of the largest recent realty deals in Westchester, involving the purchase of 500 acres between Chappaqua and Mount Kisco and the proposed creation of a highly restricted residential community, was announced yesterday. The acreage was assembled by the Lawrence interests, who have extensive holdings in Bronxville.

The property will be laid out in one to five acre plots. The buyers anticipate that their development program will extend over the next fifteen or twenty years. The decision to create a new community in the northern part of the county was based on an apparent increasing demand for estates larger than those available in Southern Westchester, according to the announcement.

The largest parcel, 204 acres, was bought from the James W. Daly estate. Fronting on the Bedford Road and extending through to the Harlem Division of the New York Central Railroad, this parcel adjoins the Mount Kisco Golf Club on the east, the Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. Winthrop Cowdin estates on the west, and is directly opposite the estate of the late Moses Taylor. Edward T. Perine sold forty five acres with three houses on the northeast corner of the Bedford Road and Roaring Brook Road and the S. P. S. Development Company sold 44 acres on the northeast corner of the roads. These parcels also extend to the railroad's property. From Dr. Merritt Wright Barnum of Ossining was purchased about fifteen acres from the rear part of his holdings, which front on Bedford Road and from Sidney Bare Jr. and Walter H. Nelson, representing Glen Acres, Inc., 125 acres on the north side of Bedford Road extending through to the railroad.

By the acquisition of these parcels the Lawrences will control the principal part of the Bedford Road frontage on the north side between Chappaqua and Mount Kisco, each side of the Roaring Brook Road from Bedford Road to the New York Central Railroad property and approximately two miles of railroad frontage.

Chauncey B. Griffein was the brokers.

The Lawrence first became identified with Westchester realty through the purchase by the late William V. Lawrence of eighty-seven acres at Bronxville in 1885. On this tract at the present time is the Gramatan Hotel and a development known as Lawrence Park. Later the Lawrence interests acquired Lawrence Park West and other properties at Bronxville to a total of more than 500 acres, which have been developed under the direction of Arthur W. and Dudley B. Lawrence, sons of William V. Lawrence. At present they own and control the major part of the business district of Bronxville, as well as large residential properties.

In 1905 the Lawrences erected the Gramatan Hotel, and in 1908 they built the first suburban apartment in Westchester. It has been their policy not to sell any of their business properties, but to improve and hold them as investments. At the time the Lawrences first became identified with Bronxville in 1906 its population was 208. The late William V. Lawrence erected and endowed Lawrence Hospital at Bronxville.

WESTCHESTER SALES

Transactions in the County as Reported Yesterday

Marion G. Block of Montclair, N. J., sold to Carl Lewis of Manhattan a plot 156 by 132 feet on the east side of Westchester Avenue, 140 feet south of Oakley Avenue, White Plains. The buyer plans to erect in the early Fall a group of stores on the site. R. E. L. Howe Jr. was the broker.

Blanche Meyers sold an eight-room stucco house in Stephenson Park, New Rochelle, to I. Dubilier, who will occupy. Mrs. Clifford A. Wolf was the broker.

A Dutch Colonial house on Brewster Road, Fox Meadow, Scarsdale, was sold by Alfred H. Ericson to Edward D. Bryde of West End Avenue, Manhattan. Segur, Hess & Hill were the brokers.

MEETING TONIGHT.

You have probably read ads for real estate people before and passed over them, thinking that real estate is hard to sell and you did not have the necessary qualifications. In answer to this, we can tell you that we have taken people who have had no experience in real estate, much less any salesability, and have, through our system, caused them to receive substantial commission checks each and every week.

Tonight at 8:30 we are holding a special meeting for people who are interested in utilizing a few hours of their spare time to make some real money. If you are interested in your future, it will cost you nothing to listen to our story. You will not be bothered or asked to buy real estate. Bring a friend if it will make you feel more at home.

SALESMEN, PART TIME.
MEETING TONIGHT.

You have probably read ads for real estate salesmen before and passed over them, thinking that real estate is hard to sell and you did not have the necessary qualifications. In answer to this, we can tell you that we have taken people who have had no experience in real estate, much less any sales ability, and have, through our system, caused them to receive substantial commission checks each and every week.

Tonight at 8:30 we are holding a special meeting for people who are interested in utilizing a few hours of their spare time to make some real money. If you are interested in your future, it will cost you nothing to listen to our story. You will not be bothered or asked to buy real estate. Bring a friend if it will make you feel more at home.

SALESMEN

YOU

An opportunity as unusually promising and profitable as this is not offered every day.

It can be handled only by a man with selling ability, dependable and who has the courage of his own convictions.

He must accept constructive criticism, yet not be a "yes" man, age 30 to 45.

We have openings in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut territories.

The company is well known and is allied with the poster advertising business. Splendid co-operation and unusual earnings on liberal commission and bonus basis.

Phone MR. HILL, Vanderbilt 6640, for appointment.

SALESMAN FOR QUALITY CAR.

We are a nationally known company, marketing a car which is best known for its quality.

We believe in the future of our business. We have a definite aim for the years ahead. As one of the present we wish to secure the services of a few men to fill positions as salesmen.

These men must have a record of proven ability. They must believe in the future of motor transportation, and desire to make themselves important factors in one of the strongest selling forces in the industry.

Sound thinking, tactfulness, clear, straightforward selling methods, dynamic personality coupled with true courtesy—these some of the all qualifications we expect you to measure up to. Drawing account arranged.

If you believe you are one of these men,

SHIP LINE CURTAILS MIDNIGHT VISITORS

French Company to Issue Passes for One Only to Speed Sailings.

5,000 GUESTS HELD BOAT

Passengers on Ile de France Were Blocked by Huge Throng Eager to Dance.

Giving overcrowding and delay as their reasons, the agents of the French Line at 19 State Street announced yesterday that it had been decided to have passes issued for the midnight sailings which will admit one person only. These can be obtained by passengers when taking their tickets. Persons having no business on the departing liners will not be permitted to board the ships.

The French Line has been the chief sufferer from the crowds at the midnight sailings of its three big ships, the Ile de France, the Paris and the France. Two trips ago the Ile de France had more than 5,000 visitors, and the crush was so great that the liner was delayed half an hour in order to get them off.

The crowd, many of whom came down to enjoy seeing the big ship away and dance to the orchestra in the lounge, blocked the alleyways and companionways so that passengers and their friends could not get up or down. This experience led the line to consider the issuing of passes for sailing nights. It is probable that the White Star, Cunard, North German Lloyd and the Italian lines will adopt similar regulations, and thus one of the midnight joys of New York will have been curtailed.

CAPE COD HAS A SHOW.

University Guild Players Open Season for Summer Colonies.

Special to The New York Times.

FALMOUTH, Mass., July 9.—The University Guild Players, made up of students from Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Radcliffe, Vassar and Smith, presented tonight A. A. Milne's "The Dover Road" as the first of a series of eight plays to be given during the Summer at the Elizabeth Theatre.

Tonight's production, directed by Bretaigne Windust, President of the Princeton Dramatic Society, attracted more than 600 members of the Cape Cod Summer colonies within a radius of fifty miles and was exceptionally well received.

Charles Leatherbee, President of the Harvard Dramatic Club, was in the leading rôles of Nicholas, the lover. Another Harvard player, Kingsley Perry of Springfield, took the part of Mr. Lattimer. Miss Sue Birtie, President of the Idler Club at Radcliffe, made a hit in the comedy rôle of Eustasia.

The company is quartered aboard the 110-foot yacht Brae-Burn, owned by Mr. Leatherbee's father, Robert Leatherbee, and anchored in Falmouth harbor.

ROUSS MUST PAY $140,047.

Son of Former Broadway Merchant Loses Tax Case on Appeal.

Peter W. Rouss, son of the late Charles Broadway Rouss, will have to pay the Government $140,047.64 for income taxes for the year 1918. The Government assessed the taxes on income of $241,155.39 for 1918 up to April 13 of that year, when the business, that of general merchandising, was turned over to a corporation, which reported sales of $800,000 in its tax return.

The Government claimed that the amount accruing to the defendant prior to the transfer had not been taxed. The case went first to the Board of Tax Appeals, which found against Mr. Rouss, and this decision has now been affirmed by the court. Federal Judge Lindley heard the argument, which was the same as that made before the Appeals Board, with one juror who gave a directed verdict. The juror was Deputy Marshal J. J. Fitzsimmons. The Government was represented in the proceedings by Assistant United States Attorneys Thomas J. Crawford and Edward Feldman.

SMITH PRAISED AT DINNER.

Hailed as Leader and Example of Country's Opportunities.

Governor Smith was hailed as the leader in a crisis greater than the ones which faced Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson in a speech by Thomas J. Spellacy, Democratic National Committeeman from Connecticut, at a "victory dinner," tendered jointly last night by the First Smith for President Club of Queens and the Women's Smith Club of the First Queens Assembly District, in the Queensboro Elks Club, Elmhurst.

"Alfred E. Smith has the power and the ability to arouse people to the performance of their duties as citizens," said Mr. Spellacy. "If the people are not aroused, our country will be surrendered and lost."

Alexander I. Rorke of New York City said the election of Governor Smith will be a vindication "of the historic claim that this is a land of opportunity for every one."

MUNICH CLINIC DOME FALLS.

Injuries Nine Students Watching Operation, Including American.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MUNICH, July 9.—While an operation was being performed at the Munich Surgical Clinic before a group of medical students, the glass dome of the building collapsed and nine of the students were injured. One of them was said to be an American, though his name was not determined.

The doctor completed the operation and helped to bandage the students before leaving the room.

The building is very old and the frames of the windows simply crumbled, it was said as an explanation of the accident.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—Pressure remains high from the South Atlantic States east-northeastward over the ocean and an area of high pressure of limited extent is advancing southeastward over Maine and Nova Scotia. Low pressure prevails elsewhere over North America except along the Pacific Coast.

The weather will be partly cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday east of the Mississippi River and afternoon thunder showers are probable over the greater part of this area.

The temperature will not change materially but maximum will not be quite so high Tuesday in the Middle Atlantic States and portions of the North Atlantic States.

COUNTER-WISE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours, from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M. and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

OPENS 5 SHIP BIDS FOR CARRYING MAIL

Postmaster General Gets First Offers in Move to Increase American Shipbuilding.

LINES ASK HIGHEST FIGURE

Amounts Range From $2.50 to $8 a Nautical Mile for Different Types of Vessels.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The first bids for carrying mail under the new Merchant Marine act, designed to stimulate American shipbuilding and the carrying of mails in American bottoms, were opened by Postmaster General New today for five routes. The specifications for bids for practically all of these routes call for a certain amount of new construction to assure the fleets being kept up as time goes on and the general expectation is that a considerable amount of new construction will result.

One was received for each of the routes advertised, each bidder naming the maximum figure authorized by the new legislation.

The bidder on route No. 4 from New York to Buenos Aires, via Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo, and such intermediate ports at which the contractor's vessel may call, was the Munson Steamship Lines, New York, which bid $8 a nautical mile on Class 3 vessels.

Route No. 5 from New York to Casa Blanca, Genoa, Alexandria, the Piraeus, Saloniki, Constantinople, Constanza and other Mediterranean and Black Sea ports was bid on by the Export Steamship Corporation, New York, at $2.50 a nautical mile with Class 6 vessels.

The American South African Line, New York, was the bidder on Route No. 6, from New York to Cape Town, and other ports on the east or south coast of Africa, at which the contractor's vessel may call. The bid was $2.50 a nautical mile with Class 6 vessels.

The Grace Steamship Company, New York, was the bidder on Route No. 8, from New York to Valparaiso and intermediate ports at $4 a nautical mile on Class 5 vessels and $6 a nautical mile on Class 4 vessels.

The New York and Porto Rico Steamship Company was the bidder on Route No. 10, from San Juan, Porto Rico, to Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, at $4 a nautical mile on Class 5 vessels.

Class 3 vessels, described in the specifications, are those capable of maintaining a speed of eighteen knots at sea in ordinary weather and having a gross registered tonnage of not less than 12,000 tons.

Class 4 vessels are those with a speed of sixteen knots and a tonnage of 10,000; Class 5 requires a speed of thirteen knots and a tonnage of 8,000 and Class 6 requires a speed of ten knots and a tonnage of not less than 4,000.

WILDER SEEKS AID FOR HIS SHIP PROJECT

Blue Ribbon May Buy U. S. Line's Vessels at Start, Building New Ones Later.

Laurence R. Wilder, head of the Transoceanic Corporation of America, which proposes to establish the Blue Ribbon Steamship Line and build ships to cross the North Atlantic in four days, is engaged in arranging financial support for the project. Under the new Merchant Marine act based on the Jones-White bill, the company expects to borrow 75 per cent. of the cost of the ships from the Government and will borrow about $50,000,000 in addition from private sources.

Since the United States Lines were placed on the market by the United States Shipping Board the Transoceanic Corporation has made efforts to purchase them. William F. Kenny is identified with Mr. Wilder in this effort. A spokesman for Mr. Wilder said yesterday that plans for the ships originally announced will not be altered if the Government lines are purchased.

Observers in shipping circles have been of the opinion that Mr. Wilder's activity as a bidder for the United States Lines meant that the Blue Ribbon Line would be abandoned. An associate of Mr. Wilder said that the Government ships would be bought if possible and would be held as a means of entrance to the shipping field by the Blue Ribbon group, but Mr. Wilder takes the attitude that the ships of the United States Lines would have to be augmented some time in the future, and that with the proposed new ships they would make a well-balanced line.

The new ships will be built to cross the Atlantic in four days, and will have harbor accommodations other than Manhattan. Mr. Wilder is studying the possibilities of New England and Montauk Point as terminals for his new line, but has reached no decision, although he considers Montauk Point of value for the docking of ships coming into port on stormy or foggy nights.

Philadelphia Gets New Ship Service

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—A stabilised freight service from Philadelphia to Mediterranean ports on a fortnightly schedule has been established by the Navigazione Libera Triestina, it was announced here today by Rice, Unruh & Co., the local agents. The steamship Livenza is en route to Genoa, Leghorn and Naples, and will be followed on July 17 by the Carnia and on Aug. 4 by the Savoia.

Stowaway Drowns in Leap Off Ship

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—A stowaway leaped from the deck of the Anetta into the Delaware River and was drowned this afternoon when he attempted to escape from seamen who discovered him in the ship's hold when stevedores began to unload a cargo of bananas and tropical fruits. His body was recovered.

SHIPPING BOARD HEARS BOSTON PLEA

Leading Atlantic Ports Oppose Petition for Lower Cargo Rates to Europe.

BOARD CANNOT DICTATE

It Has No Jurisdiction Over Rates but Is Expected to Express Views to Northern Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Conflicting arguments from the spokesmen of various Atlantic ports were heard by the Shipping Board today at the opening of the hearing on the petition of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce asking the board to reduce the rates on cargo from Boston to the United Kingdom and to European Continental ports to such levels as would act to equalize the through rates from the Central Freight Association territory to those foreign ports on shipments through Boston, with rates on shipments through Montreal and Philadelphia.

A long array of witnesses on behalf of Boston were followed by an imposing number from other ports, including New York, against the petition. The proceeding was in no way regulatory, as the board has no jurisdiction over land or rail rates, but its views are expected to be communicated to the North Atlantic Conference.

At present rail rate differentials from the Central Freight Association territory to Boston are 2 cents per 100 pounds higher than to Montreal and Philadelphia, whereas the ocean rates from all three ports to Europe are the same.

Referring to these conditions, the Boston Chamber of Commerce, in its petition, averred:

"That, during the period between 1901 and 1918, the various steamship lines plying to and from Boston made rates on many of the more important commodities, composing their export cargoes to the United Kingdom and Northern Europe, from two to three cents lower than the rates on similar commodities passing through Philadelpia, Baltimore, Norfolk and Newport News.

"That during the World War, a uniform rate from all North Atlantic ports to Northern Europe and the United Kingdom was established, thereby giving American ports south of Long Island Sound, as well as Canadian ports to the north of Boston, the advantage of lower through rates, as compared with rates through Boston; since which time the foreign commerce of the Port of Boston has seriously declined."

The case of the Boston interests today was in the hands of Bentley W. Warren, attorney for the Maritime Association.

In opposition were the Port of New York Authority," represented by Wilbur LaRoe Jr.; Philadelphia, represented by former Congressman George W. Edmonds and William Lockyer, Secretary of the Philadelphia Bourse; Baltimore, represented by Attorney R. E. Lee Marshall, and Norfolk, represented by H. J. Wagner.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

Mrs. C. H. Brown, Negro Leader, Addresses Mission Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., July 9.—The increasing demands for segregation prove that the prejudice against negroes is growing in the North, Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, international negress leader and a founder of the Palmer Institute of North Carolina, declared in her address before the Northfield Woman's Interdenominational Home Mission Conference here tonight.

"The Emancipation Proclamation did not free the negro woman," Mrs. Brown stated. "It has taken fifty years to remove the stigma attached to the relations she sustained in that system. Notwithstanding her culture and training, the average white woman still thinks of the negro woman in terms of domestic service and assigns to her a place of inferiority in society."

Concluding her address, Mrs. Brown stated the home of the negro woman in America was safe in the hands of the white race in the South.

NEWARK CHANNEL PLANNED.

Port to Get Second Unit Half Mile South of Present One.

Another ship channel, approximately a half mile south of the present one is planned at the port of Newark. This was announced at the conclusion of a conference between Mayor Thomas L. Raymond and Chief Engineer James W. Costello at Newark yesterday. The first unit to be constructed will be 1,600 feet long with docks along the entire length, at an estimated cost of $550,000.

The new ship channel will be dredged close to the Elizabeth-Newark city line and increase the acreage at the port two fold. An anchorage basin will be dug at the end of the port between the two channels.

BOY, 15, DROWNED IN POND.

Body of Another Washed Ashore at Coney Island—Third Identified.

Fifteen-year-old Cyril Kennedy of 3,239 Ninety-seventh Street, Corona, was drowned yesterday afternoon in Farmer's Pond at the foot of East 102d Street, East Elmhurst, L. I., before any of his companions could save him. The body was recovered.

The body of John Cardier, 15 years old, 20 Floyd Street, Brooklyn, drowned at Coney Island Sunday when a record crowd of 1,000,000 visited the resort, was identified by his father, Antony Cardier, at the Coney Island Morgue yesterday.

The body of Edward Brotherhood, 35 years old, 358 West Fifteenth Street, Manhattan, was washed ashore at Manhattan Beach.

French Fishing Craft is Sunk.

ST. PIERRE, Miquelon, July 9 (AP).—The sinking of the French fishing schooner St. Clement after a collision July 3 was reported today when twenty-four members of her crew were landed here. One man was drowned. The St. Clement was in collision with the three-masted schooner Marite during a thick fog and sank within five minutes after the crash. All except one of the St. Clement's crew were taken aboard the Marite.

KLEIN'S
SHOE REPAIR

Why saddle yourself with a 3rd mortgage?

NEEDLESS repairs and replacements—large fuel bills—high-rate insurance, these expenses make up the permanent, ever-increasing THIRD mortgage that the average home-owner finds so difficult to meet.

Don't saddle yourself with a costly THIRD mortgage. Build with concrete and forget it. Concrete costs but little, if any more, than ordinary materials in the beginning. And much, much less in the long run. Repairs are few; depreciation, negligible. Concrete cannot burn. Insurance is lower. Concrete requires no paint. It is cooler in summer; warmer in winter. Less fuel is needed. It is sanitary and adaptable to almost any architectural treatment.

And the better the cement the better the concrete. Before you buy cement, ask your Building Material Dealer these four questions—the same questions engineers, architects and contractors ask when they buy cement. We give you the Lone Star answers.

1. Does the Cement exceed U. S. Government standards?

Every shipment of Lone Star Cement is guaranteed in writing to exceed U. S. Government standards. The Lone Star dealer, in turn, guarantees every bag to you.

2. How is the cement made?

Lone Star Cement is made by the famous International Wet-Blending Process, a process which has made cement-making an exact science and has established a new high standard of cement quality.

3. Is the cement uniform, bag for bag?

The chemical content of Lone Star Cement varies less than 2/10 of 1% in millions of bags—a new high standard of uniformity.

4. Are you certain to get delivery when wanted?

The 13 mills of the International System, with a capacity of 20 million barrels a year, assure "on-time" delivery, no matter how great the emergency.

It will pay you to buy cement on the basis of this comparison. Concrete will save you money. Lone Star concrete will save you more.

The facilities of our Research Department, directed by Prof. Duff A. Abrams, are available to all users of cement. Write us your problems.

INTERNATIONAL SYSTEM
LONE STAR CEMENT

KNICKERBOCKER PORTLAND CEMENT CO., Inc.
New York, N. Y. Albany, N. Y. Boston, Mass.

Subsidiary of the International Cement Corporation, one of the world's largest cement producers —13 mills—annual capacity 20,000,000 barrels.

When time is important use "INCOR" Cement. This perfected Portland cement now makes possible 24-hour concrete of assured permanence. Used just like any other Portland cement.

Watching New York GROW

Interesting to the bystander— highly profitable to the investor

The miracle of New York's growth is a source of never-ending wonder to those who merely watch—a source of increasing profit to those who share in the development.

We see property selling for thousands—a few years and the values have mounted to hundreds of thousands—a short period and the insatiable needs of New York's growth set a value of millions on the property.

Naturally, those who have participated in this transition of values have profited. With each upward movement uninformed skeptics have considered values at a peak—only to see them mount higher and higher.

The opportunity for a like profit exists today

—with this important difference—values are too great to permit the investor of moderate means to operate alone in the development of choice locations.

If he would share in the profits accruing from this development he must pool his financial strength with a group of other investors.

Therein lies his problem.

The choosing of a group where his investment will not only be safely and capably managed—but as well—one whose plan of operation will afford him a generous share of the earnings of the combined capital.

With a background of 18 years successful operation

—with a score of monumental buildings standing as mileposts of profit—The French Plan offers to investors of moderate means—offers to you—the opportunity to share generously in the benefits of increased earning power—increased values—which the steady growth of New York insures to large scale office and apartment developments.

Your investment in any French Plan project

(1) Pays you 6% on your money while invested; (2) Returns to you the amount of your original investment, and (3) gives you 50% of all profits earned and distributed thereafter.

For complete information showing results already obtained for thousands of investors, clip the coupon and send for your copy of "The Real Estate Investment of the Future."
